31 Thou shalt not do so unto the LORD thy God: for every abomination to the LORD which he hateth have they done unto their gods; for even their sons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods.

32 What thing soever I command you, observe to do it: thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it.

CHAP. XIII.

Having warned the Israelites against the peril of idolatry, arising from their Canaanitish predecessors, he now guards them against the rise of idolatry from among themselves; charges them to resist the temptation, and inflict the punishment of death upon such as attempted to seduce them to it; whether (1) By pretence of inspired direction from God, and foretelling future events; 1—5; or (2) Of friendship and relation; 6—11; or (3) Of the numbers who had already practised it; 12—18.

IF there arise among you a prophet or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder;

2 And the sign or the wonder come to pass whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, (which thou hast not known,) and let us serve them;

3 Thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

4 Ye shall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and cleave unto him.

5 And that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath spoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to thrust thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in. So shalt thou put the evil away from the midst of thee.

6 ¶ If thy brother, the son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend, which is as thine own soul, entice thee secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, (which thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers;

7 Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth,)

8 Thou shalt not consent unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither shall thine eye pity him, neither shalt thou spare, neither shalt thou conceal him;

9 But thou shalt surely kill him; thine hand shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people.

10 And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he die; because he hath sought to thrust thee away from the LORD thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

11 And all Israel shall hear, and fear, and shall do no more any such wickedness as this is among you.

12 ¶ If thou shalt hear say in one of thy cities, which the LORD thy God hath given thee, to dwell there, saying,

13 Certain men, the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, (which ye have not known,)

14 Then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask diligently: and, behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought among you;

15 Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword.

16 And thou shalt gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street thereof, and shall burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof every whit, for the LORD thy God: and it shall be an heap for ever; it shall not be built again.

17 And there shall cleave nought of the cursed thing to thine hand: that the LORD may turn from the fierceness of his anger, and shew thee mercy, and have compassion upon thee, and multiply thee, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers;

18 When thou shalt hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—Abominable to God is all will worship. And it is impossible to reconcile the worship of God and mammon—of Christ and Belial. But in the best ordered churches on earth, something will still be defective. Perfect purity is reserved for the heavenly Canaan: and therefore in cases of necessity, some ordinances of worship may be omitted, which in other circumstances would render us highly culpable. The excellency of worship lies not in any pompous form, but in its exact correspondence with God's prescriptions. Let me then not merely cease from evil, but learn to do well. Let me attend to, and improve, every instituted ordinance of fellowship with God. Let his institutions, not any customs or law of men, whether under the best or the worst of governments, be the standard of my religious observances. Let not only my solemn eating and drinking at his table, but even my ordinary refreshments, be conducted according to his prescriptions, and intended chiefly for his glory. And never should his ministers be straitened, or his poor starved, while I am able to relieve them.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—Provoking to God, and dangerous to men, is the sin of idolatry, with respect to the object or means of worship; yet sinners are much set upon it, and need to be held back by the greatest restraints. With what care, what zeal, what impartiality, ministers and magistrates ought therefore to oppose the very first appearances of it! No testimony, however strongly supported, is admissible against the revealed truths of God. No pretence of inspiration from God, no semblance of miracles, no tie of natural affection, ought to make us connive at the seducers. Though temptations be doubly bewitching which come through those whom we love, and hope of secrecy and security in sin is a great snare to lead men into it, yet let us remember that to conceal or protect such criminals is to render ourselves partakers in their crimes. If they are become obstinate in their evil way, they ought no longer to be reckoned as conscientiously mistaken persons, but as children of Belial, who are perfectly lost to all manner of virtue, and become nuisances and plagues to both church and state. If their quality or multitude protect them from human

CHAP. XIV.

Here Moses teaches them (1) To distinguish themselves as the children and people of God from their heathen neighbours, in their humane and moderate mourning for their dead; 1, 2; and in the purity of their food, eating nothing of unclean beasts, or even of clean ones which had died of themselves; and to prepare nothing in an inhuman or superstitious manner; 3—21. (2) To mark themselves, and whatever they had, to be the Lord's property, by their exact payment of the tithes, whether the yearly ones, or that of the third year, for the use of the religious festivals, the Levites, or the poor; 22—29.

YE are the children of the LORD your God: ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.

2 For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth.

3 Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing.

4 These are the beasts which ye shall eat: the ox, the sheep, and the goat,

5 The hart, and the roebuck, and the fallow deer, and the wild goat, and the pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois.

6 And every beast that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud among the beasts, that ye shall eat.

7 Nevertheless, these ye shall not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye shall not eat of their flesh, nor touch their dead carcase.

9 These ye shall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and scales shall ye eat:

10 And whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat; it is unclean unto you.

11 Of all clean birds ye shall eat.

12 But these are they of which ye shall not eat: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray,

13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,

14 And every raven after his kind,

15 And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckoo, and the hawk after his kind,

16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the swan,

17 And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant,

18 And the stork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

19 And every creeping thing that flieth is unclean unto you: they shall not be eaten.

20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.

21 Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth of itself: thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it; or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.

22 Thou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 And thou shalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he shall choose to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the firstlings of thy herds and of thy flocks; that thou mayest learn to fear the LORD thy God always.

24 And if the way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it; or if the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God shall choose to set his name there, when the LORD thy God hath blessed thee;

25 Then shalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall choose:

26 And thou shalt bestow that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul desireth: and thou shalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou shalt rejoice, thou and thine household.

27 And the Levite that is within thy gates, thou shalt not forsake him; for he hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

28 At the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt lay it up within thy gates:

29 And the Levite (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are within thy gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doest.

CHAP. XV.

In this chapter Moses gives orders (1) That all debts, owing by the Hebrews to one another, should be released on the seventh or sabbatical year; 1—6; and yet that none, for fear of losing their money, should deny lending to their poor brethren; 7—11. (2) That, after six years' service, all Hebrew bond-servants should be dismissed free, and with some gratuitous donations, as a stock to enable them to set up for themselves, unless they should refuse to accept their freedom; 12—18. (3) That all their firstlings, male or female, should be devoted to the Lord alone, and offered in sacrifice, if unblemished; but none of the blood, even of the blemished, eaten; 19—23.

or deform it. If I live on meat which cometh down from heaven, let me never dishonour my Provider and Portion by a base lusting after, or catching at, any thing earthly and vile. Such as are not satisfied with the lawful gratifications which God allows them, will never be satisfied in the gratification of their lawless lusts. And, though under the gospel I am not so restricted from the flesh or animals, yet I am no less restricted from intimacy and fellowship with unclean sinners, and their works of darkness and death. Here likewise I may learn that there is need of frequent and diligent assembling before God, to render us faithful in his service; that the ways of religion abound with joys and pleasures, and afford the surest grounds of thankfulness; and that there is the greatest advantage in kindness to God's ministers, the poor, the fatherless, and widows. Let him therefore demand what he will for his service out of my outward estate, and may I give it cheerfully and seasonably! God loveth a cheerful giver; and will supply all my need, according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.

justice, the vengeance of God will shortly find them out; for all that depart from him shall surely perish. But, in our zeal for the pure worship of God, we must at once testify our detestation of idolatry or superstition, and plainly manifest that in our zeal we have no eye to promote our own carnal advantage. And whatever power magistrates may have from God to punish such evil-doers, for the preservation of the true religion where it is, they can shew no warrant for the exertion of force in the propagation of it.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—If I am the Lord's; if, by his choice, his blood, his grace, his power, he hath distinguished me from the world; let me never affect conformity to the foolish, sinful, and barbarous customs of it. If God himself be my God and my ALL, let me never idolatrously mourn for the death of relations, as if I had nothing left, or had no hope. If my body be the temple of the Holy Ghost, bought with Jesus' blood, let me never disfigure

Before Christ

At the end of ^aevery seven years thou shalt make a release.

2 And this is the manner of the release: Every ^{*}creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour shall release it; he shall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; because it is called the LORD's release.

3 ^bOf a foreigner thou mayest exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother thine hand shall release;

4 [†]Save when there shall be no poor among you; for the LORD shall ^ggreatly bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

5 ^dOnly if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee; and ^ethou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee.

7 ¶ If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of thy gates, in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ^fshalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother;

8 ^eBut thou shalt open thine hand wide unto him, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need in that which he wanteth.

9 ^hBeware that there be not a [†]thought in thy ^{||}wicked heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and thine eye be evil against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought; and he cry unto the LORD against thee, and it be ⁱsin unto thee.

10 Thou shalt ^ksurely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto.

11 For the poor shall never cease out of the land: therefore I command thee, saying, ^mThou shalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

12 ¶ And ⁿif thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, and serve thee six years; then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou sendest him out free from thee thou ^oshalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy winepress: of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath blessed thee thou shalt give unto him.

15 And thou ^pshalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to-day.

16 And it shall be ^qif he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee; because he loveth thee and thine house, because he is well with thee;

17 Then thou shalt take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant ^rfor ever. And also unto thy maid-servant thou shalt do likewise.

18 It shall not seem ^shard unto thee when thou sendest him away free from thee; for he hath been worth a ^tdouble hired servant to thee, in serving thee six years: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all that thou dost.

19 ¶ All the firstling males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou shalt sanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work with the ^ufirstling of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep.

20 Thou shalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year in the place which the LORD shall choose, thou and thy household.

21 ^vAnd if there be any blemish there-in, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

22 Thou shalt eat ^wit within thy gates: the unclean and the clean person shall eat it alike, [†]as the roebuck, and as the hart.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—In this year of release I behold the acceptable, the evangelical, and the eternal, year of God's redeemed; in which we, infinite debtors to the law and justice of God, are justified from all things; and we, bond-sinners of mankind, are restored to our liberty, and enriched by his grace with blessings innumerable and everlasting. But let me think also how irreligious and inhumane is severity towards poor but honest debtors; it entails a curse upon our property. And it is base to make God's kindness to the poor an occasion of our unkindness to them. To refuse lending to them, if industrious, when we have God to be their surety, who will repay us with usury, is absurd; but especially is it dangerous to have their cry ascending to heaven against us. And often will it be found what we call prudence, in withholding from them, is held extremely sinful and criminal before God. He knows and remarks every thought of our hearts; and it is not so much the gift, as the temper of the giver, that he regards. Servants likewise ought to be treated with tenderness and kindness, especially if found faithful.—It is important to watch against every suggestion which may divert us from our duty, or discourage us in it.—But while in these firstlings I see Jesus, and all his redeemed, devoted to the honour of God, according to their respective purity and stations, let me think with what exactness every thing belonging to the Lord ought to be used in his service in the very manner prescribed by himself.

mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life.

4 And thereshall be unleavened bread seen with thee in all thy coasts seven days; neither shall there any thing of the flesh, which thou sacrificedst the first day at even, remain all night until the morning.

5 Thou mayest not sacrifice the passover within any of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee:

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou shalt roast and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God shall choose: and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

8 Six days shalt thou eat unleavened bread; and on the seventh day shall be a solemn assembly to the LORD thy God; thou shalt do no work therein.

9 Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn.

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a free-will offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:

11 And thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

12 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt: and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

13 Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine.

14 And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD shall choose; because the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thine increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.

16 Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and they shall not appear before the LORD empty:

17 Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

18 Judges and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee throughout thy tribes: and they shall judge the people with just judgment.

19 Thou shalt not wrest judgment; thou shalt not respect persons, neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous.

20 That which is altogether just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

21 Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou shalt make thee.

22 Neither shalt thou set thee up any image; which the LORD thy God hateth.

CHAP. XVII.

Here Moses gives orders (1) Concerning the perfection and purity of the animals offered in sacrifice; 1. (2) Concerning the manner of punishing such Hebrews as worshipped idols; 2—7. (3) Concerning the bringing of appeals from inferior courts to the great council or sanhedrim; 8—13. (4) Concerning the choice and duty of their kings; 14—20.

THOU shalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or sheep, wherein is blemish, or any evil-favouredness: for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

2 If there be found among you, within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the LORD thy God, in transgressing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either the sun, or moon, or any of the host of heaven, which I have not commanded;

4 And it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and inquired diligently, and behold it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel;

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, who have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and shalt stone them with stones till they die.

6 At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death.

7 The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—Is it not shameful that even the most solemn ordinances of our fellowship with God should need to be so frequently inculcated upon us! But since Jesus, our passover, hath been sacrificed for us, and our pentecost, the effusion of the Holy Ghost, by an ascended Saviour, is fully come, and the tabernacle of God is in manhood, and is with men upon earth, with holy joy and gladness, let us, and others instigated by us, observe our solemn feasts, and keep our eyes always fixed upon the Lamb of God. And while we ourselves are comforted of Christ, let us remember, it is both honourable and God-like to follow his example, and to manifest a tender regard to the poor and afflicted. Let us observe likewise that magistrates are necessary for the regulation of mankind; and should be so placed that people may have easy access to them, and it is becoming that, in all their ministrations, they shew themselves of proper abilities and remarkable integrity. But dangerous is it, in the worship of God, to copy after the example of wicked and idolatrous men; his worship is pure and spiritual; he regards not the external appearance, but they who worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—We ought to honour the Lord with the best that we have—the best of our time and abilities, the best of our age and strength. But apostasy from the true religion to the worship of idols is extremely wicked and ruinous. It is necessary that the execution of malefactors be as public and solemn as possible, that others may hear and fear. But, in matters of life and death, nothing less than the clearest evidence should be admitted. Great care must be taken at once to maintain the just rights of subjects, and the lawful authority of magistrates: and we must obey, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake. To rebel against the lawful orders of government, is to commit treason against the Majesty of heaven. But, in order to secure respect to their government, magistrates ought to be deliberately set up; they ought to avoid whatever gratifies their lust, or tends to corrupt them. God's word should be the supreme standard of their determinations. Piety, prudence, humble condescension, and equity, should run through the whole of their conduct. No day should pass without reading of God's word. The fear of God powerfully induces to an obedience to his commands. And the higher our station is, the more exemplary and humble our conversation ought to be. Religion is the best security of thrones, and every other honour: and, even in this world, there is a great reward in keeping God's commandments.

cause of these abominations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

13 Thou shalt be perfect with the LORD thy God

14 For these nations, which thou shalt possess, hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not suffered thee so to do.

15 ¶ The LORD thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken.

16 According to all that thou desiredst of the LORD thy God in Horeb, in the day of the assembly, saying, Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not.

17 And the LORD said unto me, They have well spoken that which they have spoken.

18 I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him.

19 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words, which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.

20 ¶ But the prophet, who shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, even that prophet shall die.

21 ¶ And if thou say in thine heart, How shall we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken?

22 When a prophet speaketh in the name of the LORD, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not be afraid of him.

CHAP. XIX.

Hitherto Moses had chiefly repeated and enforced the laws relative to the worship of God; now he inculcates the duties we owe to our neighbours. (1) He repeats the law for the appointment of cities of refuge to involuntary man-slayers, and for the punishment of wilful murder; 1-13. (2) He prohibits the removal of land-marks. (3) He fixes the extent of proof necessary in criminal cases, 15; and (4) appoints the punishment of perjury; 16-21.

WHEN the LORD thy God hath cut off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou succeedest them, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses;

2 Thou shalt separate three cities for thee in the midst of thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

3 ¶ Thou shalt prepare thee a way, and divide the coasts of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit, into three parts, that every slayer may flee thither.

4 ¶ And this is the case of the slayer, who shall flee thither that he may live; Whoso killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not in time past:

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slippeth from the shelve, and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live:

6 Lest the avenger of the blood pursue the slayer while his heart is hot, and overtake him; because the way is long, and slay him; whereas he was not worthy of death, in as much as he hated him not in time past.

7 Wherefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt separate three cities for thee.

8 And if the LORD thy God enlarge thy coast, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, and give thee all the land which he promised to give unto thy fathers;

9 If thou shalt keep all these commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways; then shalt thou add three cities more for thee, beside these three:

10 That innocent blood be not shed in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and so blood be upon thee.

11 ¶ But if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of these cities:

12 Then the elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

13 Thine eye shall not pity him, but thou shalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with thee.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not remove thy neighbour's landmark, which they of old time have set in thine inheritance, which thou shalt inherit in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

15 ¶ One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.

16 ¶ If a false witness rise up against any man to testify against him that which is wrong;

17 Then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges which shall be in those days;

18 And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, if the witness be

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—Since God hath provided subsistence for ministers, they ought never willingly to entangle themselves in worldly business; farming, merchandise, or the like: for those, who love God's ordinances as they ought, will not grudge to contribute to their support. None ought to supplant another with respect to what the Lord hath allotted him. But a worldly-minded minister is a SCANDAL to his profession—a LIVING LIE! God indeed most highly regards such ministers as leave their worldly all, and follow him, and do more in the church than men could desire of them. But it is shocking to find in countries, privileged with gospel light, affectors of fellowship with devils in charms, fortune-telling, witchcraft, and the like! and what a mercy it is if God has preserved us from these abominations! But oh! infinite grace! in order to destroy the work, and deliver us from the delusions of the devil, God raises up his Son, a Prophet, who knows the whole mind of God, and who reveals a complete system of worship! Blessed are those, who hear his voice; and infinite is the hazard and ruin of such as refuse to regard him! But, since seducers arise in the church of God, it is necessary to try all, and to censure and punish such as are found notorious impostors.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—While in these cities of refuge I again view a crucified Redeemer, as my near and all-sufficient protection, and his ministers as assisting and directing me in my flight to it, plain and open is my way to it, and my warrant to enter. Yet so great is our ignorance, our unconcern, our unbelief, that we need many and repeated descriptions of him, and encouragements to flee to him: and God graciously affords them in his word; happy are they who embrace the promise. But desperate is their case who sin presumptuously, and refuse this great salvation! Nay, how criminal in God's sight must wilful murder be, when nothing less than the blood of the offender can be admitted as the punishment of it! Every thing that marks out and ascertains men's property should be exactly preserved, that so disputes and unjust invasions may be prevented: and witnesses should be examined in the courts of judicature with accuracy and care, that none may suffer unjustly through false witnessing, and none that dare to bear false witness may escape condign punishment.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—While we remark how carefully piety towards God, tenderness towards others, and prudence towards ourselves, should be carried into war itself, let us ponder how necessary it is that armies and

CHAP. XXI.

Contains directions (1) For purging the land from blood-guiltiness when the murderer remained unknown; 1—9. (2) For pre-churches should be furnished with faithful ministers, to encourage them in the Lord their God! Hopeful is the most difficult work when we are assured of God's presence in it, and encouraged with the former experience of what he hath done for us! Then we can triumph, in hopes of being more than conquerors through him that loved us. But there is little hope of men's prospering in their duty when their affections are engaged elsewhere: and therefore carnal worldlings, who are intoxicated with pleasure in temporal enjoyments, or the fearful and unbelieving, are unfit to fight with principalities and powers. God must be served heartily and willingly, or not at all. And, though every saint ought to be courageous, yet ministers who go before the host in fighting the Lord's battles, need distinguished boldness. Amazing is the mercy and long-suffering of God; he is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance! And surely then we ought to be forward in accepting, or even offering, terms of peace to such as have offended us! But dreadful is the case if men will not hear the calls of God's mercy, or if the preservation of his people make it necessary to ruin them: for infallibly certain is the success of those enterprizes in which God is the director! It is necessary to remove all occasions and temptations to idolatry, or other wickedness, and to preserve every means of comfort, as God pleases to direct us.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—Murder ought by all means to be rendered as horrible and detested as possible: and every mean should be used to discover and bring murderers to condign punishment, and to avoid being partakers with other men in their sins: but, at the same time, no selfish affection ought to be regarded, either in the giving or executing justice. However secretly sin be committed, God will discover and punish it at last: and if we cannot put away sin from our land, let us labour to pray it away.—Converts from idolatry ought not too rashly to be admitted into close connection with us: and, before we take a partner for life, it is of infinite moment that we agree in religion.—Sudden passions ought to be restrained, till grace be given, and time taken for reflection: and we should labour to wear our affections from that which we inordinately love.—Kindness ought to be shewn to such as God has sovereignly reduced to misery and trouble; and indulgence be allowed to sorrows which flow from natural affection.—Our engagements ought never to be rashly formed, lest our honour or conscience be afterwards wounded by them: and such as have been any ways wronged by us are entitled to all possible satisfaction. But surely still greater regard ought to be shewn to human souls, and care taken to prevent men's everlasting infamy and woe. But in these figures let me behold Jesus, the seed of the woman, brought down to our world, and slain by the rulers of Israel as an expiation for our murderous crimes!—Jesus reserving a bride for himself, a glorious church of the Gentiles, and betrothing her to himself for ever in loving-kindness and in mercies!—Jesus, with whom there is no respect of persons, redeeming us from the curse of the law, and, by his crucifixion in our stead, removing the iniquity of the land in one day!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—What love, what decency, what humanity, what order, the laws of God inculcate! Surely it highly becomes us to remember and observe them. In what detestation God holds slanderers, whoremongers, adulterers, and unclean persons! Let them then be detestable among all Christians, especially in my heart. Let me be ever ready for friendly offices towards my neighbour. Let me never retain any thing of his that came secretly into my hands. Let it be my care to please God in my apparel: for indecency in dress is not the less sinful because it is fashionable. And, while I regard the life of my neighbour, let me shun every unhallowed mixture of works with grace; of nature with the Spirit of God; of my own righteousness with that of Jesus Christ: but never be ashamed to wear the distinguished badge of a true Christian. Let me reckon chastity a very precious jewel; and yet a tender plant that can easily be blasted; and the loss of which is very infamous and sinful. Always let me use every mean of resisting temptation, and particularly crying to Jesus for relief. And if I wrong any, let me repair the injury as far as lies in my power, according to the law of God.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—It is unseemly for saints to connect themselves in intimacy or marriage with profane persons: but whoremongers unnaturally mark their innocent posterity with shame and disgrace. God severely resents the injury done to his people in the day of their distress. But we ought quickly to forget the evil done to us by our relations or others; and carefully to remember the favours which we have received. Purity and cleanliness should be studied together with godliness, as they are both healthful and honourable, especially that of the heart and life, before God. How becoming is a tender compassion towards the afflicted, especially young converts to Christ! For great is the mercy of God to such—he will never deliver up a poor fugitive, that flees to him from the servitude of sin, or of the broken law. Let me admire his grace, and imitate his goodness—let me carefully abstain from fleshly lusts, which provoke God, and war against my soul. In all my dealings, let brotherly love continue. And, if I have vowed unto the Lord, let me in no wise go back. Let me be kind to strangers, ready to distribute, and never insist upon trifling rights and claims.

12 And if the man be poor thou shalt not sleep with his pledge:

13 ¶ In any case thou shalt deliver him the pledge again when the sun goeth down, that he may sleep in his own raiment, and bless thee: and it shall be righteousness unto thee before the LORD thy God.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not oppress an hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy strangers that are in thy land within thy gates:

15 At his day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it; for he is poor, and setteth his heart upon it: lest he cry against thee unto the LORD, and it be sin unto thee.

16 ¶ The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin.

17 ¶ Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless; nor take a widow's raiment to pledge.

18 But thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

19 ¶ When thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hands.

20 When thou beatest thine olive-tree thou shalt not go over the boughs again:

it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard thou shalt not glean it afterward: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

22 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

CHAP. XXV.

Contains laws (1) For moderating the stripes of scourged malefactors; 1—3. (2) For not muzzling oxen while treading out the corn. (3) For disgracing such unmarried men as refused to marry their deceased brother's childless widow; 5—10. (4) For the punishment of immodest women; 11, 12. (5) For just weights and measures; 13—16. (6) For the destruction of the Amalekites; 17—19.

IF there be a controversy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them, then they shall justify the righteous and condemn the wicked.

2 And it shall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge shall cause him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

3 Forty stripes he may give him, and not exceed: lest if he should exceed, and beat him above these with many stripes, then thy brother should seem vile unto thee.

4 ¶ Thou shalt not muzzle the ox when he treadeth out the corn.

5 ¶ If brethren dwell together, and one of them die and have no child, the wife of the dead shall not marry without unto a stranger: her husband's brother shall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an husband's brother unto her.

6 And it shall be, that the first-born which she beareth shall succeed in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Israel.

7 And if the man like not to take his brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and say, My husband's brother refuseth to raise up unto his brother a name in Israel; he will not perform the duty of my husband's brother.

8 Then the elders of his city shall call him, and speak unto him: and if he stand to it, and say, I like not to take her;

9 Then shall his brother's wife come unto him in the presence of the elders, and loose his shoe from off his foot, and spit in his face, and shall answer and say, So shall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brother's house.

10 And his name shall be called in Israel, The house of him that hath his shoe loosed.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIV.—Harmony in sin often issues in mutual hatred and angry separation. And it is mournful to observe that, for the cruelty and hatred of husbands to wives, or other injurious effects of sin, God should see it necessary to permit the divorcement of them. But such a separation ought to be taken with great deliberation, as there is such hardship connected with it, and no recalling of it. Happy is it when the mutual affection of married persons is fixed at first, and remains with prudent tenderness. How necessary is it to observe God's ordinances, however shameful they may be to us! It is better now to confess our sin and be pardoned, than to conceal it and be damned. Superiors, and especially judges, who are the substitutes of God, ought to conduct themselves in every case with equity and truth. And with great compassion ought we to treat our neighbours, especially the poor, as their circumstances may require: though they cannot recompense us with their wealth or labour, they may do it with their prayers. And let us consider the great compassion God has towards them. But how great his kindness in leaving to us, sinners of the Gentiles, in his word such plentiful gleanings of divine truth!

draweth near for to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the secrets;

12 Then thou shalt cut off her hand; thine eye shall not pity her.

13 ¶ Thou shalt not have in thy bag divers weights, a great and a small.

14 Thou shalt not have in thine house divers measures, a great and a small.

15 But thou shalt have a perfect and just weight; a perfect and just measure shalt thou have: that thy days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

16 For all that do such things, and all that do unrighteously, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

17 ¶ Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way when ye were come forth out of Egypt:

18 How he met thee by the way, and smote the hindmost of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou wast faint and weary: and he feared not God.

19 Therefore it shall be, when the LORD thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it, that thou shalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou shalt not forget.

CHAP. XXVI.

With this chapter Moses concludes the particular charges he gave to Israel before his parting from them. Here (1) He prescribes a form of confession to be used by them when they offered the basket of their first-fruits at pentecost; 1—11. (2) He prescribes a protestation to be made by them when they offered their tithe of the third year; 12—15. (3) He concludes with an enforcement of all the injunctions mentioned in this book, from the consideration of the divine authority imposing them; and that they were the rule of that obedience to which God had bound them, and to which they had bound themselves by solemn covenant; 16—19.

AND it shall be, when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and possessest it, and dwellest therein;

2 That thou shalt take of the first of all the fruit of the earth, which thou shalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt put it in a basket, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name there:

3 And thou shalt go unto the priest that shall be in those days, and say unto him, I profess this day, unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the country which the LORD sware unto our fathers for to give us.

4 And the priest shall take the basket out of thine hand, and set it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou shalt speak and say before the LORD thy God, A Syrian ready to perish was my father, and he went down into Egypt, and sojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous:

6 And the Egyptians evil entreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage:

7 And, when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppression:

8 And the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an out-stretched arm, and with great terribleness, and with signs, and with wonders:

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 And now, behold, I have brought the first-fruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, hast given me. And thou shalt set it before the LORD thy God, and worship before the LORD thy God:

11 And thou shalt rejoice in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine house, thou, and the Levite, and the stranger that is among you.

12 ¶ When thou hast made an end of tithing all the tithes of thine increase the third year, which is the year of tithing, and hast given it unto the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled;

13 Then thou shalt say before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of mine house, and also have given them unto the Levite, and unto the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them:

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean use, nor given ought thereof for the dead: but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou hast commanded me.

15 Look down from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bless thy people Israel, and the land which thou hast given us, as thou swarest unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

16 ¶ This day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do these statutes and judgments: thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

17 Thou hast avouched the LORD this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice:

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—Inhuman cruelty, even towards evil doers, may, towards brute beasts, especially when serviceable to us, is very unbecoming the professors of Christianity. It is impossible to force affection, or to render a marriage happy without it. But the Christian in every situation must attend to the path of duty: and they deserve reproach themselves who give occasion to cast reproach on others. What fearful shame and dishonour must then await those ministers and Christians who reproach, and attempt to ruin, Christ and his church, by refusing to exert themselves in winning souls to them! Nothing is more shocking in a woman than immodesty, whether it be in the outrage of passion or in wanton lewdness. When once the hedge of modesty is broken through, the grossest unchastity may soon follow. Detestable to God, and hurtful to the user at last, is every art of fraud and dishonesty: and terrible and lasting, though often slow in the execution, is God's vengeance against the unprovoked injuries of his people.

this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promised thee, and that thou shouldst keep all his commandments;

19 And to make thee ^{high} above all nations which he hath made, in praise, and in name, and in honour; and that thou mayest be an holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath spoken.

CHAP. XXVII.

To promote the observation of the laws which he had already inculcated, Moses here prescribes outward means (1) For helping their memories. That they might never be forgotten or become as strange things, they must, at their very entrance into Canaan, write them on plastered stones; and on that occasion erect an altar, and with peace-offerings celebrate a feast to the Lord; 1—10. (2) For moving their affections. That they might never be indifferent to these laws as light things, the blessings and curses, with which they were sanctioned, must be solemnly pronounced from Gerizzim and Ebal, and all the people say AMEN to them; 11—26.

AND Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

2 And it shall be, on the day ^{when} ye shall pass over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou shalt set thee up ^{great} stones, and plaster them with plaster:

3 And thou ^{shalt} write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee.

4 Therefore it shall be, when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, in mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaster them with plaster.

5 And there ^{shalt} thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou shalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole stones: and thou shalt offer ^{burnt}-offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God:

7 And thou shalt offer ^{peace}-offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou ^{shalt} write upon the stones all the words of this law very plainly.

9 ¶ And Moses, and the priests the Levites, spake unto all Israel, saying, ^{Take} heed, and hearken, O Israel; this day thou art become the people of the LORD thy God.

10 ^{Thou} shalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day.

11 ¶ And Moses charged the people the same day, saying,

12 These shall stand upon ^{mount} Gerizzim to bless the people when ye are come over Jordan; ^{Simeon}, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph, and Benjamin:

13 And these shall stand upon ^{mount} Ebal ^{to} curse; Reuben, Gad, and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 ¶ And ^{the} Levites shall speak, and say unto all the men of Israel with a loud voice, 15 ^{Cursed} be the man that maketh any graven or molten image, an ^{abomination} unto the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftsmen, and ^{putteth it} in a secret place. And ^{all} the people shall answer and say, Amen.

16 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{setteth} light by his father or his mother. And all the people shall say, Amen.

17 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{removeth} his neighbour's land-mark. And all the people shall say, Amen.

18 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{maketh} the blind to wander out of the way. And all the people shall say, Amen.

19 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{perverteth} the judgment of the stranger, fatherless, and widow. And all the people shall say, Amen.

20 Cursed ^{be} he ^{that} lieth with his father's wife: because he uncovereth his father's skirt. And all the people shall say, Amen.

21 Cursed ^{be} he ^{that} lieth with any manner of beast. And all the people shall say, Amen.

22 Cursed ^{be} he ^{that} lieth with his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother. And all the people shall say, Amen.

23 ^{Cursed} be he that lieth with his mother-in-law. And all the people shall say, Amen:

24 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{smiteth} his neighbour secretly. And all the people shall say, Amen.

25 Cursed ^{be} he that ^{taketh} reward to slay an innocent person. And all the people shall say, Amen.

26 ^{Cursed} be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do them: And all the people shall say, Amen.

CHAP. XXVIII.

To make what he had said sink deep into the consciences of the people, Moses again, more largely than ever, declares what blessings would attend their obedience, and what curses their disobedience. (1) What safety and ease, what increase of their families, what wealth and honour, what success in their employments, what victory over their enemies, and what near relation to God, would attend their obedience; 1—14. (2) What curses

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVII.—Such as are in authority ought to exert all their influence in promoting the service of God. And, when ministers and magistrates shew themselves zealous in their station for God, people are ready to follow their example. Every privilege that we enjoy ought to be an incitement to universal holiness: and God's law is so plain, that every one may attain a moderate knowledge of it: but to become effectual, it must be written on our hard hearts by the Spirit of God; and all obedience to it must be founded on the atoning and peace-procuring blood of Jesus Christ. In this order, what solid peace and joy are found in believing, and in cordial dedication of ourselves to God's service! In keeping his commandments a blessed reward of grace is to be expected: but most terrible curses await those who, after professed subjection to God, and solemn acquiescence in his law and sanctions of it do voluntarily apostatize from his ways, and indulge themselves in secret or open wickedness.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVI.—God faithfully and exactly fulfils his promises, even to the most unworthy. And a grateful acknowledgment thereof, and of our own meanness and guilt, is but a just tribute to him for his goodness. Past deliverances, granted to ourselves or others, ought never to be forgotten: and all our gifts of providence, as well as of redemption, must be acknowledged as coming from God's hand. The first and best therefore of all that we have ought to be offered up to his service; and our earthly blessings will then be doubly sweet to us when we receive them as coming to us from God's mercy and love. Let our distributions to the Lord's ministers and poor be such as we can answer for at the judgment seat of God. Faithfulness in these will draw his blessing on our enjoyments; but, if we rob him in them, we may expect his curse on our basket and on our store. Let us then be hearty friends and well-wishers to the welfare of his church and people. Let our covenant relation to God, our solemn obligation to him, and the honours which he has given or promised to us, excite us to the most exact and universal obedience to his laws.

AND it shall come to pass, 'if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee 'on high above all nations of the earth:

2 And all these blessings shall 'come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

3 'Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

4 Blessed shall be 'the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

5 'Blessed shall be thy basket and thy store.

6 Blessed shalt thou be when 'thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

7 The LORD shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be 'smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways.

8 The LORD 'shall command the blessing upon thee in thy †storehouses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto: and he shall bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 The LORD shall 'establish thee an holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, 'if thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all people of the earth shall 'see that thou art called by the name of the LORD, and they shall be afraid of thee.

11 And 'the LORD shall make thee plenteous †in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, 'in the land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

12 The LORD 'shall open unto thee his good treasure; the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand: and thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD 'shall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; 'if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day to observe and to do them:

14 And thou shalt 'not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

15 ¶ But it shall come to pass, 'if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that 'all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee.

16 'Cursed shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

17 'Cursed shall be thy basket and thy store.

18 'Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy kine and the flocks of thy sheep.

19 'Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

20 'The LORD shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou settest thine hand unto †for to do, until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings whereby thou hast forsaken me.

21 The LORD 'shall make the pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

22 'The LORD shall smite thee with a consumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the *sword, and with blasting, and with mildew; and they shall pursue thee until thou perish.

23 And thy 'heaven that is over thy head, shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

24 'The LORD shall 'make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

EXPLANATORY NOTES. CHAP. XXVIII.—This chapter is nearly allied to Lev. xxvi. 3—39: only it more largely insists upon the mercies, and especially the judgments that were to befall the Israelites after their entrance into Canaan till the end of the world. It is not to be considered as a mere sanction of the laws formerly declared, but also as a real prediction of future events. The first fourteen verses had their accomplishment in the various mercies which the Jews met with before their last dispersion by the Romans; particularly in the days of Joshua; chap. iii.—xxiv. in the Rests under the Judges; Judg. iii. 11, 30, 31. and viii. 28; and under Samuel; 1 Sam. v. 2. David; 2 Sam. v. x. 1 Chron. xii.—xxix. Solomon; 1 Kings i. x. 2 Chron. i.—ix. Asa; 1 Kings xv. 9—15. 2 Chron. xiii.—xvi. Jehoshaphat; 2 Chron. xvii.—xx. Joash; 2 Kings xi. xii. 2 Chron. xxiii. xxiv. Uzziah and Jotham; 2 Chron. xxvi. xxvii. Hezekiah; 2 Kings xviii. xix. Isa. xxxvi. xxxvii. 2 Chron. xxx. to xxxii. Josiah; 2 Kings xxii. xxiii. 2 Chron. xxxiv. xxxv.; and in the days of Ezra; i.—x. and of Esther; i.—x. and of Neh. i.—x; and under the Maccabees, Judas, Jonathan, Simon Hircanus, and Alexander Jannaeus, from about one hundred and sixty to about eighty years before Christ's birth.—From ver. 15 to the end are delineated the various and manifold miseries which their sin should bring upon them, from their entrance into Canaan till their future restoration; i. e. for the space of three thousand three hundred years; particularly in the days of Joshua; Josh. vii. the Judges; Judg. i.—iii. iv. vi. ix. x. xii.—xxi. Samuel; 1 Sam. iv. xi. xiii. xiv. xvii. xxxi. David; 2 Sam. ii. iii. xv.—xxi. xxiv. Solomon; 1 Kings xi. Rehoboam, Abijah, Jehoshaphat; 1 Kings xii.—xxi. 2 Kings i.—vi. Jehoram, Ahaziah, Joash, Amaziah, Uzziah, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh; 2 Kings viii.—xxi. 2 Chron. xxi. xxii. xxv. xxviii. xxxii. xxxiii.; and Jehoikim, Jehoiah, Zedekiah, and in Babylon; 2 Kings xxiv. xxv. 2 Chron. xxxv. xxxvi. Jer. xiv.—xxix. xxiv. to xli. The body of the ten tribes of Israel were generally miserable after the death of Solomon. They were carried captive and dispersed among the heathens, about seven hundred and twenty years before Christ, whence few of them ever returned to Canaan. Such of them, or of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, who returned to their own land, by order from Cyrus, Ezra i. were not only harassed by the neighbouring nations of Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites, Arabians, Philistines, and others, but also by the Persian and Grecian emperors; but most terribly by Ochus the Persian, about three hundred and fifty; and Antiochus Epiphanes; Dan. viii. 23—25. and xi. 28—35, about one hundred and sixty years before Christ.—But their most fearful calamities began to come upon them, from the Romans, about sixty-five years after Christ. They invaded their country; and, after manifold calamities, about A. D. 70, rendered it a desolate wilderness, burning their cities, slaying the inhabitants, it is probable to the number of some millions, and selling such as remained to the Egyptians and others for slaves. About A. D. 136, the Romans repeated their terrible slaughter of such Jews as they found in Canaan, and even in other places of their empire; and annual fairs were held for the sale of the captives. Since which, hated of all nations in Europe, Asia, or Africa, among which they have been dispersed, and often deluded by pretenders to Messiahship, they have, for these seventeen hundred years, been distressed with the most fearful calamities, persecutions, and massacres, from the Persians, Saracens, Turks, and Christians; but chiefly the Greeks, Spaniards, French, English, and Germans. Thus every promise or threatening respecting the Jewish nation is but a repetition or enlargement of what we have in this chapter and the first part of the xxx. 1—9; and every event of providence respecting that nation, from their entrance into Canaan till the end of time, is the accomplishment thereof. Heb. they thine.

25 The LORD shall cause thee to be smitten before thine enemies: thou shalt go out one way against them, and flee seven ways before them; and shalt be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And thy carcass shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth; and no man shall fray them away, 27 The LORD will smite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the emerald rods, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed.

28 The LORD shall smite thee with madness, and blindness, and astonishment of heart:

29 And thou shalt grope at noon-day, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed and spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee.

30 Thou shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: thou shalt build an house, and thou shalt not dwell therein: thou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not gather the grapes thereof.

31 Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

32 Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people, and thine eyes shall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long: and there shall be no sight in thine hand.

33 The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed away:

34 So that thou shalt be mad for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

35 The LORD shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD shall bring thee, and thy king, which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and there shalt thou serve other gods, wood and stone.

37 And thou shalt become an astonishment, a proverb, and a by-word, among all nations whither the LORD shall lead thee.

38 Thou shalt carry much seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in; for the locusts shall consume it.

39 Thou shalt plant vineyards and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes; for the worm shall eat them.

40 Thou shalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coasts; but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil; for thine olive shall cast his fruit.

41 Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but thou shalt not enjoy them; for they shall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locusts consume.

43 The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high: and thou shalt come down very low.

44 He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: he shall be the head, and thou shalt be the tail.

45 Moreover, all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded thee:

46 And they shall be upon thee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever:

47 Because thou servedst not the LORD thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, for the abundance of all things:

48 Therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies whom the LORD shall send against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he shall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have destroyed thee.

49 The LORD shall bring a nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose tongue thou shalt not understand;

50 A nation of fierce countenance, which shall not regard the person of the old, nor show favour to the young:

51 And he shall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be destroyed: which also shall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increase of thy kine, or flocks of thy sheep, until he have destroyed thee.

52 And he shall besiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land: and he shall besiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

53 And thou shalt eat the fruit of thine own body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, whom the LORD thy God hath given thee, in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:

54 So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

55 So that he will not give to any of them the flesh of his children whom he shall eat: because he hath nothing left him in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, who would not adventure to set the sole of her foot upon the ground for delicateness and tenderness, her eye shall be evil toward the husband of her bosom, and toward her son, and toward her daughter,

57 And toward her *young one that cometh out from between her feet, and toward her children which she shall bear: for she shall eat them for want of all things secretly in the siege and straitness wherewith thine enemy shall distress thee in thy gates.

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

59 Then the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, and of long continuance.

60 Moreover, he will bring upon thee all the diseases of Egypt, which thou wast afraid of; and they shall cleave unto thee.

61 Also every sickness, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

62 And ye shall be left few in number, whereas ye were as the stars of heaven for multitude; because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

63 And it shall come to pass, that as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you; so the LORD will rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to nought; and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the LORD shall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

65 And among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: but the LORD shall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind:

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee; and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life:

67 In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even! and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning! for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

68 And the LORD shall bring thee into Egypt again with ships, by the way whereof I spake unto thee, Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bond-men and bond-women, and no man shall buy you.

CHAP. XXIX.

For the further enforcement of the laws which he had taught them, Moses here brings the Israelites under a new and solemn covenant engagement to keep them. Here is (1) An introductory rehearsal of God's remarkable favours to them, as an incitement to keep the covenant; 2—9. (2) A solemn charge to fulfil this covenant now made with all of them, and their posterity, for their advantage; 9—15. (3) An intimation that the great end of the covenant was to preserve them from that idolatry which they had seen practised among the heathen; 16—18. (4) A most dreadful denunciation of God's vengeance against those who should presumptuously promise themselves peace in idolatry or other sinful courses; 18—28. [This is a kind of abridgment of the last part of the preceding chapter.] (5) A declaration of the general end of God's revelations to men; 29.

THESE are the words of the covenant which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, beside the covenant which he made with them in Horeb.

2 ¶ And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

3 The great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles:

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderness; your clothes are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot.

6 Ye have not eaten bread, neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink: that ye might know that I am the LORD your God.

7 And when ye came unto this place, Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them:

8 And we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half tribe of Manasseh.

9 Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

10 ¶ Ye stand this day all of you before the LORD your God; your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel,

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water:

12 That thou shouldest enter into covenant with the LORD thy God, and into his oath, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

13 That he may establish thee to-day for a people unto himself, and that he

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVIII.—Behold, with affecting wonder, what numerous blessings a God in Christ, reconciling the world to himself, can heap on sinful men!—What blessings on soul and body!—What blessings, in time and in eternity, his love can bestow! Let us therefore be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord. In keeping his commandments there is a great and gracious reward. But who can stand before this holy, this jealous, this great and dreadful Lord God, if once he be angry! Deep and large is the cup of indignation that is in his right hand; the dregs of which the wicked must wring out and drink. Let the sinners in Zion be afraid. Let fearfulness surprise the hypocrites. Who among us shall dwell with devouring fire? who shall dwell with everlasting burnings? In this dreadful cluster of threatenings, let us observe that sin is the only deserving cause of trouble; and that God in innumerable forms can execute his vengeance on the bodies, the minds, the families, the nations, the property, of his opposers. Let the tremendous condition of the Jewish nation, when oppressed by Mesopotamians, Moabites, Canaanites, Midianites, Ammonites, Philistines, Syrians, Persians, Greeks, and others; and when harassed, murdered, and carried into captivity, by the Assyrians, Chaldeans, and Romans; and all the miseries which they have suffered in their present dispersion, of more than seventeen hundred years continuance; establish my faith in God's word: and let it warn the British nation, and those connected with her, to take heed to themselves, lest their contempt of Christ, their breach of covenant with God, and other abounding wickedness, entail upon them similar judgments.

may be unto thee a God, as he hath said unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath;

15 But with him that standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, and also with him that is ^{not} here with us this day:

16 (For ye know ^{how} we have dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we came through the nations which ye passed by;

17 And ye have seen their abominations, and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them:)

18 ^{Lest} there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; lest there should be among you a root that beareth [†]gall and wormwood;

19 And it come to pass, when he ^{heareth} the words of this curse, that he ^{bless} himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk ⁱⁿ the ^{imagination} of mine heart, to ^{add} ^{*drunkenness} to thirst;

20 The LORD will ^{not} spare him; but then the anger of the LORD and his jealousy shall smoke against that man, and all the ^{curse}s that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the LORD ^{shall} blot out his name from under heaven.

21 And the LORD shall ^{separate} him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that ^{are} written in this book of the law:

22 So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses [†]which the LORD hath laid upon it;

23 And that the whole land thereof is ^{brimstone}, and salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger and in his wrath:

24 Even all nations shall say, ^{Wherefore} hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

25 Then men shall say, ^{Because} they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt:

26 ^{For} they went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and ^{whom} he had not ^{given} unto them:

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against this land, to bring upon it all the ^{curse}s that are written in this book:

28 And the LORD ^{rooted} them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The ^{secret} things belong unto the LORD our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

CHAP. XXX.

The judgments mentioned in the two preceding chapters would render the case of the Jewish nation fearfully miserable, but not desperate. Here mercy rejoices against judgment. (1) Moses announces gracious promises for encouraging and enabling them to repent; particularly in the latter days, after their present dispersion; 1—10. (2) Intimates that the righteousness of faith was set before them in the plainness and easiness of the injunctions given them; 11—14. (3) He in a solemn manner refers it to their choice, whether they would have death or life, blessing or cursing, for their portion; 15—20.

AND it shall come to pass, when all these things are come upon thee, the ^{blessing} and the curse which I have set before thee, ^{and} thou shalt call them to mind among all the nations whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 ^{And} shalt return unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, ^{with} all thine heart, and with all thy soul;

3 That ^{then} the LORD thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and gather thee from all the nations whither the LORD thy God hath scattered thee.

4 If any of thine be driven out unto the utmost parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee:

5 And the LORD thy God ^{will} bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And the LORD thy God ^{will} circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all these curses ^{upon} thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee.

8 And thou shalt ^{return} and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIX.—Unbelief and unconcern are so deep rooted within us, that, till God himself enlighten and renew our heart, we can never know, love, or serve him. Many of the most affecting providences pass unheeded by ignorant and unbelieving men: and yet a right observation of providence would powerfully induce us to a solemn surrendering of ourselves to God, and a careful fulfilment of our vows. Holy obedience is so contrary to the heart of man, that notwithstanding we are already bound by the infinite authority of God's law, we need to be also bound by solemn vows and covenants, and these again and again repeated. But every thing in public covenanting with God ought to be made with great plainness and solemnity; that every one concerned, whether present or absent, may understand, and be duly affected with it: and especially must all our covenanting with him be founded on his grant of himself to us as our God, and his claim of us for his people. How ready are men to copy after bad examples, and to defile themselves with idols! And who knows what indwelling lusts may lead us to in our practice; for followers of iniquity often become presumptuous at last, and bless themselves, while the curse of God hangs over their heads, and his wrath abideth on them! and to what terrible and shameful judgments are such presumptuous sinners exposed! The greater the mercies we sin against, the greater judgments we may expect. The obstinate abuse of God's mercies will at length deprive men of them. And heathen beholders are sometimes sooner awakened by God's judgments than the hardened professors who endure them. Men's inquiries into religious concerns are frequently rather curious than practical; and many sinfully pry into futurities, and things which he hath concealed, rather than search and practise what he hath revealed in his word, and manifested in his providence. But may I and my children always search and practise the scriptures, as the only effectual means of averting the plagues appointed for the ungodly!

9 And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers:

10 If thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart and with all thy soul.

11 ¶ For this commandment, which I command thee this day, it is not hidden from thee, neither is it far off.

12 It is not in heaven, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it and do it?

13 Neither is it beyond the sea, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go over the sea for us, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.

15 ¶ See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil;

16 In that I command thee this day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other gods and serve them;

18 I denounce unto you this day that ye shall surely perish, and that ye shall not prolong your days upon the land whither thou passest over Jordan to go to possess it.

19 I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live:

20 That thou mayest love the LORD thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him; for he is thy life, and the length of thy days; that thou mayest dwell in the land which the LORD swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

CHAP. XXXI.

Having finished his long and affecting sermon, Moses here (1) Encourages the Israelites, and Joshua, their future general, to proceed to the conquest of Canaan, westward of Jordan; 1-8. (2) Having written a copy of his whole laws and revelations, he delivers it to the priests to keep; 9-24-27; and orders them to read it publicly to the people at the feast of tabernacles on the year of release; 10-13. (3) God informs Moses and Joshua of the future apostasy of the Israelites, and the judgments they should procure to themselves thereby; and orders a warning song to be left with them, and committed to their memories as a witness against their wickedness; 14-21. (4) Moses writes the song, and leaves it with them; intimating the design thereof; 22, 28-30.

AND Moses went and spake these words unto all Israel.

2 And he said unto them, I am an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: also the LORD hath said unto me, Thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The LORD thy God he will go over before thee, and he will destroy these nations from before thee, and thou shalt possess them: and Joshua he shall go over before thee, as the LORD hath said.

4 And the LORD shall do unto them as he did to Sihon and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them whom he destroyed.

5 And the LORD shall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

6 Be strong and of a good courage; fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee nor forsake thee.

7 ¶ And Moses called unto Joshua, and said unto him in the sight of all Israel, Be strong and of a good courage: for thou must go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath sworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou shalt cause them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD, he it is that doth go before thee; he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, neither forsake thee: fear not, neither be dismayed.

9 ¶ And Moses wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, who bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel.

10 And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of every seven years, in the solemnity of the year of release, in the feast of tabernacles, 11 When all Israel is come to appear before the LORD thy God, in the place which he shall choose, thou shalt read this law before all Israel in their hearing.

12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law:

13 And that their children, who have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

14 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. And Moses to all holy obedience. We shall run in the way of his commandments when he shall enlarge our heart. But now let us consider how great a mercy it is that the laws and the gospel of Christ are set before us in so plain, affecting, and applicable a manner. And, since eternal life is so exhibited, so offered to, so urged upon us, God forbid that we should entail redoubled damnation on ourselves by a contemptuous rejection of it. Not Moses, but Jesus, sets before us life and good.—Let us see that we refuse not him that speaketh from heaven,

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXX.—In returning to the Lord, and resting in him, men must be saved. Our gracious God is always ready, not only to receive repenting prodigals, but to qualify them with faith and repentance. And great is the happiness and honour that is to be found in fellowship with a reconciled God. The future return of the Jewish nation to the Lord shall be a delightful and glorious season to them; and even to us Gentiles it will be as life from the dead; we shall share and rejoice in their mercies. God's manifestation of his special love, and his renovation of our heart, shall qualify and induce us and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.

16 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleep with thy fathers; and this people will rise up, and go a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land whither they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

17 Then "my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall befall them; so that they will say in that day, 'Are not these evils come upon us because our God is not among us?'

18 And I will surely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye "this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: "put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for me against the children of Israel.

20 For when I shall have brought them into the land which I swore unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it shall come to pass, when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall testify against them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed: for "I know their imagination which they go about, even now before I have brought them into the land which I swear.

22 Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel.

23 ¶ And he gave Joshua the son of Nun a charge, and said, "Be strong and of a good courage: for "thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I swear unto them; and I will be with thee.

24 ¶ And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished,

25 That Moses commanded the Levites, who bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying, 26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the LORD; and how much more after my death?

28 Gather unto me "all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record against them.

29 For I know that "after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and "evil will befall you in the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

CHAP. XXXII.

Contains (1) Moses' instructive song, in which, after a short preface, solemnly marking its importance, 1, 2. We have 1. The honourable character of God, contrasted with the infamous one of the Israelites; 3—6; 2. The past and future kindness of God contrasted with their contemptuous, rebellious, and idolatrous carriage towards him; 7—21; 3. Predictions of fearful judgments to be inflicted upon them for their sins, and of God's gracious limitation thereof; 19—33; 4. Promises of their deliverance, and of their enemies' destruction at last; 34—43. [This song corresponds much with chap. xxviii. xxx. or Lev. xxvi.; and is a compendious view of the prosperity, sins, judgments and deliverances, of the Jewish nation, from the time of Moses till the end of the world.] (2) The solemn exhortation with which Moses delivered this song into the hand of the elders of Israel; 44—47. (3) That very day God reminds Moses of his sin at Meribah, and orders him to ascend mount Nebo, and die there; 48—52.

GIVE ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.

2 My doctrine shall drop as the rain; my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass:

4 He is "the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he.

5 "They have corrupted themselves; "their spot is not the spot of his children: they are a perverse and crooked generation.

6 "Do ye thus requite the LORD, O foolish people and unwise? is not he thy father that hath bought thee? hath he not made thee, and established thee?

7 ¶ Remember the days of old; consider the years of many generations: ask thy father, and he will shew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee.

8 When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of Adam, he set "the bounds of the people according to the number of the children of Israel.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXI.—It highly becomes ministers, or others, to exert themselves to their utmost, that their church and nation may be happy after their death: and when they become more active in the Lord's work as their end approaches, and wish others the happy enjoyment of that comfort and honour which God hath denied to themselves, it is both honourable to the cause of God, and strengthening to his people. Great pains ought to be taken to make those of the present or rising generations to understand, believe, and obey, God's word: and certain is our success when God is our assistant, and we do nothing but what he has commanded. And, the more experience we have of gospel liberty, the more shall we delight to hear and obey him. God graciously warns men of their sin and danger before it come upon them; yet so desperate is the wickedness of men, that they ruin themselves by their apostacy from God, after their own vows, and the most solemn and often-repeated warnings of God and his faithful ministers. These exactly correspond together in discovering the sure consequences of sin, and leave the blame of their ruin entirely upon themselves. It is necessary therefore that God's truths be laid up in men's heart and conscience, that they may hear, and fear, and do no more wickedly.

10 He ^hfound him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness: he ^sled him about, he instructed him, he kept him as the ^aapple of his eye.

11 ^pAs an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings;

12 So ^tthe LORD alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him.

13 He made him ^ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increase of the fields; and he made him to ^ssuck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock:

14 Butter of kine, and milk of sheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, with the ^ffat of kidneys of wheat; and thou didst drink the ^ppure blood of the grape.

15 ¶ But ^sJeshurun ^wwaxed fat, ^zand kicked: thou art waxed fat, thou art grown thick, thou art ^acovered with fatness; then he forsook God who made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation.

16 They ^bprovoked him to jealousy with strange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger.

17 They sacrificed unto ^cdevils ⁿnot to God; to gods whom they knew not, to new gods that came newly up, whom your fathers feared not.

18 Of ^tthe Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten God that formed thee.

19 ¶ And ^when the LORD saw it he ^tabhorred them, because of the provoking of his sons and of his daughters.

20 And he said, ⁱI will hide my face from them, I will see what their end shall be: for they are a ^svery froward generation, children in whom is no faith.

21 They have ^mmoved me to jealousy with that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities: and ⁱI will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.

22 For a ^kfire is kindled in mine anger, and ^tshall burn unto the lowest hell, and ^sshall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 I will ^hheap mischiefs upon them; I will spend mine arrows upon them.

24 They shall be ^mburnt with hunger, and devoured with ^sburning heat, and with bitter destruction: I will ^aalso send the teeth of beasts upon them, with the poison of serpents of the dust.

25 The ^sword without, and terror ^within, shall ^tdestroy both the young man and the virgin, the suckling also, with the man of gray hairs.

26 I said, ^pI would scatter them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to cease from among men;

27 Were it not ^tthat I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest their adversaries should behave themselves strangely, and lest they should say, ^tOur hand is high, and the LORD hath not done all this.

28 For they are a ^rnation void of counsel, neither is there any understanding in them.

29 ^o That they were wise, that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end!

30 How should ^one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight, except their rock ^had sold them, and the LORD had shut them up?

31 For ^ttheir rock is not as our Rock, even our enemies themselves being judges.

32 For their vine ⁱs of the vine of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their clusters are bitter:

33 Their wine is the poison of dragons, and the cruel venom of asps.

34 Is ⁿot this laid up in store with me, and sealed up among my treasures?

35 ^tTo me belongeth vengeance and recompense; their foot shall slide in due time; for the day of their calamity is at hand, and the things that shall come upon them ^make haste.

36 For ^tthe LORD shall judge his people, and repent himself for his servants, when he seeth that ^ttheir ^spower is gone, and there is none shut up or left.

37 And he shall say, ^where are their gods, their rock in whom they trusted,

38 Who did eat the fat of their sacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings? let them rise up and help you, and be ^your protection, 39 See now that I, even I, am ^hhe, and there is no god with me: ^sI kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.

40 For ⁱI lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever.

41 If I ^whet my glittering sword, and mine hand take hold on judgment; ⁱI will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me.

42 I will make mine arrows ^drun with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh; and that with the blood of the slain and of the captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy.

43 ^tRejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 ¶ And Moses came and ^spoke all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he and ^hHoshea the son of Nun.

45 And Moses made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel:

46 And he said unto them, ^sSet your hearts unto all the words which I testify among you this day, which ye shall command your children to observe to do, all the words of this law.

47 For it is ^anot a vain thing for you; because it is your life: and through this thing ye shall prolong your days in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

48 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses that self-same day, saying,

49 'Get thee up into this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over against Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession:

50 And die in the mount whither thou goest up, and be ^agathered unto thy people; as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people:

51 Because ^aye trespassed against me among the children of Israel at the waters of ^aMeribah-kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin; because ye sanctified me not in the midst of the children of Israel.

52 Yet thou shalt ^asee the land before thee; but thou shalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXXIII.

After preaching to the Israelites a long farewell sermon, and giving them a long admonitory psalm, Moses here finally dismisses them with a solemn blessing. (1) He declares them blessed in what God had already done for them; particularly in his love to them, his protection of them, and giving them his law: 1—5. (2) He pronounces a particular blessing upon each tribe, the Simeonites excepted; which was at once a prayer for them, and a prediction of what should befall them; 6—25. (3) He declares them blessed in what God would be to them, and do for them, while they continued obedient; 26—29.

AND this is the ^ablessing wherewith Moses the ^bman of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.

2 And he said, ^cThe LORD came from Sinai, and rose up from Seir unto them; he shined forth from mount Paran, and he came ^dwith ten thousands of saints: from his right hand went ^ea fiery law for them.

3 Yea, he ^floved the people; all his saints ^gare in thy hand: and they sat down ^hat thy feet; every one shall receive of thy words.

4 Moses commanded us a law, even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.

5 And he was ⁱking in ^jJeshurun when the heads of the people and the tribes of Israel were gathered together.

6 ¶ Let Reuben live, and not die; and let ^knot his men be few.

7 ¶ And this is the blessing of Judah: and he said, ^lHear, LORD, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let his hands be sufficient for him; and be thou an help to him from his enemies.

8 ¶ And of Levi he said, ^mLet thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy ⁿholy one, whom thou didst prove at Massah, and with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;

9 Who ^osaid unto his father and to his mother, I have not seen him; neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children: for they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant.

10 ^pThey shall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Israel thy law: ^qthey shall put incense before thee, and whole burnt-sacrifice upon thine altar.

11 Bless, LORD, his ^rsubstance, and accept the work of his hands: ^ssmite through the loins of them that rise against him, and of them that hate him, that they rise not again.

12 ¶ And of Benjamin he said, The beloved of the LORD shall ^tdwell in safety by him; and the LORD shall cover him all the day long, and he shall dwell between his shoulders.

13 ¶ And of Joseph he said, ^uBlessed of the LORD be his land, for the precious things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath,

14 And for the precious fruits brought forth by the sun, and for the precious things ^vsput forth by the ^wmoon,

15 And ^xfor the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the lasting hills,

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXII.—In the most serious and solemn manner ought ministers to deliver the truths of God to their people: and terrible will be the judgment of despisers of them when both heaven and earth shall witness against them. How great, how unalterable, how faithful, holy, and just, is God! and how perfect, wise, and righteous, are all his works! But how ungrateful, disobedient, and apostatizing, are many of his professed children! It is necessary therefore to ponder both the character of God and our own to prevent our sinning, to draw instructions from ancient records, and that children should receive information from their fathers, who are more acquainted with them. But while I behold God preparing a country for the Israelites as his peculiar people, marvellously conducting them to it through the Arabian deserts, subduing the land before them, and enriching them with the product of it, let me think of the great wonder of redemption, of God's preparing it for men, and bringing them now to the begun and hereafter to the full enjoyment of it. But surely most vile is the ingratitude of men who render him hatred for his love, cursing for his blessing! Yet much more aggravated is the wickedness of professors, and especially saints, than that of mere heathens. The Lord highly abominates all sin. And righteous are all his judgments of desertion, sword, famine, or pestilence, nay, of utter and everlasting destruction. But his mercy waits long: he is unwilling to inflict judgments on his people, and to give his enemies any cause of triumph over them, even when they have provoked him to the most shocking degree. And earnestly he wills that their serious consideration should prevent their ruin. Seasonable, gracious, and wonderful, have, and shall be, God's deliverances of his ancient people from the nations which harassed, murdered, or carried them captive: and terrible his judgments on their destroyers, particularly the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Greeks, Romans, Antichristians, and others. But how much more remarkable the new covenant deliverances of the saints, and terrible the destruction of their implacable enemies! How remarkable the joy of their souls, whether they be Jews or Gentiles, when they behold it! Happy is it when ministers, young and old, fully harmonize in the work of the Lord; and when they are so intent upon commending Jesus and his ways, that they must be as it were half forced from it, even into the joy of their Lord! But God finds it frequently necessary to remind his people of their sins, and warn them of their death, while he assures them of his reconciliation to their souls.

CHAP. XXXIII. Ver. 6—25. In Lev. xxvi. and chap. iv. 25—31. xxviii. xxix. 18—28. xxx. xxxi. 16—21, 29. and xxxii. the general fate of the Israelites has been predicted: here that of the particular tribes is foretold, in a manner answerable to the blessings of the patriarch Jacob; Gen. xlix. viz. that, notwithstanding internal weakness, and much harassment from enemies, the Reubenites should be preserved; that the descendants of Judah should have their prayers heard, their warfare successful, their labours prosperous, and should enjoy peace and safety: that the Levites, who had acted so disinterestedly in punishing the principal worshippers of the golden calf, should be the honoured ministers of God, and useful instructors and judges of the people: that the Benjamites should enjoy much divine protection, and live near to the temple of God: that the descendants of Joseph should enjoy great favour from God, noted plenty from their fields, and great power and authority among their brethren: that the men of Zebulun in their sea-faring trade, and those of Issachar in their husbandry, should enjoy much comfort to themselves, and be remarkable promoters of a religious attendance on God's solemn feasts: that the Gadites should enlarge their territory, punish their enemies, and faithfully assist their brethren in conquering Canaan: that the Danites should unexpectedly seize on Laish, near the springs of Jordan, and under Samson molest the Philistines: that the Naphtalites, when stationed on the west of the sea of Tiberias, should have most fertile fields, and their country be peculiarly blessed with the ministrations of Christ: and that the Asherites should mightily increase, live in noted friendship with their brethren, and have valuable mines of iron and brass in their territory.

18 ¶ And of Zebulun he said, 'Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out; and Issachar in thy tents.

19 They shall call the people unto the mountain; there they shall offer sacrifices of righteousness: for they shall suck of the abundance of the seas, and of treasures hid in the sand.

20 ¶ And of Gad he said, 'Blessed be he that enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, and teareth the arm with the crown of the head.

21 And he provided the first part for himself, because there, in a portion of the lawgiver, was he seated; and he came with the heads of the people, he executed the justice of the LORD, and his judgments with Israel.

22 ¶ And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp: he shall leap from Bashan.

23 ¶ And of Naphtali he said, O Naphtali, 'satisfied with favour, and full with the blessing of the LORD; possess thou the west and the south.

24 ¶ And of Asher he said, Let Asher be blessed with children; let him be acceptable to his brethren, and let him dip his foot in oil.

25 ¶ Thy shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days so shall thy strength be.

26 ¶ There is none like unto the God of Jeshurun, who rideth upon the heaven in thy help, and in his excellency on the sky.

27 The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms: and he shall thrust out the enemy from before thee; and shall say, Destroy them.

28 Israel then shall dwell in safety alone: the fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine; also his heavens shall drop down dew.

29 Happy art thou, O Israel: who is like unto thee, O people saved by the LORD, the shield of thy help, and who is the sword of thy excellency! and thine enemies shall be found liars unto thee, and thou shalt tread upon their high places.

CHAP. XXXIV.

In the preceding part of this book we have had an account of Moses' dying word. Here we have an account of his dying work, and which was probably written by Joshua, or Eleazar the high-priest, or by Samuel. Here is (1) The view which Moses obtained of Canaan just before his death; 1—4. (2) An account of his death, burial, age, and character; 5—7, 10—12. (3) Of the Israelites' mourning for him, and Joshua's succeeding him; 8, 9.

AND Moses went up from the plains of Moab unto the mountain of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, that is over against Jericho: and the LORD shewed him all the land of Gilead, unto Dan,

2 And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea,

3 And the south, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm-trees, unto Zoar.

4 And the LORD said unto him, 'This is the land which I swore unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed: I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go over thither.

5 ¶ So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

6 ¶ And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor: but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

7 ¶ And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated.

8 ¶ And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days: so the days of weeping and mourning for Moses were ended.

9 ¶ And Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Moses had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moses.

10 ¶ And there arose not a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face;

11 In all the signs and the wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land, 12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moses shewed in the sight of all Israel.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXIII.—The people of God are a peculiar and chosen generation: safe in the hand of their God, from whence none can pluck them; taught of God, and sweetly constrained to receive and obey his instructions; and privileged with the law of God, sounded in their ears, and written on their hearts. Unbounded blessings are with God for them; blessings suited to every tribe, every station in life, whether warriors, ministers, sailors, husbandmen, miners; blessings suited to every relation, and to every change of circumstance. And who can express their blessedness who have God's law for their rule, God's land for their residence, and God himself for their helper, refuge, Saviour, shield, portion, and infinite ALL! It is happy to be separated from the world, in order to enjoy him. But it is ravishing to leave this world quite transported with the glorious excellencies of God in Christ, and of our new covenant interest in him, to behold his face, and to enter upon the unaviled, uninterrupted, enjoyment of him in glory.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXIV.—Happy and honoured is the last end of such as have been active and faithful for God in their generation; and their death would be an irremediable loss to churches and nations if the all-sufficient Jesus did not supply their room. But precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints, and he makes it pleasant and joyful to them, when ushered in with views of the King in his beauty, and of the land that is afar off.

But let me not dismiss this wonderful man of God; this deliverer and leader of his people; this mediator between God and Israel; this extraordinary prophet, occasional priest; this lawgiver, and king in Jeshurun; till I consider him as a noted figure in my infinitely more glorious and useful Redeemer. He was a proper, a divine child, early and often exposed to danger. O the exile, the reproach, the contradiction of sinners, the persecution even unto death, which he endured! and how divine his support under his unnumbered trials! How amiable his qualities!—his contempt of the world, in its pleasures, honours, or riches!—his compassion and tender regard to his injurious brethren!—his amazing meekness!—his distinguished fidelity!—his prudence, boldness, and holy zeal! Solemn and express was his call to his work: and by a multitude of miracles in favour of his people, and with the most tremendous destruction of his Jewish, heathen, Antichristian, and other enemies, has that call been confirmed. Extensive is the office to which God has appointed him. He is the almighty Deliverer, who rescues us from the worse than Egyptian slavery of sin, Satan, and the world; and of heathenism and popery. He is the all-sufficient Provider, who bestows upon us spiritual entertainment, hidden manna, living water, and unchanging robes of righteousness. He is the leader given to the people, who opens a safe passage through every Red sea of difficulty; and by power and prayer subdues every opposer; and brings us not merely to the borders, but to the full enjoyment, of our promised, evangelical, new covenant, and eternal rest. Nor can their murmuring, unbelief, or rebellion, ever

J O S H U A.

By whom this book was written; whether by Joshua, Phinehas, or some other; we cannot determine: but it represents God's fulfilment of his promises to the patriarchs and their descendants, in giving them the land of Canaan; and the fulfilment of Noah's curse upon Canaan, in the destruction and slavery of his descendants. It relates what was transacted by Joshua, as governor of Israel; particularly how God confirmed his call, and encouraged him to his work; his sending spies to view Jericho; the miraculous passage through Jordan, and erecting memorials of it; his sanctification of the people, by their circumcision and eating the passover, i.—v.; his miraculous conquest of Jericho, and severe punishment of Achan's theft of the spoil, vi. vii.; his conquest of Bethel and Ai, and league with the Gibeonites, viii. ix.; his conquest of the south part of Canaan, and causing the sun to stand still, x.; his conquest of the northern parts of that country, xi.; an account of Canaan, xii.—xiv.; his division of it to the nine tribes and an half; his appointment of cities of refuge, and of cities to the Levites, xv.—xxi.; his kind dismissal of the Reubenites and Gadites, xxii.; his solemn admonitions to the people, and renewal of their covenant with God; and, in fine, his death and burial, xxiii. xxiv.

CHAP. I.

Here (1) God confirms Joshua as Moses's successor in the government of Israel; gives him an ample commission, full instruction, and abundant encouragement, to put the Israelites in possession of Canaan; 1—9. (2) Joshua cheerfully accepts the charge, and appoints the officers of the people to prepare them for the passage through Jordan; and that the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites, fit for war, should go along with them, and assist in the conquest of Canaan; 10—15. (3) All the tribes declare their acceptance of him for their governor, and solemnly promise subjection; 16—18.

NOW, after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD, it came to pass that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying,

2 Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel.

3 ¶ Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses.

4 From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast.

5 ¶ There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

6 ^hBe strong and of a good courage: for ^{*}unto this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land which I swear unto their fathers to give them.

7 Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee: ^{*}turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest.

8 ^mThis book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success.

9 ⁿHave not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for ^othe LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

10 ¶ Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying,

11 Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for ^pwithin three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which ^qthe LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

provoke him to forsake those who have been given to him by his father. He is the Mediator between God and men, with whom the covenant of grace is made; and who confirms it with many by the shedding and sprinkling of his blood. He had his Father's law in his heart, fulfilled it for us, and gives it to us as our rule. He not only fasted and prayed, but died for a stiff-necked and rebellious people. He infallibly prevents our utter rejection. He is the incomparable Prophet, who knows the full mind of God, and can teach us by the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, and make us wise unto salvation. He speaks as never man did. He is the brightness of his Father's glory, and the express image of his person, which we can behold, and be familiar with, only as veiled with our nature. He is our glorious Priest, who shed his blood, and sprinkled it on the altar, to satisfy JEHOVAH's justice; and on the book of the law as a covenant, fulfilling it in our stead; and he sprinkles it on his people's conscience, to purge them from dead works to serve the living God. He authorises all the true ministers of the church, and consecrates the saints as spiritual priests, and all the ordinances thereof, unto the service of God. He is King and Lawgiver to his Israel indeed, appointing the whole form and ordinances of his church; and to him is the whole government thereof committed by God. His whole life was remarkable for fidelity in the service of God, and his death was marvellous and voluntary. His grave was appointed of God, but in it he saw no corruption; and with him were buried all the ancient ceremonies, the law as a covenant, and all the sins of his people.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—God keeps up an honourable remembrance of faithful servants. And it is a comfort to the church that, though her ministers die, Jesus her Redeemer lives to provide others in their room. But those who have behaved well in an inferior station, will in general, and ought to be advanced to an higher. Certainly and seasonably, however slowly, the promises of God are fulfilled at last, with respect to every thing temporal or eternal; nor need we fear to proceed in the most difficult work if God promise to us his presence and assistance. When he is pleased to work, none can let it. But, as

12 ¶ And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying, 13 Remember 'the word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, The LORD your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall pass before your brethren ^aarmed, all 'the mighty men of valour, and help them;

15 "Until the LORD hath given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed ^xthe land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD's servant gave you on this side Jordan toward the sun-rising.

16 ¶ And they answered Joshua, saying, 'All that thou commandest us we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: ^zonly the LORD thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses.

18 ^aWhosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him, he shall be put to death: only ^bbe strong and of a good courage.

CHAP. II.

Relates (1) How Joshua sent spies to view Jericho; and how Rahab received and protected them, and told her countrymen a lie for their safety; 1—7. (2) The account she gave of the panic wherewith the Canaanites were seized upon the Israelites' approach; 8—11. (3) The agreement she made with the spies for her own and her friends' preservation when the city should be destroyed; 12—21. (4) The safe return of the spies to Joshua and report of their travels; 22—24.

AND Joshua the son of Nun sent out of ^aShittim two men to ^bspy secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and ^ccame into an harlot's house named Rahab, and lodged there.

2 And it was ^dtold the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in hither to-night of the children of Israel to search out the country.

3 And the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house; for they be come to search out all the country.

4 And the ^ewoman took the two men, and hid them, and said thus, There came men unto me, but ^fI wist not whence they were:

5 And it came to pass about the time of shutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went I wot not: pursue after them quickly, for ye shall overtake them.

6 But she had brought them up to ^gthe roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof.

7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords: and, as soon as they who pursued after them were gone out, they ^hshut the gate.

8 ¶ And before they were laid down she came up unto them upon the roof;

9 And she said unto the men, I know that ⁱthe LORD hath given you the land, and that your ^kterror is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land ^lfaint because of you:

10 For we have heard ^mhow the LORD dried up the water of the Red Sea for you when ye came out of Egypt; and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites that were on the other side Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly destroyed.

11 And as soon as we had heard these things ⁿour hearts did melt, neither ^odid there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for the LORD your God ^phe is God in heaven above and in earth beneath.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, swear unto me by the LORD, since ^qI have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness ^runto my father's house; and give me a token:

13 And that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have; and deliver our lives from death.

14 And the men answered her, Our life ^sfor yours, if ye utter not this our business. And it shall be, ^twhen the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

15 Then she ^ulet them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town wall, and she dwelt upon the wall.

16 And she said unto them, ^vGet ye to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.

17 And the men said unto her, We will be ^wblameless of this thine oath which thou hast made us swear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread, in the window which thou didst let us down by; and thou shalt ^xbring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy father's household, home unto thee.

19 And it shall be, that whosoever ^yshall go out of the doors of thy house into the street, ^zhis blood shall be upon his head, and we will be guiltless: and whosoever shall be with thee in the house, we must live by the word of God, so we must work and war by it; and, being once called and encouraged of God, we ought with the utmost readiness to set about our work. God can quickly bow the hearts of all such as are necessary to assist us therein. And it is delightful when magistrates, ministers, and people, concur in their regard to, and dependence on, God; and when subjects are no less cheerful in their obedience than rulers are exact in commanding what is lawful.

CHAP. III.

Relates the miraculous passage of the Israelites from Shittim to Gilgal. (1) By Joshua's order they march close up to the east side of the river Jordan; 1. (2) After three days rest they are commanded to sanctify themselves, and to march after the ark, which the priests were to carry along before them; 2-6. (3) Encouraged of God, Joshua animates the people with a hope of a miraculous passage into Canaan, as a pledge of their possessing it; 7-13. (4) While the ark of the Lord is carried before the tribes, the river Jordan, though now overflowing all its banks, divides its streams, and opens a free passage into Canaan; 14-17.

AND Joshua ^arose early in the morning; and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they passed over.

ungodly, will urge us to save ourselves from among them: and the lives that are jeopardied for Christ's service shall be secured by his mercy. But the most prudent means ought to be used for our safety, even while we trust our all to God and his redeeming grace. And God can easily make such as are weak encouragers of his strong saints.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Let us always press forward in the way of our duty, notwithstanding foreseen difficulties attending it. And, when we have done our utmost, the Lord can step in and clear our passage. Let us follow his word as our guide, and our way will be right. But let us always set Jesus the ark of the covenant, before us, by faith depend on him, and with due reverence follow his example; and, if we cannot get rid of our sins, let us detest them. Let ministers go before others, as he-goats before the flock; and, though they should be more exposed than others, that Christ, whose name they bear in their ministrations, shall be their protection: for God highly honours those that honour him: and those who are comforted and encouraged of God should encourage and strengthen their brethren. In the moment of difficulty the Lord will be seen. The greatness of the difficulty shall but the more magnify the power of God in overcoming it. And Christ will be the protection of his people in trouble or death, till they be all clean passed over into Canaan above! 1

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—Proper means and prudent caution must never be neglected, when we trust God with the success of our enterprises. Even the best and greatest rulers must see with other people's eyes. And it is a great mercy to a nation when those to whom interesting affairs are committed are persons of fidelity and diligence. The grace of God can easily change the most scandalous sinner into a choice saint and a strong believer; and such as firmly believe will risk all for God. Nor must we reject them as reprobates who are guilty of some very condemnable actions: there may be true and justifying faith where much corruption still works. But it is hard to get rid of a bad character when once fixed, even by repentance and amendment: and that remaining budge of our shame ought to excite us to frequent and bitter sorrow for the sin which occasioned it. God can easily send his terrors to the hearts of his enemies, so that the boldest shall tremble: and often sinners' frights are presages of their fall. But the faith of God's promises will powerfully influence a person to a regard for the people of God, even at the expence of natural affections. And, when we cannot prevent the ruin of our city or nation, we ought cautiously to provide for the safety of ourselves and kindred. And all agreements, especially such as concern life and death, ought to be made with the greatest exactness. We must never mingle with the world, which lieth in wickedness, if we would not be condemned with it. Faith, which foresees the ruin of the

CHAP. IV.

Here we have (1) Orders given to the twelve men whom Joshua had prepared to carry twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan's channel, where the ark had rested; and other twelve are set up in that spot, as a memorial of the Lord's dividing the river; 1-9. (2) The people having marched through Jordan, the Reubenites and Gadites in the front, when the priests who bare the ark come out, the waters flowed again in their wonted manner; 10-19. (3) The twelve stones brought up out of Jordan are erected at Gilgal, as a monument of this marvellous passage; 20-24.

AND it came to pass, when all the people were clean passed over Jordan, that the LORD spake unto Joshua, saying,

2 Take ye twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man,

3 And command ye them, saying, Take ye hence out of the midst of Jordan, out of the place where the priests' feet stood firm, twelve stones, and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging-place where ye shall lodge this night.

4 Then Joshua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe a man;

5 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel:

6 That this may be a sign among you, that when your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones?

7 Then ye shall answer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it passed over Jordan the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever.

8 And the children of Israel did so as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, as the LORD spake unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests which bare the ark of the covenant stood: and they are there unto this day.

10 For the priests who bare the ark stood in the midst of Jordan until every thing was finished that the LORD commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua: and the people hastened and passed over.

then I expect a noted appearance of God for my relief, let me make solemn preparation for it, separating myself from every sinful lust and carnal care. Always seeking the honour which cometh from above, let me improve God's present manifestations of power and love as pledges of more, nay, of eternal and immediate enjoyment of him. Let no occasional advantage, gained by the opposition made to my happiness, or to the church of God, dismay me; for the Lord sits King upon the floods, and is mightier than the noise of many waters.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—No care or labour of our own should ever hinder us from that which tends to the immediate honour of God, and the commemoration of his wonderful works. And, if not one Israelite, however feeble, perish in trouble or in death, surely it becomes all to keep his mighty works in everlasting remembrance. Never let us hunt after pomp or finery in our me-

16 Command the priests that bear the ark of the testimony, that they come up out of Jordan.

17 Joshua therefore commanded the priests, saying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

18 And it came to pass, when the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD were come up out of the midst of Jordan, and the soles of the priests' feet were lifted up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned unto their place, and flowed over all his banks, as they did before.

19 And the people came up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and encamped in Gilgal, in the east border of Jericho.

20 And those twelve stones, which they took out of Jordan, did Joshua pitch in Gilgal.

21 And he spake unto the children of Israel, saying, When your children shall ask their fathers in time to come, saying, What mean these stones?

22 Then ye shall let your children know, saying, Israel came over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the LORD your God dried up the waters of Jordan from before you until ye were passed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red sea, which he dried up from before us until we were gone over:

24 That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty: that ye might fear the LORD your God for ever.

CHAP. V.

The Israelites having just entered Canaan, in order to conquer it, the Lord (1) Dispirits their Canaanitish enemies; 1. (2) Animates the Israelites, by renewing the long-interrupted covenant of circumcision; 2-9. (3) By feasting them with his passover, which had not been kept during the preceding thirty-eight years; 10. (4) By victualling their camp with corn of Canaan, and morials, for God has chosen the weak and foolish things of this world to confound all earthly glory. Let every accommodation, even in outward things, render us forward and exemplary in duty. If we be called forth to God's work, we may cheerfully leave all our worldly concerns behind us: and if we have God's presence with us we need not be weary, nor doubt but we shall safely land at last: for, though the years of our pilgrimage should be many and sorrowful, they have an appointed end: let us therefore never hurry out of danger till our work in it be finished. But, whatever perilous work God allots to us, let us go through it with proper dispatch, never with unbelieving haste: and let us always honour those whom God honours by his providence. The religious inquiries of young people should be encouraged and gratified to the uttermost. If we wish them wise when they are old, they ought to be inquisitive when they are young. But, if we wish our present mercies to be doubly sweetened, let us compare them with our former ones.

AND it came to pass, when ^aall the kings of the Amorites which were on the side of Jordan westward, and all the kings of the Canaanites which were by the sea, ^bheard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Israel until we were passed over, that their heart melted, neither was there spirit in them any more, because of the children of Israel.

2 ¶ At that time the LORD said unto Joshua, Make thee ^csharp knives, and ^dcircumcise again the children of Israel the second time.

3 And Joshua made him sharp knives, and circumcised the children of Israel at ^ethe hill of the foreskins.

4 And this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise: All the people that came out of Egypt, that were males, even ^fall the men of war, died in the wilderness by the way after they came out of Egypt.

5 Now all the people that came out were circumcised: but ^gall the people that were born in the wilderness by the way as they came forth out of Egypt, them they ^hhad not circumcised.

6 For the children of Israel walked ⁱforty years in the wilderness, till all the people that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were consumed, because they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: unto whom the LORD swore that ^jhe would not shew them the land which the LORD ^kswore unto their fathers that he would give us, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

7 And their children, whom ^lhe raised up in their stead, them Joshua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they had not circumcised them by the way.

8 And it came to pass, ^mwhen they had done circumcising all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp till they were whole.

9 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day have I rolled away the ⁿreproach of Egypt from off you. Wherefore the name of the place is called ^oGilgal unto this day.

10 ¶ And the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and ^pkept the passover on the fourteenth day of the month at even in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they did eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow after the passover ^qunleavened cakes, and parched corn in the self-same day.

12 ¶ And the manna ^rceased on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land; neither had the children of Israel manna any more: ^sbut they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

13 ¶ And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he ^tlifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there stood ^ua man over against him with his sword drawn in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us or for our adversaries?

14 And he said, Nay; but as ^vcaptain of the host of the LORD am I now come. And Joshua ^wfell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, ^xWhat saith my LORD unto his servant?

15 And the captain of the LORD's host said unto Joshua, ^yLoose thy shoe from off thy foot, for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so.

CHAP. VI.

The Canaanites of Jericho trusting their safety to the strength of their walls, we have here (1) The direction which Christ, as Captain of the Hebrew host, gave to Joshua for the extraordinary siege of that city, and Joshua's report of it to the people; 1—7. (2) The trial of the Israelites' patience in walking round it six days, and six times on the seventh, without any apparent success; 8—15. (3) The miraculous delivery of it into their hands on the seventh day; and a direction to use it, and every thing in it, as a thing devoted under a curse to the Lord; 15—21, 24. (4) The preservation of Rahab and her relations, according to her late agreement with the spies; 22—25. (5) Joshua's denunciation of a curse upon the man who should dare to rebuild this city; 26, 27.

NOW Jericho ^zwas straitly shut up ^{aa}because of the children of Israel: none went out, and none came in.

2 ¶ And the ^bLORD said unto Joshua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye shall ^ccompass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once: thus shalt thou do six days.

4 And seven priests shall bear before the ark ^dseven trumpets of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets.

5 And it shall come to pass, that, ^ewhen they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, ^fall the people shall shout with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down ^gflat, and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him.

6 ¶ And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, ^hTake up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear ⁱseven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he said unto ^jthe people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the LORD.

8 ¶ And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on ^kbefore the LORD, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

must prepare his people for their spiritual warfare. Such then as would courageously fight his battles should first solemnly devote themselves to him, and act faith upon him, in the use of his sacraments, but let us use the gospel manna while we have it; the time is at hand when it shall be no more offered; and let us never expect extraordinary supplies when ordinary can be had. But, if Jesus appear for our direction or encouragement in doubtful or perilous circumstances, let us entertain his visits with the utmost reverence, purity, and the readiest obedience.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—Sad is the case of those against whom the Lord is come up as an enemy. How can their hearts be courageous, or their hands be strong? Even his secret terrors can bring them into the agonies of death. The sins of parents, often in a fearful manner, bereave their children of the seals of God's covenant, or their happy virtue: but his mercy can remove the reproach and plague in his time. And by circumcision of their hearts, by feasting them on the flesh and blood of his Son, by giving them foretaste of the heavenly joys, and manifestations of himself as their leader and protector, he the priests that blew with the trumpets, and the rereward came after the ark, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout, nor make any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout.

11 So the ark of the LORD compassed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took up the ark of the LORD.

13 And seven priests, bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them; but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the second day they compassed the city once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven times: only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

16 And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout; for the LORD hath given you the city.

17 And the city shall be accursed, even it and all that are therein, to the LORD: only Rahab the harlot shall live; she and all that are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent.

18 And ye, in any wise keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it.

19 But all the silver and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are consecrated unto the LORD: they shall come into the treasury of the LORD.

20 So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him; and they took the city.

21 And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

22 But Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, Go into the harlot's house, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware unto her.

23 And the young men that were spies went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had; and they brought out all her kindred, and left them without the camp of Israel.

24 And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the silver and the gold, and the vessels of brass and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD.

25 And Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive, and her father's household, and all that she had; and she dwelleth in Israel even unto this day; because she hid the messengers which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 And Joshua adjured them at that time, saying, Cursed be the man before the LORD that riseth up and buildeth this city Jericho: he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it.

27 So the LORD was with Joshua; and his fame was noised throughout all the country.

CHAP. VII.

Often the most promising appearances had been blasted to the Israelites by their own wickedness: the golden calf at Horeb; the murmuring at Kadesh-barnea; the rebellion of Korah and his accomplices; and the iniquity of Peor; had broken their measures, and given them great disturbance. Here the sin of one man stops their conquests, and discourages their spirits. (1) Achan's covetous intermeddling with the devoted spoils of Jericho occasions a defeat by the men of Ai, whom they, through sloth or self-confidence, made but little account of; Israel is dismayed; 1—5. (2) Joshua, not without a mixture of murmuring, humbly remonstrates to God as to the danger which this defeat might occasion to Israel, and dishonour to himself; 6—9. (3) God intimates the sinful cause of his frown, and directs him to purge the congregation from it; 10—15. (4) Achan, the sacrilegious transgressor, is discovered by lot; and is tried, convicted, condemned, and executed, with all that pertained to him, for the expiation of his guilt; 16—26.

BUT the children of Israel committed a trespass in the accursed thing: for Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel.

2 And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spake unto them, saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai; and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few.

perstitutions, supported by all the principalities and powers of hell and earth! What in us is natural he purifies for his service; and what is sinful he devotes to irreparable ruin. Now must we murmur at the severity wherewith God executes his judgments; he is just and righteous in all his works. They that will harden their heart against him must, when too late, find their ruin inevitable. But certain and extensive is that salvation which is marked with the blood of the Son of God! In virtue hereof, such as were once infamous in wickedness become as noted in gifts and grace. Such as in this time of his grace submit to his terms of peace he will in no wise cast out; and their relations shall share of manifold mercies on their account. But dreadful and inevitable is the ruin of such as attempt to rear up what God in anger hath cast down, REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—God takes a peculiar pleasure in honouring his ministers and ordinances; in trying the faith and patience of his people at their setting forth in their spiritual warfare; and in shewing them that their success is not by human might or power, but by his Spirit. There is need therefore of patient perseverance in using the means of grace, though we see not their immediate good effect: for, if we follow God's ark, we shall speed at last, and see his salvation: and he can accomplish the most remarkable events by the weakest of instruments. By the bearing of Jesus' name, and proclaiming his gospel before sinful men, particularly on his sabbaths, what destruction is made of strong holds of inward corruptions, and high imaginations, deep-rooted customs, and laws of iniquity; of heathen and popish errors, idolatries, and su-

* Or wickedness.

1 Ver. 14. Ps.
101. 8.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men; and they fled before the men of Ai.

5 And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men: for they chased them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them in the going down: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

6 ¶ And Joshua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the eventide, he and the elders of Israel, and put dust upon their heads.

7 And Joshua said, Alas, O LORD God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? Would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan!

8 O LORD, what shall I say when Israel turneth their backs before their enemies!

9 For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it, and shall environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do unto thy great name?

10 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Get thee up; wherefore sleepest thou thus upon thy face?

11 Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded them: for they have even taken of the accursed thing, and have also stolen, and dissembled also, and they have put it even among their own stuff.

12 Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they were accursed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy the accursed from among you.

13 Up, sanctify the people, and say, Sanctify yourselves against to-morrow: for thus saith the LORD God of Israel, There is an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies until ye take away the accursed thing from among you.

14 In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which the LORD taketh shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the LORD shall take shall come by households; and the household which the LORD shall take shall come man by man.

15 And it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: because he hath transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath wrought folly in Israel.

16 ¶ So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarahites: and he brought the family of the Zarahites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

18 And he brought his household man by man; and Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 ¶ And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Israel, and make confession unto him; and tell me now what thou hast done; hide it not from me.

20 And Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done:

21 When I saw among the spoils a goodly Babylonish garment, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them; and, behold, they are hid in the earth in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it.

22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent; and, behold, it was hid in his tent, and the silver under it.

23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and laid them out before the LORD.

24 ¶ And Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, and the silver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his sons and his daughters, and his oxen, and his asses, and his sheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them to the valley of Achor.

25 And Joshua said, Why hast thou troubled us? the LORD shall trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones, and burned them with fire, after they had stoned them with stones.

26 And they raised over him a great heap of stones unto this day. So the LORD turned from the fierceness of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called The valley of Achor unto this day.

CHAP. VIII.

Their camp being purged, the Israelites return to their conquering work. (1) Directed and encouraged by God, Joshua takes Ai by ambuscade and by force; kills the inhabitants; hangs the king; and divides the spoil to his warriors; 1—29. (2) In obedience to the repeated charges of Moses his predecessor, the law is written on plastered stones at mount Ebal; and after diversified offerings to God, the blessings and curses are solemnly read by the priests, while the assembled tribes, from mount Gerizim and Ebal, solemnly declare their belief of and consent to the same; 30—35.

heart, a proper sorrow in such a state is highly becoming. With impartial care, and proper expedition, should ruinous scandals and crimes be inquired into, and animadverted upon, for the preservation of churches and nations. If we do not destroy sin it will destroy us. And it is mad to indulge ourselves in secret wickedness, when God can so easily bring it to light in the most public and shameful manner. It is desirable, yea, even hopeful, when criminals are brought to a candid and kindly confession of their sin: and yet it is necessary to have their punishment as public and striking as possible, that others may see, and hear, and fear to do such things: yea, in some cases to keep up the standing memorials of it.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—How terrible a sin is sacrilege, especially when it is presumptuously committed! It brings the most tremendous plagues upon persons and nations. One sinner often destroys much good; and becomes a plague to himself, and to the societies with which he is connected. But terrors of conscience will at last most surely attend indulged wickedness: and the attempts begun in sloth or self-confidence often issue in shame and despair. It is becoming, therefore, for the most courageous and intrepid to humble themselves under the mighty hand of God, and to tremble for fear of his displeasure. The choicest saints are too ready to be overmuch discouraged by the alarming frowns of God's providence; and in their anguish to utter words unadvised! and yet, when the honour of God, and the safety of his people, lie nearest their

AND the LORD said unto Joshua, "Fear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee, and arise, go up to Ai: see, ^bI have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land:

2 And thou shalt do to Ai and her king as thou didst unto Jericho and her king: only ^dthe spoil thereof, and the cattle thereof, shall ye take for a prey unto yourselves: lay thee ^ean ambush for the city behind it.

3 ¶ So Joshua arose, and ^fall the people of war, to go up against Ai: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away ^gby night.

4 And he commanded them, saying, Behold, ye shall lie ^hin wait against the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

5 And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it shall come to pass, when they come out against us, as at the first, ⁱthat we will flee before them.

6 (For they will come out after us) till we have ^jdrawn them from the city; for ^kthey will say, They flee before us as at the first: therefore we will flee before them.

7 Then ^lye shall rise up from the ambush, and seize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it shall be, when ye have taken the city, that ye shall ^mset the city on fire: according to the commandment of the LORD shall ye do. "See, I have commanded you.

9 ¶ Joshua therefore sent them forth: and they went to lie in ambush, and abode between ⁿBeth-el and Ai, on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joshua ^orose up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

12 And he took about ^pfive thousand men, and set them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side ^qof the city.

13 And when they had set the people, even all the host that was on the north of the city, and ^rtheir liers in wait on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

14 ¶ And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they hastened and rose up early, and ^sthe men of the city went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he ^tknew not that there were liers in ambush against him behind the city.

15 And Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them, and fled ^uby the way of the wilderness.

16 And all the people that were in Ai were called together to pursue after them: and they pursued after Joshua, and were ^vdrawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a ^wman left in Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel: and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

18 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua ^xstretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and hastened and set the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them they saw, and, behold, the ^ysmoke of the city ascended up to heaven; and they had no ^zpower to flee this way or that way: and the ^{aa}people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers.

21 And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai.

22 And the other issued out of the city against them; so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they smote them, so that they ^{ab}let none of them remain or escape.

23 ¶ And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24 And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sword until they were consumed, that all the Israelites ^{ac}returned unto Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword.

25 And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of ^{ad}Ai.

26 For Joshua ^{ae}drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 ^{af}Only the cattle and the spoil of that city Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the LORD which he commanded Joshua.

28 And Joshua burnt Ai, and made it an heap ^{ag}for ever, even a desolation unto this day.

29 And the king of Ai he ^{ah}hanged on a tree until eventide: and as soon as the sun was down Joshua commanded that they should take his carcase down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and ^{ai}raise thereon a great heap of stones, that remaineth unto this day.

30 ¶ Then Joshua ^{aj}built an altar unto the LORD God of Israel in mount Ebal, 31 As Moses the servant of the LORD commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the book of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lifted up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel.

33 And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark and on that side before the priests the Levites, who bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the stranger as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizzim, and half of them over against mount Ebal; as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel.

34 And afterwards he read all the words of the law, the blessings and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, with the women, and the little ones, and the strangers that were conversant among them.

CHAP. IX.

Here, (1) While most of the Canaanites form a confederacy against Israel, the Gibeonites, pretending to have come from a far country, and to have a remarkable regard for their God, obtain a covenant of safety, if not of friendship, with them; 1—15. (2) Having discovered the fraud, the common people of Israel are displeased with their princes for making the league: but the matter is adjusted to the satisfaction of all parties, by sparing the lives of the Gibeonites, according to the covenant made with them, and yet depriving them of their liberty, and condemning them to the most servile employment of God's tabernacle or temple, to punish their fraud; 16—27.

AND it came to pass, when all the kings which were on this side Jordan, in the hills, and in the valleys, and in all the coasts of the great sea over against Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, heard thereof;

2 That they gathered themselves together to fight with Joshua and with Israel with one accord.

3 And when the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done unto Jericho and to Ai,

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambassadors, and took old sacks upon their asses, and wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound up;

5 And old shoes and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them; and all the bread of their provision was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joshua unto the camp at Gilgal, and said unto him, and to the men of Israel, We be come from a far country: now therefore make ye a league with us.

7 And the men of Israel said unto the Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us; and how shall we make a league with you?

8 And they said unto Joshua, We are thy servants. And Joshua said unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye?

9 And they said unto him, From a very far country thy servants are come because of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt,

10 And all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, which was at Ashtaroth.

11 Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spake to us, saying, Take victuals with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants: therefore now make ye a league with us.

12 This our bread we took hot for our provision out of our houses on the day we came forth to go unto you; but now, behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy:

13 And these bottles of wine which we filled were new, and, behold, they be rent: and these our garments and our shoes are become old by reason of the very long journey.

14 And the men took of their victuals, and asked not counsel at the mouth of the LORD.

15 And Joshua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live: and the princes of the congregation sware unto them.

16 And it came to pass, at the end of three days after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Israel journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day. Now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation murmured against the princes.

19 But all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them.

20 This we will do to them; we will even let them live, lest wrath be upon

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—Learn, my soul, that whenever I put away the accursed thing I may expect comfort from God: and that such as honour God with the first-fruits of their substance are gainers at last; while those who greedily grasp the Lord's share become inconceivable losers: that all the people of God ought to strive together in their spiritual warfare: that prudence and caution are as necessary as strength to ensure success: that well-timed yielding procures victory, as well as pacifies great offences: and that divine assurances of success inspire men with courage and boldness, notwithstanding former disappointments. Let me here behold how God qualifies his armies, and infatuates his enemies. Short is the rejoicing of the wicked; and the prosperity of fools will destroy them. But they who fight the Lord's battles receive their glorious reward, when the end of ringleaders in presumptuous rebellion against the Lord is in shame and confusion.—Whatever then God requires me to do, let me do it with all my might. Never let my covenanting with God be deferred till I am settled in the world: and let no carnal concern hinder my regard to the one thing needful. If I am in the way of my duty God will grant me special protection. While I serve God with his own, and depend on the atonement of his Son as the foundation of all my reconciliation and relation to him, and fellowship with him—while I heartily believe and consent to his will—let me do every thing in his worship exactly according to his prescriptions; and be careful that my wife, children, and servants, be acquainted with his word, and attending on his worship, as well as myself.

us, because of the oath which we swore unto them.

21 And the princes said unto them, Let them live; but let them be hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation; as the princes had promised them.

22 ¶ And Joshua called for them, and he spake unto them, saying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, saying, We are very far from you; when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are cursed, and there shall none of you be freed from being bond-men, and hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God.

24 And they answered Joshua and said, Because it was certainly told thy servants how that the LORD thy God commanded his servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you; therefore we were sore afraid of our lives because of you, and have done this thing.

25 And now, behold, we are in thine hand: as it seemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do.

26 And so did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not.

27 And Joshua made them that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, in the place which he should choose.

CHAP. X.

(1) No sooner have the Gibeonites become Israel's servants, than five of the most powerful kings in the southern parts of Canaan enter into a league to destroy them; 1-5. (2) At the Gibeonites' request, Joshua marches to their relief, and, assisted by a terrible hail-storm, easily routs the forces of the confederate kings; 6-11. (3) While the sun and moon at his request miraculously stand still, he pursues and kills the Canaanites, and, after marks of disgrace, he hangs their kings; 12-27. (4) He takes six royal cities; Makkedah, Libnah, Lachish, Eglon, Hebron, and Debir; slays all their inhabitants, and the Gibeonites who came to the assistance of Lachish, and brings the whole country around under the power of Israel; 28-42.

NOW it came to pass, when Adonizedeck king of Jerusalem had heard how Joshua had taken Ai, and had utterly destroyed it; as he had done to Jericho and her king, so he had done to Ai and her king; and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them;

2 That they feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

3 Wherefore Adonizedeck king of Jerusalem sent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua to the camp to Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us.

7 So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee.

9 Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10 And the LORD discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

11 And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the LORD cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more who died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

12 ¶ Then spake Joshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon.

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the LORD fought for Israel.

15 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 ¶ But these five kings fled, and hid themselves in a cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joshua, saying, The REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—While the people of God are busied in their sacred devotions, the wicked of the world are often occupied in plotting or attempting their destruction. And, while infatuated with malice and revenge, they are generally unamiable against God, his cause and people. But God, in great wisdom and kindness, commonly restrains the more formidable attacks of his enemies till he has prepared his people to receive them. When alarmed by God's mighty works in favour of his chosen, men are sometimes ready to solicit their friendship, even by hypocrisy and deceit; while those, who pretend to do us most honour, are inwardly the readiest to impose upon us. Pretences to religion and antiquity are extremely deceiving; and, when persons have once begun to lie, it is hard to say where they may stop. Good men may often be deceived by such pretences: for the wisdom of the serpent, even in them, is not always joined with the harmlessness of the dove. And those who are honest themselves and forward in their actions, are more apt to be imposed on by solemn pretences to religion, and appearances of simple honesty, especially when they do not acknowledge the Lord, that he may direct their paths. Covenants once made should be fulfilled with tenderness: and great care ought to be taken that peace and fidelity may go hand in hand. But how amazing are the dispensations of providence, in the superabounding of grace where sin did much abound! By fraud Jacob obtained the blessing, which consecrated him and his seed to be the peculiar people of God: and by fraud these accursed Gentiles of Gibeon obtained a covenant, which issued in their attendance on the courts of God, as figures of the gathering of the nations to Christ and his gospel-church. Him that cometh to Christ he will in no wise cast out: and if he receive us we need never complain of the cross which he lays on us. If we serve him we may bless the day in which carnal liberty is exchanged for spiritual subjection.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—Inveterate is the enmity of Satan and his seed against Jesus Christ, and even against those who are in a hopeful way of becoming converts to him : and, like their great leader, the wicked likewise are unanimous and hearty in their wickedness, and in persecuting the people of God. But, when spiritual or temporal enemies thrust sore at us, then we feel the necessity of looking up to Jesus, the Captain of the Lord's host, for salvation. If we have given up ourselves to him, we may be cast down, but cannot be destroyed : Jesus and his angels will fly to our relief : his powers, his prayers, shall concur for our protection and deliverance ! But how terrible is the danger of his enemies ! Both heaven and earth conspire to effectuate their ruin ! Every assistant, every retreat, shall prove but a refuge of lies ; the meanest saint shall tread them under foot ! And when the sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, Jesus shall come in flaming fire, to take vengeance upon all them who know not God, and obey not the gospel ;—who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and the glory of his power ! Oh, unparalleled day ! then all the haters of the Lord shall go into everlasting punishment ; and the righteous, after finishing their fight of faith, and enriched with spoils, shall, with Jesus at their head, return, and enter into life eternal in the camp of God above !

cities, slays the inhabitants, and seizes on their spoil; 6—15. (8)* Together with a narrative of the destruction of the Anakims, we have a general account of the country west of Jordan, imparting that Joshua had in the war acted according to God's direction, and God had granted him success, according to his promise to Moses; 16—23.

AND it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor had heard those things, that he sent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achshaph;

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains south of Chinneroth, and in the valley, and in the borders of Dor on the west;

3 And to the Canaanite on the east and on the west; and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon in the land of Mizpeh.

4 And they went out, they and all their hosts with them, much people, even as the sand that is upon the sea shore in multitude, with horses and chariots very many.

5 And, when all these kings were met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.

6 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, ^kBe not afraid because of them: for tomorrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain before Israel: thou shalt hough their horses, and burn their chariots with fire.

7 So Joshua came, and all the people of war with him, against them by the waters of Merom suddenly; and they fell upon them.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and chased them unto great Zidon, and unto Mizrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of Mizpeh eastward; and they smote them, until they left them none remaining.

9 And Joshua did unto them as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt their chariots with fire.

10 ¶ And Joshua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and smote the king thereof with the sword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all those kingdoms.

11 And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them; there was not any left to breathe: and he burnt Hazor with fire.

12 And all the cities of those kings, and all the kings of them, did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword; and he utterly destroyed them, as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded.

13 But, as for the cities that stood still in their strength, Israel burned none of them, save Hazor only; that did Joshua burn.

14 And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, the children of Israel took for a prey unto themselves; but every man they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

15 As the LORD commanded Moses his servant, so did Moses command Joshua, and so did Joshua; he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moses.

16 ¶ So Joshua took all that land, the hills, and all the south country, and all the land of Goshen, and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Israel, and the valley of the same;

17 Even from the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and smote them, and slew them.

18 Joshua made war a long time with all those kings.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save the Hivites, the inhabitants of Gibeon; all other they took in battle.

20 For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might destroy them, as the LORD commanded Moses.

21 ¶ And at that time came Joshua, and cut off the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod, there remained.

23 ¶ So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that the LORD said unto Moses; and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel according to their divisions, by their tribes. And the land rested from war.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—How madly do sinners rush headlong into ruin, notwithstanding repeated warnings by the destruction of others! The strength and multitude of their confederacy do but make their ruin the more notorious. But, the greater the dangers which surround his people, the greater supports should they ask and expect from God: and the more entirely their heart is fixed on him as their strength, the more certainly shall their spiritual enemies be subdued before them. That to which sinners flee for help is often but a trap to ensnare them: and their destruction is certain, though sometimes slow; and always just and wise, however severe; the most powerful not excepted. But sure is the victory of his people over all their enemies; and happy is it when God's exact fulfilment of his promises and our upright performance of our duty unite together. And blessed indeed must that warfare be which issues in eternal triumph and rest to Christ and his people!

CHAP. XIII.

To enable the Israelites to keep their inheritance distinct, and for assisting us to understand some passages of scripture, we have in this and the eight subsequent chapters a minute account of the division of Canaan to the tribes. Here (1) God informs Joshua what part of the promised territories remained yet unconquered; 1—6. (2) He orders him to make an immediate division of the whole, though he would not live to subdue it all; 1—7. (3) To complete our view of the country, the division made by Moses to the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, is again represented; 8—33. (4) It is repeatedly hinted that the Levites had no inheritance but the offerings of the Lord; 14, 33.

NOW Joshua was old and stricken in years; and the LORD said unto him, Thou art old and stricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land to be possessed.

2 This is the land that yet remaineth: all the borders of the Philistines, and all Geshuri,

3 From Sihor, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: five lords of the Philistines; the Gathites, and the Ashdodites, the Ekronites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; also the Avites:

4 From the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah that is beside the Sidonians, unto Aphek, to the borders of the Amorites:

5 And the land of the Gibrilites, and all Lebanon, toward the sun-rising, from Baal-gad under mount Hermon unto the entering into Hamath.

6 All the inhabitants of the hill-country from Lebanon unto Misrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them will I drive out from before the children of Israel: only divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes and the half tribe of Manasseh,

8 With whom the Reubenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, which Moses gave them, beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the LORD gave them;

9 From Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon;

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon;

11 And Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites, and Maachathites, and all mount Hermon, and all Bashan unto Salcah;

12 All the kingdom of Og in Bashan, which reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei, who remained of the remnant of the giants: for these did Moses smite, and cast them out.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—Former mercies from God, or services from men must never be forgotten for the glare of present ones. How happy the saints who have possession of manifold blessings on this side the Jordan of death, even while their principal inheritance lies beyond it! How fruitful then was the promised land which could support such multitudes of men! How fearful the guilt, and tremendous the curse, which for many ages have rendered it one of the most barren and useless spots on the earth! How confined was the ancient ambition of kings! and how good was God to Israel, who gave so many nations for their ransom, and people for their life!

CHAP. XIV.

Here we are informed (1) That Canaan was divided by immediate direction from God through casting of the lot, and not by any human sagacity or prudence; and how one of the two tribes, descended from Joseph, obtained the Levites' twelfth part; 1—5. (2) Of Caleb's demand of Hebron, as granted to him by the promise of Moses, and which, by God's assistance, he hoped to wrest out of the hand of the gigantic Anakims who possessed it; and Joshua's compliance with his request; 6—10.

leaving all things in good order at their death. With what pleasure God repeatedly mentions the honourable deeds of his favourites as an example and inducement to others to copy after them. But unhappy is the end of false prophets and seducers of mankind, like Balaam; and often when and where they least expected it. While those, who have God to be their portion, have little reason to envy others even their wealthiest lots in this changing world.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII. — The most successful conquerors must quickly bow and pay their tribute to death, the king of terrors; and the best have need to be reminded of their latter end. God graciously and wisely considers the frame of his people, and will not burden them with work beyond their strength. But pleasant are extensive views of what God has promised, though we should never see it accomplished. And it is prudent and necessary that such as rule in church or state should exert themselves to the utmost for this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel *wandered in the wilderness: and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old.

11 As yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then even so is my strength now for war, both to go out and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD spake in that day; for thou heardest in that day how the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if so be the LORD will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the LORD said.

13 And Joshua blessed him, and gave unto Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance.

14 Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he wholly followed the LORD God of Israel.

15 And the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. And the land had rest from war.

CHAP. XV.

The division of Canaan being now begun in the camp at Gilgal, we have here (1) The boundaries of the tribe of Judah marked out; 1—12. (2) A particular grant of Hebron and the country round to Caleb; with an account of his daughter's marriage, petition, and portion; 13—19. (3) A particular enumeration of most of the cities which fell by lot to the tribe of Judah, in all one hundred and fourteen, those afterwards given to the Simeonites excepted; 20—63.

THIS then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families; even to the border of Edom the wilderness of Zin southward was the uttermost part of the south coast.

2 And their south border was from the shore of the salt sea, from the bay that looketh southward:

3 And it went out to the south side to Maaleh-acrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea, and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa:

4 From thence it passed toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: this shall be your south coast.

5 And the east border was the salt sea, even unto the end of Jordan. And their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the uttermost part of Jordan:

6 And the border went up to Beth-hogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-arabah; and the border went up to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben:

7 And the border went up toward Debir from the valley of Achor, and so northward looking toward Gilgal, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river: and the border passed toward the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at En-rogel:

8 And the border went up by the valley of the son of Hinnom unto the south side of the Jebusite; the same is Jerusalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants northward:

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron; and the border was drawn to Baalath, which is Kirjath-jearim:

10 And the border compassed from Baalath westward unto mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim, which is Chesalon, on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to Timnah:

11 And the border went out unto the side of Ekron northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount Baalath, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border were at the sea.

12 And the west border was to the great sea, and the coast thereof. This is the coast of the children of Judah round about according to their families.

13 ¶ And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, even the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

14 And Caleb drove thence the three sons of Anak, Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak.

15 And he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher.

16 ¶ And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

17 And Othniel, the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

18 And it came to pass, as she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wouldest thou?

19 Who answered, Give me a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—Such as refer themselves to God to choose for them will never find cause to repent of their lot. Yea, it is not only useful, but necessary, to acknowledge God in all our ways, that he may direct our paths, and prosper the work of our hands; and to view every thing that we obtain lawfully as coming from him.—How edifying is it to observe aged professors strong in the faith, giving glory to God! It is not pride, but due acknowledgment, to declare what a gracious God has done for us and by us. The more singular our fidelity has been towards God, it is the more commendable. And, if we have served God in godly simplicity in our youth, we shall find the comfort and blessing of it when we grow old. The issues of our life are in God's hand.

Neither age, nor sickness, nor sword, can cut those off whom he determines to preserve. Every year therefore through which we are spared is a new call for thankfulness to him who preserves our soul in life; and the death of others around should make us the more sensible of the mercy which preserves us. But indeed wonders of mercy and of judgment will God work for performing his promise in the most honourable manner to such as by faith remarkably glorify him in an hour of temptation. Such as trust in him will never find themselves disappointed of their hopes. And with the utmost boldness we may insist upon having what he has promised, and dare to engage the most powerful opposer in order to obtain it.

CHAP. XVI

In this and the following chapter, which ought to be joined into one, we have a description of the inheritance of the children of Joseph in the midst of the country westward of Jordan. Here is (1) A general view of the lot of the two tribes; 1—4. (2) A particular account of the borders of the children of Ephraim; 5—9. (3) A brand of infamy put upon them for neglecting to expel the Canaanites from part of their lot; 10.

AND the lot of the children of Joseph ^afell from Jordan by ^aJericho unto the water of Jericho on the east, to the ^awilderness that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el,
2 And goeth out from ^aBeth-el to Luz, and passeth along unto the borders of ^aArchi to ^aAtaroth,
3 And goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, unto the coast of ^aBeth-horon the nether, and to Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the ^asea.
4 ^aSo the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.
5 ¶ And the border of the children of Ephraim according to their families was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the east side was ^aAtaroth-addar, unto Beth-horon the upper;
6 And the border went out toward ^athe sea to Michmethah on the north side; ^aand the border went about eastward unto ^aTaanath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Janohah;
7 And it went down from Janohah to ^aAtaroth, and to ^aNaarath, and came to ^aJericho, and went out at Jordan.
8 The border went out from ^aTappuah westward unto the ^ariver Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the ^asea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—It is very necessary to have every thing relating to property exactly fixed and distinguished, in order to prevent after contentions. The Lord greatly delights to honour such as have honoured him in a day of general apostasy; to reward such as have followed him fully; and to assist such as have firmly trusted in him. Happy is that marriage where the union of hearts, the consent of parents, and the blessing of God, remarkably meet. And, if children may ask the necessities or conveniences of life from natural parents in hopes to succeed, with what boldness may we come to God's throne of grace, to ask grace and mercy to help us in a time of need—to ask all the new covenant blessings of heaven and earth! Yes, large and delightful is the portion of such as are connected with Christ: and his spiritual brethren are blessed for his sake with the most extensive and everlasting blessings. But let us remember that, the larger our mercies are, the more abundant is our work and warfare to improve and defend the same. And have we not reason to lament that our sinful sloth and cowardice should deprive us of part of that which the Lord our God giveth us to possess?

10 ¶ And ^xthey drave not out the Canaanites that dwelt in ^yGezer; but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and serve under tribute.

CHAP. XVII.

Contains (1) An account of the families of the Manassites which remained to be portioned on the west of Jordan; 1—6. (2) A description of the country which fell to their share, and from part of which the Canaanites kept them for a time; 7—13. (3) A conjunct petition of these Manassites and Ephraimites for an enlargement of their territory; and Joshua's refusal thereof, in order to oblige them to clear the woods and expel the Canaanites from what had been allotted them; 14—18.

THERE was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh; for he was the ^afirst-born of Joseph; to wit, for ^bMachir, the first-born of Manasseh, the father of Gilead; because he was a man of war, therefore he had Gilead and Bashan.

2 There was also a lot for ^cthe rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; for the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hephher, and for the children of She-mida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.

3 ¶ But ^dZelophehad, the son of Hephher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

4 And they came near ^ebefore Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, ^fThe LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren. Therefore, according to the ^gcommandment of the LORD, he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

5 And there fell ^hten portions to Manasseh ^bbeside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan;

6 Because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons: and ⁱthe rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

7 ¶ And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, that lieth before ^kShechem; and the border went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8 Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim;

9 And the coast descended unto the ^mriver Kanah, southward of the river: these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: the coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the sea:

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border; and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east.

11 And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher ⁿBeth-shean and her towns, and ^oIbleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of ^pDor and her towns, and the inhabitants of ^qEndor and her towns, and the inhabitants of ^rTaanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countries.

12 ¶ Yet ^sthe children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

13 Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were ^twaxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but ^udid not utterly drive them out.

14 ¶ And the children of Joseph spake unto Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am a ^vgreat people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto?

15 And Joshua answered them, ^xIf thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the ^ygiants, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley ^zhave chariots of iron, both they who are of Beth-shean and her towns, and they who are of the valley of ^aJezreel.

17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, ^bThou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one lot only:

18 But the ^cmountain shall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it shall be thine: for thou ^dshalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be strong.

CHAP. XVIII.

Here we have (1) The tabernacle of God fixed in the middle of Canaan in Shiloh, a city of the Ephraimites, Joshua's own tribe; 1. (2) The seven unportioned tribes are reproved for their unconcern, and directed to a proper method for immediately fixing their settlements; 2—7. (3) The remaining territory being divided into seven parts, these tribes have their respective shares assigned them by lot; 8—10. (4) The borders of the Benjamites' inheritance are marked out, and twenty-six of their principal cities mentioned; 11—28.

AND the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at ^aShiloh, and set up the ^btabernacle of the congregation there. And the land was subdued before them.

2 ¶ And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

one another in neglecting the Lord's work, and seem more anxious to enlarge their property than to improve what they have. But unbelief strangely heightens every difficulty, and often discourages from the good fight of faith, which necessarily lies in the way to the crown!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—What a fruitful bough is Joseph now become, and planted in a goodly soil! The promise of God is a firm foundation of claim; and, if in this wilderness we secure such a title to glory, we shall, when the warfare is over, enjoy the portion for ever. It is good for brethren to dwell together in unity: yet unhappy is the union when they encourage

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, 'How long are ye slack to go to possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and describe it according to the inheritance of them; and they shall come again to me.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts: 'Judah shall abide in their coast on the south, and the house of Joseph shall abide in their coasts on the north.

6 'Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD our God.

7 But the 'Levites have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and 'Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them.

8 ¶ And the men arose, and went away: and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here 'cast lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

9 And the men went and passed through the land, and described it by cities into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh.

10 ¶ And Joshua ^k cast lots for them in Shiloh before the LORD: and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coast of their lot came forth 'between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph.

12 And their border on the north side was from Jordan; and the border went up to the side of 'Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward; and the goings out thereof were at the 'wilderness of 'Beth-aven.

13 And the border went over from thence toward 'Luz, to the side of Luz, which is 'Beth-el, southward; and the border descended to 'Ataroth-addar, near the hill that lieth on the south side of the nether Beth-horon.

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compassed the corner of 'the sea southward, from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon southward; and the goings out thereof were at 'Kirjath-baal, which is Kirjath-jearim, a city of the children of Judah. This was the west quarter.

15 And the south quarter was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the west, and went out to the well of waters of 'Nephtoah:

16 And the border came down to the end of the 'mountain that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom, and which is in the 'valley of the giants on the north, and descended to the 'valley of Hinnom, to the side of 'Jebusi on the south, and descended to En-rogel,

17 And was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-shemesh, and went forth toward 'Geliloth, which is over against the going up of Adummim, and descended to 'the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben,

18 And passed along toward the side over against 'Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah:

19 And the border passed along to the side of 'Beth-hoglah northward: and the outgoings of the border were at the north 'bay of 'the salt sea at the south end of 'Jordan. This was the south coast.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families.

21 ¶ Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin according to their families were 'Jericho, and 'Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz,

22 'And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and 'Beth-el,

23 And Avim, and Parah, and 'Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and 'Gaba; twelve cities with their villages:

25 'Gibeon, and 'Ramah, and 'Beer-oth,

26 And 'Mizpeh, and Chephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah,

28 And 'Zelah, Eleph, and 'Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kirjath; fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

CHAP. XIX.

In the lot of Judah the borders were marked, and cities mentioned: in those of Ephraim and Manasseh only the borders were marked. Here is (1) The lot of Simeon taken out of the inheritance of Judah, with cities mentioned, but no boundaries marked; 1. (2) Of Zebulun; 10—16. (3) Of Issachar; 17—23. (4) Of Asher; 24—31. (5) Of Naphtali; 32—39. (6) Of Dan; 40—48. All with boundaries marked, and principal cities mentioned. (7) Last of all, Joshua, upon his request, hath an inheritance assigned him; 49—51.

AND the 'second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families: and their inheritance was 'with-

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—It is highly becoming when a serious regard to the worship of Christ and the church of God is intermingled with our most engaging earthly concerns: and it is dangerous to form families or kingdoms without the true worship of God. But what a blessing is it for a church or nation when the Lord is a wall of fire round about them, and the glory in the midst of them! What mercies then are ours!—We have his ordinances, not merely in the midst of our land, but near at hand, in every corner of it; and safely may we, in the midst of enemies, go about the Lord's work. Let us beware then how we are unconcerned about promised enjoyments, or commanded duties, lest the sweets of present comforts, or the difficulties in our way to the Canaan above, should weaken our desire, or hinder our attempts, to obtain it.

Blessed be God that though the enjoyment of it be not equally soon obtained, yet it is equally sure to all believers; and that there, as well as here, each is placed in a station answerable to his abilities and powers of enjoyment.

EXPLANATORY NOTES. CHAP. XIX. Ver. 1—48. From this and the seven preceding chapters it appears that the land of Canaan, into the possession of which Moses and Joshua put the Israelites, was pleasantly diversified with mountains and valleys, and well watered with a multitude of small rivers and brooks, which emptied themselves into the Mediterranean sea on the west; or into Jordan, which, taking its rise in mount Lebanon, at the north of the promised land, ran southward; and, after forming the two lakes of Merom and in the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And they had in their inheritance Beer-sheba, and Shebah, and Moadah,

3 And Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Azem,

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Bethmarkaboth, and Hazor-susah,

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhem ; thirteen cities and their villages :

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan ; four cities and their villages :

8 And all the villages that were round about these cities to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the south. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon ; for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them : therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun according to their families ; and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid :

11 And their border went up toward the sea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbasheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam ;

12 And turned from Sarid eastward toward the sun-rising unto the border of Chisloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath, and goeth up to Japhia,

13 And from thence passeth on along on the east to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon-methoar to Neah ;

14 And the border compasseth it on the north side to Hannathon : and the outgoings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el :

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem : twelve cities with their villages, 16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

17 ¶ And the fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of Issachar according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel, and Chesulloth, and Shunem, 19 And Haphraim, and Shihon, and Anaharath,

20 And Rabbith, and Kishion, and Abez,

21 And Remeth, and En-gannim, and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez ;

22 And the coast reached to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-shemesh ; and the outgoings of their border were at Jordan : sixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families.

25 And their border was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achshaph, 26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Misheal ; and reacheth to Carmel westward, and to Shihor-libnath ;

27 And turneth toward the sun-rising to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north side of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand,

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, even unto great Zidon ;

29 And then the coast turneth to Ramah, and to the strong city Tyre ; and the coast turneth to Hosah ; and the outgoings thereof are at the sea from the coast to Achzib :

30 Ummah also, and Aphek, and Rehob : twenty and two cities with their villages.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

32 ¶ The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, even for the children of Naphtali according to their families.

33 And their coast was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum ; and the outgoings thereof were at Jordan :

34 And then the coast turneth westward to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sun-rising.

tribe.

Chinnereth, or Tiberias, in its course, at last emptied itself into the Dead sea, into which the country about Sodem was transformed, and which had no visible outlet. The length of Canaan, from Beersheba on the south to Dan on the north, was about one hundred and eighty miles. Its greatest breadth, from the Mediterranean sea to the river Jordan, was about fifty miles ; and about thirty more to the eastern boundary of the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites. On the east of Jordan, over against the territory of Benjamin and Ephraim, the Reubenites had their inheritance in a tract, including the mountains of Peor, Nebo, and Pisgah. On their north side lay the inheritance of the Gadites, in a soil more plain and fertile. Northward of Gad was seated the half tribe of Manasseh, in that which was afterwards called Upper Galilee, or Galilee of the Gentiles, which was almost as large as both the two former portions. On the west side of Jordan, or rather the Dead Sea, lay the extensive inheritance of Judah. On the south-west hereof was the lot of Simeon ; and on the north-west the lot of Dan. Eastward of the Danites, and northward of Judah, was the inheritance of Benjamin. The lot of the Ephraimites lay all along on the north of these of Dan and Benjamin. Next was the lot of the other half tribe of Manasseh ; and northward of them the inheritance of Issachar ; and next to them was that of Zebulun. Each of these four last portions extended from Jordan on the east to the Mediterranean sea on the west. Northward of Zebulun the tribe of Asher had their inheritance, in the north-west of Canaan. The Naphtalites had their portion between the lot of Asher and the north end of the river Jordan. The Tyrians and Zidonians kept possession of a part of Canaan on the north-west of the Asherites. The Philistines kept possession of a narrow strip of territory on the west of the Simeonites and Danites. Egypt lay to the south-west of Canaan ; Idumea on the south border of the lot of Judah ; and still more southward was the country of the Amalekites and Arabians. On the east of the Dead sea, and southward of the Reubenites, was the territory of the Midianites and Moabites. North-east of the Moabites, and eastward of the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites, dwelt the Ammonites and the Hagarenes ; and still eastward of these, beyond a large desert, and by the river Euphrates, the Chaldeans on the south, and Mesopotamia on the north. Persia was on the east and south-east of Chaldea, and Assyria on the east of Mesopotamia. North-east of Persia lay Media ; and north of Assyria were Armenia, Cappadocia, Pontus, &c. On the north-east of Canaan lay Syria ; on the north of which was Lesser Asia, which contained Mysia, Lydia, Ionia, and Caria, on the east shore of the Mediterranean sea ; on the east of which were Bithynia, Phrygia, Pisidia, Pamphylia, Lycia ; and, still further east, Paphlagonia, Galatia, and Lyconia, which bordered on the east, with Pontus, Cappadocia, and Armenia. To the north-west of Lesser Asia, but on the north side of the Mediterranean sea, lay the countries of Greece and Rome ; the former of which is about eight hundred and fifty, and the latter one thousand two hundred miles north-west of Jerusalem.

CHAP. XX.

The twelve tribes of Israel being now fixed in their respective inheritance, we have here (1) God's law concerning cities of refuge repeated; 1—6. (2) Six cities appointed for places of refuge; all of them cities of the Levites; all of them situated on high or REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—It is useful and becoming when men look upon, and care for, the things of others as well as their own, and give to such as lack a share out of their superfluity, or even sufficiency. And it is a mercy to be connected with those who are in covenant with God, and closely devoted to his service, though our outward accommodations should be smaller. For rare is that lot on earth in which there is not somewhat remarkable by an accurate observer of providence. But it is honourable when rulers, who do most for their people, covet least from them, and prefer the happy settlement of their subjects to their own.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—In these cities let me behold Jesus, God's Holy One, made of God unto us sanctification; Jesus, on whose shoulder the government is laid, and who bears and carries his people on his everlasting arms; open places; and most of them near the borders of the heathen; and so separated, that a manslayer might escape to one or other of them in about twelve hours or less; 7—9.

THE ^aLORD also spake unto Joshua saying,
2 Speak to the children of Israel, say- ing, ^bAppoint out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses:

3 That the slayer, that killeth any person unawares and unwittingly, may flee thither: and they shall be your re- fuge from the avenger of blood.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand ^cat the en- tering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall ^dtake him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them.

5 And if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not before time.

6 And he shall dwell in that city ^euntil he stand before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the high priest that shall be in those days: then shall the slayer return, and come unto his own city, and unto his own house, unto the city from whence he fled.

7 ¶ And they †appointed ^fKedesh in Galilee in mount Naphtali, and Shechem in mount Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba, which is Hebron, in the mountain of Judah.

8 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho eastward ^gthey assigned Bezer^h in the wilderness upon the plain out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan out of the tribe of Ma- nasseh.

9 These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them, that whosoever killeth any person at un- awares might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood †until he stood before the congregation.

CHAP. XXI.

Their brethren being all settled, here (1) The Levites demand their share of cities and suburbs, as the Lord had commanded Moses; 1, 2. (2) By lot the priests have thirteen, the other Kohathites ten, the Gershonites, thirteen, and the Merarites twelve, cities assigned them out of the portions of the other tribes; 3—8; and which are particularly mentioned; 9—42. (3) It is remarked that God had given Canaan to the Israelites for their property, success in war, and rest after it, exactly according to his re- peated promises to Abraham and his Hebrew descendants; 43—45.

Jesus, through whom we have access to, and fellowship with, God, even the Father; Jesus, our Strong Hold to such as trust in him; Jesus, our elevated Propitiation and exalted Prince and Saviour; Jesus, who was made manifest in the flesh, that he might be our Joy and Consolation. Let me behold him as a divinely-appointed, a near, an accessible, ever open, large, well-furnished, and eternally safe, refuge from the just vengeance of a broken law, the destructive wrath of an angry God, the fury of a raging devil, and the ruinous challenges of a guilty conscience—a refuge to sinners of mankind, who have ignorantly, and in unbelief, spiritually murdered themselves, their neighbours, and even the great God their Saviour! And oh, what profitable instruction and complete peace we have in him! Haste then, my soul; escape to him for thy life; tarry not in all the plain, lest the avenger of blood overtake thee. And never, never, while Jesus our great High-priest lives, dare to be found without.

Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel;

2 And they spake unto them at ^bShiloh, in the land of Canaan, saying, ^cThe LORD commanded by the hand of Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattle.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites ^dout of their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs.

4 And the ^elot came out for the families of the Kohathites: and the children of Aaron the priest, who were of the Levites, had by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities.

5 And ^fthe rest of the children of Kohath had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, ^gand out of the half tribe of Manasseh, ten cities.

6 And ^hthe children of Gershon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

7 ⁱThe children of Merari by their families had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 And the children of Israel gave by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

9 ¶ And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, ^kthese cities which are here ^lmentioned by name, 10 Which the children of Aaron, being of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had: for their's was the first lot.

11 And they gave them ^mthe city of Arba, the father of Anak, which city is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it.

12 But ⁿthe fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb the son of Jephunneh for his possession.

13 Thus they gave to the children of Aaron the priest ^oHebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and ^pLibnah with her suburbs,

14 And Jattir with her suburbs, and Eshtemoa with her suburbs,

15 And ^qHolon with her suburbs, and Debir with her suburbs,

16 And ^rAin with her suburbs, and Juttah with her suburbs, and Beth-she-mesh with her suburbs; nine cities out of those two tribes.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

20 ¶ And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

21 For they gave them ^uShechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Gezer with her suburbs, 22 And ^vKibzaim with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs; four cities.

25 And out of the half tribe of Manasseh, ^zTaanach with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs; two cities.

26 All the cities were ten with their suburbs for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

27 ¶ And unto the children of Gershon, ^{aa}of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manasseh they gave ^{ab}Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and ^{ac}Beeshterah with her suburbs; two cities.

28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, ^{ad}Kishion with her suburbs, Daberath with her suburbs, 29 ^{ae}Jarmuth with her suburbs, Engannim with her suburbs; four cities.

32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, ^{ag}Kedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and Kartan with her suburbs; three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gershonites according to their families were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

34 ¶ And unto the families of the children of Merari, the rest of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, ^{ah}Jokneam with her suburbs, and Kartah with her suburbs,

38 And out of the tribe of Gad, ^{aj}Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Mahanaim with her suburbs, were forty and eight cities with their suburbs.

39 Heshbon with her suburbs, Jazer with her suburbs; four cities in all.

40 So all the cities for the children of Merari by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were by their lot twelve cities.

42 These cities were every one with their suburbs round about them: thus were all these cities.

43 ¶ And the LORD^k gave unto Israel all the land which he sware to give unto their fathers; and they possessed it, and dwelt therein.

44 And the LORD gave them rest round about, according to all that he sware unto their fathers: and there stood not a man of all their enemies before them; the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand.

CHAP. XXII.

Their brethren on the west side of Jordan being settled in their respective portions, here (1) Joshua dismisses the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites, to their inheritance beyond Jordan, with an honourable commendation, a good counsel, and their share of the spoil; 1—9. (2) In their return home, these warriors erect an altar on the bank of Jordan, as a standing testimony of their communion with the other Israelites and the God of Israel, which occasions great offence to, and a very sharp remonstrance, but attended with fair offers, from, their brethren on the west of Jordan; 10—20. (3) By a solemn declaration of their true design in erecting that altar, the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites, perfectly satisfy their offended brethren; 21—34.

THEN ^aJoshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh,

2 And said unto them, Ye have kept all that Moses the servant of the LORD^b commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you:

3 Ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

4 And now the LORD your God^d hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other side Jordan.

5 But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law which Moses the servant of the LORD charged you, to love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul.

6 So Joshua^e blessed them, and sent them away. And they went unto their tents.

7 Now to^h the one half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given possession in Bashan; but unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And, when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents, then he blessed them;

8 And he spake unto them, saying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment: divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren.

9 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of^k Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession whereof they were possessed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

10 ¶ And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, ^mbuilt there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to see to.

11 ¶ And the children of Israelⁿ heard say, Behold, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, have built an altar over against the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the passage of the children of Israel.

12 And, when the children of Israel heard of it, the^p whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up to war against them.

13 And the children of Israel^q sent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, 14 And with him ten princes, of each chief house a prince throughout all the tribes of Israel; and each one was^s an head of the house of their fathers among the thousands of Israel.

15 And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, unto the land of Gilead, and they spake with them, saying, 16 Thus saith the whole congregation of the LORD, What trespass is this that ye have committed against the God of Israel, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an altar that ye might rebel this day against the LORD?

17 ^rIs the iniquity of Peor too little for us, from which we are not cleansed until this day, although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD,

18 But that ye must turn away this day from following the LORD? and it will be,

God, who cannot lie: and it is pleasant, profitable, and dutiful, to trace out in providence the exact fulfilment thereof.

But was not this Canaan, now disposed of to the Hebrew tribes, a figure of the gospel rest in the New Testament church; a figure of a new covenant state, and of our better country above? These are the lands which are chosen and provided by God for us; remarkably, under his inspection and care, watered with his heavenly rains and dews, and fertile of the choicest blessings, flowing with milk and honey. How holy! how pleasant! how inhabited by God and his favourites! And by what marvellous grace, wisdom, and power, are we brought into them, through much tribulation! Not our bow, nor our sword, but JEHovah's arm, favour, and countenance, gets us the land: and he that truly enters in shall in no wise, nor ever, be cast out.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—Those pleadings are ever successful at a throne of grace which are founded on God's promises. God largely provides for his ministers, that they may attend on his service disentangled from the cares of this life. And yet it becomes them to be modest and reserved in seeking for themselves. It is prudent indeed that ministers' incomes should be connected with the welfare of the church: but it is likewise proper that all such as are taught should communicate to their teachers in all good things. God can easily turn a well-deserved curse into a distinguished honour and blessing; and make the scattering of the Levites in Israel an honour to themselves, and a certain mean of instruction to the other tribes. How commodiously the priests are settled for their future attendance at Jerusalem, where God did not place his name till about four hundred years after! But inviolable are the promises of seeing ye rebel to-day against the LORD, that ^yto-morrow he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Israel.

19 Notwithstanding, if the land of your possession be ^unclean, then pass ye over unto the land of the possession of the LORD, wherein the ^aLORD's tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession among us: but ^brebel not against the LORD, nor rebel against us, in building you an altar beside the altar of the LORD our God.

20 Did not Achan the son of Zerah commit a trespass in the accursed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel? and that man perished not alone in his iniquity.

21 ¶ Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, ^danswered and said unto the ^eheads of the thousands of Israel,

22 The ^fLORD God of gods, the LORD God of gods, he knoweth, and ^gIsrael he shall know; if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the LORD, (save us not this day,)

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the LORD, or if to offer thereon burnt-offering or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, ^hlet the LORD himself require it;

24 And if we have not rather done it ⁱfor fear of this thing, saying, ^jIn time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have you to do with the LORD God of Israel?

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you, ye children of Reuben and children of Gad; ^kye have no part in the LORD: so shall your children make our children cease from fearing the LORD.

26 Therefore we said, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt-offering nor for sacrifice;

27 But that it may be a ^lwitness between us and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the service of the LORD before him with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings; that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

28 Therefore said we, that it shall be when they should so say to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings, nor for sacrifices, but it is a witness between us and you.

29 ^mGod forbid that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt-offerings, for meat-offerings, or for sacrifices, beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

30 ¶ And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the congregation and heads of the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh, spake, ⁿit pleased them.

31 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest said unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceive that the LORD is ^oamong us, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD: ¶ ^pnow ye have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and ^qbrought them word again.

33 And the thing pleased the children of Israel; and the children of Israel ^rblessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

34 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, called the altar ^sEd: ^tfor it shall be a witness between us that the LORD is God.

CHAP. XXIII.

Here Joshua, finding his end approaching, assembles the Israelites, or at least their rulers, to put in order what was wanting, 1, 2; and, in a solemn speech to them, (1) He reminds them of what God had done, and was ready to do, for them; 3—5, 9, 10, 14. (2) Exhorts them carefully and resolutely to persevere in their duty to God; 6, 8, 11. (3) Cautions them against all familiarity with the Canaanites, 7; and warns them of the fatal consequences of apostasy from God to idols; 12—16.

AND it came to pass, ^{*a}long time after that the LORD ^ahad given rest unto Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua waxed old and [†]stricken in age.

2 And ^bJoshua called for all Israel, and for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them, I am old and stricken in age:

3 And ye have ^cseen all that the LORD your God hath done unto all these nations because of you; for the LORD your God is he that hath fought for you.

4 Behold, ^dI have divided unto you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, even unto the ^egreat sea [†]westward.

smarted for sin may justly dread the thoughts of renewing their provocation. In this state of imperfection, even in zeal for God, heavy charges are often brought against the innocent; and therefore with great meekness and candour, and, if need be, with solemnity, ought we to explain our conduct, for the satisfaction of our brethren who have mistaken it; and be concerned, not only that our intentions be innocent, but that our brethren may have no occasion to mistake us. And with readiness and pleasure should we receive men's candid exculpation of themselves, and thank God for it. Happy would it be for churches and nations, if all their differences were conducted with so much prudent zeal for the glory of God that it should be, as here, hard to find fault with either party.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—However desirable our home be, God's work must be preferred to it. Yea, we ought to stay contentedly out of heaven itself till our work on earth be finished, and Jesus dismiss us from our warfare with his blessing. And O! what abundant honour, and extensive happiness, shall we then obtain, as the gracious reward of our exact fulfilment of our dangerous but dutiful engagements! Our right to fellowship with God and his people should be clearly but prudently attested and commemorated, that neither we nor our posterity may lose or neglect the means of grace. And with godly jealousy professors should watch over one another. But all, especially ministers and magistrates, ought to manifest a warm but charitable zeal against every appearance of evil, particularly false worship; for who knows how far and wide, if once admitted, it may spread its baleful influence. And such as have

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—Happy is that nation, the rulers of which not only establish the true religion, but also mightily promote it with their example and advice. Accurate observers of providence may in every age remark manifold grounds of thankfulness, and reasons for exactness in holy obedience; and God's kind favours, as well as his fearful judgments, whether past, present, or future, ought powerfully to influence us to holiness and circumspection of life. But while we are surrounded with temptations, we had need constantly to watch and pray; and to maintain a constant love to God as a mean of preservation that God had done for them and their fathers, 1—13, he solemnly charges them to make the fear and service of God their deliberate and determinate choice, to which they would cleave at all hazards; 14—24. (2) Having engaged them by treaty, he brings them under solemn covenant engagements to serve the Lord, and none other; 25—28. (3) Joseph's bones, brought out of Egypt, are solemnly interred; and soon after Joshua and Eleazar the high priest, under whose direction religion continued flourishing, die, and are buried; 29—33.

AND Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they presented themselves before God.

2 ¶ And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they served other gods.

3 And I took your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and gave him Isaac.

4 And I gave unto Isaac Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto Esau mount Seir, to possess it; but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt.

5 I sent Moses also and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did among them: and afterward I brought you out.

6 And I brought your fathers out of Egypt: and ye came unto the sea: and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red sea.

7 And when they cried unto the LORD he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them: and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness a long season.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan; and they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land; and I destroyed them from before you.

9 Then Balak, the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you:

10 But I would not hearken unto Balaam; therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand.

11 And ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and the men of Jericho fought against you; the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I delivered them into your hand.

12 And I sent the hornet before you, which drave them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites; but not with thy sword, nor with thy bow.

from evil. Scarcely any snare is more fatal than affinity or intimacy with unbelievers; and often God makes our tempters to sin our punishers for it; and causes our knowledge and remembrance of the mercies which we rejected a mean of tormenting us when we are deprived of them. It is therefore greatly unbecoming for professed Christians to regard so little the religion of those whom they marry or make their intimates; or to lard their speeches or writings with the names of idols, or even to deck their houses or gardens with their images for ornament.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and cities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them: of the vineyards and olive-yards which ye planted not do ye eat.

14 ¶ Now therefore ^pfear the LORD, and serve him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the LORD.

15 And, if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, ^qchoose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served, that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but, ^ras for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.

16 And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the LORD to serve other gods;

17 For ^sthe LORD our God he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and who did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed:

18 ^tAnd the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites who dwelt in the land; therefore ^uwill we also serve the LORD, for he is our God.

19 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye cannot serve the LORD; for he is ^van holy God: he is a jealous God; he will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins.

20 If ye ^wforsake the LORD, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good.

21 And the people said unto Joshua, ^xNay, but we will serve the LORD.

22 And Joshua said unto the people, ^yYe are witnesses against yourselves that ye have chosen you the LORD, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses.

23 Now therefore ^zput away, said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the LORD God of Israel.

24 And the people said unto Joshua, ^aThe LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joshua ^bmade a covenant with the people that day, and set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.

26 ¶ And Joshua ^cwrote these words in the book of the law of God, and took a great stone, and set it up there under an oak, that was by the sanctuary of the LORD.

27 And Joshua said unto all the people, ^dBehold, this stone shall be a witness unto us; for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us: it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God.

28 So ^eJoshua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

29 ¶ And it came to pass ^fafter these things that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred and ten years old.

30 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in ^gTimnath-serah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the north side of the hill of Gaash.

31 And Israel ^hserved the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that ⁱoverlived Joshua, and which had known all the works of the LORD that he had done for Israel.

32 ¶ And the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a ^jparcel of ground which Jacob bought of ^kthe sons of Hamor the father of Shechem for an hundred ^lpieces of silver; and it became the inheritance of the children of Joseph.

33 ¶ And Eleazar the son of Aaron died; and they buried him in a hill ^mthat pertained to Phinehas his son, which was given him in mount Ephraim.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIV.—Faithful ministers and magistrates are loth to leave this world without spending their last breath in the service of God, and manifesting a deep concern to have religion flourish among their friends after their death. Marvellous and sovereign are the transactions of God with respect to his people; and great cheerfulness and gratitude ought to take place in our service of him, and in cleaving to him alone. And the most solemn engagements, with a deep sense of the purity, power, and profitableness, of religion, should always be maintained, to render us duly diligent and constant in it. It is pleasing to see those who inculcate religion upon others from choice become noted patterns of it themselves and in their families, and daring to be singular therein: and when people, the greatest not excepted, seem fond of attending solemn opportunities of fellowship with God, and edification to their souls. The glory indeed and influence of the great and good on earth is quickly stopt by death. But when our fathers fail, and since our prophets do not live for ever, what a mercy is it that our Redeemer liveth, and will be with us always, even unto the end of the world!

And was not Joshua a noted type of him, our Captain of salvation, who brings many sons and daughters to glory! God solemnly called him to, and fitted him for, his mediatorial office: and, in his baptism at Jordan's banks, began to magnify him before the people; nor did he ever fail him or forsake him. Made under, and trained up in servitude to Moses' broken law, he became fit for his work; and even his name is pregnant with manifold and everlasting salvation. Through what Jordans of trouble and death does he bring his church into her gospel form, and her true members into their new covenant and celestial state! He circumcises their hearts, and feasts them on his flesh and blood, to prepare them for their spiritual warfare on earth. He powerfully intercedes for them, and makes up all breaches between God and them. Miraculously and effectually he conquers all their enemies, treads them under their feet, and enriches them with their spoil. He purchased and prepares for them the promised, the heavenly Canaan! and in due time puts them into the full and quiet possession thereof, according to his Father's purpose and promise. Having brought them into the bond of the covenant, he weans them from their idolatry, and makes them serve the Lord, and walk as he also walked. Readily he receives returning harlots and prodigals—accursed sinners of the Gentiles—and consecrates them to the service of God. But no obstinate and hardened opposer is able to stand before him all the days of his life. Fire, hail, and furious storms, he did and will rain upon his Jewish, heathen, antichristian, or other implacable enemies. Nor till his victories be finished shall the luminaries of heaven, or those of his church, withdraw their shining.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES

Was probably compiled by Samuel the prophet; and relates the transactions of fourteen Hebrew judges, who, under God, the King of the nation, were occasional governors of Israel; and who, Abimelech excepted, were typical of Jesus Christ, as called to, qualified for, and occupied in, delivering his chosen people. It contains the history of about three hundred years; and particularly narrates the Israelites' behaviour towards the Canaanites; whom Joshua had left in the country; the Lord's reproof of their conduct, and their repentance for it; what nations were left to chastise them for it; their frequent relapses into idolatry; and their punishment on account of it; by terrible oppressions from the Mesopotamians, Moabites, Canaanites, Midianites, Abimelech, Ammonites, and Philistines; and their deliverances by Othniel, Ehud, Deborah, and Barak, Gideon, Jephthah, and Samson; and their protection by Shamgar, Tola, Jair, Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon: i.—xvi. The five last chapters are an appendix, informing us of events which happened not long after the death of Joshua; particularly the idolatry of Micah; the conquest and idolatry of the Danites; the horrible lust of the Gibeathites; and the almost utter destruction of the Benjamites for protecting them; xvii.—xxi. The scope of this, and of the following histories of the Old Testament, is to represent the sinful backslidings of Israel, and the holiness, equity, mercy, sovereignty, and power of God, in his dispensations of mercy and judgment towards them, in exact correspondence with his promises and threatenings; Lev. xxvi. Deut. xxviii.—xxxii.

CHAP. I.

Inform us of the activity or sloth of the tribes of Israel in extirpating the Canaanites from their respective territories. (1) Judah, directed of God, and assisted by the Simeonites, takes Bezek, cuts off the thumbs and great toes of its king, as he had done to seventy of his fellow princes; takes Jerusalem, Hebron, Debir, Hormah, Gaza, and other places; but dares not attack the Canaanites of the low country who had chariots of iron; 1—20. But (2) the other tribes acted still worse. The Ephraimites did nothing to expel the Canaanites; 21. The Ephraimites and Manassites began well against Bethel, but soon stopt short: they, however, as well as the Zebulunites and Naphtalites, as quickly as they could, rendered the Canaanites tributary to them; 22—30, 33. The Asherites did not so much as require tribute; 31, 32: and the Danites yielded up part of their territory which they had possessed to the Amorites; 34—36.

NOW, ^aafter the death of Joshua, it came to pass that the children of Israel ^basked the LORD, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them?

^c2 And the LORD said, ^cJudah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

^d3 And Judah said unto ^dSimeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

^e4 And Judah went up; and the ^eLORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in ^fBezek ten thousand men.

^g5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites.

^h6 But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and ⁱcut off his thumbs and his great toes.

^j7 And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having ^ktheir thumbs and their great toes cut off, ^lgathered their meat under my table: ^mas I have done so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

ⁿ8 Now the children of Judah ⁿhad fought against ^oJerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

^r10 ¶ And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in ^rHebron: (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba:) ^sand they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmi.

^t11 ¶ And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir: (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher:)

^u12 And ^uCaleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

^v13 And ^vOthniel, the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, took it; and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

^w14 And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou?

^x15 And she said unto him, Give me a ^xblessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

^y16 ¶ And the ^ychildren of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up out of the ^ycity of palm trees with the children of Judah into the ^ywilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of Arad; and they went and dwelt among the people.

^z17 ¶ And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. And the name of the city was called ^zHormah.

^{aa}18 Also Judah took ^{aa}Gaza with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof.

^{ab}19 ^{ab}And the LORD was with Judah; and ^{ab}he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain; but ^{ab}could not drive out the

CHAP. II.

Contains (1) A solemn message, which God sent to the Israelites by an angel, (viz. Christ,) reproving them for not driving out the Canaanites, and the humbling impression it made upon them; 1—5. (2) A general view of the state of the Israelites during the government of the judges. 1. They adhered to the Lord their God while Joshua and the elders contemporary with him lived; 6—10. 2. They soon after revolted to idolatry; 11—13. 3. God punished them for their apostasy, by delivering them into the hands of their enemies; 14, 15: 4. In compassion to them, he raised them up deliverers; 16—18: 5. They always relapsed into idolatry when the judgments were removed; 19: 6. God in wrath, put a full stop to their extirpation of the Canaanites; 20—

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—Difficult and extensive is the work which the people of God and the rulers of nations and churches have to go through with, after one would think every thing was rectified. There is need to acknowledge the Lord in all our ways, that being animated by him to our proper work, we may prosecute it with courage and success. And the more honour or ability God gives to men, the more difficult work he assigns them. But God most fearfully humbles the proud, marks their sins in their judgments, and metes out to them the measure which they had meted out to others; while such as share with the people of God in their wilderness sufferings, share also in their eternal inheritance. Our own unbelief, sloth, and cowardice, frequently hinder our performance of duty, and prevent or mar much of our happiness. Yea, many secret enemies, still abiding in our hearts, prevent our fully entering into the rest and peace of the gospel; and are causes of daily disquietude and anxiety. But, in following bad examples, things readily go on to worse and worse. And yet how great is the goodness of God—instead of casting off his chosen people, he multiplies his pardons and mercies to them.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—Inexcusable are the sins of such as enjoy the oracles of God: and it is but madness and self-deceiving to expect advantage from friendship with the enemies of God around us, or our own corruptions within us; for, in offending God by one sin, we provoke him to give us up to a greater, with the misery which attends it. And none know how brutish in sin they may become if once given up to their heart's lusts; nor what plagues and misery they may meet with in their course. What pains God uses to check his people's sinful rebellion against him, or revolting from him! And deep are the impressions of his rebukes when effectually blessed. But even then not our ears, however sincere and penitential, but the atoning sacrifice of Jesus Christ, can make us pure from our iniquity. Faithful ministers and magistrates are a Hos. 6. 4.

NOW these are the nations which the LORD left, to prove Israel by them, even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only that the generations of the children of Israel might know, to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof;

3 Namely, five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath.

4 And they were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 ¶ And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites:

6 And they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods.

7 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and forgot the LORD their God, and served Baalim and the groves.

8 ¶ Therefore the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Chushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia. And the children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim eight years.

9 And when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD the LORD raised up a deliverer to the children of Israel, who delivered them, even Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.

10 And the spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war: and the LORD delivered Chushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed against Chushan-rishathaim.

11 And the land had rest forty years. And Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

12 ¶ And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD strengthened Eglon the king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of Ammon and Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed the city of palm trees.

14 So the children of Israel served Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

beneficial restraint upon nations and churches: yet we may commonly observe that the power and life of religion rarely flourish in a place for more than one generation at a time. And it is an awful sign to this effect when young ones grow up in ignorance and forgetfulness of God and his mighty works. But how infinite the extent of God's mercy and patience! he bears with, and even pardons and delivers, transgressors in the moment of their greatest extremity; and calls and blesses instruments for that end. But, Lord, what are men! they often become more hardened under such mercies and judgments—at the hazard of provoking thee to the uttermost, they return again and again to the very abomination for which they had formerly smarted! No wonder then that they are given up to uncommon rage of lusts, or of lasting punishment.

15 But, when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, † a Benjamite, a man † left-handed: and by him the children of Israel sent a present unto Eglon the king of Moab.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger which had † two edges, of a cubit length; and he did gird it under his raiment upon his right thigh.

17 And he brought the present unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man.

18 And, when he had made an end to offer the present, he sent away the people that bare the present.

19 But he himself turned again from the † quarries that were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence. And all that stood by him went out from him.

20 And Ehud came unto him; and he was sitting in a † summer parlour, which he had for himself, alone. And Ehud said, I have a † message from God unto thee. And he † arose out of his seat.

22 And the haft also went in after the blade; and the fat closed upon the blade, so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly; and the † dirt came out.

23 Then † Ehud went forth through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.

24 When he was gone out his servants came; and when they saw that, behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he † covereth his feet in his summer chamber.

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed: and, behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour; therefore they took a key, and opened them: and, behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried, and passed beyond the quarries, and escaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to pass, when he was come, that he † blew a trumpet in † the mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

28 And he said unto them, Follow after me: for the LORD hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the † fords of Jordan toward Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over.

29 And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all † lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man.

30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. † And the land had rest fourscore years.

31 ¶ And after him was † Shamgar the son of Anath, who slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad: and he also delivered Israel.

(2) Deborah, as the judge of Israel, calls for Barak, and concert's their deliverance: but, to punish his unbelieving cowardice, the glory of the victory is assigned to a woman; 4—9. 2 And the LORD † sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in † Hazor; the captain of whose host was Sisera, who dwelt in † Harosheth of † the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Israel † cried unto the LORD: for he had nine hundred † chariots of iron; and twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

4 ¶ And † Deborah a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time.

5 And she dwelt under † the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.

6 And she sent and called † Barak the son of Abinoam out of † Kedesh-Naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the † LORD God of Israel commanded, saying, Go and draw toward † mount Tabor, and take with thee † ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun?

7 And I † will draw unto thee, to the † river Kishon, Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go; but, if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go.

9 And she said, I will surely go with thee: † notwithstanding, the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the LORD † shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to † Kedesh.

10 ¶ And Barak called † Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men at † his feet; and Deborah went up with him.

11 Now † Heber the Kenite, who was of the children of Hobab the father-in-law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the † plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—While men are on earth, inward corruptions and outward enemies will be still left, to prove their steadfastness or exercise their graces. One of the most dangerous snares is an irreligious partner in marriage, which is ruinous in its consequences, as it opens a wide inlet to every abomination, and generally leads to forgetfulness of God. But God can easily find instruments to punish us, far or near, even among our own relations. And yet how light, especially at first, are his strokes of vengeance in comparison of what our iniquities deserve. God also can easily find and qualify instruments for the deliverance of his people: and ordinarily he employs such as have been most courageous and faithful in his work, or such as seem naturally most unfit for it. But, if we, after deliverances, return to our own sins, we may expect that God will return to judgment: and, if lighter corrections have been ineffectual, God will make them longer and heavier. Nor is any instrument so despicable, but he can make it the rod of his anger. Wicked men, kings not excepted, are often fattened up to their own shame and destruction, and find their message from God, in a ruinous stroke of his wrath. But easy work is the ruin of the strongest enemies when we are called, directed, and assisted by God!

12 And they shewed Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

13 And Sisera *gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river of Kishon.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: 'is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him.

15 And the LORD discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet.

16 But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host, unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword; and there was not a man left.

17 ¶ Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

18 And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not. And, when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a mantle.

19 And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirsty. And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent; and it shall be, when any man doth come and inquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No.

21 Then Jael Heber's wife took a nail of the tent, and took an hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, and fastened it into the ground: for he was fast asleep and weary: So he died.

22 And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will shew thee the man whom thou seekest. And, when he came into her tent, behold, Sisera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

23 ¶ So God subdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel.

24 And the hand of the children of Israel prospered, and prevailed against Jabin the king of Canaan until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAP. V.

Is an hymn composed by Deborah and Barak, upon occasion of their victory over the Canaanites. (1) It begins with high praises to God their deliverer, and compares his present appearances for them with those at Sinai; 1—5. (2) It magnifies their deliverance from the calamitous condition in which the country had been, having no safety in walking by the way, or living in their villages, and being destitute of arms; 6—8. (3) It calls those who had shared in the benefit, whether nobles, common people, leaders, or soldiers, to join in thanksgiving; 9—13. (4) It reflects honour upon the tribes of Ephraim, Issachar, Benjamin, and Manasseh, which had contributed leaders or assistants; and chiefly on Zebulun and Naphtali, which had borne the principal burden in the war; 13, 15, 18: and dishonour upon the Reubenites, Gadites, Manassites, beyond Jordan, Danites, and Asherites; but especially on the inhabitants of Meroz, who had declined engaging in it; 15, 17, 33. (5) It celebrates God's fighting against the Canaanites by stars and rivers, as well as by the Israelites; 19—22. (6) It largely celebrates the slaughter of Sisera by Jael, and the disappointment of his impious mother; 24—30. (7) It concludes with a prayer for a similar destruction of all God's enemies; 31.

THEN sang Deborah and Barak the song of Abinoam on that day, saying,

2 Praise ye the LORD for the avenging of Israel, when the people willingly offered themselves.

3 Hear, O ye kings; give ear, O ye princes; I, even I, will sing unto the LORD; I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 LORD, when thou wentest out of Seir, when thou marchedst out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds also dropped water.

5 The mountains melted from before the LORD, even that Sinai, from before the LORD God of Israel.

6 In the days of Shamgar the son of Anath, in the days of Jael, the highways were unoccupied, and the travellers walked through by-ways.

7 The inhabitants of the villages ceased, they ceased in Israel, until that I Deborah arose, that I arose a mother in Israel.

8 They chose new gods; then was war in the gates: was there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel?

9 My heart is toward the governors of Israel that offered themselves willingly among the people. Bless ye the LORD.

10 ¶ Speak, ye that ride on white asses, ye that sit in judgment, and walk by the way.

11 They that are delivered from the noise of archers in the place of drawing water, there shall they rehearse the righteous acts of the LORD, even the righteous acts toward the inhabitants of his villages in Israel: then shall the people of the LORD go down to the gates.

12 Awake, awake, Deborah: awake, awake, utter a song: arise, Barak, and lead thy captivity captive, thou son of Abinoam.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people: the LORD made me have dominion over the mighty.

14 Out of Ephraim was there a root of them against Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, among thy people; out of REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—Long-continued peace and prosperity are often made the occasion of great wickedness, which issues in heavier and sharper punishments than any formerly met with. But a merciful God readily hears the cries of his people under the distress which they have provoked him to lay upon them: and in his work of deliverance there is neither male nor female, but he himself is ALL and in ALL! Such, as through unbelief are too eagerly desirous of human help or encouragement, are often punished with a loss of part of that honour which they might otherwise have had. But fearful, irresistible, and unavoidable, is the ruin which proud sinners shall meet with when and where they expected nothing but safety, victory, and triumph. When God attacks there is no standing: when he pursues there is no escaping: when he begins he will also make an end: but such as trust in him shall never be disappointed. They who go forth in faith shall return victorious. Even the weak things of the world shall confound the mighty. And happy is it for us even when dark-bought experience animates us at last to mortify our conceptions, and purge out the Canaanites from the church of Christ.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—God must have all the glory of his work; whoever be the instruments, the success is entirely owing to him. His new favours should occasion an affecting remembrance of former ones, and of our relation to him as our God: and the heights of his mercy should be compared with the depths of distress into which our apostasy from him hath brought us.—Oh! What woes befall people in every place and station when God departs from them! They have no comfort, no safety, no protection left. And, though the enemies of the Lord are unanimous and hearty against him and his interests, yet certain is their final destruction, since even the irrational creation stands ready armed to destroy them. Eminent and lasting honours await those who heartily espouse the cause of Christ when it is in great danger, and who are determined to conquer or to die; but shame and curses shall descend on those who, for their ease or carnal advantage, remain neutral and unconcerned. Such as would save their lives by their cowardice or carnal fears shall lose them; and such as are afraid or ashamed to join God's people in an evil day shall be held as deserters from God's camp and treated accordingly. Death makes easy work with the mightiest heroes: and bitter is the meeting with terrible disasters, when our vain hopes of success, glory, and wealth, are wound up to the highest. But how bright and lasting the glory of such as fight the good fight of faith, and work by love to the Lord! Their path is like the rising sun, shining brighter and brighter to the perfect day.

Abi-ezrite: and his son Gideon threshed wheat by the wine press, ||to hide it from the Midianites.

12 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him, and said unto him, ^aThe LORD is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gideon said unto him, Oh, my lord, if the LORD be with us, ^awhy then is all this befallen us? and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, "Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? ^abut now the LORD hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

14 And the LORD looked upon him, and said, ^aGo in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee?

15 And he said unto him, Oh, my lord, ^awherewith shall I save Israel? behold, ^amy family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house.

16 And the LORD said unto him, ^aSurely I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man.

17 And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, ^athen shew me a sign that thou talkest with me.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth ^amy ^apresent, and set it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

19 And Gideon went in, and made ready ^aa kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and ^apour out the broth. And he did so.

21 Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened cakes; and ^athere rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the unleavened cakes. ^aThen the angel of the LORD departed out of his sight.

22 And, when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon said, Alas, O LORD God! ^afor because I have seen an angel of the LORD face to face!

23 And the LORD said unto him, ^aPeace be unto thee; fear not; thou shalt not die.

24 ^aThen Gideon built an altar there unto the LORD, and called it ^aJehovah-shalom: unto this day it is yet in ^aOphrah of the Abi-ezrites.

25 ¶ And it came to pass, the same night, that the LORD said unto him, ^aTake thy father's young bullock, ||even the second bullock of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and cut down the ^agrove that is by it:

26 And ^abuild an altar unto the LORD thy God upon the top of this ^arock, ^ain the ordered place; and take the second bullock, and offer a ^aburnt-sacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his servants, and ^adid as the LORD had said unto him: and so it was, because he ^afear'd his father's household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And, when they inquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, ^aBring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, ^aWill ye plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will ^aplead for him, let him be put to death whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar.

32 Therefore on that day he called him ^aJerubbaal, saying, Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar.

33 ¶ ^aThen all the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and the children of the east, were gathered together, and ^awent over, and pitched in the valley of Jezreel.

34 But ^athe spirit of the LORD ^acame upon Gideon, and ^ahe blew a trumpet; and ^aAbi-ezer ||was gathered after him.

35 And he sent messengers throughout all Manasseh; who also was gathered after him: and he sent messengers unto Asher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali; and they came up to meet them.

36 ¶ And Gideon said unto God, ^aIf thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said, 37 Behold, I will put a fleece of wool in the floor; and if the dew ^abe on the fleece only, and it be dry upon all the earth beside, then shall I know that thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said.

38 And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl-full of water.

39 And Gideon said unto God, ^aLet not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be ^adry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God did so that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

By converse with God, by conquest of Baal, and by lemying an army, Gideon was prepared for the war. Here, (1) By dismissing the cowards, and such as drank on their knees, his army of thirty-two thousand is, by God's direction, reduced to three hundred; 1—8. (2) By sending Gideon into the camp of the Midianites, to hear the relation of a dream, and his companions interpretation of it, God further encourages his hopes of success; 9—15. (3) By an unarmed attack, Gideon and his few forces throw the Midianites into a terrible panic, in which they kill one another, or flee for their life; 16—22. (4) The disbanded troops, and other Israelites, fall upon the fugitives, and kill two of their kings; 23—25.

THEN ^aJerubbaal, who is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, ^brose up early, and pitched beside the well of ^cHarod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the ^dvalley.

2 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are ^etoo many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me.

3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, ^fWhosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand.

4 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will ^gtry them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, this shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD said unto Gideon, ^hEvery one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

7 And the LORD said unto Gideon, ⁱBy the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and ^jtheir trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the host of Midian was ^kbeneath him in the valley.

9 ¶ And it came to pass the same night, that the LORD said unto him, ^lArise, get thee down unto the host; for I have delivered it into thine hand.

10 But, if ^mthou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host:

11 ⁿAnd thou shalt hear what they say; and afterwards shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the ^oarmed men that were in the host.

12 And ^pthe Midianites, and the Amalekites, and all the children of the east, lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the sea side for multitude.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, ^qthere was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo ^ra cake of barley-bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along.

14 And his ^sfellow answered, and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host.

15 And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and ^tthe interpretation thereof, that he ^uworshipped, and returned into the host of Israel, and said, ^vArise, for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

16 ¶ And he divided the three hundred men into three companies; and he put ^wa trumpet in every man's hand, with ^xempty pitchers, and ^ylamps within the pitchers.

17 And he said unto them, ^zLook on me, and do likewise: and, behold, when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be ^{aa}that as I do so shall ye do.

18 When I blow with the trumpet, I and all that are with me, then ^{ab}blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, ^{ac}The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

19 ¶ So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp ^{ad}in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and ^{ae}brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

20 And the three companies ^{af}blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—Neither judgments nor mercies, however often repeated, can restrain revolting and rebellious hearts from the most abominable crimes. But they, who abuse God's common benefits in prodigality and luxury, live often to feel the want of them in hunger and nakedness. What arant cowards men are often made by their own guilty and accusing consciences! And, after all, in the day of distress, there is no hope but in God himself: and, when his service is so reasonable, ingratitude to him, the God of mercy and grace, cannot fail highly to aggravate our transgressions. It is the indispensable duty of ministers to deal plainly and closely with their hearers' consciences, as conviction of sin is an hopeful token of approaching deliverance; and God often chuses that time for delivering us when our case appears most desperate. But how hard is it to reconcile our afflictive experiences with the promises of God to us—to believe either what God has done, or what he will do, when present providences appear just the reverse! Yet God delights to honour such as are humble.

Let not his saints therefore consider their weakness, when felt, as any reason for evading the great work which God puts into their hands. With infinite condescension God gives not only unalterable promises, but even miraculous signs, for the encouragement of his faint-hearted servants. And such as enjoy noted communion with him eagerly desire to prolong the visit, and to testify their grateful regard to him and to his messengers. If God call us to extraordinary work, we must, without delay, and regardless of the will of wicked men, begin reformation at home. Nor, however zealous we have been in the cause of wickedness, must we be ashamed to change our conduct, or to protect the innocent. When God calls men to hard work he can easily furnish them with assistants, even where they could least have been expected. And yet, after all, their unbelieving jealousies render necessary new tokens of God's presence and assistance in it.

21 And they ^dstood every man in his place round about the camp: and ^eall the host ran, and cried, and fled.

22 And the three hundred blew the trumpets: and the LORD set every man's sword against his fellow, even throughout all the host: and the host fled to Beth-shittah [†]in Zererath, and to the [†]border of ^gAbel-meholah, unto Tabbath.

23 And the ^hmen of Israel gathered themselves together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

24 ¶ And Gideon ⁱsent messengers throughout all mount Ephraim, saying, Come down against the Midianites, and ^ktake before them the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themselves together, and took the waters unto ^lBeth-barah and Jordan.

25 And they took ^mtwo princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb; and they slew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they slew at the wine press of Zeeb, and pursued Midian; and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon ⁿon the other side Jordan.

CHAP. VIII.

Contains the sequel of Gideon's history; and relates (1) How prudently he pacified the offended Ephraimites; 1—3. (2) How bravely he pursued the fugitive Midianites; 4, 10—12. (3) How justly he chastised the men of Succoth and Penuel, who insolently abused him, and refused refreshment to his troops; 5—9, 13—17. (4) How honourably he slew the two kings of Midian when his son declined it through fear; 18—21. (5) How modestly he declined the government of the delivered Israelites when it was offered to him; 22, 23. (6) How foolishly he gratified the people in setting up a kind of sacred ephod in his own city, which induced them to idolatry; 24—27. (7) With what honour he died, after forty years of prosperity, and left a numerous family; 28—32. (8) How quickly both he and his God were forgotten by the ungrateful Israelites; 33—35.

AND the men of Ephraim said unto him, ^aWhy hast thou served us thus, that thou calledst us not when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? And they did chide with him sharply.

2 And he said unto them, ^bWhat have I done now in comparison of you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer?

3 ^cGod hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? Then their [†]anger was abated toward him when he had said that.

4 ¶ And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, ^dfaint, yet pursuing them.

5 And he said unto the men of ^eSuccoth, Give, I pray you, ^floaves of bread unto the people that follow me; for they be faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.

6 And the princes of Succoth said,

Are the hands of Zeba and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thine army?

7 And Gideon said, Therefore, when the LORD hath delivered Zeba and Zalmunna into mine hand, then I will [†]tear [†]your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers.

8 And he went up thence to ^hPenuel, and spake unto them likewise: and the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered him.

9 And he spake also unto the men of Penuel, saying, When I ⁱcome again in peace, I will break down this tower.

10 ¶ Now Zeba and Zalmunna were in ^lKarkor, and their hosts with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that were left of all the hosts of the children of the east: for ^kthere fell [§]an hundred and twenty thousand men that drew sword.

11 And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents on the ^least of Nobah and Jogbehah, and ^msmote the host; for the host was ⁿsecure.

12 And, when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he pursued after them, and ⁿtook the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and ^{*}discomfited all the host.

13 ¶ And Gideon the son of Joash returned from battle before the sun was up, 14 And ^ocaught a young man of the men of Succoth, and inquired of him: and he [†]described unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threescore and seventeen men.

15 And he came unto the men of Succoth, and said, Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye did upbraid me, saying, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thy men that are weary?

16 And ^phe took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderness and briers, and with them he [†]taught the men of Succoth.

17 And he ^qbeat down the tower of Penuel, and slew the ^rmen of the city.

18 ¶ Then said he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, what manner of men were they whom ye slew at ^sTabor? And they answered, ^tAs thou art, so were they; each one ^uresembled the children of a king.

19 And he said, They were my brethren, even the sons of my mother: as the LORD liveth, if ye had saved them alive I would not slay you.

20 And he said unto Jether his first-born, ^vUp, and slay them. But the youth drew not his sword: for he feared, because he was yet a youth.

21 Then Zebah and Zalmunna said, his promise when he lays aside almost every apparent mean of accomplishing it. But reasonable and sympathizing are the consolations of God to his favourites. By the most inconsiderable incidents he can promote and encourage to the greatest exploits. With great ease he can rout and destroy his most presumptuous and numerous enemies, and make them to kill one another, or flee when none pursued, while his people behold his salvation. But it is proper for us to assist the people of God against their enemies, and to mark the distinguished providences of God as a mean of awakening our thankfulness, or confirming our faith on after occasions.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—When God affords remarkable encouragement his service should be undertaken with the greatest earnestness: and let us remember that God is apt to try his people's faith thoroughly in the progress of their work, who insisted too much in trying him in their entrance on it. When multitudes flock to God's standard, many of them are ordinarily unfit for his service: many never weigh the consequences, and therefore quickly start aside. And such as are enslaved by the fear of men are better out of God's camp than in it; for God will take every means to convince his people that they ought to have no dependence on an arm of flesh. And happy are they who can believe

* Rise thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gideon arose, and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ornaments that were on their camels' necks.

22 ¶ Then the men of Israel said unto Gideon, Rule thou over us, both thou, and thy son, and thy son's son also: for thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian.

23 And Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you; the LORD shall rule over you.

24 And Gideon said unto them, I would desire a request of you; that ye would give me every man the earrings of his prey. For they had golden earrings, because they were Ishmaelites.

25 And they answered, We will willingly give them. And they spread a garment, and did cast therein every man the earrings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden earrings that he requested was a *thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold; beside ornaments, and †collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beside the chains that were about their camels' necks.

27 And Gideon made an ephod thereof, and put it in his city, even in Ophrah: and all Israel went thither a whoring after it: which thing became a snare unto Gideon, and to his house.

28 ¶ Thus was Midian subdued before the children of Israel, so that they lifted up their heads no more. And the country was in quietness forty years in the days of Gideon.

29 ¶ And Jerubbaal the son of Joash went and dwelt in his own house.

30 And Gideon had †threescore and ten sons of his body begotten; for he had many wives.

31 And his concubine, that was in Shechem, she also bare him a son, whose name he called Abimelech.

32 ¶ And Gideon the son of Joash died in a good old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

33 And it came to pass, as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and went a whoring after Baalim, and made Baal-berith their god.

34 And the children of Israel remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side:

35 Neither shewed they kindness to the house of Jerubbaal, namely, Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

CHAP. IX.

Here Israel's ingratitude to God and to Gideon is punished in the tyranny of Abimelech, his bastard. (1) By subtlety, and by the murder of sixty-nine of his father's lawful sons, he intrudes himself into the government at Shechem; 1—6. (2) Jotham, his youngest and only surviving brother, in his parable of the trees setting a king over themselves, foretells the doom of Abimelech and his assistants; 7—21. (3) After three years' mutual enmity and strife arise between him and his Shechemite friends, fomented by Gaal on the one hand, and by Zebul on the other; 22—41. (4) This contention issues in the destruction of the Shechemites, and soon after of Abimelech; 42—57.

AND Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem unto his mother's brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying,

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, Whether is better for you, either that all the sons of Jerubbaal, which are threescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also that I am your bone and your flesh.

3 And his mother's brethren spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined to follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our brother.

4 And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver, out of the house of Baal-berith; wherewith Abimelech hired vain and light persons, which followed him.

5 And he went unto his father's house at Ophrah, and slew his brethren the sons of Jerubbaal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding, yet Jotham the youngest son of Jerubbaal was left; for he hid himself.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the house of Millo, and went and made Abimelech king, by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

7 ¶ And, when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of mount Gerizzim, and lifted up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

8 The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—Only by pride cometh contention. Evil persons are extremely jealous of their carnal honours, and apt to reckon the just exaltation of every body else an injury done to themselves. It is common for cowards to pretend valour when the danger is over or distant; but humility disposes a man to think meanly of his own works, and to put honour from himself to his neighbour; and meanwhile adds a double lustre to all his gifts, graces, or attainments. Soft words most effectually turn away wrath: nor must we count it strange to be abused by the tongues of those whose lives we have saved at the hazard of our own. Having begun a good work, we must go on with it: notwithstanding the most heavy and unnatural discouragements, perseverance will be infallibly crowned with success. The security of sinners most certainly proves their ruin; and it meets them when and where they thought it was quite over: for men's pride brings them low; and the insolence of their tongues renders them miserable.—It is just and proper for magistrates sharply to correct those who are barbarous or abusive; and men's distress often occasions new discoveries of their guilt. Though hand should join in hand, sinners shall not pass unpunished. If one agent fear, another will dare to execute the vengeance of God upon them. It is much better to be of an humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide the spoil with the proud. Ambition to exalt one's family is ordinarily a ruinous snare. But it is very dangerous for rulers, in church or state, to humour people in matters of religion, or to indulge their carnal ease or honour in that point. What appears innocent at first may soon become a dangerous snare. Small beginnings of superstition or idolatry lead to still greater abominations: and, when God removes the restraints, men will quickly relapse to their wonted or worse idolatries. It is hard to make base minds grateful, either to God or to their human benefactors; but it is easy to decoy them into one form of wickedness after another.

But in this Hebrew judge let Jesus, the great deliverer, be discerned. His condition on earth was mean and debased; his call to his work express, solemn, seasonable, and necessary; and miraculous the repeated confirmations of it. Being the mighty God, and endowed with the Spirit above measure, he, with burning zeal, offered his sacrifice of himself, overthrew idolatry, and restored the true worship of God, beginning in his own country of Judea. By a few weak and unarmed preachers, sounding the gospel trumpet, and displaying its light and fire from their earthen vessels, he did, and shall, foil Satan, the world, and death, with their innumerable agents. And at the last day, being revealed in flaming fire, and attended with the trump of God, he shall spread terror and ruin among all his opposers. Kindly he invites his brethren of mankind to share in his victories, and to follow after him only to spoil. Meekly he pacifies his proud and unreasonable friends: but the most terrible vengeance he did and will execute upon his despisers of Judah and of Rome, and upon all such as refuse his people or ministers their necessary supplies.

CHAP. X.

Here we have (1) Israel at peace, at least for a time, under the government of Tola of Issachar, and Jair the Manassite; the last of whom had a numerous family; 1—5. (2) Israel relapsing into idolatry, and punished with eighteen years of terrible oppression by the Ammonites on the east, and the Philistines on the west; 6—9. (3) When the Israelites begin crying to God for relief, he upbraids them with their repeated ingratitude, and refuses to deliver them, but at last appears more favourable; 10—16. (4) While the Ammonites raise an army to ravage the country, the Israelites, animated by God, resolve to oppose them; 17, 18.

AND after Abimelech there ^aarose, to ^{*}†defend Israel, Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo. a man of Issachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim.

2 And he judged Israel twenty and three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 ¶ And after him arose ^{*}Jair, a Gileadite, and judged Israel twenty and two years.

4 ^bAnd he had thirty sons that rode on thirty ass-colts; and they had thirty cities, which are called ^cHavoth-jair unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

6 And ^dthe children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim, and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and forsook the LORD, and served not him.

7 And ^ethe anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hands of the Philistines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon.

8 And that ^fyear they vexed and ^goppressed the children of Israel eighteen years, all the children of Israel that were on the other side Jordan in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead.

9 ^hMoreover, the children of Ammon passed over Jordan to fight also against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim; so that Israel was sore distressed.

10 ¶ ⁱAnd the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, saying, We have sinned murder, treason, and every other evil work: but insolent boastings of valour, in the fumes of wine, ordinarily issue in cowardice and shame. Nor can they, who are rebels themselves, justly expect fidelity from their associates; for rebellions, even against evil princes, usually issue in the ruin of the traitors. Civil wars are usually the most inhumane, in which the innocent and guilty perish without distinction. But what miseries wicked rulers entail upon their poor subjects! And how terrible is their end at last, when God returns their murder and other wickedness on their heads! When God hath finished his work with them, he debases and destroys them. They die in their sins; and the methods they took to secure their fame do but serve to perpetuate their disgrace. But let us remember that there is no refuge for us amidst all our spiritual enemies, and from the hand of an angry God, but in Christ the Saviour of sinners, and the strong-hold of his chosen people.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—For the transgression of a land, many and base are the princes thereof. Such as have wicked purposes stick at nothing to gain their end; and, being conscious of their own bad designs, are apt to suspect, or at least accuse, others who are innocent of the same ill intentions; and instruments are never wanting to assist in the most bloody and ruinous conduct. —Proud and evil men push after that elevation which wise and humble persons shun: nor is any one more overbearing and insolent than a low mind raised above his station. Such as enter into rule as foxes in craft often rule like lions in cruelty, and die like dogs in disgrace. Accomplices in wickedness readily become plagues and murderers to one another: and none are nearer to ruin than those upon whom fair warnings are lost. When kingdoms are once disjointed, one base villain readily sets up against another, and traitors mutually distrust and betray each other. When men are intoxicated with wine they are fit for against thee, both because we have for-

11 And the LORD said unto the children of Israel, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, from the children of Ammon, and from the Philistines?

12 The Zidonians also, and the Amalekites, and the Maonites, did oppress you; and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand.

13 Yet ye have forsaken me, and served other gods; wherefore I will deliver you no more.

14 Go and cry unto the gods which ye have chosen; let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

15 ¶ And the children of Israel said unto the LORD, We have sinned: do thou unto us whatsoever seemeth good unto thee; deliver us only, we pray thee, this day.

16 And they put away the strange gods from among them, and served the LORD: and his soul was grieved for the misery of Israel.

17 ¶ Then the children of Ammon were gathered together, and encamped in Gilead. And the children of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpeh.

18 And the people and princes of Gilead said one to another, What man is he that will begin to fight against the children of Ammon? he shall be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

CHAP. XI.

Here (1) Jephthah, the once-expelled son of an harlot, is elected by his brethren of Gilead to head them against the Ammonites; and he, with solemn prayer, accepts the charge; 1—11.
(2) By repeated remonstrances to the king of the Ammonites, he unsuccessfully attempts to compose matters without bloodshed; 12—28. (3) He enters on the war with a solemn but rash vow;
he prosecutes it with bravery, and finishes it in a glorious victory; 29—33. (4) After his return from conquest his vow greatly distresses him, and issues in the sacrificing of his daughter; 34—40.

NOW Jephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valour, and he was the son of an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah.

2 And Gilead's wife bare him sons; and his wife's sons grew up, and they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him, Thou shalt not inherit in our father's house, for thou art the son of a strange woman.

3 Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob:
and there were gathered vain men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

4 ¶ And it came to pass, in process of time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel.

5 And it was so that, when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob:

6 And they said unto Jephthah, Come, and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

7 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in distress?

8 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

9 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, shall I be your head?

10 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, The LORD be witness between us, if we do not so according to thy words.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words before the LORD
in Mizpeh.

12 ¶ And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land?

13 And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, Because Israel took away my land when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore restore those lands again peaceably.

14 And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon:

15 And said unto him, Thus saith Jephthah, Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon:

16 But when Israel came up from Egypt, and walked through the wilderness unto the Red sea, and came to Kadesh;

17 Then Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land: but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto.
And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab: but he would not consent.
And Israel abode in Kadesh.

18 Then they went along through the wilderness, and compassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and came by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—God can easily heap wealth on families, or render them happy with a moderate share: and it is a great mercy to a country when God raises up one impartial administrator of justice after another. Those whose hearts were never changed, soon relapse into the very sins for which they had often severely smarted, and even become more and more wicked: and, when under the rods of wrath are quickly contemned, God will, in justice or in love, apply his double strokes;—strokes on every hand! But if at last they bring us a kindly sense of sin, and cordial crying to God, we must esteem them amongst his greatest mercies; and, though sharp the trial, and God refuse to hear our distresses, yet let not the soul that is even frowned out of doors despair.

If he makes us plead guilty at his bar, renounce our idols, and submit to his mercy, there is hope in our end. His fatherly heart is touched with our wretchedness, and ready to receive the returning prodigals. He is loath to give up his people to utter destruction: and, when he restores his favourable smiles, they powerfully animate our hearts against every foe. But it is of great importance, in our spiritual warfare, to have proper leaders and directors; and especially that we cleave close to Christ, the great Captain of his people.

Before Christ
1146, or 1165.

Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place.

20 But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

21 And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they possessed ^aall the coasts of the Amorites, from ^{*}Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.

23 So now the LORD God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldst thou possess it?

24 Wilt not thou possess that which ^aChemosh thy god giveth thee to possess? So ^bwhomsoever the LORD our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess.

25 ^cAnd now art thou any thing better than Balak the son of Zippor king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them, 26 While Israel dwelt in Heshbon and her towns, and in Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, ^dthree hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou dost me wrong to war against me: ^ethe LORD the Judge be judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 ^fHowbeit, the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

29 ¶ Then ^gthe spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah, and he passed over Gilead, and Manasseh, and passed over ^hMizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

30 And Jephthah ⁱvowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands, 31 Then it shall be, that ^jwhatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the LORD's, ^kand I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

32 ¶ So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his hands.

33 And he smote them from ^lAroer even till thou come to Minnith, even twenty cities, and unto [†]the plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

34 ¶ And Jephthah came to Mizpeh unto his house; and, behold, ^mhis daughter came out to meet him with timbrels and with dances; and she was his only child; [†]beside her he had neither son nor daughter.

35 And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he rent ⁿhis clothes, and said, Alas, my daughter! thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me; ^ofor I have opened my mouth unto the LORD, and I cannot go back.

36 And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the LORD, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as the LORD hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon.

37 And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: let me alone two months, that I may go up and down upon the mountains, and ^pbewail my virginity, I and my fellows.

38 And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months: and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains.

39 And it came to pass, at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who ^qdid with her according to his vow which he had vowed: and she knew no man.

40 And it was a ^rcustom in Israel, that the daughters of Israel went ^syearly ^{*}to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite four days in a year.

CHAP. XII.

Here (1) Jephthah severely punishes the quarrelsome Ephraimites for their threatening and abusive language to him and his troops; 1-6. (2) Perhaps heart-broken for his daughter's death, he soon after dies; 7. (3) Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon, judge Israel; and the first and last have numerous families; 8-15.

AND the men of Ephraim ^agathered themselves together, and went northward; and said unto Jephthah, Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn thine house upon thee with fire.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, ^bI and my people were at a great strife with the children of Ammon; and, when I

God for success in it. For it is reasonable that such as delight in war should be ruined by it. Unjust men are ready to insist upon the most antiquated claims; and, however many practise injustice, few choose to be reckoned unjust. But when the Lord hath given us any thing by special grant, we may insist upon the possession of it. To receive it from him, use it to his glory, keep it for his sake, and return it to him when he calls for it, is part of the duty which we owe to him. What care ought to be taken in contracting a solemn vow, that it may never prove a snare to our soul! And, having engaged to any thing lawful, we must in no wise go back. But it is mournful when parents by their rashness involve their obedient children in sin, in misery, or in death; and kind and comforting to make the joys and griefs of our neighbours our own. In this world, how is our wine mixed with water; our triumphs with distress; our joys with grief! Let these things make me long for the better country above.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—The indulgers of lawless lust ordinarily entail both misery and shame upon the unhappy fruit of their guilty amours. But it is unreasonable for us to reproach a man with the unhappiness of his birth, when his practice deserves a more honourable relation. God often first debases those whom he intends to exalt, and marks men's sins, not only in their distress, but also in the means of their deliverance. Whorish Israel must be now delivered and governed by the bastard son of an harlot, lately an exile: but no man ought to be trampled on, or despised; we may need his help ere we die. And if we have injured any, it is proper to entreat their pardon as quickly as possible. No injuries should render us implacable. Agreements ought to be very explicit and distinct; and, if important, ought to be ratified with solemn prayer. Before entrance on war, the most solemn acknowledgments should be made to God, and repeated endeavours peaceably to compose every difference; that so, if war cannot be avoided, we may prosecute it with a good conscience, and depend on

CHAP. XIII.

Here, (1) Israel having again relapsed into idolatry, and thereby fallen under forty years' oppression of the Philistines, the birth of Samson, a partial deliverer, is foretold to his mother; and he is devoted of God to be a perpetual Nazarite; 1—5. (2) Informed hereof by his wife, Manoah supplicates a second visit of the divine Messenger, for confirming his former declaration, and directing how to educate the child; 6—8. (3) God grants them both a visit; repeats his former directions relative to Nazariteship; is kindly entertained; refuses to declare his name; but, by his inflaming their sacrifice, and ascending to heaven, shews

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—Quarrels between brethren are often the most bitter and violent; for the most causeless wrath is the most outrageous and cruel. The most spotless characters are the fairest marks for envy; and the most signal services often expose men to the most virulent abuse of those whom they have saved from misery. But disregard of a calm self-vindication frequently forces the injured to harder measures. How mischievous is an insolent abusive tongue! It sets on fire the whole course of nature, and is set on fire of ill, and often issues in the ruin of the proprietor. They, who are most in fault, would often save themselves by being clamorous against the innocent: at the greatest boasters are usually the greatest cowards. Both God and men

Lately they went over Jordan to burn Jephthah's house upon him; now they sneak homeward, and are cut off from their own. Lately they reviled the Gileadites as fugitives; now, from an infirmity peculiar to their own country, they are discerned, and slain in their flight.—God sometimes calls men to an office without putting any remarkable work in their hand; and the days of the saints' honour or life are often but few and evil. REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—Where there is the greatest danger and the least prospect of relief, it often comes. Mercies, long waited for are rendered remarkably valuable, for the encouragement of others to wait on the Lord. And, to support the sinking spirits of his people, God often issues promises of salvation long before they are fulfilled. Those, whom God honours to be deliverers of churches and nations, ought to be remarkably holy themselves, and devoted to the service of God. Parents ought to beware of infecting their children with any thing of fleshly lusts ; and married persons ought to communicate their spiritual experiences one to another.—Divine instructions animate our desire after further fellowship with God : and how ready is God to satisfy such longing desires ! Such as enjoy real communion with him wish all their relations to share of it. And such as know the real importance of children will be earnestly desirous of God's direction and assistance in their education, for his honour. Mercies are mercies indeed only when they are rightly managed. But so treacherous are our memories and hearts, that we need line upon line, and precept upon precept ; and to have always at hand a loving and careful remembrancer. Gratitude to God, and to his ministers for his sake, is highly agreeable : but let us never tempt the one nor the other with our curious enquiries. What God conceals we may be holy without the knowledge of : and, if we ask in prayer what is not for our real advantage, it is a great mercy to have our suit denied. But how animating is it to behold an ascending Redeemer carrying our hearts and services, all inflamed with his love, along with him ! Let not his saints through unbelief be afraid of their signal mercies, or afraid to die in the Lord ; but ever put a just and favourable construction on the providences of God, and ever look to Jesus's sacrifice as the great foundation of their hopes and comforts. God's promises shall most certainly be fulfilled. And how pleasant to observe the early impressions of God's Spirit upon our children !

By courting an alliance with the Philistines, Samson had sought occasions against them. Here he finds several. (1) From the perfidiousness of his wife and her father, he takes occasion to burn their standing corn with foxes and firebrands; 1-5. (2) From the Philistines' punishment of his wife and her father, he takes occasion to kill multitudes of them, perhaps with his feet; 6-8. (3) From the unnatural delivery of him by his countrymen to the Philistines, he takes occasion to slay a thousand of the latter with the jaw-bone of an ass; 9-17. (4) To correct his pride, God distresses him with thirst; and then, at his request, miraculously supplies him with water; 18-20.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—It is dangerous to be guided by the eye in the choice of our marriage companions: but it is needful and proper to submit ourselves to the authority of parents, who are over us in the Lord, as their property and parts of themselves. And nothing ought they to object to so urgently, as to children's marrying with such as seem irreligious. God often indeed carries on his great purposes by means which cannot be justified in us; for when people are wandering out of God's way they have reason to expect dangers, and even devils, to meet with and oppose them. It is glorious when great exploits are attended with great humility; and highly becoming when persons keep up an affecting remembrance of what God has done for them, and cheerfully allow their parents a share of what they acquire by their labour. And it is prudent to amuse ourselves and others at cheerful entertainments with something instructive and useful. God often brings the sweetest mercies out of the severest trials: but the treacherous pretences of affection speedily issue in dislike and mischief. Secrets, once trusted out of our own breasts, seldom continue long such. Rash marriages often issue in sudden separations: and if women's affections once stray from their husbands, their persons will soon follow. Nor are any more apt to defile the bed than false pretenders to friendship.

THEN 'went Samson to 'Gaza, and saw there *an harlot, and went in unto her.

2 And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they 'compassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were † quiet all the night, saying, In the morning, when it is day, we shall 'kill him.

3 And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and 'took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, †bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of an hill that is before Hebron.

4 ¶ And it came to pass afterward, that he 'loved a woman ||in the valley of Sorek, whose name was 'Delilah.

5 And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, "and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to § afflict him: and we 'will give thee every one of us *cleven hundred pieces of silver.

6 And Delilah said to Samson, 'Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee.

7 And Samson said unto her, "If they bind me with seven * †green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as †another man.

8 Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she "bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber.) And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs as a thread of tow is broken when it °toucheth the fire. So his strength 'was not known.

10 And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now 'tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

11 And he said unto her, "If they bind me fast with new ropes §that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

12 Delilah therefore 'took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber.) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, 'If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

14 And she *fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and "went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

15 ¶ And she said unto him, *How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? Thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was 'vexed unto death;

17 That he told her 'all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come 'a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

18 And, when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and 'brought money in their hand.

19 And 'she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

20 And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he knew not that 'the LORD was departed from him.

21 ¶ But the Philistines took him,

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—An alliance into prophane and graceless families, or giving way to unreasonable jealousies, are sources of great unhappiness: but when we have done our duty to prevent a quarrel, we cannot be charged with the consequences of it. Passion is terrible to all around, but it is glorious when the offended party is the first in coveting reconciliation. God often makes use of his people's enemies to avenge their quarrel. And such as, by sin, seek to avoid suffering, only bring upon themselves more terrible destruction. The people of God indeed have need to expect but little repose in this world. One conflict closely succeeds to another: and those, whom God raises up to be deliverers in church or state, frequently receive the most base and treacherous abuse from their friends, for whose sake they spend their pains and risk their life. But, if God be for us, no matter what or who may be against us, or how small our assistance be: for, though humbling providences closely follow after the most exalting, that we may know that we are but flesh, frail flesh; and may be constrained to a constant dependance on God, and fervent supplication to him; yet will he supply all our wants, and fill our mouths with his praise.

Before Christ 1430. and [†]put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and [†]bound him with fetters of brass; and he [§]did grind in the prison-house.

²² ^hHowbeit the hair of his head began to grow again ^{||}after he was shaven.

²³ ¶ Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto [†]Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.

²⁴ And when the people saw him they ^kpraised their god: for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, [§]who slew many of us.

²⁵ And it came to pass, when their [†]hearts were merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison-house; and he made ^{*}them ^msport: and they set him between the pillars.

²⁶ ¶ And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

²⁷ Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were ⁿupon the roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport.

²⁹ And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood, and [†]on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left.

³⁰ And Samson said, Let [†]me die with the Philistines. And he bowed himself with all his might: and the house ^pfell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the ^qdead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in his life.

³¹ Then his brethren, and all the house of his father, came down, and took him, and brought him up, and [†]buried him between [†]Zorah and Eshtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father. And he judged Israel twenty years.

CHAP. XVII.

In this and the four following chapters are represented to us the terrible disorders of the Israelites when they had no judges, not REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—Dangerous is it to ramble into the company of such as are lewd or frothy. The wrath of God hangs over the bed of unwedness: and the more secure sinners are, the nearer is their destruction. How impossible is it to preserve in safety the persons who are infatuated with fleshly lust! They are fixed in the basest slavery: nor can repeated warnings awaken them to consideration. Where the love of money is rooted in the heart, it will not hesitate to betray soul and body at once, for a supposed competent bribe. And, indeed, they who trust either honour or life to a base woman deserve to be betrayed. God justly gives up men to suffer who give up themselves to sin; and sensual lusts especially bring men at last to the most fearful misery. But dreadful is their ruin who ensnare and make sport with the falls and sufferings of God's people or servants; for God will graciously return to his penitent children, and renew their strength, in order that before and in death they may be avenged of their spiritual enemies.

But this Jewish hero illustriously typifies our almighty Redeemer. Express and seasonable were the predictions concerning him, and supernatural the manner of his birth. Solemn was his separation to the service of God. Invigorating the spiritual influence which he received. And early and marvellous his ex-long after the death of Joshua. Here we are informed (1) How Micah, an Ephraimite, furnished himself with an image for his god, of the silver which he stole from his mother; 1—6: and with a vagabond Levite of Beth-lehem-judah for his priest; 7—13.

AND there was a man of ^amount Ephraim whose name was Micah.

² And he said unto his mother, ^bThe eleven hundred shekels of silver that were taken from thee, about which thou cursedst, and spakest of also in mine ears; behold, the silver is with me; I took it. And his mother said, ^cBlessed be thou of the LORD, my son.

³ And, when he had restored the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said, ^dI had wholly dedicated the silver unto the LORD from my hand for my son, to ^emake a graven image and a molten image: now therefore I will restore it unto thee.

⁵ ¶ And the man Micah had an house of gods, and made an ^fephod and teraphim, and ^gconsecrated one of his sons, who became his priest.

⁷ ¶ And there was a young man out of ⁱBeth-lehem-judah, of the family of Judah, who was a Levite; and he sojourned there.

⁸ And the man ^jdeparted out of the city from Beth-lehem-judah to sojourn where ^khe could find a place; and he came to ^lmount Ephraim to the house of Micah [†]as he journeyed.

⁹ And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find a place.

¹⁰ And Micah said unto him, Dwell with me, and be unto me ^ma father and a priest, and I will give thee ⁿten shekels of silver by the year, and [†]||a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. ^oSo the Levite went in.

¹¹ And the Levite was content to dwell with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons.

¹³ Then said Micah, ^qNow know I that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my priest.

plots. By obedience and death he fulfilled the broken law; and conquered sin, Satan, the world, and death; and sweet is the provision provided by it for himself and his friends; nay, for sinners of mankind, even the chief! Important are his parables, and known only to such as have fellowship with him. Basely was he betrayed by Judas and his countrymen, and delivered to the Gentiles, that he might be crucified. His enemies rejoiced to shut his eyes in death, and to imprison him in a grave. Making him the object of their derision, they sealed him up, and watched him in his tomb; but he brake the bands, and carried off the gates and bars of death; and, ascending up on high, led captivity captive. All alone he performed his wonderful exploits. By a voluntary death, according to his Father's will, he destroyed thousands of principalities and powers. By the contemned preaching of the gospel he conquers thousands of souls, and kills ten thousands of lusts.—But how dreadful is his vengeance! By the Romans, like fire-branded foxes, he spread destruction among his Jewish opposers, and burnt up their cities; by furious and ravaging Goths, Saracens, Tartars, Turks, &c. he resented, and will resent, the injuries done to his Christian cause; and how tremendously shall his fiery indignation for ever prey on the damned!

CHAP. XVIII.

Here the idolatry, which had taken rise in the house of Micah, spreads itself into a city of the Danites. (1) Some Danites, straitened for territory in the south-west of Canaan, send spies to bring them accounts of Laish, a city on the north-east; and they by the way get acquaintance with Micah's priest; 1-6. (2) Encouraged by the report of the spies, six hundred warriors march against Laish; and by the way rob Micah of his gods and his priest. (3) Having easily conquered Laish, they there set up Micah's idols, and consecrate his priest and his descendants to the service of them; 27-31.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—Covetousness most frequently besets people in their old age; and churlish parents and thievish children often meet together. It is dreadful when those losses, which should make men pray, cause them to curse and blaspheme. Hasty imprecations light unexpectedly where the curser least intended them. Reconciliation in sin is quickly effected: and the most covetous wretches liberally devote their idolized substance to the service of the devil. From what small beginnings are the vilest corruptions introduced into nations and churches! The grossest idolatries are often varnished

^q Kirjath-jearim in Judah: wherefore they called that place 'Mahaneh-dan unto this day: behold, it is behind Kirjath-jearim.

13 And they passed thence unto^r mount Ephraim, and came unto the house of Micah.

14 ¶ Then answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that 'there is in these houses an ephod and teraphim, and a graven image and a molten image? now therefore "consider what ye have to do.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and ^ssaluted him.

16 And the six hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which ^twere of the children of Dan, stood by the entering of the gate.

17 And the five men that went to spy out the land went up, ^uand came in thither, ^vand took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the priest stood in the entering of the gate with the six hundred men ^wthat were appointed with weapons of war.

18 And these went into Micah's house, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image. Then said the priest unto them, What do ye?

19 And they said unto him, Hold thy peace, ^xlay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and be to us ^ya father and a priest: ^zis it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe and a family in Israel?

20 And the ^{aa}priest's heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the carriage, before them.

22 ¶ And, when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that ^{ab}were in the houses near to Micah's house were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan. And they turned their faces, and said unto Micah, What aileth thee, ^{ac}that thou comest with such a company?

24 And he said, Ye have taken away ^{ad}my gods which I made, and the priest, and ye are gone away: and what have I more; and what ^{ae}is this that ye say unto me, What aileth thee?

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, lest ^{af}angry fellows run upon thee, and thou ^{ag}lose thy life, with the lives of thy household.

with high pretences to religion. But sad are the times when faithful ministers are almost starved for want! And what an easy prey for Satan and his agents are unsettled professors, and especially rambling clergymen; God readily leaves those to debase themselves who have once abandoned themselves to a neglect of his worship and service; and permits those, who should be reprovers of sin, to be principal countenancers of it, for the sake of their belly. And upon what slight, nay, damnable grounds, do hardened sinners reckon themselves entitled to the favour of God.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house.

27 ¶ And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto a people that were at quiet and secure: and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire.

28 And there was no deliverer, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth by Beth-rehob. And they built a city, and dwelt therein.

29 And they called the name of the city Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was Laish at the first.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan, the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day of the captivity of the land.

31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

CHAP. XIX.

In this and the two following chapters we have a most shocking story of the lewdness of a Levite's concubine, and of the men of Gibeah with her; which happened not long after the death of Joshua, while Phinehas was high priest, and issued in the almost utter destruction of the tribe of Benjamin. [ch. 20. 28. and 21. 25.] Here (1) A Levite's concubine makes an adulterous elopement from him; 1, 2. (2) When he goes to fetch her back, her father, by his kind entreaties and entertainment, detains them too long; 3-9. (3) Benighted by the way, the Benjamite inhabitants of Gibeah neglect them, but an Ephraimite sojourner invites them to his lodging; 10-21. (4) Some lewd Benjamites attack the Levite in his lodging, in order to abuse his body in unnatural lust; and his concubine being exposed to gratify their passion, they abuse her till she dies; 22-28. (5) By sending pieces of her divided body to all the tribes of Israel, the Levite awakens their resentment against the abominable deed; 29, 30.

AND it came to pass in those days, when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of mount Ephraim, who took to him a concubine out of Beth-lehem-judah.

2 And his concubine played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house, to Beth-lehem-judah, and was there four whole months.

3 And her husband arose, and went after her, to speak friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house: and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

4 And his father-in-law, the damsel's father, retained him; and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he arose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son-in-law, Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way.

6 And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart be merry.

7 And, when the man rose up to depart, his father-in-law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart: and the damsel's father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried until afternoon, and they did eat both of them.

9 And, when the man rose up to depart, he and his concubine, and his servant, his father-in-law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold, now the day draweth towards evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, the day groweth to an end; lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and to-morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go home.

10 But the man would not tarry that night; but he rose up and departed, and came sover against Jebus, which is Jerusalem; and there were with him two asses saddled; his concubine also was with him.

11 And when they were by Jebus the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we will pass over to Gibeah.

13 And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in Ramah.

14 And they passed on and went their way. And the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin.

15 And they turned aside thither, to go in and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in he sat him down in a street of the city: for there was no man that took them into his house to lodging.

16 ¶ And, behold, there came an old man from his work out of the field at even, who was also of mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah; but the men of the place were Benjamites.

17 And, when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw a way-faring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou, and whence comest thou?

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—Outward straits will push men to great diligence for obtaining the comforts of this life; and often they go far to seek that which, by attending to God's direction, they might have had near home. Very often such are permitted of God to fall into ruinous snares: and, however earnestly they shun outward wants or hazards, they rush headlong into the most sinful temptations. When men are ignorant or negligent of consulting God and his word, they readily apply to the devil for direction and encouragement; and receive answers to their wish. But accomplices in wickedness ordinarily prove unfaithful to one another. And none is more apt to be treacherous than a clergyman who is ambitious of preferment, and chiefly concerned for his honour and his salary. Deplorable is the case of those who have gods which can be taken from them, and hearts which cannot part with them, though they be the means of their ruin. But hard is their state when men dare not complain of injustice or robbery without risking their life; and unhappy is the condition of those who are destitute of proper government, especially if they are also plunged into carelessness and carnal security: for prosperity in an evil way encourages men to persevere in it. And the most sinful customs, when once they are established, are the most permanent: it is far easier to keep them out than to root them out.

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to the house of the LORD; and there is no man that receiveth me to house.

19 Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants; there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man said, *Peace be with thee: howsoever, let all thy wants lie upon me; ^yonly lodge not in the street.

21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses: and they ^zwashed their feet, and did eat and drink.

22 ¶ Now, as they were making their hearts merry, behold, the men of the city, certain ^asons of Belial, beset ^bthe house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, Bring forth the man that came into thine house, that we may ^cknow him.

23 And the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, ^dNay, my brethren, nay, I pray you, do not so wickedly; seeing that this man is come into mine house, do not this ^efolly.

24 Behold, ^fhere is my daughter a maiden, and his concubine; them I will bring out now, and humble ye them; and do with them what seemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not ^gso ^hvile a thing.

25 But the men would not hearken to him: so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them; and ⁱthey knew her, and abused her all the night until the morning: and when the day began to spring they let her go.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her ^jlord was till it was light.

27 And her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go his way; and, behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the house, and her hands were upon the threshold.

28 And he said unto her, Up, and let us be going: ^kbut none answered. Then the man took her ^lup upon an ass, and the man rose up, and gat him unto his place.

29 ¶ And, when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and ^mdivided her, together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coasts of Israel.

30 ¶ And it was so, that all that saw it said, There was no such deed done nor seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt unto this day: ⁿconsider of it, take advice, and speak your minds.

CHAP. XX.

Here we have (1) The Levite's cause heard in a general convention of the tribes of Israel; 1—7. (2) An unanimous resolution to avenge his quarrel upon the criminal inhabitants of Gibeah, 8—11. (3) The Benjamites refuse to deliver up the criminals to justice, and take arms in their defence; 12—17. (4) The Israelites, attempting to punish their brethren's wickedness without first repenting of their own, are defeated in the two first battles; 18—25. (5) Having at last humbled themselves before God, they attack the Benjamites a third time, give them a complete rout, and cut off the whole tribe, except six hundred men; 26—48.

THEN ^aall the children of Israel went out; and the congregation was gathered together as one man, ^bfrom Dan even to Beer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, ^cunto the LORD in Mizpeh.

2 And the chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen that ^ddrew sword.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin ^eheard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us, how was this wickedness?

4 And ^fthe Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, ^gI came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin. I and my concubine, to lodge.

5 And ^hthe men of Gibeah rose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me: and my concubine have they ⁱforced, that she is dead.

6 And ^jI took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they have committed ^klewdness and folly in Israel.

7 Behold, ^lye are all children of Israel; give here your advice and counsel.

8 ¶ And all the people arose as one man, saying, ^mWe will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn into his house:

9 But now this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah; we will go up ⁿby lot against it;

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought in Israel.

is but gathering. To what horrible lengths in wickedness will not apostate professors go! and what barefaced impudence contumacious in lewdness begets! When sinners are once given up to their own hearts' lust, they easily sink into the most unnatural crimes; and, when they are become desperate in wickedness, they will neither bear restraint nor hear admonition. When we commit one sin to avoid a greater, we ordinarily plunge ourselves into further snares: and God fearfully marks sin in its punishment. The fleshly lust, which had been this woman's sin, is now made her punishment. And in justice never will he extenuate men's wickedness. With the most deliberate concern, unanimity, and faithfulness, ought the important affairs of churches and nations to be transacted. And such as would obtain God's blessing on a land must seek to purge it by the execution of justice on notorious criminals.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—How great is the sovereignty of God in honouring Beth-lehem, which lately furnished an idolatrous priest, and now an adulterous concubine, with the birth of his distinguished King, and of his Only Son! Worthless clergymen and evil women are the greatest plagues to society: and parents' indulgence of their children and infidelity to marriage vows often issue in wide-spread ruin. Frequently the intended kindness of friends is a real injury; and what was designed for our welfare becomes a trap to ensnare us. Where we might reasonably expect distinguished kindness we often meet with the most abominable neglect and most ruinous abuse. Apostates from God are often void of humanity and natural affection; while truly charitable sojourners on earth are patterns of hospitality and brotherly kindness; look out for, and are happy in finding, opportunities of doing good, particularly to ministers of Christ. We are apt to hope that our troubles are at an end when the worst storm 11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, [†]knit together as one man.

12 ¶ And the tribes of Israel [°]sent men through all the tribe of Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that is done among you?

13 Now therefore [°]deliver us the men, the [°]children of Belial, which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not [°]hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel :

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel.

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbered at that time out of the cities [°]twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men.

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men [°]left-handed ; every one could sling stones at an hair-breadth, and not miss.

17 And the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered [°]four hundred thousand men that drew sword ; all these were men of war.

18 ¶ And the children of Israel arose, and went up to the [°]house of God, and [°]asked counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin ? And the LORD said, [°]Judah shall go up first.

19 And the children of Israel [°]rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin ; and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and [°]destroyed down to the ground of the Israelites that day twenty and two thousand men.

22 ¶ And the people, the men of Israel, [°]encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.

23 (And the children of Israel went up and [°]wept before the LORD until even, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother ? And the LORD said, Go up against him.)

24 And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin the second day.

25 And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and [°]destroyed down to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men ; all these drew the sword.

26 ¶ Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto the house of God, and [°]wept, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

29 ¶ And Israel set [°]liers in wait round about Gibeah.

30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gibeah as at other times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and [°]were drawn away from the city ; and they began [°]to smite of the people, and kill as at other times, in the highways, of which one goeth up to [°]the house of God and the other to [°]Gibeah in the field, about thirty men of Israel.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us as at the first. But the children of Israel said, [°]Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the highways.

33 And all the men of Israel [°]rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar : and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came against Gibeah [°]ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel ; and the battle was sore : but they [°]knew not that evil was near them.

35 And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel : and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day [°]twenty and five thousand and an hundred men ; all these drew the sword.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten ; for [°]the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait hastened, and rushed upon Gibeah ; and the liers in wait [°]drew themselves along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

38 Now there was an appointed [°]sign between the men of Israel [°]and the liers in wait, [°]that they should make a great [°]flame with smoke rise up out of the city.

39 And, [°]when the men of Israel retired in the battle, Benjamin began [°]to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons : for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us as in the first battle.

40 But, when the flame began to arise up out of the city with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold, [°]the flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

41 And, when the men of Israel turned again, [°]the men of Benjamin were amazed ; for they saw that evil [°]was come upon them.

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, ^sThere must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

18 Howbeit, we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Israel ^thave sworn, saying, Cursed ^tbe he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—It is comely when professors of the true religion are unanimous and hearty in their zeal against enormous crimes; and when, with prudent deliberations and proper dispatch, they proceed to the punishment of them. But infatuated are they who patronize and protect the vicious, especially when at the expence of their own liberties and lives. Proud self-dependance is the ruin of sinners; and such as draw the sword in a bad cause may expect to see it bathed in their own blood. The dispensations of providence appear very mysterious in thus calling men to work, and yet frowning upon them in the execution of it. But let us not be so inconsiderate as to judge of a cause from the prosperity or adversity which attends it. There is need to wait patiently for the issue of things: and such as punish others should be innocent or at least penitent, themselves. Short is the triumphing of the wicked, and fatal to them at last. It is vain to fight where God is our enemy, or to flee when he pursueth. What desolation sin makes in the earth! But dreadful indeed will be the case of sinners at the last day, when there shall be no rock to hide them, nor mountain to cover them. And who knows what extensive and everlasting woe may proceed from one moment of indulged lust!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—Rash oaths are ordinarily ensnaring. True zeal may be carried too far. And there is often an over-doing in well-doing.—War may be ill ended that was well begun. Even necessary justice ought to be executed with deliberation and deep compassion; for strong passions prepare work for an after repentance. And one rash step, or even rash word, sometimes draws after it the most terrible consequences. In perplexities and distress, it is proper to have recourse to God, and the atoning blood of his Son. He can ex-their inheritance, and 'repaired the cities, and dwelt in them.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance.

25 'In those days there was no king in Israel: every man did that which was 'right in his own eyes.

tricate us in a decent and honourable manner. But, amidst violent fits of repentance, men are often readier to support their own authority than to consult God, and to extirpate brethren rather than Canaanites. Dancing, even without mixture of sexes, often renders persons an easy prey. And who knows how often the ambuscades of evil spirits transport souls from the dancing-floor into everlasting destruction! How great the confusion of an unsettled government! It is a great mercy for a land to have proper rulers in church or state.

RUTH

Is another appendix to the history of the Judges; calculated to represent the marvellous providence of God, the propriety of constant dependence thereon; and to shew the happy issue of patience, humility, and industry. It was probably penned by Samuel, and relates to events which happened about the time of Ehud or Barak, Judg. iii. or iv.; particularly the afflictions of Naomi and Ruth, chap. i.: their industry and humility, ii.; their alliance with Boaz, iii.; and happy settlement by means thereof; iv.

CHAP. I.

Here we have Naomi, (1) As a distressed housekeeper, forced by a famine from Beth-lehem-judah into the land of Moab with her family; 1, 2. (2) As a distressed widow, bewailing the death of Elimelech her husband, and of Mahlon and Chilion her sons; 3—5. (3) As a distressed mother-in-law, returning to her own country; parting, in sorrow, with Orpah, one of her daughters-in-law; and reluctantly taking Ruth, the other, along with her, in fear and perplexity; 6—18. (4) As a poor destitute woman, remitted by providence to her former abode, a spectacle of wretchedness, to live on the bounty of her friends; 19—22.

NOW it came to pass, 'in the days when the judges *ruled, that there 'was a famine in the land. And a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah went to 'sojourn in the country of Moab, he and his wife, and his two sons.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, 'Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah. And they came into the country of Moab, and †continued there.

3 And 'Elimelech, Naomi's husband died; and she was left, and her two sons.

4 And they 'took them wives of the women of Moab; the name of the one was 'Orpah, and the name of the other 'Ruth: and they dwelled there about ten years.

5 And 'Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

6 ¶ Then 'she arose with her daughters-in-law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that the LORD had 'visited his people 'in giving them bread.

7 Wherefore she 'went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters-in-law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi said unto her two daughters-in-law, Go, 'return each to her mother's house: 'the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead and with me.

9 The LORD grant you that ye 'may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then 'she kissed them: and they lifted up their voice, and wept.

10 And they said unto her, Surely we will 'return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any more sons in my womb, that they 'may be your husbands?

12 Turn again, my daughters, go your way; for I am 'too old to have an husband. If I should say, I have hope, †if I should have an husband also to-night, and should also bear sons;

13 Would ye ||tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands? Nay, my daughters; for 'sit grieveth me much for your sakes *that the hand of the LORD is gone out against me.

14 And they lifted up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah 'kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth 'clave unto her.

15 And she said, Behold, thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods: 'return thou after thy sister-in-law.

16 And Ruth said, *bEntreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God:

17 Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried: 'the LORD do so REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—Numerous and diversified are the arrows in God's quiver for the punishment of men's sins: and often, while his enemies riot in plenty, his people are pinched with scarcity and want. A diligent care to provide for our family is highly commendable: but it is seldom safe to flee from God's land, though he frown on it; or to suffer scarcity of bread to draw us from the ordinances of God. It is not in fleeing from God's mighty hand, but in humbling ourselves under it, that safety lies. It is not in outrunning crosses, but in taking them up, and following Christ, that true comfort is to be had. Young people often mistake in their marriage, through want or neglect of their parents' advice. But marriages and deaths are near neighbours; and one death in a family is but the forerunner and warning of another. Both comforts and crosses are often nearer us than we suspect: and, if we are shut up into the society of the wicked, we should escape for our life as soon as our hindrances are removed. It is a mercy when God embitters our condition of distance from himself, that we may be weaned from it, and hastened to our heavenly home: but yet it is pleasant to see near relations knit together in love, and loth to part. With the most strong and fixed resolution should we set out in the Lord's way, as we know not what repeated and strong temptations we may have to turn back: but the difficulties of the way which discourage the temporary believer will but bind the faithful soul the more closely to Jesus Christ. Nothing, no not death, can separate them from him and his people. Poverty and age make great alterations on mankind: and it is proper that all around should remark it with solemn awe and cordial sympathy: for surely it is but madness to set our heart on that comeliness and wealth which so quickly fade. Let us therefore keep waiting on God in the way of his judgments; in patience possessing our souls; eyeing the Lord's hand in all that we meet with; humbling ourselves under humbling providences; mourning, but never murmuring, under his hand; and ever remarking how the minutest circumstances of our lives are directed by the overruling providence of God.

21 And Ruth the Moabitess said, 'He said unto me also, Thou shalt keep fast by my young men until they have ended all my harvest.

22 And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law, It is 'good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they †meet thee not in any other field.

23 So she *kept fast by the maidens of Boaz to glean unto the end of barley harvest and of wheat-harvest; and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

CHAP. III.

Naomi had just informed Ruth that Boaz was her near kinsman. Here (1) She gives her directions, somewhat odd to us, how to claim him for her husband; 1—5. (2) Ruth, all obedient to her mother-in-law, confident of the untainted virtue of Boaz, and especially of the watchful providence of God, punctually observes these directions; 6, 7. (3) Boaz treats Ruth with great kindness and respect, and promises her marriage, if the nearer kinsman to whom she belonged, declined it; 8—13. (4) Ruth being dismissed with a present, reports to Naomi what she had met with, and is by her encouraged to expect a speedy and happy issue of the affair; 14—18.

THEN Naomi her mother-in-law said unto her, 'My daughter, shall I not seek rest for thee, that it may be well with thee?

2 And 'now is not Boaz of our kindred, with whose maidens thou wast? Behold, he winnoweth barley to-night in the threshing-floor.

3 'Wash thyself therefore, and anoint thee, and put thy raiment upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thyself known unto the man until he shall have done eating and drinking.

4 And it shall be, when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he shall lie, and thou shalt go in, and uncover his feet; and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou shalt do.

5 And she said unto her, 'All that thou sayest unto me I will do.

6 ¶ And she went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother-in-law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk, and 'his heart was merry, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and she came softly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

8 ¶ And it came to pass at midnight that the man was afraid, and †turned himself; and, behold, a woman lay at his feet.

9 And he said, Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth 'thine hand-maid: 'spread therefore thy skirt over thine handmaid, for thou art a near kinsman.

10 And he said, 'Blessed be thou of the LORD, my daughter: for thou hast shewed 'more kindness in the latter end than at the beginning, inasmuch as thou followedst not young men, whether poor or rich.

11 And now, my daughter, fear not; I will do to thee all that thou requirest; for all the ||city of my people doth know that thou art 'a virtuous woman.

12 And now it is true that I am thy near kinsman: howbeit, 'there is a kinsman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night: and it shall be 'in the morning, that, 'if he will perform unto thee the part of a kinsman, well; let him do the kinsman's part: but, if he will not do the part of a kinsman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinsman to thee, as the LORD liveth; lie down until the morning.

14 ¶ And she lay at his feet until the morning: and she rose up before one could know another. And he said, 'Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor.

15 Also he said, Bring the $vail that thou hast upon thee, and hold it. And, when she held it, 'he measured six measures of barley, and laid it on her: and she went into the city.

16 And when she came to her mother-in-law she said, Who art thou, my daughter? And she told her all that the man had done to her.

17 And she said, These six measures of barley gave he me; for he said to me, Go not empty unto thy mother-in-law.

18 Then said she, 'Sit still my daughter, until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in rest until he have finished the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

Here (1) Boaz quickly and honourably gets clear of his rival the kinsman that was nearer than he; 1—8. His marriage with Ruth is publicly solemnized, and attended with the good wishes of his neighbours; 9—12. (3) The happy issue from the marriage is attended with the congratulations of neighbours to Naomi; 12—17. (4) The genealogy of Boaz and his son is carried down from Pharez, the son of Judah, to king David; 18—22.

THEN went Boaz up 'to the gate, and sat him down there: and, behold, the kinsman of whom Boaz spake came by; unto whom he said, Ho, such a one! turn aside, sit down here. And he turned aside, and sat down.

2 And he took 'ten men of the elders of the city, and said, Sit ye down here. And they 'sat down.

fortably may even the poorest live together if they have but godliness with contentment, which is great gain.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—It is often safest for young widows to marry. And it is the duty of parents to promote the settlement of their children in a comfortable marriage: for it is no small mercy when the married state fixes the affections at a rest, in which it is well with the parties. Dress and cleanliness are commendable, so far as they are calculated to engage proper affections. But in courtship and marriage there ought always to be a strict attention to the commands of God. It is not enough that we do no evil:—we must indulge ourselves in no appearance of it. But what an advantage is it when we have to do with such as have the deepest regard to our chastity and honour; who are disposed to think no evil, but to interpret our innocent familiarities in the best sense; and who, in matters of importance, will certainly be faithful and diligent! Yea, hopeful is the match which is made up in dependance on God and regard to the authority of parents. But we cannot be too ready to start at temptations, which steal softly upon us; nor too careful to remove every occasion from the envenomed tongue of slander, (What is liable to be misinterpreted had best never be known. And, when we circumspectly proceed in the way of our duty, we may comfort our minds in the hope of God's salvation in due time.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—How infinite is the condescension of God in taking notice of a poor Moabitish gleaner! Let me then never be proud; for I know not to what straits I may be reduced in life: and never let me be ashamed of honest industry. If the Lord debase me, it is my honour to concur with his providence, and to be content with the least and coarsest crumbs from his hand. In caring for my poor or aged friends, let me with diligence depend on his kindness, and thank him for every circumstance thereof. Whether I am master or servant, let a savour of Christ and religion always attend me; and the law of kindness be in both heart and mouth. If I am a stranger, let me be always humble, mannerly, and thankful. If I am not, let me shew kindness to strangers, especially to those who are such from a love to Christ. Who knows how they may bless, or even reward, me? For the poorest, by their earnest prayers, may return the richest rewards to the most wealthy. The more highly others think of me, let me think the more humbly of myself: and let me always regard my benefactors, and with the utmost care make choice of my companions. A modest, humble, and respectful behaviour, accompanied with a tender regard to parents in age and poverty, is commendable even in the meanest. And, when we go out in the way of duty, depending on God, who knows with what rich blessings we may return loaded? Happy is that family where parents and children mutually vie in deep concern for one another's real welfare. And com-

3 And he said unto the kinsman, Naomi, that is come again out of the country of Moab, selleth a parcel of land, which was our brother Elimelech's.

4 And I thought to advertise thee, saying, 'Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it; but, if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know, for there is none to redeem it beside thee; and I am after thee. And he said, I will redeem it.

5 Then said Boaz, What day thou buyest the field of the hand of Naomi, thou must buy it also of Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 ¶ And the kinsman said, I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my right to thyself, for I cannot redeem it.

7 Now this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour: and this was a testimony in Israel.

8 Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, 'Buy it for thee. So he drew off his shoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses this day that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchased to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this day.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders, said, We are witnesses. The LORD make the woman that is come into thine house like Rachel and like Leah, which two did build the house of Israel: and do thou worthily in Ephratah, and be famous in Bethlehem:

12 And let thy house be like the house of Pharez, whom Tamar bare unto Judah, of the seed which the LORD shall give thee of this young woman.

13 ¶ So Boaz took Ruth, and she was his wife: and when he went in unto her, the LORD gave her conception, and she bare a son.

14 And the women said unto Naomi, Blessed be the LORD who hath not left thee this day without a kinsman, that his name may be famous in Israel.

15 And he shall be unto thee a restorer of thy life, and a nourisher of thine old age: for thy daughter-in-law, who loveth thee, who is better to thee than seven sons, hath born him.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it.

17 And the women her neighbours gave it a name, saying, There is a son born to Naomi; and they called his name Obed: he is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

18 ¶ Now these are the generations of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron, 19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab,

20 And Amminadab begat Nahshon, and Nahshon begat Salmon, 21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat David.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—It is pleasant indeed to behold a man diligent in business, and the providence of God succeeding his endeavours:—to see in marriage the principal regard paid to the holiness and virtue of the partner, not to beauty or wealth; to see persons of honest intentions risking the most strict and public cognizance:—to see the professed followers of Christ using the most fair and open dealings in all their agreements;—to see affectionate lovers depending wholly on God to make them comfortable to one another;—to see humility, virtue, prudence, and honesty, issuing in remarkable honour and happiness;—to see God raising up the poor, and causing them to sit with princes; and making up the loss of those relations, from whom they expected much comfort, in the enjoyment of those from whom they expected nothing;—to see neighbours rejoicing in one another's welfare;—and to see the providences of God, in every circumstance, leading and directing us to Jesus, David's Lord.—But, in fine, in Boaz the Beth-lehemite I discern Jesus our Kinsman Redeemer, who remembered us in our low estate:—pitying our poor and miserable condition, and moved, not indeed by any respectful behaviour in us, but his own infinite compassion, he hath allowed us sinners of the Gentiles to glean in the field of his oracles and ordinances. For our encouragement he hath appointed handfuls of precious promises, and offers of grace and salvation, for our use. At infinite expense, and with infinite care and equity, he hath espoused our race, and raised up a seed of servants to God. Let us, conscious of our poverty, and affected with his kindness, return him the most humble and thankful acknowledgments.—Let us glean for our souls only in his field.—Let us abide by his maidens, the faithful ministers of his word.—Let us approach his throne of grace in the full assurance of faith, pleading that he, as our nearest Kinsman, would spread his robes of righteousness, and garments of salvation, over our naked souls. And let us commit our way to him: he will bring it to pass, and perfect that which concerns us.

THE FIRST BOOK OF SAMUEL.

This book and the following are denominated from the prophet SAMUEL, perhaps, because he wrote the first twenty-four chapters of this; at least, from his being the subject of much of it: and whatever relates to David, the subject of the other, is but the issue of his unction to the kingdom by Samuel. This book contains the history of at least eighty years, and exhibits an account (1.) Of Eli's negligence, and the wickedness of his sons; with the terrible calamities occasioned by these to the Israelites, and even to the Philistines, who took captive the ark; ii.—vi. (2.) Of Samuel's birth; education; call to be a prophet; deliverance and government of Israel; resignation of his government; and death; i. ii. iii. vii.—xii. xiii. xv. xvi. xix. xxv. (3.) Of the Israelites' resolute demand of a king; and the instalment, prosperity, mal-administration, and unhappy end of Saul; viii.—xxvi. xxviii. xxxi. (4.) Of the unction of David to be king; his diverting of Saul when melancholy with his music; his conquest of Goliath; friendship with Jonathan; persecution by Saul; marriage with Michal the daughter of Saul, and with Abigail the widow of Nabal: his retreat into the land of the Philistines; discharge from their army; and his slaughter of the Amalekites who had burned Ziklag: xvi.—xxvii. xxix. xxx.

CHAP. I.

Before Christ
1131, or 1151

Relates to the parents of Samuel; chiefly to Hannah his mother. Here is (1) Her affliction through want of children; and this aggravated by the insolent reproaches of Peninnah, Elkanah's other wife; but in some measure mitigated by his kindness; 1-8. (2) Her fervent prayer and vow to God under her trouble; in which Eli, the high priest, at first censured, but afterwards encouraged her; 9-18. (3) Her bearing and nursing of Samuel; 19-23. (4) Her presenting him to the Lord as one peculiarly devoted to his service; 24-28.

14 And Eli said unto her, "How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

15 And Hannah answered and said, "No, my lord, I am a woman of a sorrowful spirit: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but I have poured out my soul before the LORD:

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of the mount Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, an Ephrathite:

16 Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of Belial; for out of the abundance of my complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto.

17 Then Eli answered and said, "Go, in peace: and the God of Israel grant thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him.

2 And he had two wives; the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

18 And she said, "Let thine handmaid find grace in thy sight. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad.

19 ¶ And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah. And Elkanah knew Hannah his wife; and the LORD remembered her.

3 And this man went up out of his city yearly to worship and to sacrifice unto the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. And the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there.

20 Wherefore it came to pass, when the time was come about after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name Samuel, saying, "Because I have asked him of the LORD.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his house went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

4 ¶ And, when the time was that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions:

22 But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, "I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide for ever.

23 And Elkanah her husband said unto her, "Do what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou hast weaned him; only the LORD establish his word. So the woman abode and gave her son suck until she weaned him.

5 But unto Hannah he gave a worthy portion; for he loved Hannah; but the LORD had shut up her womb.

24 ¶ And, when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine; and brought him unto the house of the LORD in Shiloh: and the child was young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

6 And her adversary also provoked her sore, for to make her fret, because the LORD had shut up her womb.

26 And she said, "O my lord, as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here praying unto the LORD.

27 For this child I prayed; and the LORD hath given me my petition which I asked of him:

7 And as he did so year by year, when she went up to the house of the LORD, so she provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat.

28 Therefore also I have lent him to the LORD; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the LORD. And he worshipped the LORD there.

8 Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, "why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I better to thee than ten sons?

9 ¶ So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk. (Now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of the temple of the LORD.)

10 And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore.

11 And she vowed a vow, and said, "O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and there shall no razor come upon his head.

12 ¶ And it came to pass, as she continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth.

13 Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—A divided family is most unhappy: and they bring upon themselves redoubled trouble and vexation who dare transgress God's institution of marriage in order to obtain redoubled pleasures. Rarely do we behave aright under either remarkable prosperity or remarkable adversity: under the former the heart swells with pride; under the latter it sinks and reeds with discontent and murmuring. The fretfulness of our temper often lays us open to continual uneasiness; and the unthankfulness of our heart doubles our affliction by overlooking our mercies. But sinful and hurtful is that grief which diverts us from our duty to God, and inhibits the comfort which we have in him. Our most deserved crosses are abundantly mixed with undeserved mercies; and religion and reason will afford us a cure. Distress ought to make us double our diligence in attending on the ordinances of God. Fervent prayers and solemn vows are often means of relief to broken spirits; yea, it is peculiarly becoming, under sore trials, and amidst general apostasy and profaneness, to be punctual and earnest attenders on the ordinances of God. But base and devilish must that spirit be which can take pleasure to vex the distressed in mind, even when they are attending upon God's solemn worship. It is more becoming to balance others abuse with our tender affection, and do all that we can to comfort those who are cast down. For peculiarly afflicting is it to perplexed souls to have the godly, and even ministers, misinterpreting their wrestlings with God as hypocrisy and wickedness. Yet, however distressing, injurious reproach should always be answered with the greatest candour and meekness. And men, convinced of their mistake, should turn their sinful censures into fervent prayers for the persons injured. Devotions towards God ought to be preferred to every convenience of our own. Early and earnest devotions are the best presages of happy days and successful undertakings; and nothing but works of necessity and mercy ought to detain us from the solemn worship of God. With the most distinguished expressions of gratitude ought we to com-

CHAP. II.

Exhibits (1) Hannah's high song of praise at the presentation of Samuel her child to God; in which she celebrates the holiness, power, wisdom, and equity, of God, and the changes made by his providence on persons, families, and nations; 1—10. (2) The growth and early religious improvement of Samuel her son; 11, 18, 21, 26, and the care his mother took to clothe him; 19. (3) The great wickedness of Eli the high priest's sons, in defiling the women who assembled for worship in the courts of the tabernacle, and in taking by force what part of the Lord's offerings they pleased; 12—17, 22. (4) The over-mild reproof which their father gave them for their conduct; 23—25. (5) God's dreadful message to Eli by a prophet, charging home their guilt, and denouncing the destruction of the whole family, and the translation of the priesthood to another, on account of it; 27—36.

AND Hannah ^aprayed, and said, My heart rejoiceth in the LORD; ^bmine horn is exalted in the LORD; my ^cmouth is enlarged over mine enemies; because I ^drejoice in thy salvation.

2 ^eThere is none holy as the LORD; for there is none beside thee; neither is there any rock like our God.

3 ^fTalk no more so exceeding proudly; let not arrogancy come out of your mouth: for the LORD is ^ga God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed.

4 The ^hbows of the mighty men are broken, and they that stumbled are girded with strength.

5 ⁱThey that were full have hired out themselves for bread; and they that were hungry ceased: so that the ^jbarren hath born seven; and ^kshe that hath many children is waxed feeble.

6 ^lThe LORD killeth, and maketh alive: ^mhe bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.

7 The LORD ⁿmaketh poor, and maketh rich: he bringeth low, and lifteth up.

8 ^oHe raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill, to set them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory: for the ^ppilars of the earth are the LORD's, and he hath set the world upon them.

9 He ^qwill keep the feet of his saints, and the wicked shall be ^rsilent in darkness; for ^sby strength shall no man prevail.

10 ^tThe adversaries of the LORD shall be broken to pieces; out of heaven shall he thunder upon them: the LORD ^ushall judge the ends of the earth; and he shall ^vgive strength unto his king, and exalt the horn of his anointed.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house. And the child did ^wminister unto the LORD before Eli the priest.

12 ¶ Now ^xthe sons of Eli were sons of Belial; they knew not the LORD.

13 And the priest's custom with the people was, that, when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while the flesh was in seething, with a flesh-hook of three teeth in his hand;

14 And he struck it into the pan, or kettle or cauldron, or pot; ^yall that the flesh-hook brought up the priest took for himself. So they did in Shiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither.

15 Also before ^zthey burnt the fat the priest's servant came, and said to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have sodden flesh of thee, but raw.

16 And if any man said unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat ^apresently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth; then he would answer him, Nay, but thou shalt give it me now: and if not I will take it by force.

17 Wherefore the sin of the young men was ^bvery great before the LORD: for men abhorred the offering of the LORD.

18 ¶ But Samuel ^cministered before the LORD, being a child, girded with a linen ephod.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him ^dfrom year to year when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.

20 ¶ And Eli ^eblessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The LORD give thee seed of this woman for the ^floan which is lent to the LORD. And they went unto their own home.

21 And the LORD ^gvisited Hannah, so that she conceived and ^hbare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel ⁱgrew before the LORD.

22 ¶ Now Eli ^jwas very old, and heard all that his sons ^kdid unto all Israel; and how they lay with the women that ^lassembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

23 And he said unto them, ^mWhy do ye such things? for ⁿI hear of your evil dealings ^oby all this people.

24 Nay, my sons; for ^pit is ^qno good report that I hear: ye make the LORD's people ^rto transgress.

25 If ^sone man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but ^tif a man sin against the LORD, who shall entreat for him? Notwithstanding, they ^uhearkened not unto the voice of their father, because the LORD would slay them.

26 And the child Samuel ^vgrew on, and was in favour both with the LORD and also with men.

27 ¶ And there came ^wa man of God unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, ^xDid I plainly appear unto the house of thy father when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house?

28 And ^ydid I choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and ^zdid I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel?

29 Wherefore ^akick ye at my sacrifice and at mine offering which I have commanded ^bin my habitation, and ^chonourest thy sons above me, to make yourselves fat with the chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people?

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Israel saith, ^dI said indeed that thy house and memorate the mercies which we have received in answer to our prayers. Children ought to be carefully trained up, not merely with an eye to the law of nature, as they are ours, but chiefly with an eye to the covenant of grace, as they are given to God. And with great care and expedition ought we to perform our vows, particularly in the solemn surrender of our children to God.

CHAP. III.

Already we have had young Samuel ministering before the Lord as a dedicated priest; here he is constituted a prophet. (1) In a time of great ignorance and calamity, God manifests himself to Samuel in an extraordinary manner, by a fourfold call; 1-10. (2) By him God sends an awful message of destructive ruin to Eli and his family; 11-14. (3) With reluctance Samuel relates the message to Eli, who submits to the righteousness of God therein; 15-18. (4) Samuel is publicly established a prophet in Israel; 19-21.

AND the child Samuel ^aministered unto the LORD before Eli. And ^bthe word of the LORD was precious in those days; there was no 'open vision.

2 And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and ^dhis eyes began to wax dim, that he could not see;

3 And 'ere the lamp of God went out in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep;

4 That the LORD 'called Samuel; and he answered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

7 ⁵Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD ^hcalled Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child.

9 Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, 'Speak, LORD, for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the LORD came, and stood and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel.
Then Samuel answered, Speak, for thy servant heareth.

11 ¶ And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, ^k'I will do a thing in Israel, 'at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

12 In that day. ^m'I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: †when I begin I will also make an end.

13 ¶ⁿFor I have told him that I will judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons made themselves §vile, and he ^orestrained them not.

14 And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli ^pthat the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

15 ¶ And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of ^qthe house of the LORD. And Samuel ^rfeared to shew Eli the vision.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel my son. And he answered, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: ^s'God do so to thee, and †more also, if thou hide any ‡thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee.

18 And Samuel told him every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, 'It is the LORD: let him do what seemeth him good.

19 ¶ And Samuel grew, and ^tthe LORD was with him, and ^udid let none of his words fall to the ground.

20 And all Israel, ^vfrom Dan even to Beer-sheba, knew that Samuel was ||established to be a prophet of the LORD.

21 And the LORD ^wappeared again in Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the LORD.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—We owe to God the most exalted praises upon receipt of his favours. Yea, pleasant and valuable mercies should always lead to an affecting contemplation of the excellencies which are in God himself. The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him; and he often shews them things to come. Nothing is returned with such certainty and interest as that which is lent to the Lord: and early activity in God's service is an hopeful presage of an eminently useful life. But dreadful and threatening is the appearance when those who fill the highest offices in church or state become absolute monsters in impiety, lust, and rapacity: it is criminal to administer to such only a soft rebuke: and their contempt of reproof is an awful prelude of near and certain destruction. God permits such contemnors to proceed in their wickedness till they have ripened themselves for ruin. Parents' indulgence of their children in sin may occasion fearful distresses to their family and nation. And the most tremendous judgments appear marked out for those who disregard even the mildest reproofs of their parents. The more remarkable the favours which have been abused, the more tremendous the judgments which may be expected; and sharers in sin shall share in correspondent punishment. But God's work and cause will never fall to the ground for want of hands to carry it on. Though ministers' wickedness may destroy themselves, it cannot destroy the ministry.

The church is founded on a Rock, which the gates of hell cannot prevail against.
Jesus, the faithful priest on his throne, is her principal governor; who can turn out her wicked officers, and fill their room with such as will be faithful unto death.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Dreadful is the case of a church when her fellowship with God is interrupted: but great the mercy that God raises up new instruments in his church to carry on his work when others have proved unfaithful. Early piety is often honoured with special intimacy with God; when

CHAP. IV.

Already the threatenings of the preceding chapters begin to be executed. Here is (1) The disgrace and loss which the Israelites sustained in a rencounter with the Philistines; 1, 2. (2) Their foolish project to strengthen themselves by the presence of the ark; which made them secure, and occasioned the Philistines to animate one another; 3-9. (3) The fatal consequences;—the Israelites are routed with great slaughter, the young priests slain, and the ark taken prisoner; 10, 11. (4) The news of the defeat coming to Shiloh terrifies the people; causes Eli to faint, fall, and break his neck; and brings the pains of childbirth on his daughter-in-law, who dies as soon as she is delivered; 12-22.

AND the word of Samuel came to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and pitched beside Eben-ezer: and the Philistines pitched in Aphek.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in array against Israel: and when they joined battle Israel was smitten before the Philistines: and they slew of the army in the field about four thousand men.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to-day before the Philistines? Let us fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, which dwelleth between the cherubims: and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again.

6 And, when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

7 And the Philistines were afraid; for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Wo unto us! for there hath not been such a thing heretofore.

8 Wo unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty gods? these are the gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness.

9 Be strong, and quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, as they have been to you: quit yourselves like men, and fight.

10 ¶ And the Philistines fought. And Israel was smitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter; for there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

11 And the ark of God was taken: and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were slain.

12 ¶ And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the same day with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon a seat by the way-side watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? and the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and his eyes were dim, that he could not see.

16 And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to-day out of the army. And he said, What is there done, my son?

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

18 And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died; for he was an old man, and heavy: and he had judged Israel forty years.

19 ¶ And his daughter-in-law, Phinehas' wife, was with child, near to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and travailed; for her pains came upon her.

20 And about the time of her death the women that stood by her said unto her, Fear not, for thou hast born a son. But she answered not, neither did she regard it.

21 And she named the child I-chabod, saying, The glory is departed from Israel: (because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father-in-law and her husband.)

22 And she said, The glory is departed from Israel; for the ark of God is taken.

CHAP. V.

While the Israelites appear to be totally unconcerned about God's ark, no man proposing either to fight or to pay for its recovery, God takes care of it, and paves the way for its honourable return. (1) The Philistines triumph over it, and place it as the prisoner

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—Lesser judgments only exasperate hardened sinners against the Lord, instead of making them search their ways and return to him, while those, who are most destitute of the power of godliness, glory in, and trust to, their external forms and privileges.—Sinners are often perfectly secure when their destruction comes upon them as a whirlwind. And a good cause may fearfully suffer for the wickedness of those who espouse it. But, very justly, the first and sorest judgments light on the heads of wicked and unfaithful ministers: and quickly they, who refused to shed the tears of godly sorrow, are made to shriek under the strokes of judgment. How near the heart of exercised saints do the ark and church of God lie! Yet God pursues his offending servants to the very brink of eternity, with awful frowns and fearful strokes; and, if they will be unfaithful, they must die without comfort. Pregnant women have need to be in readiness for death: for in an hour which they think not the Son of man may require their soul. But how great is the misery of a nation when the ordinances and presence of God, which are the glory thereof, are taken from it! Draw near, ye careless, ye indulgent parents, and tremble; behold in what ruin to your family and nation your conduct may issue!

of Dagon their idol; 1, 2. (2) God in it triumphs over Dagon and his worshippers: and, by smiting the inhabitants of Ashdod, Gath and Ekron, with emrods, renders them urgent to part with the ark as a terror and burden to them; 3—12.

AND the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it from ^bEben-ezer unto ^cAshdod.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of ^dDagon, and set it by Dagon.

3 ¶ And when they of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, ^eDagon was fallen upon his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD. And they took Dagon, and set him in his place again.

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD: and ^fthe head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; only ^gthe stump of Dagon was left to him.

5 Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

6 ¶ But the ^hhand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Ashdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerods, even Ashdod and the coasts thereof.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us; for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 They sent therefore and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto ⁱGath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

9 And it was so, that, after they had carried it about, the ^jhand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city both small and great, and they had emerods in their ^ksecret parts.

10 ¶ Therefore they sent the ark of God to ^lEkron. And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to us, to slay us and our people.

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay us not and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there.

12 And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

CHAP. VI.

Observe here (1) How the Philistines, advised by their priests, dismissed the ark, viz. with rich presents to the God of Israel, to make atonement for their sin; and yet in a manner which secured their possession of it, unless God should by a miracle direct the kine who drew it, contrary to their natural instinct, into the land of Israel; 1—11. (2) How the Israelites received the ark with great joy, and sacrifices of praise; 12—18. (3) How their curious and unwarrantable looking into it brought immediate death upon the Bethshemites, which struck the survivors with such terror that they begged the people of Kirjath-jearim to send for it; 19—21.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us wherewith we shall send it to his place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not empty; but in any wise return him a trespass-offering: then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you why his hand is not removed from you.

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass-offering which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one plague was on you all, and on your lords:

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that mar the land; and ye shall give glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought wonderfully among them, did they not let the people go, and they departed?

7 Now therefore make a new cart, and take two milch kine, on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them:

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart; and put the jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass-offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, that it may go.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to Beth-shemesh, then she hath done us this great evil: but if not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a chance that happened to us.

10 ¶ And the men did so; and took two milch kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home:

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of Beth-shemesh, and went along the highway, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left; and the lords of the Philistines more eager to get rid of God's judgments than to get rid of their sins which procured them: and, when they smart under his stroke, they are solicitous to have God put from them, rather than to enter into friendly connexions with him. But such as tempt God shall find every essay more and more embittered by his curse and heavy hand upon them. And what has been gotten by fraud or sacrifice must be thrown back again before the sinner feel quietness within him.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—The interest of religion sometimes sinks very low; but God will in due time, and often when it is least expected, make it to triumph. No power of devils or men can withstand him, or even prevent their own ruin. It is very dangerous to profane his holy things. If men will not glorify God by due reverence, he will glorify himself in taking just vengeance: and such as contend with him shall be infallibly ruined at last. Men indeed are often went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua a Beth-shemite, and [†]stood there, where there was a great stone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and [‡]offered the kine a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

15 And the [§]Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt-offerings, and sacrificed sacrifices, the same day unto the LORD.

16 And, when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron the same day.

17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass-offering unto the LORD; for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one;

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities and of country villages, even unto the ^{*}great stone of Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD: which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua the Beth-shemite.

19 ¶ And he [†]smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD, even he smote of the people ^{*}fifty thousand and threescore and ten men: and the people lamented, because the LORD had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter.

20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, "Who is able to stand before this holy LORD God? and to whom shall he go up from us?"

21 ¶ And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of ^{*}Kirjath-jearim, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD; come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

CHAP. VII.

Here is (1) The glory of God's ark long eclipsed by its private residence at Kirjath-jearim, while the Israelites mourn; 1, 2. (2) The glory of Samuel, God's prophet and deputy judge, shining forth in its meridian brightness; 1. In his zeal he extirpates idolatry, and re-establishes the true worship of God in Israel; 3—6: 2. By his prayer he obtains a glorious victory over the Philistines, where they had given the Israelites the fatal defeat twenty years before, and erects a monument in remembrance of it; 7—12. (3) By his care he improves his victory, in clearing the country of the Philistines, and retaking the cities which they had seized; 13, 14. (4) By an annual circuit through the country he restores the administration of justice, and mean while takes particular care of God's worship at his own house; 15—17.

AND the men ^{*}of Kirjath-jearim came, and fetched up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in the hill, and sanctified Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

2 And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was [‡]long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel [§]lamented after the LORD.

3 ¶ And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye [†]do return unto the LORD with all your hearts, then [‡]put away the strange gods and Ashtaroth from among you, and [§]prepare your hearts unto the LORD, and serve him [†]only: and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines.

4 Then the children of Israel [§]did put away Baalim and Ashtaroth, and served the LORD only.

5 And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to [†]Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and [†]drew water, and poured it out before the LORD, and [‡]fasted on that day, and said there, [§]"We have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel [†]judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh.

7 ¶ And, when the Philistines [†]heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And, when the children of Israel heard it, they were [†]afraid of the Philistines.

8 And the children of Israel said to Samuel, ^{*}"Cease not to cry unto the LORD our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

9 ¶ And Samuel [†]took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt-offering wholly unto the LORD: and [‡]Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD [†]heard him.

10 And, as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: but the LORD [†]thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them; and they were smitten before Israel.

11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them until they came under Beth-car.

12 Then Samuel [†]took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it [‡]"Eben-ezer, saying, [§]"Hitherto hath the LORD helped us.

13 ¶ So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel: and the hand of the [‡]LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel.

14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from [†]Ekron even unto Gath; and the coasts thereof did Israel deliver out of the hands of the Philistines. And alone can deliver his church, and restore his ordinances, when all others lie by unconcerned. And with great joy and thanksgiving, even to the interruption of the most urgent earthly concerns, ought his returns and revivals of religion to be welcomed. But what fear and reverence are due to him, and his ordinances, in the meetings of his saints! He is a holy Lord God! and it is dangerous to indulge a vain curiosity in our concerns with him; and infinitely destructive to come near to behold the broken law but as fulfilled in Christ. How miserable is that nation in which no common care is taken about the ordinances of Christ; but one place yields them to another, and forfeits those blessings which God has connected with them. Let us learn properly to value the privileges which God graciously bestows; and so to improve them, that they may not become a curse but a blessing to us.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—To be deprived of God's ordinances, though it be only for a time, is very alarming; yet much more so to have them made a plague to us. By holding fast their sins, men only prolong their sorrows. God can easily make the stoutest of his enemies to bow down to him, and even cause them to become, to his honour, lasting memorials of their own shame. But it is much happier to be warned by other men's experience than by our own. And, when we have repented of our sins, we may hope for a removal of our miseries. Wicked men would fain shift their convictions, and ascribe their sufferings to any cause rather than to the hand of God. And God often patiently suffers himself to be tempted and put to the trial; but the issue shall tend to his own glory; and the very means, which men had taken to confirm themselves in infidelity, shall turn out to their more unanswerable conviction of the truth. there was peace between Israel and the Amorites.

15 ¶ And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life.

16 And he went from year to year in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places.

17 And his return was to Ramah; for there was his house; and there he judged Israel; and there he built an altar unto the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

Here, (1) Through Samuel's decay of strength, and his sons' degeneracy, the affairs of Israel work towards an unhappy revolution; 1—3. (2) Weary of the government of judges, the Israelites, expecting to be more happy, demand a king, in order to be like the nations around them; 4, 5. (3) Samuel complains of this to God, and is directed to reprove them for their dislike of God's government; and to represent to them how unhappy they would be under such a king as the nations around them had; 6—18. (4) They, notwithstanding, insist on their demand; and a speedy gratification of their desire is promised them; 19—22.

AND it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he made his sons judges over Israel.

2 Now the name of his first-born was Joel, and the name of his second Abiah; they were judges in Beer-sheba.

3 And his sons walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment.

4 Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah,

5 And said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now make us a king to judge us like all the nations.

6 ¶ But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel prayed unto the LORD.

7 And the LORD said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them.

8 According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me, and served other gods, so do they also unto thee.

9 Now therefore hearken unto their voice: howbeit, yet protest solemnly unto them, and shew them the manner of the king that shall reign over them.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people that asked of him a king.

11 And he said, This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots.

12 And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

13 And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

14 And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your olive yards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants.

15 And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants.

16 And he will take your men servants, and your maid servants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work.

17 He will take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants.

18 And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the LORD will not hear you in that day.

19 ¶ Nevertheless, the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, Nay, but we will have a king over us;

20 That we also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in the ears of the LORD.

22 And the LORD said to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel said unto the men of Israel, Go ye every man unto his city.

CHAP. IX.

Of these Israelites, so intent on kingly government, no one (I suppose through meanness of spirit) daring to appear candidate for the station, God provides them with one. Here is (1) A short history of Saul's parentage and person; 1, 2. (2) A large account of God's bringing him to Samuel. Sent to seek his father's asses, and not finding them, the servant advises him to consult Samuel about them; and, by the direction of the maidens of Ramah, he finds him out; 3—14. (3) Warned of God that Saul was to be king, Samuel receives him with kindness, and treats him with great respect, in the gate, in the dining-room, and in private conference; 15—27.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish, the son of REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—God's ordinances will still find a place somewhere; and, if priests neglect them, pious Levites or Israelites will take care of them. The church may continue long in a wilderness state: but, when men begin to lament after an hiding God and departed ordinances, their deliverance is nigh. If we wish remarkable interposals of providence for our relief, we must put away our idols, and apply ourselves to solemn repentance, fasting, and supplication. God saves men from their sins, not in them. But it is a great mercy to have a noted favourite of heaven with us on critical occasions.—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. And a minister's other labours, without earnest prayers, seldom avail to the reformation of the world, or the edification of souls. The first struggles for glory are often the hardest. Scarcely can men begin to repent, but hell and earth will be in arms against them. But the prayer of faith, fixed on Jesus' atoning sacrifice, will make things easier than could have been expected. Whatsoever we ask, believing, we shall receive; and, when God arises, his enemies must be scattered. But let us remember that noted answers of prayer deserve memorials of gratitude: and, while we gratefully acknowledge past help, we may depend on future protection. When a man's ways please the Lord, he makes his enemies to be at peace with him. Prayer and penitence can do more for a nation than the mightiest armies. And every blessing may be expected in that land where magistrates or ministers unite remarkable diligence, equity, and faithfulness, with exemplary holiness and ardent devotions.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—We had need to be busy in our proper work while we are able; old age will quickly indispose us for it. Neither the piety of parents, nor the best education, can render a person gracious. All men transmit corruption to their posterity; no man his virtues or graces. Many children, awed by their parents' inspection, conceal the vices which afterwards appear when the restraint is taken off. Yea, many, after promising beginnings, turn out a disgrace to their parents, and a plague to their country. The love of money is a prolific root of evil; a most dangerous plague to the soul; and renders the public administrations of church and state a public nuisance and pest. It is a common thing for people to be harmonious in casting off the government of God, discovering the vilest ingratitude to his faithful servants, and studying conformity to the world: but abusive vexation from men should drive us to our prayers for ourselves and for them. God will grant us direction and comfort when others condemn and abuse us. To punish men for their sin, God often grants them what they wish: and things, good in themselves, become a curse when they are obtained in a wrong way. But rejection of God, when we are at ease, assuredly issues in his rejection of us when we are in trouble. However great a curse unsanctified relations may be, most men are set on obtaining them. And no reproofs or warnings will restrain the obstinate sinner; but the kindest advice is frequently misrepresented, as selfish and designing.

Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, *a Benjamite, a mighty man of †power.

2 And he had a son, whose name was Saul; ^aa choice young man, and a goodly: and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people.

3 And the ^casses of Kish, Saul's father, were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses.

4 And he passed through ^dmount Ephraim, and passed through the land of ^eShalisha; but they found them not: then they passed through the land of ^fShalim, and there they were not: and he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

5 And, when they were come to the ^gland of Zuph, Saul said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return; lest my father leave caring for the asses, and take thought for us.

6 And he said unto him, Behold now there is in this city ^ha man of God, and he is an ⁱhonourable man; ^kall that he saith cometh surely to pass: now let us go thither; peradventure he can shew us our way that we should go.

7 Then said Saul to his servant, But, behold, if we go, ^lwhat shall we bring the man? for the bread ^mis spent in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to the man of God: what ⁿhave we?

8 And the servant answered Saul again, and said, Behold, ^oI have here at hand ^pthe fourth part of a shekel of silver: that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way.

9 (Beforetime in Israel, when a man went to ^qinquire of God thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the seer: for he that is now called a prophet was beforetime called ^ra seer.)

10 Then said Saul to his servant, ^sWell said; come, let us go. So they went unto the city where the man of God was.

11 ¶ And as they went up ^tthe hill to the city they found young maidens going out to draw water, and said unto them, Is the seer here?

12 And they answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you: make haste now, for he came to-day to the city; for there is a ^usacrifice of the people to-day in the high place:

13 As soon as ye be come into the city ye shall straightway find him, before he go up to the high place to eat: for the people will not eat until he come, because he doth ^vblesthe sacrifice; and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get you up, for about ^wthis time ye shall find him.

14 And they went up into the city: and, when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them, for to go up to the high place.

15 ¶ Now the LORD had ^xtold Samuel in his ear, ^ya day before Saul came, saying, 16 To-morrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him ^zto be captain over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines: for ^aI have looked upon my people, because their cry is come unto me.

17 And when Samuel saw Saul ^bthe LORD said unto him, Behold the man whom I spake to thee of! the same shall ^creign over my people.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is.

19 And Samuel answered Saul, and said, I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place, for ye shall eat with me to-day; and to-morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.

20 And, as for thine asses that were lost ^dthree days ago, set not thy mind on them, for they are found. And ^eon whom is all the desire of Israel; is it not on thee, and on all thy father's house?

21 And Saul answered and said, Am not I a ^fBenjamite of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Wherefore then speakest thou ^gso to me?

22 And Samuel took Saul and his servant, and brought them into the parlour, and ^hmade them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden, which were about thirty persons.

23 And Samuel said unto the cook, Bring the ⁱportion which I gave thee, of which I said unto thee, Set it by thee.

24 And the cook took up the ^jshoulder, and that which was upon it, and set it before Saul. And Samuel said, Behold that which is ^kleft! set it before thee, and eat; for unto this time hath it been kept for thee since I said, I have invited the people. So Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

25 ¶ And, when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul ^lupon the top of the house.

26 And they arose early. And it came to pass, about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And ^mSaul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad.

27 And, as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on,) but stand thou still ⁿa while, that I may ^oshew thee the word of God.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—When nations provoke God to give them magistrates or ministers according to their heart, they are like to have portly figures, but little piety or sense. If men have much of this world, they may lay their account with frequent losses. Persons may be affectionate children, and yet destitute of grace. How sadly many mistake the ministerial office and work, and look on the messengers of God as but cunning diviners that need to be hired; and are more solicitous about outward trifles than about their eternal salvation! But it is shameful when handmaids know more of Christ and his ministers than the sons of the great; and when men, like beasts, feast on their daily provision, and attend the ordinances of God, without first asking his

CHAP. X.

Samuel had informed Saul of the Lord's choosing him to be king of Israel. Here (1) He anoints him with a vial of oil, marking his scanty qualifications for, and the weakness of, his government; 1. (2) He gives him three tokens of his divine call to, and establishment on, the throne, with some instructions; 2—8. (3) The tokens given take place in Saul's return to his father's house; 9—14. (4) After a divine remonstrance against Israel's wickedness in desiring a king, he is publicly elected by lot, sought out, and inaugurated to his royal office with proper instructions; 17—25. (5) Not without some contempt, he returns home, attended by a guard of volunteers; 26, 27.

THEN Samuel took ^aa vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and ^bkissed him, and said, Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance?

2 When thou art departed from me to-day, then thou shalt find two men by ^cRachel's sepulchre in the border of Benjamin at Zelzah; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and, lo, thy father hath ^{*}left the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up ^fto God to Beth-el; ^eone carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine:

4 And they ^hwill salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread, which thou shalt receive of their hands.

5 After that thou shalt come to the hill of God, where is the garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet a ^kcompany of prophets coming down from the high place ⁱwith a psaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp, before them; and they shall prophesy:

6 And the ^mSpirit of the LORD will come upon thee, and thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into ⁿanother man.

7 And let it be, when these signs are come unto thee, that thou do as ^ooccasion serve thee, for ^pGod is with thee.

8 And thou shalt ^qgo down before me ^rto Gilgal; and, behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings: ^sseven days shalt thou tarry till I come to thee, and shew thee what thou shalt do.

9 ¶ And it was so, that, when he had turned his ^tback to go from Samuel, God ^ugave him ^vanother heart: and all ^wthose signs came to pass that day.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him; and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them.

11 And it came to pass, when all that knew him before time saw that, behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said ^xone to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets?

12 And one ^yof the same place answered and said, But ^zwho is their father? Therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul also among the prophets?

13 And, when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.

14 ¶ And Saul's ^{aa}uncle said unto him and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found. But ^{ab}of the matter of the kingdom whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together ^{ac}unto the LORD to Mizpeh;

18 And said unto the children of Israel, ^{ad}Thus saith the LORD God of Israel; I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you:

19 And ye have this day ^{ae}rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD ^{af}by your tribes, and by your thousands.

20 And, when Samuel ^{ag}had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him he could not be found.

22 Therefore they ^{ah}inquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, Behold, he hath ^{ai}hid himself among the stuff.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence: and, when he stood among the people, he ^{aj}was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? And ^{ak}all the people shouted, and said, God save the king.

25 Then Samuel told the people ^{al}the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

26 ¶ And Saul also went home to ^{am}Gibeah, and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched.

27 But the ^{an}children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they despised him, and ^{ao}brought him no presents. But ^{ap}she held his peace.

And whom God honours we must respect for his sake; never envying those whom he is pleased to advance, though we ourselves should be eclipsed by them.

CHAP. XI.

Here God, in high sovereignty, begins to honour that government which the Israelites had so sinfully requested. Observe (1) The great extremity to which Jabesh-gilead, on the east of Jordan, was reduced by the Ammonites; 1—3. (2) Saul's prudent and expeditious raising of an army for their relief, and signal success against the enemy; 4—11. (3) His tenderness towards those who had opposed his advancement to the kingdom; 12, 13. (4) A public confirmation and recognition of his election to the crown; 14, 15.

CHAP. XII.

While the Hebrew states are assembled at Gilgal, Samuel fully resigns the government of Israel into the hands of Saul. (1) He solemnly purges himself from every suspicion of mal-administration while he had the government of them, and the people assent thereto; 1—5. (2) He reminds them of the great things which God had done for them and their fathers; 6—13. (3) He sets before them the blessing annexed to their obedience, and the curse annexed to their disobedience; 14—15. (4) To awaken their regard to what he had said, and convince them of their sin in desiring a king, he calls for thunder and rain at an unusual season; 16—19. (5) The people being convinced, he encourages them that things should yet go well if they took heed to their way; but, if they did not, they might look for ruin to themselves and to their king; 20—25.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—Inheritances, hastily gotten at the beginning, are often marked with terrible vexations: and God remarkably displays his wrath against some cities or nations. What a plague is it to live beside bad neighbours! But inhuman barbarity often issues in men's own ruin. Kind sympathy with others in their trouble, and holy indignation against deeds of cruelty and wickedness, are highly commendable. Deep humility, a hearty concern for their subjects, zeal for the interests and honour of God, proper courage and authority, prudence, and confidence in God for success, attended with activity and dispatch in business, are truly ornamental in magistrates: and the fear of God ought to influence subjects to their duty. Never ought men to be more forward in forgiving others than when the Lord hath done great things for themselves. And, with hearty thanksgivings to God, and increasing regard to his appointments, ought we to acknowledge the deliverances which he grants, or the honours which he confers.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—God should be always viewed as the author of all our promotions; and the tokens for good, which he gives in his providence carefully observed. He works many wonderful changes on the heart, as well as on the station. Sudden changes indeed are not always to be trusted. We may get a new tongue, new company, new stations, and new manners, and yet want the new heart. It is not prudent to be forward in proclaiming our own honours, or in rushing on great works: but to wait till the Lord, by his word and providence, clear up our way: thus will our path be secure and happy. It is not enough that we obtain the things which we desire: we should consider whether we get them in love or in wrath; whether in answer to the cravings of our lust, or in fulfilment of the gracious promises of God. In all elections to government, in church or state, God's direction should be earnestly consulted and attended to. If the Lord call to important work, no meanness of spirit, or earthly consideration, should ever make us to evade it. He who gives the call will give furniture for the work. Let the directions of God's word be our constant rule: and then neither weakness in ourselves, nor contempt in others, should dismay or provoke us in the way of duty. And let us always remember reason with you before the LORD of all the righteous acts of the LORD, which he did to you and to your fathers.

8 When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cried unto the LORD, then the LORD sent Moses and Aaron, who brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place.

9 And when they forgot the LORD their God he sold them into the hand of Sisera, captain of the host of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought against them.

10 And they cried unto the LORD, and said, We have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD and have served Baalim and Ashtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee.

11 And the LORD sent Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every side, and ye dwelled safe.

12 And, when ye saw that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon came against you, ye said unto me, Nay, but a king shall reign over us; when the LORD your God was your king.

13 Now, therefore, behold the king whom ye have chosen, and whom ye have desired! and, behold, the LORD hath set a king over you.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and serve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel against the commandment of the LORD, then shall both ye, and also the king that reigneth over you, continue following the LORD your God:

15 But if ye will not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel against the commandment of the LORD, then shall the hand of the LORD be against you, as it was against your fathers.

16 Now therefore stand and see this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes.

17 Is it not wheat-harvest to-day? I will call unto the LORD, and he shall send thunder and rain; that ye may perceive and see that your wickedness is great, which ye have done in the sight of the LORD, in asking you a king.

18 So Samuel called unto the LORD; and the LORD sent thunder and rain that day: and all the people greatly feared the LORD and Samuel.

19 And all the people said unto Samuel, Pray for thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our sins this evil, to ask us a king.

20 ¶ And Samuel said unto the people, Fear not: ye have done all this wickedness: yet turn not aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart;

21 And turn ye not aside: for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver, for they are vain.

22 For the LORD will not forsake his people for his great name's sake; because it hath pleased the LORD to make you his people.

23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I should sin against the LORD in ceasing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way:

24 Only fear the LORD, and serve him in truth with all your heart: for consider how great things he hath done for you.

25 But, if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your king.

CHAP. XIII.

Here Saul begins to reign alone, and appears (1) Infatuated in his counsels and management of his army; 1—4. (2) Invaded by his powerful enemies; 5. (3) Deserted by his soldiers; 6, 7. (4) Disordered in his spirit, and sacrificing in confusion; 8—10. (5) For his conduct he is rebuked by Samuel, and rejected from being king by God; 11—14.—His subjects, who had so keenly insisted for a king, to make them like the nations around, appear (1) Disheartened and scattered; 6, 7. (2) Diminished in number; 15, 16. (3) Plundered in property; 17, 18. (4) Disarmed of weapons for their own defence; 19—23.

SAUL reigned one year; and, when he had reigned two years over Israel,

2 Saul chose him three thousand men of Israel; whereof two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent.

3 ¶ And Jonathan smote the garrison of the Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it: and Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear.

4 And all Israel heard say that Saul had smitten a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also was had in abomination with the Philistines. And the people were called together after Saul to Gilgal.

5 ¶ And the Philistines gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the sea-shore in multitude: and they came up, and pitched in Michmash, eastward from Beth-aven.

6 ¶ When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people were distressed,) then the people did hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—To vindicate our character from calumny is a debt which we owe to God and to ourselves: and such as are conscious of their integrity will not fear the strictest scrutiny of their conduct. But it is the greatest comfort to have God the witness of our uprightness. To resign a station on account of age, with a conscience uncorrupted, and with a character which malice itself dares not to calumniate, is glorious indeed; yet good men scarcely ever leave either church or state in so good a condition as they would wish. Hence they are so earnest in God's work when he is taking it out of their hand: and it is honourable to die with a savoury testimony for God and his ways. But, whatever changes take place on earth, it will be always well with the righteous, and ill with the wicked. The careful remembrance of God's former mercies and judgments, and the observation of his awful providences, are both too little to make us active and constant in the service of God: and how terrible is the case of his enemies, who can arm all nature against them! How dangerous to have the prayers of his ministers turned against us! But for nations and churches to enjoy the fervent prayers, and the faithful admonitions and encouragements, of JEHOVAN's favourites is one of the greatest mercies; and will be much prized by such as are truly penitent. Nor must any ill usage provoke them to give over. If they be faithful and compassionate to the death, whatever be their success, they have delivered their own soul. In high sovereignty God distributes his special favours; and these, when enjoyed, should strongly animate us to faithfulness and constancy in his service. But no mercy in God, nor pleadings of his people shall prevent the everlasting ruin of such as are obstinate in their wickedness.

Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. As for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people followed him trembling.

8 ¶ And he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal. And the people were scattered from him.

9 And Saul said, bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering.

10 And it came to pass, that, as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might salute him.

11 ¶ And Samuel said, "What hast thou done? And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together at Michmash;

12 Therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made supplication unto the LORD: I forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt-offering.

13 And Samuel said to Saul, "Thou hast done foolishly: thou hast not kept the commandments of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever.

14 But now thy kingdom shall not continue: the LORD hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

15 And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were present with him, about six hundred men.

16 And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were present with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin; but the Philistines encamped in Michmash.

17 ¶ And the spoilers came out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah, unto the land of Shual;

18 And another company turned the way to Beth-horon; and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderness.

19 ¶ Now there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears:

20 But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock.

21 Yet they had a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and to sharpen the goads.

22 So it came to pass, in the day of battle, that there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan: but with Saul and with Jonathan his son was there found.

23 And the garrison of the Philistines went out to the passage of Michmash.

CHAP. XIV.

The Lord will not forsake his people, but will repent himself concerning them, when their power is gone, and there is none shut up or left. Here (1) The prodigious army of the Philistines is routed by the faith and courage of Jonathan and his armour-bearer; 1—16: and pursued by Saul and the Israelites; 16—23. (2) The host of Israel is troubled by the rashness of Saul, in adjuring them to eat no food till night; by which means Jonathan's life is brought into danger, and the people tempted, in their hunger, sinfully to eat with the blood; 24—46. (3) We have a general account of Saul's exploits and family; 47—52.

NOW *it came to pass upon a day that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines garrison, that is on the other side. But he told not his father.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermost part of Gibeah under a pomegranate tree which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were about six hundred men;

3 And Ahiah the son of Ahitub, Icha-bod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the LORD's priest in Shiloh, wearing an ephod. And the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

4 And between the passages, by which Jonathan sought to go over unto the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock on the one side and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

5 The forefront of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah.

6 And Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised: it may be that the LORD will work for us: for there is no restraint to the LORD to save by many or by few.

7 And his armour-bearer said unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will discover ourselves unto them:

9 If they say thus unto us, Tarry until we come to you; then we will

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—God quickly renders men miserable in the enjoyment of their own inventions for safety: and leaves such as trust to their own understanding to the most impolitic, if not treacherous, conduct. It is easy for him to awaken the resentment of nations, or to levy prodigious armies, when he hisses for them, and musters the host to the battle. And the greatest nations and most flourishing churches, when God has deserted them, appear pitiful and contemptible. In perplexing straits, men often entangle themselves more and more by using sinful means of relief. Impatience to help ourselves, and unwillingness to leave our concerns in God's hands, serve only to involve us in new troubles. It is infinitely dangerous for the greatest to invade the ministerial office, and run when God has not sent them: it may cost them a kingdom, nay, their everlasting damnation. Disobedience against God's positive precepts can admit of no excuse. Every attempt to extenuate our guilt is a proof of an unhumbled spirit. The more we sin against conviction, the more aggravated is our transgression: and pretences to religion, whilst we act in opposition to God's commands, are but barefaced hypocrisy. Want of true sense always accompanies want of grace. Sins, which to us appear very little, have dangerous consequences: and plain and faithful rebukes become God's ministers. How unstable is earthly grandeur—to-day we may be enthroned, and to-morrow deposed! Miserable is a guilty, a defenceless, nation—and much more they who are destitute of the whole armour of God.

stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them:

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and this shall be a sign unto us.

11 And both of them discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews come forth ^kout of the holes where they had hid themselves.

12 And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said, 'Come up to us, and we will shew you a thing. And Jonathan said unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me; for the LORD hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

13 And Jonathan ^mclimbed up upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him: and they ⁿfell before Jonathan; and his armour-bearer slew after him.

14 And that first slaughter, which Jonathan and his armour-bearer made, was about twenty men, within as it were [§]an half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.

15 ¶ And ^othere was trembling in the host, in the field, and among all the people: the ^pgarrison, and the spoilers, they also trembled, and the earth quaked: so it was ^qa very great trembling.

16 And the watchmen of Saul in Gibeon of Benjamin looked; and, behold, the multitude melted away, and they went on beating down one another.

17 ¶ Then said Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and see who is gone from us. And, when they had numbered, behold, Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not there.

18 And Saul said unto Ahiah, 'Bring hither the ark of God: (for ^rthe ark of God was at that time with the children of Israel.)

19 And it came to pass, while Saul talked unto the priest, that the [†]noise that was in the host of the Philistines went on and increased: and 'Saul said unto the priest, Withdraw thine hand.

20 And Saul and all the people that ^{||}were with him ^{||}assembled themselves, and they came to the battle: and, behold, ^uevery man's sword was against his fellow, and there was a very great discomfiture.

21 ^{*}Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philistines before that time, who went up with them into the camp from the country round about, even they also turned to be with the Israelites that were with Saul and Jonathan.

22 Likewise all the men of Israel which had ^vhid themselves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philistines fled, even they also followed hard after them in the battle.

23 So the LORD ^zsaved Israel that day: and ^zthe battle passed over unto Beth-aven.

24 ¶ And the men of Israel were distressed that day: for ^zSaul had adjured the people, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food until evening; that I may be avenged on mine enemies. So none of the people tasted any food.

25 And all they of the land came to a wood; and there was ^choney upon the ground.

26 And, when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped; but no man put his hand to his mouth: for the people ^dfeared the oath.

27 But Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipped it in [§]an honeycomb, and put his hand to his mouth; and ^ehis eyes were enlightened.

28 Then answered one of the people, and said, Thy father ^{*}straitly charged the people with an oath, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were [†]faint.

29 Then said Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land: see, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightened because I tasted a little of this honey:

30 How much more if haply the people had eaten freely to-day of the spoil of their enemies which they found? [‡]for had there not been now a much greater slaughter among the Philistines?

31 And they smote the Philistines that day from Michmash to 'Ajalon: and the people were very faint.

32 And the people flew upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and slew them on the ground: and the people ^edid eat them with the blood.

33 Then they told Saul, saying, Behold, the people sin against the LORD in that they eat with the blood. And he said, Ye have ^htransgressed: roll ^aa great stone unto me this day.

34 And Saul said, Disperse yourselves among the people, and say unto them, Bring me hither every man his ox, and every man his sheep, and slay them here, and eat; and sin not against the LORD in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his ox [§]with him that night, and slew them there.

35 And Saul ^kbuilt an altar unto the LORD: the same was the first altar that he built unto the LORD.

36 ¶ And Saul said, Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and spoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they said, Do whatsoever seemeth good unto thee. Then said the priest, 'Let us draw near hither unto God.

37 ¶ And Saul asked counsel of God; Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But ^mhe answered him not that day.

38 ¶ And Saul said, Draw ye near hither all the ⁿchief of the people: and ^oknow and see wherein this sin hath been this day.

39 For as the LORD liveth, who saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die. But there was not a man among all the people that answered him.

40 Then said he unto all Israel, Be ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side. And the people said unto Saul, Do what seemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul said unto the LORD God of Israel, ^rGive a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people [†]escaped.

42 And Saul said, Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was taken.

43 Then Saul said to Jonathan, Tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathan told him, and said, ^rI did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and, lo, I must die.

44 And Saul answered, ^rGod do so, and more also: for ^rthou shalt surely die, Jonathan.

45 And the people said unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath ^rwrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: as the LORD liveth, ^rthere shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for ^rhe hath wrought with God this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.

47 ¶ So Saul ^rtook the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against ^rMoab, and against the children of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of ^rZobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself he vexed them.

48 And he ¶ gathered an host, and ^rsmote the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of them that spoiled them.

49 ¶ Now the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui, and Melchi-shua: and the names of his two daughters were these; the name of the first-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michal:

50 And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and ^rthe name of the captain of his host was Abner the son of Ner, Saul's uncle.

51 And ^rKish was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel.

52 And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and ^rwhen Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him.

CHAP. XV.

By his own wars and victories, Saul hoped to magnify himself, and perpetuate his fame; but, by mismanagement of what God committed to him, he ruined himself, and laid his honour in the dust. Here is (1) The express charge which God gave him, utterly to destroy the Amalekites for their injurious attack upon the Israelites in the wilderness, and for their idolatry; 1—3.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—Carnal men are often more anxious for the presence of God's ministers than for his own. But how reasonable are God's interpositions for the deliverance of his people! He makes the faith of his servants strong, and then delights to crown their strong faith with signal victories and honours. The proud derision of their enemies issues in terrible destruction. Yea, the mightiest armies, in the hand of such an angry God, make a most pitiful appearance. And it is easy for the weakest cowards to pursue those whom the Lord hath routed. In all our ways it is best to consult God's word. But how ready are wicked consulters, like Saul, to take their own way, without waiting for an answer! Yet rash expedients, to obtain carnal ends, are often the noted hindrances of these ends. And such as cast abroad curses, firebrands, and

(2) The preparations which Saul made for their destruction; raising an army, and advertising the Kenites to retire; 4—6. (3) His partial execution of his commission; Agag the king, and the best of the flocks, being spared; 7—9. (4) His examination by Samuel, and sentence of dethronement, notwithstanding his many frivolous excuses; 10—31. (5) Having hewed Agag in pieces, Samuel, in great grief, bids Saul a final adieu; 32—35.

SAMUEL also said unto Saul, ^rThe LORD sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel: now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the LORD.

2 Thus saith the ^rLORD of hosts; ^rI remember that which Amalek did to Israel, how he laid wait for him in the way when he came up from Egypt.

3 Now go and ^rsmite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, ^rinfant and suckling, ^rox and sheep, camel and ass.

4 And Saul gathered the people together, and numbered them in ^rTelaim, ^rtwo hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah.

5 And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and ^rlaid wait in the valley.

6 ¶ And Saul said unto the ^rKenites, Go, ^rdepart, get you down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them: for ye ^rshewed kindness to all the children of Israel when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites.

7 ¶ And Saul ^rsmote the Amalekites from Havilah until thou comest to ^rShur that is over against Egypt.

8 And he ^rtook Agag the king of the Amalekites alive, and utterly destroyed ^rall the people with the edge of the sword.

9 But Saul and the people spared Agag, and ^rthe best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy them: but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly.

10 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Samuel, saying, 11 It ^rrepenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king; for he ^ris turned back from following me, and hath not performed my commandments. And it ^rgrieved Samuel; and he cried unto the LORD all night.

12 And, when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to ^rCarmel, and, behold, he ^rset him up a place, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal.

13 And Samuel came to Saul: and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the LORD: ^rI have performed the commandment of the LORD.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth death, endanger themselves and families; and entangle their children, who are far better than themselves. When God refuses to answer it is an evidence that he is angry, and it is time to think seriously in what we have offended him. Violent tempers are prone to sacrifice their nearest relations to their angry passions. In such a case we ought to resist them, kings not excepted; and to protect such as are not only innocent, but honoured of God. Wicked men's zeal often flames in trifling matters, while it languishes in things important: and rash cursing bids fair to end in profane perjury. The comforts and honours of royalty are dearly bought, by the constant care, danger, and toil, which attend them. And often men's earthly glory makes a blaze just before the dark night of ignominy and woe seizes upon them.

Represents the small beginnings of David. (1) To comfort Samuel, the Lord appoints him, under covert of offering sacrifice, to anoint one of Jesse the Bethlehemite's sons to be Saul's successor on the throne of Israel; 1—5. (2) While seven elder sons are passed by, David is fetched from the flock and anointed king; 6—13. (3) Saul becoming melancholy, David is sent for, to relieve him with his excellent music; 14—23.

AND the LORD said unto Samuel, ^uHow long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? fill thine ^uhorn with oil, and go: I will send thee to ^uJesse the Beth-lehemite; for I have provided me a king among his sons.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—Injuries done to God's Israel will, sooner or later, be resented by him. He often bears long with the vessels of his wrath fitted for destruction: but the longer judgments are foreborn, they will only be the more severe when they come; and bloody instruments will be chosen for bloody work. How dangerous is it to live among the devoted enemies of God! But kindness to God's people often procures safety to men's offspring many ages afterward. A covetous and hypocritical heart makes men do the work of God by halves: and men's sins often make God change his methods of providence, though he never changes his mind or purpose. While the ruin of sinners is the grief of God's faithful ministers, the most deceitful men are most ready to boast of their exact obedience to his law: but hypocritical protestations of obedience are often contradicted by the most undeniable proofs. Such as are most forward to justify themselves, are ordinarily the readiest to condemn others: and throwing of the blame on our partners in, or tempters to, sin, is a shrewd evidence of an unhumiliated heart. Those, whom God hath highly exalted from low beginnings, ought to remember it as an excitement to do great things for God their exalter. Ministers of Christ ought to deal faithfully with the greatest: and to hunt them out of all their lying refuges and ill-grounded excuses. Next to Jesus' atonement, nothing is more pleasing to God than true holiness of heart and life. But to live in disobedience to the true God is as bad as to set up false gods, the devil not excepted: and those are unworthy to rule over men who are unwilling to be ruled by God. Fear of man causeth a snare. To confess the sins which we cannot conceal, and to be chiefly afraid of their shame, is no more than may be expected even from an unhumiliated heart. But such repentance comes too late when God hath passed a sentence of rejection. So little are hardened sinners affected with God's threatenings, that honour before the people is dearer to their hypocritical hearts than reconciliation with him. But bloody murderers will at last be reckoned with by God. And never is the destruction of most sinners nearer than when they have no apprehension of it. Let us therefore withdraw from intimacy with such, but never neglect to mourn over their deplorable condition; for it is truly bitter to see those whom we love in the ways of death and hell.

5 And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the LORD: ^bsanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, when they were come, that he looked on Eliab; and said, Surely the LORD's anointed is before him.

7 But the LORD ^csaid unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the LORD ^dseeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the LORD looketh on the heart.

8 Then Jesse called ^eAbinadab, and made him pass before Samuel. And he said, Neither hath the LORD chosen this.

9 Then Jesse made ^fShammah to pass by. And he said, Neither hath the LORD chosen this.

10 Again Jesse made ^gseven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The LORD hath not chosen these.

11 ¶ And Samuel said unto Jesse, Are here all ^hthy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest; and, behold, ⁱhe keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said, unto Jesse, Send and fetch him; for we will not sit ^jdown till he come hither.

12 And he sent and brought him in. Now ^khe was ruddy, and withal ^l*of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the LORD said, ^mArise, anoint him; for this is he.

13 Then Samuel took ⁿthe horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of ^ohis brethren. And ^pthe Spirit of the LORD came upon David from that day forward. So Samuel rose up, and went to ^q*Ramah.

14 ¶ But the ^rSpirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and an ^sevil spirit from the LORD ^ttroubled him.

15 And Saul's servants said unto him, Behold now an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy servants, ^uwhich are before thee, to seek out a man ^vwho is a cunning player on an harp: and it shall come to pass, when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that ^whe shall play with his hand, and thou shalt be well.

17 And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring ^xhim to me.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, ^ythat is cunning in playing, ^zand a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in ^{aa}†matters, and a comely person, and the LORD is with him.

19 Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David, thy son which is ^awith the sheep.

20 And Jesse took an ass ^bladen with bread, and a bottle of wine, and ^ca kid, and sent ^dthem by David his son unto Saul.

21 And David came to Saul, and ^estood before him: and he ^floved him greatly; and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, ^gstand before me; for he hath found favour in my sight.

23 And it came to pass, when the ^hevil spirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul ⁱwas refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.

CHAP. XVII.

Providence had rendered David famous at court as a musician: here it renders him famous in the camp as a warrior. Observe (1) What a great figure the gigantic Goliath made, and how daringly he defied the armies of Israel; 1—11. (2) What a mean figure David the young shepherd made, when providence brought him to the camp to visit his brethren; 12—30. (3) The unparalleled bravery with which David undertook to encounter this monstrous giant; 31—39. (4) The pious resolution and courage with which he attacked him, notwithstanding his contemptuous and profane boasting; 40—47. (5) The glorious victory he obtained over him with a sling and a stone, and the advantage which the Israelites by means of it gained over the Philistines; 48—54. (6) The particular notice which was hereupon taken of David at Saul's court; 55—58.

NOW the Philistines gathered together their armies to battle, and were gathered together at ^aShochoh, which ^bbelongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in ^cEphes-dammim.

2 And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah, and ^dset the battle in array against the Philistines.

3 And ^ethe Philistines stood on a mountain on the one side, and Israel stood on a mountain on the other side: and ^fthere was a valley between them.

4 ¶ And there went out a ^gchampion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath, whose height ^hwas ⁱ†six cubits and a span.

5 And he ^jhad an helmet of brass upon his head, and he ^kwas ^larmed with a coat of mail; and the weight of the coat ^mwas ⁿ§five thousand shekels of brass.

6 And ^ohe had greaves of brass upon his legs, and a ^p*target of brass between his shoulders.

7 And the staff of his spear ^qwas like a weaver's beam; and his spear's head ^rweighed ^s†six hundred shekels of iron: and one bearing a shield went before him.

8 And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set ^tyour battle in array? ^uam not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but, if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and serve us.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—God tenderly sympathizes with his people's griefs; and yet what fear of man remains in the most noble hearts! How awful are the faithful ministers of Christ to all around; and what need have we to prepare ourselves for God's noted favours by solemn repentance, application to Jesus' blood, and surrender of ourselves to his service! The choicest saints are apt to dote too much on external appearances, even after they have, to their grief, got proof of its vanity. For God in sovereign authority distributes his favours and honours; yea, often to those who seem least likely to manage them aright. But where he sends on his work he abundantly qualifies for the employ. How quickly the devil takes possession of those whom God has deserted! Yet, notwithstanding the numerous expedients which carnal men devise for the removal of their inward troubles, they will all at last prove only ruinous and deceitful.

10 And the Philistine said, 'I defy the armies of Israel this day: give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was 'the son of that Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-judah whose name was Jesse; and he had eight sons: and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul.

13 And 'the three eldest sons of Jesse went and followed Saul to the battle: and the names of his three sons that went to the battle were Eliab the first-born, and next unto him Abinadab, and the third 'Shammah.

14 And David 'was the youngest: and the three eldest followed Saul.

15 But David went and returned 'from Saul to feed his father's sheep 'at Beth-lehem.

16 And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself 'forty days.

17 And Jesse said unto David his son, Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren;

18 And carry these ten †cheeses unto the †captain of 'their thousand, and look how thy brethren fare, and ||take their pledge.

19 Now Saul, and they, and all the men of Israel, were in the valley of Elah, *fighting with the Philistines.

20 ¶ And David rose up early in the morning, and left the sheep with a keeper, and took, and went, as Jesse had commanded him: and he came to the 'trench as the host was going forth to the 'fight, and shouted for the battle.

21 For Israel and the Philistines had put the battle in array, army against army.

22 And David left †his carriage in the hand of the keeper of the carriage, and ran into the army, and came and °saluted his brethren.

23 And, as he talked with them, behold, there came up the champion (the Philistine of Gath, Goliath by name) out of the armies of the Philistines, and spake according to the same words: and David heard them.

24 And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled 'from him, and were sore afraid.

25 And the men of Israel said, Have ye seen this man that is come up? surely to defy Israel is he come up: and 'it shall be that the man who killeth him the king will enrich him with great riches, and will give him his daughter, and make his father's house free in Israel.

26 And David spake to the men that stood by him, saying, What shall be done to the man that killeth this Philistine, and taketh away the 'reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the armies of 'the living God?

27 And the people answered him after this manner, saying, So shall it be done to the man that killeth him.

28 ¶ And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men: and Eliab's 'anger was kindled against David; and he said, Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? *I know thy pride, and the naughtiness of thine heart; for thou art come down that thou mightest see the battle.

29 And David said, What have I now done? 'Is there not a cause?

30 ¶ And he turned from him toward another, and spake after the same *manner. And the people answered him again after the former manner.

31 And, when the words were heard which David spake, they rehearsed them before Saul: and he †sent for him.

32 ¶ And David said to Saul, 'Let no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant °will go and fight with this Philistine.

33 And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him; for thou art but †a youth, and he 'a man of war from his youth.

34 And David said unto Saul, Thy servant kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a ||lamb out of the flock:

35 And I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he arose against me I caught him by his beard, °and smote him, and slew him.

36 Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear: and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

37 David said moreover, 'The LORD that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said unto David, Go, and the LORD be with thee.

38 ¶ And Saul *armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of brass upon his head; also he armed him with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his sword upon his armour, and he essayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David said unto Saul, I cannot go with these; for I have not proved them. And David °put them off him.

40 And he took 'his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the *brook, and put them in a shepherd's †bag which he had, even in a scrip; and his sling was in his hand: and he drew near to the Philistine.

41 And the Philistine came on, and drew near unto David; and the man that bare the shield went before him.

42 And, when the Philistine looked about and saw David, he °disdained him; for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

43 And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves? And the Philistine ^bcursed David by his gods.

44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field.

45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied.

46 ^kThis day will the LORD [†]deliver thee into mine hand; and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee; and I will give the carcases of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel.

47 And all this assembly shall know that the LORD saveth not with sword and spear: for the battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hands.

48 And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran towards the army to meet the Philistine.

49 And ^mDavid put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone [‡]sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and ⁿslew him, and cut off his head therewith. And, when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled.

52 ¶ And the men of Israel and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines until thou ^pcome to the valley and to the gates of Ekron. And the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to ^{*}Shaaraim, even unto Gath and unto Ekron.

53 And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their tents.

54 ¶ And David ^qtook the head of the Philistine, and brought it to ^rJerusalem, but he put his armour in ^shis tent.

55 ¶ And, when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, he said unto Abner, the captain of the host, Abner, ^{*}whose son is this youth? And Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I cannot tell.

56 And the king said, Inquire thou whose son the stripling is.

57 And, as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, I am the son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite.

CHAP. XVIII.

Here we have (1) The agreeable fruits of David's victory. He becomes Saul's attendant, Jonathan's covenanted friend, and the common darling of the Hebrew nation; 1—7, 16. (2) The disagreeable consequences of it. 1. Saul, provoked with David's praise, hates him, and seeks to murder him; 8—11: 2. Observe his prudent conduct, and the people's love to him, he is afraid of him; 12—16: 3. To ensnare him, he offers him to wife Merab his eldest daughter; and then, to provoke him, gives her to another; 17—19: 4. To have him slain by others, he gives him Michal his younger daughter, upon the most dangerous terms; 20—25: But, (3) Having, with great bravery and safety, performed these conditions, David becomes more and more esteemed among the people; 26—30.

AND it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that ^athe soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 And Saul took him that day, and would let him go ^bno more home to his father's house.

3 Then Jonathan and David ^cmade a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan ^dstripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

5 ¶ And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and ^ehe behaved himself wisely. And Saul set him over the ^fmen of war; and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Saul's servants.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, as they came, when David was returned from the slaughter of the [†]Philistine, that the women came out of all the cities of Israel, ^gsinging and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with [‡]instruments of music.

7 And the women ^hanswered one another as they played, and said, Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.

8 And Saul was very wroth, and the saying ⁱdispleased him; and he said, They have ascribed unto David ten thousands, and to me they have ascribed but thousands: and what can he have more but the kingdom?

9 And Saul ^jeyed David from that day and forward.

10 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow that the evil ^kspirit from God came upon Saul, and he prophesied in the midst

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—It was a great mercy that God suspended this invasion till Saul had recovered from his distraction, and David was prepared to encounter this giant. And often, though unnoticed, God manifests peculiar mercy in the timing of our troubles. Pride naturally establishes itself upon bulk, bodily strength, and other weak endowments of human nature: and, relying upon these, the enemies of God earnestly watch for advantages against his people. But when God leaves them to themselves, not only individuals but armies become mean spirited and terrified on every approach of danger: their strength is turned into weakness, and their courage into shame. If we would be good soldiers of Jesus Christ, it is necessary that we endure hardness: and it bodes well when God endows us with a deep regard for his honour. Yet how often those, whom God calls out to glorious exploits, meet with much discouragement from a carnal world; particularly their own relations. But let them in patience possess their souls, and in meekness instruct those that oppose themselves.—A soft answer turneth away wrath. And we must not be discouraged in well-doing because our good intentions are misrepresented and abused. What God has done for us ought to be improved, as an encouragement to do more and more for him at his call. They are well armed that go forth with a good conscience in a good cause. The righteous are bold as a lion; but they need never be ashamed of an honest calling, however mean. Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall. The curse that is causeless falls on the head of him that utters it; and the presumption of the proud destroys him. How vain is the arm of flesh against the power of God! The mightiest enemies are easily defeated when we go forth against them strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might! while they who trust in man find their dependance at last but as a broken reed. It is not high birth, but deeds of high desert that constitute true nobility. But of how little avail is the notice of earthly courts, where one may be so soon forgotten, or so quickly hated!

DAVID'S VICTORY OVER GOLIATH.

of the house. And David ^{played} with his hand as at other times. And there was a ^{javelin} in Saul's hand.

11 And Saul ^{cast} the javelin; for he said, I will smite David even to the wall with it. And David avoided out of his presence twice.

12 ¶ And Saul was ^{afraid} of David, because the LORD was with him and was departed from Saul.

13 Therefore Saul ^{removed} him from him, and made him his captain over a thousand: and he ^{went} out and came in before the people.

14 And David ^{behaved} himself wisely in all his ways: and the LORD was with him.

15 Wherefore, when Saul saw that he behaved himself very wisely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Israel and Judah loved David, because he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And ^{Saul} said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife: only be thou ^{valiant} for me, and fight the LORD's battles. For Saul said, Let not mine hand be upon him, ^{but} let the hand of the Philistines be upon him.

18 And David said unto Saul, ^{Who} am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son-in-law to the king?

19 But it came to pass, at the time when Merab Saul's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given unto ^{Adriel} the Meholathite to wife.

20 ¶ And ^{Michal} Saul's daughter loved David. And they told Saul, and the thing ^{pleased} him.

21 And Saul said, I will give him her, that she may be a ^{snare} to him, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him. Wherefore Saul said to David, Thou shalt this day be my son-in-law in the one of the twain.

22 ¶ And Saul ^{commanded} his servants, saying, Commune with David secretly, and say, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee: now therefore be the king's son-in-law.

23 And Saul's servants spake those words in the ears of David. And David said, ^{Seemeth it to you} a light thing, to be a king's son-in-law, seeing that I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed?

24 And the servants of Saul told him, saying, ^{On this manner} spake David.

25 And Saul said, Thus shall ye say to David; The king desireth not any ^{dowry}, but an hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to be avenged of the king's enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philistines.

26 And, when his servants told David these words, it ^{pleased} David well to be the king's son-in-law. And the days were not ^{expired}.

27 Wherefore David arose, and went, he and his men, ^{and slew} of the Philistines two hundred men: and David brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full tale to the king, that he might be the king's son-in-law. And Saul gave him ^{Michal} his daughter to wife.

28 ¶ And Saul saw and knew that the LORD was with David, and that Michal Saul's daughter loved him.

29 And Saul was yet ^{the more} afraid of David; and Saul became David's enemy continually.

30 Then the princes of the Philistines went forth. And it came to pass, after they went forth, that David behaved himself ^{more} wisely than all the servants of Saul: so that his name was much ^{set} by.

CHAP. XIX.

David's new relation to Saul but increases his troubles. Here we have him four times in hazard of his life from Saul and his agents; but always providentially delivered: (1) By the prudent mediation of Jonathan; 1-7: (2) By his own quickness; 8-10: (3) By Michal his wife's fidelity and craftiness; 11-17: (4) By Samuel's protection, and God's turning Saul into a kind of temporary prophet; 18-24.

AND ^{Saul} spake to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, that they should kill David.

2 But Jonathan Saul's son ^{delighted} much in David: and Jonathan told David, saying, Saul my father seeketh to kill thee: now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thyself until the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thyself:

3 And I will go out, and stand beside my father in the field where thou art, and I will commune with my father of thee; and what I see that I will tell thee.

4 ¶ And Jonathan ^{spake} good of David unto Saul his father; and said unto him, Let not the king ^{sin} against his servant, against David; because he hath not sinned against thee, and because ^{his works} have been to thee-ward very good:

5 For he ^{did} put his life in his hand, and slew the Philistine; and the LORD ^{wrought} a great salvation for all Israel: thou sawest it, and didst rejoice: wherefore then wilt thou sin against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause?

6 And Saul hearkened unto ^{the voice} of Jonathan: and Saul sware, As the LORD liveth, he shall not be slain.

7 And Jonathan called David; and Jonathan shewed him all those things. And Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence as ⁱⁿ times past.

8 ¶ And there was war again: and his people from many a mortal blow secretly aimed at them. How base is it to devise hurt against those who dwell securely by us—to lay snares for our neighbour under pretence of regard to him—and to cover hatred with lying lips! But, if we are hated on earth, and snares laid for our life, let us behave with the more prudence, humility, and true bravery. Let us count it all joy when we fall into divers temptations, and through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God! God can overrule the most wicked designs of our enemies for our good, and to their confusion. And modest worth will shine with double lustre at last. God will confound the wise in their own craftiness; and in spite of every danger, exalt the man whom he delights to honour.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—Never let me envy the honour of others. If the Lord delight to honour, even my inferiors, it becomes me heartily to join with him. Let me love the virtuous, though it should be at the expense of losing all that I have in the world for their sake: and let me count a faithful friend among the greatest of human blessings. If friendship be true, it will be constant, and will not startle at giving the strongest assurances. But how difficult to act so, in a high station, as to procure honour without provoking envy! even the due praises of merit are grating to the ears of the envious; and often their malignant eye betrays the rancour of their heart, while indulgence of their evil thoughts invites the devil to take possession of their souls. Jealousy is cruel as the grave, and thirsts for the precious life. But God guards

David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter: and they fled from him.

9 And the evil spirit from the LORD was upon Saul as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

10 And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

11 ¶ Saul also sent messengers unto David's house to watch him, and to slay him in the morning. And Michal David's wife told him, saying, If thou save not thy life to-night, to-morrow thou shalt be slain.

12 ¶ So Michal let David down through a window: and he went, and fled, and escaped.

13 And Michal took an image, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats' hair for his bolster, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And, when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said, He is sick.

15 And Saul sent the messengers again to see David, saying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may slay him.

16 And, when the messengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats' hair for his bolster.

17 And Saul said unto Michal, Why hast thou deceived me so, and sent away mine enemy, that he is escaped? And Michal answered Saul, He said unto me, Let me go; why should I kill thee?

18 ¶ So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

19 And it was told Saul, saying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah.

20 And Saul sent messengers to take David. And when they saw the company of the prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as appointed over them, the Spirit of God was upon the messengers of Saul, and they also prophesied.

21 And, when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise. And Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also.

22 Then went he also to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu: and he asked and said, Where are Samuel and David? And one said, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.

23 ¶ And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah. And the Spirit of God was upon him also, and he went on, and prophesied, until he came to Naioth in Ramah.

24 And he stripped off his clothes also, and prophesied before Samuel in like manner, and lay down naked all that day and all that night. Wherefore they say, Is Saul also among the prophets?

CHAP. XX.

Still Saul persecutes David, and Jonathan befriends him.

(1) David complains to Jonathan of Saul's murderous designs, and engages him to be his friendly informer; 1—8. (2) Jonathan solemnly promises to procure him proper intelligence of his father's designs; and they renew their covenant of friendship; 9—23. (3) Jonathan, to his extreme grief, and not without danger and virulent abuse, discovers that his father is implacably determined to murder David; 24—34. (4) According to their mutual agreement, Jonathan prudently informs David; and they part in deep concern; 35—42.

AND David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

2 And he said unto him, God forbid; thou shalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will shew it me: and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so.

3 And David swore moreover, and said, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he saith, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved: but truly, as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, Whatsoever thy soul desireth, I will even do it for thee.

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to-morrow is the new moon, and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat: but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field unto the third day at even.

6 If thy father at all miss me, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me that he might run to Beth-lehem his city; for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family.

7 If he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that evil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou shalt deal kindly with thy servant; for thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD with thee: notwithstanding, if there be in me iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee: for, if I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would I not tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 ¶ And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, our relief. Women justly cleave to their husbands rather than to their parents. But how dangerous is it to begin wandering out of God's way! One lie, or other act of sin, hardens the conscience for another. God can easily disarm the rage of the most furious, and turn persecutors into preachers and praisers. In danger let me therefore always cleave close to the Lord's faithful ministers and people: over all the glory shall be a defence. And let me take heed lest my spiritual gifts or experiences should, like Saul's, be merely occasional, intended for the good of others, not for my own.

10 LORD God of Israel, when I have sounded my father about to-morrow any time, or the third day, and, behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and shew it thee;

13 The LORD do so, and much more, to Jonathan: but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace: and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father.

14 And thou shalt not only while yet I live shew me the kindness of the LORD, that I die not;

15 But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever: no, not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, because he loved him: for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

18 ¶ And Jonathan said to David, To-morrow is the new moon; and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be empty.

19 And, when thou hast stayed three days, then thou shalt go down quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thyself when the business was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone Ezel.

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark.

21 And, behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them; then come thou: for there is peace to thee, and no hurt; as the LORD liveth.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee; go thy way: for the LORD hath sent thee away.

23 And, as touching the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the LORD be between thee and me for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field. And when the new moon was come the king sat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king sat upon his seat as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall. And Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty.

26 Nevertheless, Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he is not clean; surely he is not clean.

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month, that David's place was empty: and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse to meat neither yesterday nor to-day?

28 And Jonathan answered Saul, David earnestly asked leave of me to go to Beth-lehem:

29 And he said, Let me go, I pray thee; for our family hath a sacrifice in the city, and my brother he hath commanded me to be there: and now, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren. Therefore he cometh not unto the king's table, 30 Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan; and he said unto him, Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness?

31 For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom. Wherefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he shall surely die.

32 And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said unto him, Wherefore shall he be slain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul cast a javelin at him to smite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David.

34 So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month: for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

35 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning that Jonathan went out into the field, at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

36 And he said unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I shoot. And as the lad ran he shot an arrow beyond him.

37 And, when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and said, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make speed, haste, stay not. And Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his master.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his artillery unto this lad; and said unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

41 ¶ And as soon as the lad was gone David arose out of a place toward the south, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times; and they kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

42 And Jonathan said to David, Go in peace, forasmuch as we have sworn both of us in the name of the LORD, saying, The LORD be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed for ever. And he arose and departed: and Jonathan went into the city.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—How great is the value and usefulness of a true friend, especially in a time of distress and danger! The greatest disinterestedness of affection is implied in cordial friendship—it extends to posterity as well as to its immediate objects. When influenced by it, we cannot endure the shadow of what might produce a separation; and can more readily be abused ourselves than have our friend ill treated. Great patience, meekness, and prudence, are necessary when we have to deal with foul-mouthed, malicious, and unreasonable men. And with what tender and solemn concern should friends part, in view of having their next meeting in eternity! But most necessary is a constant cleaving to Jesus Christ, and his everlasting covenant, as all our salvation, and all our desire.

Alas! that, when David has taken his final leave of Saul's court, and is become a distressed outlaw, we should find him (1) Imposing upon Ahimelech the high-priest in order to obtain sacred victuals for himself and his attendants, and Goliath's sword for himself; 1—9. Driven from Achish, David escapes to the cave of Adullam, where he forms a small army of his relations and others for his defence; 1, 2. (4) Doeg, the Edomite, immediately informs him that Ahimelech the high-priest had prayed for David, given him victuals, and the sword of Goliath; 9, 10. (5) Ahimelech is sent for, and, notwithstanding his manifest innocence, is condemned; and Doeg, by Saul's order, murders him and eighty-five other priests, with all the inhabitants of Nob, except Abiathar, who escaped to David; 11—23.

In distress let me flee to God's sanctuary, where I may have spiritual armour, comfort, and direction. However providence alter my lot, let me always retain my Christian candour: and, if my troubles be great, let strong faith and prudent circumspection attend me, not craftiness or dissimulation.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—High stations are slippery places. Often a person is scarcely fixed in when he is driven from them. How weak are the best of men when left to themselves; and how unreasonable therefore to be secure or self-confident! We know not what temptations are before us, or how weak we are to resist them. God will have mercy, and not sacrifice: and what we have devoted to his honour may become the means of our protection. CHAP. XXIII.

Drunk with the blood of the priests, Saul continues to persecute David. (1) Directed by God, but discouraged by his attendants, David serves Saul and his kingdom, in delivering Keilah from the Philistines; 1—6. (2) While Saul attempts to seize him, the Keilites had ungratefully betrayed him if the Lord had not warned him to leave their city; 7—13. (3) Jonathan visits him in the wood of Ziph, and encourages him in the Lord; 14—18. (4) The Ziphites inform Saul concerning David, and he marches in pursuit of him; 19—25. (5) When Saul was upon the point of apprehending David, an invasion of the Philistines diverts his pursuit, and David escapes; 26—29.

THEN they told David, saying, Behold, the Philistines fight against Keilah, and they rob the threshing-floors.

Josh. 15. 44.

2 Therefore David inquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And the LORD said unto David, Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—What terrible disasters attend earthly promotions! But God will certainly take care that his persecuted people may always have some friends; and such as suffer with them shall be glorified together! Yea, God often puts the greatest honour upon the most unlikely objects. And Jesus will in no wise cast out any that come to him. How unsettled is the life of the saints on earth! and often their trials are reserved for old age, when there is least strength to endure them. But it bodes well when children prefer the safety of their parents to their own; and when in trials we expect good at the Lord's hand, and readily take the advice of his servants. How jealousy torments a man's self with its groundless suspicions! It represents the most faithful as seditious, and accuses them of meditating the worst designs. It is very unsafe to trust to wicked men: our most benevolent actions may by them be turned into the worst of crimes; and truth may be reported in a manner more malignant than gross calumny and falsehood. But generous is that mind which will not hurt the character of another, even when truth admits and safety requires it. What a terrible plague is a tyrannical king! What barbarous monsters do some render themselves! But it is painful to a good man to be in any wise the occasion of mischief to others. Here likewise let us observe that, even through this wickedness and rage of Saul, God exactly fulfils his threatenings against Eli; and destroys the remnant of his house. Let us wonder at the depths of his providence, and the faithfulness of his word!

Observe here, (1) How maliciously Saul, notwithstanding his former disappointments, still seeks David's life; 1, 2. (2) How generously, notwithstanding manifold provocations, David saves Saul's life; and only cuts off his skirt, as a token that he had him in his power; 3—7. REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—No wonder that God's enemies invade his land when his people are persecuted in it. God wisely directs his favourite servants where he has work for them: and never are men so likely to prosper as when they consult the Lord in all their ways. If he direct us, no ill usage from the distressed, or discouragement from our friends, must make us withhold our help. The worst designs are often covered with fair pretences; and the appearances of providence are imagined tokens of God's approbation; while even good men are hated for their most useful services, and evil-minded wretches are ready to betray their most cordial and noted benefactors. But God knows how to deliver the godly out of temptation, and to disappoint the secret purposes of their enemies. And what a mercy is it to have a pious, self-denying, and constant friend, to visit and comfort us in our distress! But what must Jesus be, when Jonathan is so kind and faithful! And what must heaven be, where we shall meet with all the kind angels, and kind spirits of just men made perfect; and with the infinitely kinder Father, Son, and Holy Ghost! Let my new covenant friendship with these be renewed day by day! Behold, how men's malice renders them miserable; and how ready brethren of the same tribe are to betray us! But God in his providence interposes for the relief of his people when their danger is at the greatest. Fear not then, my soul—only believe, and thou shalt see the glory of God.

see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see that ^mthere is neither evil nor transgression in mine hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou ⁿhuntest my soul to take it.

12 The ^oLORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, ^pWickedness proceedeth from the wicked: but ^qmine hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is ^rthe king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? after ^sa dead dog, after a flea.

15 The LORD therefore ^tbe judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and [‡]deliver me out of thine hand.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, ^uIs this thy voice, my son David? and Saul lifted up his voice, and ^vwept.

17 And he said to David, ^wThou art more righteous than I; for thou hast rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil.

18 And thou hast shewed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch as, when the LORD had ^xdelivered me into thine hand, thou killedst me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the LORD reward thee good for that thou hast done unto me this day.

20 And now, behold, ^yI know well that thou shalt surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in thine hand.

22 And Davidswore unto Saul. And Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up ^bunto the hold.

CHAP. XXV.

While to Israel's grief Samuel dies, David is troubled by Nabal. Here is (1) The character of Nabal and his wife; 2, 3. (2) David's supplication for part of the victuals which Nabal had prepared for his sheep-shearing feast; 4—9. (3) The churlish and provoking answer Nabal returned to David's messengers; 10—12. (4) The high resentment which David in his rage vowed against Nabal and his family; 13, 21, 22, 34. (5) Informed by her servants, Abigail, by her sensible address and agreeable present, pacifies David; 14—35. (6) Nabal dies; and Abigail and Ahinoam are married to David.

AND ^aSamuel died; and all the Israelites were gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the ^bwilderness of Paran.

2 ¶ And ^cthere was a man in Maon, whose ^dpossessions were in ^eCarmel; and the man ^fwas very great: and he had three thousand sheep and a thousand goats; and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man ^gwas Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigail: and she ^hwas a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance; but the man ⁱwas churlish and evil in his doings; and he ^jwas of the house of ^kCaleb.

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal did ^lshear his sheep.

5 And David sent out ten young men; and David said unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and ^mgreet him in my name.

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, Peace ⁿbe both to thee, and peace ^obe to thine house, and peace ^pbe unto all that thou hast.

7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now thy shepherds which were with us we ^qhurt them not, neither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: for we come in ^ra good day: give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand unto thy servants, and to thy son David.

9 And when David's young men came they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and ^sceased.

10 ¶ And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, ^tWho is David? and who is the son of Jesse? There ^ube many servants now-a-days that break away every man from his master.

11 Shall I then take ^vmy bread and my water, and my ^wflesh that I have killed for my shearers, ^xand give it unto men whom I know not whence they ^ybe?

12 So David's young men ^zturned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings.

13 And David said unto his men, ^aGird ye on every man his sword. And they girded on every man his sword; and David also girded on his sword: ^band there went up after David about four hundred men; and two hundred abode by the stuff.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our master; and he ^ctrailed on them.

15 But the men ^dwere very good unto us, and we were not ^ehurt, neither missed we any thing as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields

16 They were ^fa wall un us both by signs alledged, there was nothing but the ^gmost cordial friendship. And observe—soft words are most effectual to break the bones, and turn away strong wrath. What a plague to kings are flattering and deceitful courtiers! And how shameful and galling to find that through them we have been persecuting our principal friends! But there may be confession and remorse where there is no real repentance. Love to our enemies, and a mild and generous behaviour under great provocations, are glorious tokens of future greatness. But how mad is the malicious injuring of those, at whose mercy we and all that we have may soon lie! And how prudent to keep on our guard against a known enemy! Fits of partial repentance will not last long.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIV.—Restless is the malice of wicked men: but God can bring us very near to danger, and yet keep us in perfect safety. And easily can he deliver up his enemies into the hand of the weakest of his people. How falsely rash men misinterpret the promises and providences of God! But we must not avenge our own quarrels, nor take all the advantages against our enemies which providence puts in our hand; but rather seek to overcome them with patience and kindness. If temptations come to us in a pleasing form, we must flee from them: our conscience must start, not only at evident crimes, but at the most distant appearance of evil. It is honourable when not only there is innocence, but providence clearly manifests it; and that, instead of ill de-night and day all the while we were with them keeping the sheep.

17 Now therefore know and consider what thou wilt do; for evil is determined against our master, and against all his household: for he is such ^ason of Belial that a man cannot speak to him.

18 ¶ Then Abigail ^ymade haste, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and an hundred [†]clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses.

19 And she said unto her servants, Go on before me; behold, I come after you. But she ^ztold not her husband Nabal.

20 And it was so, as she ^arode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill; and, behold, David and his men came down against her; and she met them.

21 (Now David had said, Surely in vain have I kept all that ^bthis fellow hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him: and he ^chath requited me evil for good.

22 ^dSo, and more also, do God unto the enemies of David, if I leave of all that pertain to him, by the morning light, any ^ethat pisseth against the wall.)

23 And, when Abigail saw David, she hasted, ^fand lighted off the ass, and fell before David on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, 24 And ^gfell at his feet; and said, Upon me, my lord, ^hupon me let this iniquity be: and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine ⁱaudience; and hear the words of thine handmaid.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, ^jregard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is so is he; ^kNabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord whom thou didst send.

26 Now therefore, my lord, ^las the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, seeing the LORD hath withholden thee from coming to shed blood, and from ^mavenging thyself with thine own hand, now ⁿlet thine enemies, and they that seek evil to my lord, be as Nabal.

27 And now this ^oblessing, which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that ^pfollow my lord.

28 I pray thee, forgive the ^qtrespass of thine handmaid: for the LORD ^rwill certainly make my lord a sure house; because my lord fighteth ^sthe battles of the LORD, and ^tevil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be ^ubound in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the souls of thine enemies them shall he ^vsling out, as out of the middle of a sling.

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD shall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel;

31 That this shall be ^wno grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou hast shed blood causeless, or that my lord hath avenged himself: but when the LORD shall have dealt well with my lord, then ^xremember thine handmaid.

32 ¶ And David ^ysaid to Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who sent thee this day to meet me:

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou, who hast kept me this day from coming to shed blood, and from avenging myself with mine own hand.

34 For in very deed, as the LORD God of Israel liveth, who hath kept me back from hurting thee, except thou hadst hasted and come to meet me, surely there had not been left unto Nabal by the morning light any ^zthat pisseth against the wall.

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, Go up in peace to thine house; see, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy person.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal; and, behold, he held ^aa feast in his house like the feast of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he ^bwas very drunken: wherefore she ^ctold him nothing, less or more, until the morning light.

37 But it came to pass in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him ^dthese things, that ^ehis heart died within him, and he became as a stone.

38 And it came to pass, about ten days after, that the LORD smote Nabal that he died.

39 ¶ And, when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, ^fBlessed be the LORD that hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his servant from evil: for ^gthe LORD hath returned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head. And David sent, and communed with Abigail, ^hto take her to him to wife.

40 And, when the servants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake unto her, saying, David sent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And she arose, and bowed herself on her face to the earth, and said, Behold, ⁱlet thine handmaid be a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord.

42 And ^jAbigail hasted, and arose, and rode upon an ass, with five damsels of her's that went ^kafter her; and she went after the messengers of David, and became his wife.

43 David also took Ahinoam, ^lof Jezreel; and they were also ^mboth of them his wives.

44 ¶ But Saul had given ⁿMichal his daughter, David's wife, to Phalti the son of Laish, which was of ^oGallim.

CHAP. XXVI.

Notwithstanding Saul's late acknowledgment of his wickedness in persecuting David, whom God had appointed his successor, he here basely revives it. (1) Informed by the Ziphites where David was, he marches with an army to apprehend him; 1—3. (2) Informed of his motions, David views their camp; and, finding them all asleep, he and Abishai his cousin enter it. Pressed by Abishai to take away Saul's life, he refuses; but brings off his spear, and the cruse of water at his head, as a token that heagain had him in his power; 4—12. (3) By producing these, and reasoning from them, he once more convinces Saul of his wickedness in persecuting him; 13—25.

AND the ^aZiphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doth not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon?

2 Then ^bSaul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon, by the way. But David abode in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness.

4 David therefore ^csent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the ^ctrench, and the people pitched round about him.

6 Then answered David and said to ^fAhimelech the Hittite, and to ^eAbishai the son of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go ^hdown with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night; and, behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

8 Then said Abishai to David, God hath ^kdelivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear, even to the earth at once, and I will not ^{smite} him the second time.

9 And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless?

10 David said furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD ^mshall smite him; or ⁿhis day shall come to die; or ^ohe shall descend into battle, and perish.

11 The ^pLORD forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go.

12 So David ^qtook the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster: and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked; for they were all asleep; because ^ra deep sleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar off; a great space ^sbeing between them:

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who ^tart thou that criest to the king?

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou a ^uvaliant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? ^vfor there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

16 This thing is not good that thou hast done. As the LORD liveth, ye ^ware worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master, the LORD's anointed. And now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water that ^xwas at his bolster.

17 And Saul knew David's voice, and said, ^yIs this thy voice, my son David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, ^zWherefore doth my lord thus pursue after his servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the LORD have stirred thee up against me, let him ^{aa}accept an offering: but, if ^{ab}they be the children of men, ^{ac}cursed be they before the LORD; for ^{ad}they have driven me out this day from ^{ae}abiding in the inheritance of the LORD, saying, Go, serve other gods.

20 Now, therefore, ^{af}let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the LORD: for the king of Israel is come out to ^{ag}seek a flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains.

21 ¶ Then ^{ah}said Saul, I have sinned: return, my son David; for I will no more

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—Was not Samuel a figure of Jesus Christ, our great Priest, Prophet, Deliverer, and Judge? How earnestly desired, and how supernatural was his birth! Early was he devoted and called to, prepared for, and employed in, his Father's service. How extensive is his office! He is the illuminated Prophet that renders our dark earth a valley of vision. He is the unparalleled Priest, who, by his once offering of himself, made peace between God and men. He is the great Deliverer, that makes us free indeed. He is the sovereign judge of all, particularly the Israel of God. How wretched the case in which he finds his church and people when he appears for their help! His sacrifice and intercession procure lasting friendship with heaven, and noted victories and mercies on earth. How marvellous his conquest of enemies, and restoration of the treacherously abandoned worship of God! Gracious are his instructions, sharp his reproofs, and certain his predictions! By him kings reign, and princes decree justice. Candid, upright, and generous, are his whole administrations; though wickedly, and to their lasting ruin, He and his Father were rejected by his brethren of Judah, who desired a temporal deliverer; and still are by carnal professors. But how distressed their condition till they seek the Lord, and David their king! But, lo, the righteous are taken away from the evil to come! Nations have reason to mourn when those who stood in the gap, to prevent the Lord's wrath, are removed by death. Alas! how often the best of men are disgraced by their children, and the best of women by their husbands! There is little happiness in wealth enjoyed by fools; and as little comfort in marriage which is made for the sake of it. It becomes the poor to use entreaties. While we feast we should distribute our bread to the hungry. One good turn deserves another: but a foul tongue is the sign of a wicked heart. Scurrilous invectives are too commonly the fare of God's precious saints in this world. They have puny, if not thievish hearts, who grudge to bestow their superfluities for the relief of such as are in want. How deadly dangerous, and deeply sinful, are violent passions! Some one provocation may quickly exasperate that mind which has calmly borne many such in other forms: but sensible and faithful servants are a great mercy to a family, and especially that one head of it hath sense and grace when the other is destitute of both. Soft words turn away anger; and a gift in the bosom pacifies strong wrath. But what we do in passion will afterwards be a grief to us: and it is a far greater satisfaction to forgive an offence than to revenge it. Nor ought any to be more ready to forgive injuries than those whom the Lord has marvellously protected. What thanks they deserve who keep us back from sin! And great is the mercy of God, which prevents our sin when we are upon the very point of committing it. If we have sworn to commit wickedness, it is sinful to keep our oath, but our duty bitterly to repent the taking of it. Those who are churlish to God and his people are often abundantly liberal to the devil and his agents, in drunkenness, costly apparel, or the like. Sinners lost in luxury and mirth, are insensible of the wrath of God, which hangs over their head; while beastly drunkards render themselves incapable of profiting either by advice or correction. But quickly will death turn their riotous joys into eternal sorrows, and tear the churl from his idolized portion of earth. Saints need not avenge their own wrongs; God will do it for them in a speedy and awful manner, and render them thankful that he kept them back from usurping his prerogative. Pacific prudence and sense are excellent means to pave our way to a more exalted station: and such as are content to suffer with the people of God shall reign with them at last. But they who sinfully multiply their wives must not expect to enjoy much of family pleasures.

do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David answered, and said, Behold the king's spear! and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteousness and his faithfulness: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to-day, but I would not stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed.

24 And, behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the LORD, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul said to David, Blessed be thou, my son David: thou shalt both do great things, and also shalt still prevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

CHAP. XXVII.

Here (1) To David's honour, he manifests a prudent care of himself and family; 2-4: and fights the Lord's battles against the Canaanites and Amalekites; 8-9. But (2) To his dishonour, he despairs of God's protection in the land of Israel, deserts his country and retires into the land of the Philistines, where Ziklag is given him; 1, 5-7: and equivocates concerning his warlike expedition; 10-12.

AND David said in his heart, I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me than that I should speedily escape into the land of the Philistines; and Saul shall despair of me, to seek me any more in any coast of Israel: so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, and he passed over with the six hundred men that were with him unto Achish, the son of Maach, king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achish at Gath, he and his men, every man with his household, even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabal's wife.

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath: and he sought no more again for him.

5 ¶ And David said unto Achish, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in some town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then Achish gave him Ziklag that day. Wherefore Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah unto this day.

7 And the time that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines was a full year and four months.

8 ¶ And David and his men went up, and invaded the Geshurites, and the Gezrites and the Amalekites: for those nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, as thou goest to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt.

9 And David smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive; and took away the sheep, and the oxen, and the asses, and the camels, and the apparel; and returned, and came to Achish.

10 And Achish said, Whither have ye made a road to-day? And David said, Against the south of Judah, and against the south of the Jerahmeelites, and against the south of the Kenites.

11 And David saved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, saying, Lest they should tell on us, saying, So did David, and so will be his manner all the while he dwelleth in the country of the Philistines.

12 And Achish believed David, saying, He hath made his people Israel utterly to abhor him; therefore he shall be my servant for ever.

CHAP. XXVIII.

New preparations are made for that war which will ruin Saul and his family, and pave the way for David's royalty. Here (1) The Philistines, having David their destroyer with them, prepare to invade the Israelites' country; and king Achish makes David his confident; 1, 2, 4. (2) Samuel being dead, and the Lord refusing to answer Saul, he is reduced to despair, while he prepares an army to withstand them; 3-6. (3) Contrary to his conscience, Saul employs a witch at Endor to bring him up the devil in Samuel's likeness; 7-14. (4) The devil, pretending to be Samuel's ghost, upbraids him with his sin and his distress; and foretels his and his army's approaching ruin; 15-19. (5) Saul is so disheartened by this, that the witch, lately encouraged by him, can scarcely make him eat; 20-25.

AND it came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their armies together for warfare, to fight with Israel. And Achish said unto David, Know thou assuredly that thou shalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men.

2 And David said to Achish, Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do. And Achish said to David, therefore will I make thee keeper of mine head for ever.

3 ¶ Now Samuel was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city. And Saul had put away those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards out of the land.

4 ¶ And the Philistines gathered themselves together, and came and pitched in Shunem: and Saul gathered all Israel together, and they pitched in Gilboah.

5 And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines he was afraid and his heart greatly trembled.

6 And when Saul inquired of the LORD, the LORD answered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets.

7 ¶ Then said Saul unto his servants, have any saving issue. God's dispensations do all concur to prove him a righteous judge. They who shew mercy may hope to find mercy. And God will make his enemies to bow at the feet of his persecuted saints, and know that he hath loved them, and will promote them to honour.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVII.—It is hard to withstand repeated and strong temptations to unbelief. It is prudent to withdraw from temptation, and especially for strangers to live as retired from courts as possible. And never shall we be losers by parting with earthly accommodations for the sake of God and our souls. But surely nothing can be more foolish, especially after warning given, than to expect safety out of the Lord's land rather than in it. It is good to be always zealous against the Lord's devoted enemies. But we have need of grace, not only to make us do well, but to make us honestly stand to what we have done: otherwise strong temptation will involve us in the guilt of the basest equivocation.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVI.—One sin usually involves men in another, lest they should suffer for the former: and none are more restless in promoting mischief than treacherous neighbours and unfaithful kinsmen. Unsansctified hearts soon lose the impressions made by convictions of sin: and a little instigation will revive the old grudge, where the reconciliation is not sincere: but God can easily disarm the mighty, and leave them a prey to the feeble. It is dangerous for a wicked heart to meet with an engaging temptation. But what an honour is it to resist strong temptations, and to neglect repeated opportunities of avenging ourselves! And it highly becomes the Christian thus to commit his cause into the hand of God, and to wait his time and way of advancing him to honour. But what malicious enemies are they, who tempt us to apostatize from God by driving us from his worship and people! How severe a reckoning awaits those who shed innocent blood! and woe to the men against whom the people of God bring their just complaints! Sin is the greatest folly, and will appear so at last to the most hardened sinner, even though their convictions should never

⁸ And Saul ¹disguised himself, and put on other raiment; and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: and he said, I pray thee, divine unto me by the familiar spirit, and bring me him up whom I shall name unto thee.

⁹ And the woman said unto him, Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die?

¹⁰ And ²Saul swore to her by the LORD, saying, As the LORD liveth, there shall no punishment happen to thee for this thing.

¹¹ Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up unto thee? And he said, Bring me up Samuel.

¹² And when the woman saw ³Samuel she cried with a loud voice: and the woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceived me? for thou ⁴art Saul.

¹³ And the king said unto her, Be not afraid: for what sawest thou? And the woman said unto Saul, I saw ⁵gods ascending out of the earth.

¹⁴ And he said unto her, ⁶What form is he of? And she said, An old man cometh up: and he is covered with a mantle. And Saul ⁷perceived that it was Samuel: and he ⁸stooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himself.

¹⁵ ¶ And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me up? And Saul answered, I am ⁹sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither by ¹⁰prophets, nor by dreams; therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

¹⁶ Then said Samuel, Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, ¹¹seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

¹⁸ Because thou ¹⁴obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

¹⁹ Moreover, the LORD will also deliver Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines; and ¹⁵to-morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me: ¹⁶the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

²⁰ Then Saul ¹⁷*fell straightway all along on the earth, and ¹⁸was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel: and there was no strength in him; for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

²¹ ¶ And the woman came unto Saul, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and ¹⁹I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou spakest unto me:

²² Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength when thou goest on thy way.

²³ But he refused; and said, ²⁰I will not eat. But his servants, together with the woman, compelled him; and he hearkened unto their voice: so he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed.

²⁴ And the woman had a fat calf in the house; and she hasted and killed it; and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof:

²⁵ And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants; and they did eat. Then they rose up, and went away that night.

CHAP. XXIX.

While Saul was embarrassing himself with his infernal inventions of relief, God here extricates David from the greatest danger of sinning. (1) While he marches with the Philistines against Israel, their lords except against him as a dangerous ally; 1—5. (2) Notwithstanding David's apparent reluctance, king Achish dismisses him from that service which so ill became him, but which he knew not how to avoid; 6—11.

NOW the Philistines gathered together all their armies to ¹Aphek: and the Israelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

² And the lords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds, and by thousands: but ²David and his men passed on in the rereward with ³*Achish.

³ Then said the princes of the Philistines, What do these Hebrews here? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Is not this David the servant of Saul the king of Israel, who hath been with me ⁴these days or these years, and I have found ⁵no fault in him since he fell unto me unto this day?

⁴ And the princes of the Philistines were wroth with him; and the princes of the Philistines said unto him, ⁶Make this fellow return, that he may go again to

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVIII.—The enemies of the church craftily seize their opportunity when their principal opponents are out of the way. And when God has left a country it is easy for enemies to penetrate into the very heart of it. How hard it is for saints to act honestly when they have wandered out of God's way! Whether they take part with friends or foes, they are apt to be ensnared. But dreadful is the case of men who are abandoned by God, and deprived of his prophets and ministers. And they who refuse to seek God, while he may be found, will cry in vain when he refuses to answer, and have their troubles doubly aggravated by the terrors of an evil conscience. When men throw off their cloak of religion, they ordinarily abandon themselves to the very abominations against which they had professed much zeal. Works of darkness hate the light: and many, who have cast off the fear of God, are ashamed to appear so bad as they are before men. But it is shocking for persons amidst gospel light to enter into leagues or fellowship with devils;—absurd to profess hatred to Satan in others, and yet indulge him in our heart;—dangerous to flee to the devourer for relief, when the God of grace hath cast us off;—and stupid to fear the laws of men, and the wrath of a wicked king, more than the authority and eternal vengeance of Almighty God. But God often gives up to strong and devilish delusions the men who have no pleasure in his truth; and those who undervalue the Lord's prophets at last get devils in their stead. Cold comfort indeed will the devil administer to his servants even in their greatest distress. But they have themselves only to blame for all the miseries to which they are reduced; for vain is their knocking when the door of mercy is once shut. Having departed from God, they have forsaken their own mercies. A miserable life, and more miserable death, are all the portion they can expect. And, when once a man is given up to despair, he rushes on to his own destruction as the horse rushes into the battle.

his place which thou hast appointed him, and let him not go down with us to battle, lest in the battle he be an adversary to us: for wherewith should he †reconcile himself unto his master? should it not be with the heads of these men?

5 Is not this David, of whom they sang one to another in dances, saying, 'Saul slew his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

6 ¶ Then Achish called David, and said unto him, Surely, as ^{the} LORD liveth, ^{thou} hast been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the host is good in my sight; for I have not found evil in thee since the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheless †the lords favour thee not.

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace, that thou ||displease not the lords of the Philistines.

8 And David said unto Achish, 'But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant so long as I have been *with thee unto this day, ^{that} I may not go fight against the enemies of my lord the king?

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know that thou art good in my sight, ^{as} an angel of God: notwithstanding, the princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battle.

10 Wherefore *now rise up early in the morning with thy master's servants that are come with thee: and as soon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart.

11 So David and his men rose up early to ^{depart} in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines. And the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

CHAP. XXX.

Dismissed by the Philistines, and banished by Saul, David returns to his city Ziklag, resolved to observe a neutrality. But (1) To his and his warriors' extreme grief, they find their city burned, and their wives and goods carried off by the Amalekites, whose territories David had lately ravaged; 1—6. (2) Directed by God, and conducted by an Egyptian, they pursue the Amalekites, cut off most of them, and recover all the prisoners and spoil; 7—20. (3) Returning back he wisely divides the additional spoil among his warriors and his friends in the country about; 21—31.

AND it came to pass, when David and his men ^{were} come to Ziklag on the third day, that ^{the} Amalekites had invaded the south, and Ziklag, and smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire;

2 And had taken the women captives that were therein: they ^{slew} not any, either great or small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

3 ¶ So David and his men came to the city, and, behold, it was burned with fire; and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, were taken captives.

4 Then David, and the people that were with him, ^{lifted} up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep.

5 And David's two wives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite.

6 And David was ^{greatly} distressed; for the people spake of ^{stoning} him, because the soul of all the people was ^{grieved}, every man for his sons and for his daughters: but David ^{encouraged} himself in the LORD his God.

7 And David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelech's son, I pray thee, ^{bring} me hither the ephod. And Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David.

8 And David inquired at the LORD, saying, Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? ^{And} he answered him, Pursue; for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all.

9 ¶ So David went, he and the ^{six}-hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Besor, where those that were left behind stayed.

10 But David pursued, he and four hundred men: (for two hundred abode behind, which were so faint that they could not go over the brook Besor.)

11 And they ^{found} an Egyptian in the field, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat, and they made him drink water;

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins: and ^{when} he had eaten his spirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drunk any water, three days and three nights.

13 And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young man of Egypt, servant to an Amalekite, and my master left me, ^{because} three days ago I fell sick.

14 We made an invasion upon ^{the} south of the Cherethites, and upon the coast which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south of Caleb; and we burned Ziklag with fire.

15 And David said to him, Canst thou bring me down to this company? And he said, ^{Swear} unto me by God that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my master, and I will bring thee down to this company.

16 ¶ And when he had brought him down, behold, they were spread abroad upon all the earth, ^{eating} and drinking and dancing, because of all the great spoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

17 And David ^{smote} them from the twilight even unto the evening of ^{the} next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred young men, who rode upon camels, and fled.

18 And David ^{recovered} all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David rescued his two wives.

19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither sons nor daughters, neither spoil, nor any than they do themselves; and often gives them a decent escape from the nets in which they had sinfully entangled themselves. That which is intended for our disgrace often proves a distinguishing mercy; and it is honourable if the messengers of our disgrace are able and ready to witness for our uprightness.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIX.—Unbelieving fears often plunge the people of God at last into the most perplexing circumstances. David is now upon the point of either proving a murderer of the Israelites, whom God had anointed him to save, or a traitor to the Philistines, who had so kindly protected him. But God takes more care to preserve his people's integrity and honour

NOW ^athe Philistines fought against Israel: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down ^{*}slain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philistines followed hard upon Saul and upon his sons; and the Philistines slew ^bJonathan, and Abinadab, and Melchi-shua, Saul's sons.

3 And the ^cbattle went sore against Saul; and the archers hit him; and he was sore wounded of the archers.

4 Then ^dsaid Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and thrust me through, and ^eabuse me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was sore afraid. Therefore Saul ^ftook a sword, and fell upon it.

5 And, when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise upon his sword, and died with him.

6 So Saul ^gdied, and his three sons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men, that same day together.

7 ¶ And when the men of Israel that were on the other side of the valley, and they that were on the other side Jordan, saw that the men of Israel fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, ^hthey forsook the cities and fled: and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his three sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And ^kthey cut off his head, and stripped off his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about to publish it in the house of their idols, and among the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of ^lAshtaroth: and they fastened his body to the wall of Beth-shan.

11 ¶ And, when the inhabitants of ^mJabesh-gilead heard [‡]of that which the Philistines had done to Saul, 12 All the valiant men arose, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Beth-shan, and came to Jabesh, and ⁿburned them there.

13 And they took ^otheir bones, and buried them under a tree at Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXX.—Saul's sparing of the Amalekites did but entail murder and ravage on his own subjects. When we go abroad we know not what scenes of mourning may meet us at our return. And, the more comfort we promise ourselves in the creature, the more bitter will be our disappointment. We had need to be always in the way of our duty, as it is only in that we can expect God's protection to ourselves and families. He can marvellously restrain the rage of the most barbarous, and save his people alive in their hands. How hard is it to bear heavy trials without fretting against the Lord, and raging against those who imprudently occasion them! But circumstances can never be so bad but there is ground for faith in the promises of God. To encourage ourselves in him as our God is the surest and shortest method of relief from our troubles: and they are generally great saints indeed who become such by means of great sufferings. If, by neglecting to consult God, we have formerly plunged ourselves into trouble, we ought the more earnestly to ask his direction, in order to get out of them. He can at once arrest the adversary, and conduct us to them. Even discouraging providences in our way should but excite and animate our faith to press forward. Cruelty, even to servants, entails misery on the guilty, while compassion and charity usually brings its own reward. We know not how much good or evil the weakest instruments may do us. Great events often depend on small and unexpected accidents. Carnal security is the great mean of a sinner's destruction. The dance and song often hand them forward into everlasting fire; when destruction cometh upon them suddenly in an instant.

Such followers of Christ as are willing, but weak, ought to be comforted under their infirmities: but the heart of the covetous is hardened against the sufferings of the needy: and it is neither the best companions, nor the best instructions, that will change the hearts of men of Belial: but rulers must oblige such to comply with the ministrations of equity. Such as have shewn us kindness deserve a recompence when God puts it in our power; nay, liberality in compliments is, on some occasions, great prudence, and an urgent letter of recommendation. But in a time of need it will require all engagements to constrain us to our duty.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXI.—In what fearful destruction Israel's desire of a king, and Saul's disobedience to God, issue at last! Dreadful is the case of professors when once the Lord has abandoned them. He turns our comforts into crosses; and the death of our children in our punishment, may render our own doubly miserable. In what awful sovereignty God slays the righteous with the wicked! All things here come alike to all; but eternity will make the difference. God in righteous vengeance suffers them to be their own murderers, who had murdered his priests, or attempted to murder his favourites. But horrid indeed is that pride which makes men rush into eternal misery, in order to escape a little infamy. In what shame, and disgrace, and misery, do unsanctified honours terminate! And fearful is the fate of those who court the devil's friendship and direction. But gratitude, even to the wicked, must never be neglected.

11 ¶ Then David took hold on his

19 The beauty of Israel is slain upon thy high places: how are the mighty fallen!

20 *Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon; lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

21 ^zYe mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you, nor fields of offerings; for there the shield of the mighty is vilely cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the sword of Saul returned not empty.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided: they were swifter than eagles, they were stronger than lions.

24 Ye daughters of Israel, weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet, with

CHAP. II.

Having paid his due respects to the memory of Saul and Jonathan, (1) David, directed by God, goes up to Hebron to be anointed king; 1-4. (2) He solemnly thanks the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead for the grateful and laudable respect which they had shewn to the dead bodies of Saul and his sons; 5-7. (3) Abner sets up Ish-bosheth, the most insignificant of Saul's sons, in opposition to David; and almost all the Israelites, except the tribe of Judah, submit to his government; 8-11. (4) A civil war is kindled in Israel between the partizans of the two kings. Abner causes twelve men of each party to engage hand to hand, who all fall down slain together; 12-16. Abner's party is beaten; and Asahel, the brother of Joab, through his obstinacy, is slain by Abner; 17-23. At last Joab, at Abner's request, sounds a retreat, and Abner marches off; 24-29. The slain on both sides are reckoned; 30-32.

AND it came to pass after this that David inquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither; and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 And the men of Judah came: and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, That the men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

5 ¶ And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have shewed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

6 And now the LORD shew kindness and truth unto you: and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing.

7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant: for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.

8 ¶ But Abner the son of Ner, captain of Saul's host, took Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim;

9 And made him king over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel.

10 Ish-bosheth Saul's son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David.

11 And the time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

12 ¶ And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon.

13 And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David went out, and met together by the pool of Gibeon: and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise, and play before us. And Joab said, Let them arise.

15 Then there arose and went over by number twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; so they fell down together: wherefore that place was called Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon.

17 And there was a very sore battle that day: and Abner was beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

18 ¶ And there were three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel: and Asahel was as light of foot as a wild roe.

19 And Asahel pursued after Abner: and in going he turned not to the right hand - nor to the left from following Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered I am.

21 And Abner said to him, Turn thee aside to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour. But Asahel would not turn aside from following of him.

22 And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following me: wherefore should I smite thee to the ground? how then should I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?

23 Howbeit, he refused to turn aside: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the same place: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died, stood still.

24 Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—How glorious is it to be thoroughly mortified to all worldly advancements, even when a kingdom is promised! He that believeth does not make haste. But base minds readily measure others by themselves; who, for the sake of favour or gain, will blemish their character, if not endanger their life. How striking are the judgments of God! Saul spared the Amalekites when God commanded him to kill them, and thereby forfeited his crown. An Amalekite now boasts that he had killed Saul, and brings his crown and bracelet to David. How often are men so fond of their marks of dignity as thereby to endanger their life! But sad anguish seizes on departing sinners!

And it is mad to flee to death as a relief, when hell follows after. It is proper to lament the death of our relations, however wicked some of them have been; and to punish murderers, whatever friendship they may pretend. Death should wipe out the injuries which have been done to us. And let us speak nothing, but in commendation, unless when duty forces us to it. But let the triumphing of the wicked over the cause of God be always grievous to us. In fine, let this song teach us generosity towards our injurers; gratitude towards our steady friends; and a deep concern for the honour of our God, and the welfare of our country.

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of an hill.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever? knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end? how long shall it be then ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren?

27 And Joab said, As God liveth, unless thou hadst spoken, surely then in the morning the people had gone up every one from following his brother.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and passed over Jordan, and went through all ¹Bithron, and they came to ^mMahanaim.

30 ¶ And Joab returned from following Abner: and, when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of David's servants nineteen men and Asahel.

31 But the servants of David ^ahad smitten of Benjamin and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and three-score men died.

32 ¶ And they ^otook up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem. And Joab and his men went ^pall night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

Here (1) While David's interest prevails against that of Ish-bosheth, his family is built up with children by his six wives; 1—5. (2) After supporting Ish-bosheth about seven years, Abner quarrels with him concerning one of Saul's concubines; 6—11. (3) Abner revolts, restores to David Michal his wife, and enters into agreement with him to render the Israelites his subjects; 12—21. (4) Joab, in revenge of his brother Asahel's death, and perhaps afraid of losing his post, treacherously murders Abner in his return from his interview with David; 22—27; (5) David discovers great concern for the murder; but durst not punish it, on account of Joab and his brother's influence in the army; 28—39.

NOW there was ^along war between the house of Saul and the house of David: but ^bDavid waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

2 ¶ And unto David ^cwere sons born in Hebron: and his first-born was ^dAmnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess;

3 And his second, ^eChileab, of Abigail, the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, ^fAbsalom the son of Maacah, the daughter of ^gTalmai king of ^hGeshur;

4 And the fourth, ⁱAdonijah the son of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital;

5 And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's ^jwife: these were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made ^khimself strong for the house of Saul.

7 And Saul had a concubine whose name was ^lRizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou ^mgone in unto my father's concubine?

8 Then was Abner ⁿvery wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth; and said, Am I a ^odog's head, who against Judah do shew kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to-day with a fault concerning this woman?

9 ^pSo do God to Abner, and more also, except as the LORD hath ^qsworn to David, even so I do to him;

10 To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel, and over Judah, ^rfrom Dan even to Beer-sheba.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again because he feared him.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, ^sWhose is the land? saying also, ^tMake thy league with me, and behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee.

13 ¶ And he said, Well, I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee; ^uthat is, ^vThou shalt not see my face except thou first bring Michal Saul's daughter when thou comest to see my face.

14 And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth, Saul's son, saying, Deliver me ^wmy wife Michal, whom I espoused to me for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even ^xfrom Phaltiel the son of Laish.

16 And her husband went with her along ^yweeping behind her to ^zBahurim. Then said Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David ^{aa}in times past to ^{ab}be king over you:

18 Now then do it; for the ^{ac}LORD hath spoken of David, saying, ^{ad}By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of ^{ae}Benjamin: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him. And ^{af}David made Abner and the men that were with him a feast.

their heavenly throne. But how inhuman the heart to which murder and bloodshed are a sport! False notions of honour are part of the wiles which Satan uses for the destruction of mankind. And they who are forward to rush on bloodshed and war have ordinarily reason to repent their rashness before it is concluded. The qualifications that render us proud and wilful are commonly the means of our ruin. And often, when we seem ready to grasp the prize of happiness, death stops our career, and lays our big swollen hopes and honour in the dust. But even in war human blood should be spared as much as possible.—Life, once lost, can never be recovered.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—It is proper to commence every important project with a solemn prayer to God. Such as wait upon God for direction shall be led in the right way to their kingdom; but ordinarily their advancement is gradual. Such as shared with us in our sufferings should share with us in our honours. If we suffer with Christ we shall also reign with him. Kindness to our friends, or even injurious predecessors in office, ought to be considered as an obligation conferred on ourselves. It is not enough to praise such as have well deserved; they should, if possible, be recompensed. And to have those for our friends, whose fidelity to others hath been tried, is a valuable acquisition. Through great tribulation saints must arrive at their honours, and especially Jer. 16. 7.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will arise and go, and will gather 'all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And, behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great spoil with them: but Abner was not with David in Hebron; for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace.

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee; why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite* gone?

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive* thee, and to know thy going* out and thy coming in, and to know all that thou dost.

26 And when Joab was come out from David he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron Joab took him aside in the gate to speak with him †quietly; and smote him there under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of Asahel his brother.

28 ¶ And afterward, when David heard it, he said, I and my kingdom are guiltless* before the LORD for ever from the blood of Abner the son of Ner:

29 Let* it rest on the head of Joab, and on all his father's house; and let there not fail from the house of Joab one that hath an issue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a staff, or that falleth on the sword, or that lacketh bread.

30 So Joab and Abishai his brother slew* Abner, because he had slain their brother Asahel at Gibeon in the battle.

31 ¶ And David said to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, Rend* your clothes, and gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himself followed the bier*.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lifted up his voice, and wept* at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and said, †Died Abner as a fool dieth?

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before †wicked men, so fellest thou. And all the people wept* again over him.

35 And when all the people came to cause* David to eat meat, while it was

CHAP. IV.

Ish-bosheth's death follows that of Abner. (1) Two of his servants and relations murder him, and bring his head to king David, expecting a reward; 1—8. (2) After shewing them the horrid nature of their conduct, David orders them to be slain as murderers, and their hands and feet hung up as monuments of their detestable deed; 9—12. (3) Providence had disabled Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan; 3, 4.

AND when Saul's son heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble, and all the Israelites were troubled.

2 ¶ And Saul's son had two men that were captains of bands*: the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the other* Rechab, the sons of Rimmon, a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin: (for Beeroth* also was reckoned to Benjamin:

3 And the Beerothites fled to Gittaim*, and were sojourners there until this day.)

4 And Jonathan, Saul's son, had a* son that was lame of his feet. He was five years old when the tidings came of Saul and Jonathan out of Jezreel; and his nurse took him up, and fled: and it came to pass, as she made haste to flee, that he fell, and became lame: and his name was Mephibosheth*.

5 And the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went*, and came about the heat of the day to the house of Ish-bosheth, who lay on a bed at noon.

6 And they came thither into the midst of the house, as though they would have fetched wheat; and they smote* him under the fifth rib: and Rechab and Baanah his brother escaped.

7 For when they came into the house he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber; and they smote him, and slew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain all night.

8 And they brought* the head of Ish-bosheth unto David to Hebron; and said to the king, Behold* the head of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul thine enemy, who sought thy life: and the LORD hath humour, not conscience, reduces us to our duty. It is indeed our duty to undeceive those whom we have imposed upon. But wicked suppressors of the truth, fighters against their conscience, and traitors to those who have trusted them, have seldom either the grace or honour to be distinguished instruments in the great works of God. While wicked men are proud enough to overbear their superiors, they are often base enough to stoop to the most detestable treachery, in order to gratify their revenge, or destroy their suspected rivals. How hard it is when kings can only mourn over crimes committed, but dare not punish them because of the power of the guilty! Long impunity makes sinners confident. But, though murder may pass unpunished for a while, the vengeance due to it will come at last; and God will not suffer the transgressor to escape.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—It is vain to struggle against the purpose and promise of God; for sure, though gradual, are the honours and triumphs which come from above. How often might men have had as many children, and much more comfort in them, in keeping close to God's ordinance of one wife! For those things frequently prove our greatest scourges in which we promised ourselves the greatest comfort. Wicked men's folly and sin are made subservient to the fulfilment of God's promises or purposes. But rash accusation seldom issues well; and proud men can as seldom bear a reproof from those whom they have greatly obliged. Weak kings are but slaves to their own servants. And there is but little dependance to be placed on those whose zeal for our service is but to gratify their own ambition. It reflects little honour upon us when 9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David. And David built round about from Millo and inward.

10 And David went on, and grew great; and the LORD God of hosts was with him.

11 ¶ And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar trees, and carpenters, and masons: and they built David an house.

12 And David perceived that the LORD had established him king over Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Israel's sake.

18 The Philistines also came and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

19 And David inquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up to the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto David, Go up; for I will doubtless deliver the Philistines into thine hand.

20 And David came to Baal-perazim; and David smote them there, and said, The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place Baal-perazim.

21 And there they left their images, and David and his men burned them.

22 ¶ And the Philistines came up yet again, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

23 And when David inquired of the LORD he said, Thou shalt not go up; but fetch a compass behind them, and come upon them over against the mulberry trees.

24 And let it be, when thou hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt bestir thyself; for then shall the LORD go out before thee to smite the host of the Philistines.

25 And David did so, as the LORD had commanded him; and smote the Philistines from Geba until thou come to Gazer.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—Dreadful are the effects of war; numerous and great the perils of infancy; to have escaped them unhurt is a singular mercy. God soon removes every obstacle to the fulfilment of his purpose and promise; and the most flourishing families are quickly reduced to the most weak and abject conditions. The higher men's station is, the more dangerous it is: and when once they begin to fall, every pretended friend is ready to hasten forward their ruin, and make religion a pretext for their conduct. Very precarious is their life who have only wicked men for their guardians: but sinners' hands make the snares wherewith themselves are caught. And it is proper that magistrates should think the best of their opposers; and that they should punish treachery and murder, even when it seems calculated to promote their own interests.

For about fifty, if not seventy years, the ark of God had continued at Kirjath-jearim in an obscure condition. Now (1) David and his subjects attempt to bring it to Jerusalem on a cart, instead of the Levites' shoulders. The Lord, provoked herewith, strikes Uzzah dead for touching it. This terrifies David, and stops his procedure; 1—11. (2) With great joy David brings it up in due form a short time after; 12—15. (3) On that occasion David testifies his abundant joy in the Lord, and kindness to his subjects; 17—19. (4) Michal his wife reproaching him with the humble manner in which he had expressed his joy before the ark, he vindicates himself; and God punishes her with barrenness; 16, 20—23.

A GAIN David gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, thirty thousand.

2 And David arose, and went with all the people that were with him, from Baale of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, whose name is called by the name of the LORD of hosts, that dwelleth between the cherubims.

3 And they set the ark of God upon a new cart, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was in Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio, the sons of Abinadab, drove the new cart.

4 And they brought it out of the house of Abinadab which was at Gibeah, accompanying the ark of God. And Ahio went before the ark.

5 And David and all the house of Israel played before the LORD on all manner of instruments made of fir wood; even on harps, and on psalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

6 ¶ And when they came to Nachon's threshing floor Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen shook it.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzzah; and God smote him there for his error; and there he died by the ark of God.

8 And David was displeased, because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place Perez-uzzah to this day.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD that day; and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David; but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obed-edom, and all his household.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. So David went, and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom into the city of David with gladness.

13 And it was so, that, when they that bare the ark of the LORD had gone six paces, he sacrificed oxen and fatlings.

14 And David danced before the LORD with all his might: and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet.

16 And, as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal Saul's daughter looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

17 ¶ And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it. And David offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

18 And, as soon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts.

19 And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. So all the people departed every one to his house.

20 ¶ Then David returned to bless his household. And Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to-day, who uncovered himself to-day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the vain fellows shamelessly uncovereth himself!

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the LORD, who chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to appoint me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Israel: therefore will I play before the LORD.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be base in mine own sight: and of the maid-servants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour.

23 Therefore Michal the daughter of Saul had no child unto the day of her death.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—Though God's promise tarry long, it is fully accomplished at last. He can produce unanimity in the largest societies whenever the ends of his glory require it. The duties of magistrates and subjects are reciprocal, the one being as much bound as the other. What victory, honour, and happiness, attend the peculiar presence of God with men! and to him the glory of all our success ought to be ascribed. But alas! that God's favours should be used in the lustful addition of wives and concubines! If by one wife Adam and Noah peopled a world, what need for so many to furnish one throne! But what is sweet in the mouth will become bitter in the belly. Meanwhile, behold how the enemies of God assemble themselves to their own destruction! How little care false gods can take of themselves or their votaries! And how men prosper in war when they make God their director!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—Perpetual visibility and splendour are no marks of a true church. The ark, the most noted symbol of God's presence, continued long in obscurity. God can be graciously present with his people, even when they want his solemn ordinances; and it is his presence that renders his ordinances truly glorious. Such as have high thoughts of him will reverence all his institutions. The greatest need think it no disparagement to join with the meanest before the great God, their common Maker and Saviour. Singing of psalms to his praise is always esteemed when God revives a spirit of religion. God's laws relative to the manner, as well as to the matter, of his worship ought to be exactly observed: and the authority of men, or bad precedents, should never weigh more with us than the express word of God. By rashness and intemperate zeal we are apt to give wrong touches to God's ark: and no good intention will atone for our irreverence or presumption. Men are never in greater danger of ruinous mistakes than in dealing with God. How apt are the best to be displeased with God's judgments, rather than with their own sins which procured them! The awful strokes of providence should move us to repentance and heedfulness, but never terrify us from our duty. None ever lost by their fidelity and kindness to God and his ordinances. It is a happiness to be in the family or place where God is duly respected. Duty may happily succeed at last, though our first attempts have been marred. Let us therefore search out and repent of our errors, apply Jesus' propitiatory sacrifice for remission of sins, feast on him as our provision, and set about it anew with proper circumspection. Only base minds reckon God's service mean or indecent: and ridicule, not reason, is the common weapon of the enemies of truth. But we must not be laughed out of our religious profession; but the more opposition we meet with, the more resolutely persevere. If God knows our heart to be upright before him, the censures of others may lie light upon us. We can never sufficiently humble ourselves before him. And if, in our service of him, we have the regard of good men, we need not fear the contempt of the irreligious or the great. While God shall mark the despisers of his service with infamy and wrath, we shall be had in glory and honour.

CHAP. VII.

Having fixed the ark near him, David resolves to build a magnificent temple for it; and Nathan the prophet encourages him in it; 1—3. (2) God, by Nathan, approves the resolution; but countermands the present execution of it, assigning it to his son; and promises an entail of blessings on his family; chiefly to be fulfilled in the person and government of the Messiah; 4—17. (3) In a solemn prayer, David acknowledges his own meanness, admires the greatness and mercy of God, accepts his promises, and pleads for the fulfilment of them; 18—29.

AND it came to pass, when the king sat in his house, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies,

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in an house of cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart; for the LORD is with thee.

4 ¶ And it came to pass that night that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go and tell my servant David, Thus saith the LORD, Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Israel spake I a word with any of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

8 Now, therefore, so shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I took thee from the sheepcote, from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel:

9 And I was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, and have cut off all thine enemies out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

10 Moreover, I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more; neither shall the children of wickedness afflict them any more as beforetime:

11 And as since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel, and have caused thee to rest from all thine enemies. Also the LORD telleth thee that he will make thee an house.

12 ¶ And when thy days be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, I will set up thy seed after thee, which shall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will establish his kingdom.

13 He shall build an house for my name, and I will stablish the throne of his kingdom for ever.

14 I will be his father, and he shall be my son. If he commit iniquity I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the children of men:

15 But my mercy shall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away before thee.

16 And thine house and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever.

17 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and sat before the LORD; and he said, Who am I, O LORD God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

19 And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O LORD God; but thou hast spoken also of thy servant's house for a great while to come. And is this the manner of man, O LORD God?

20 And what can David say more unto thee? for thou, LORD God, knowest thy servant.

21 For thy word's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all these great things, to make thy servant know them.

22 Wherefore thou art great, O LORD God: for there is none like thee; neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

23 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name, and to do for you great things and terrible, for thy land, before thy people, which thou redeemest to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

24 For thou hast confirmed to thyself thy people Israel to be a people unto thee for ever; and thou, LORD, art become their God.

25 And now, O LORD God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God over Israel: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, hast revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee an house; therefore hath thy servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

28 And now, O LORD God, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant:

29 Therefore now let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O LORD God, hast spoken it, and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

But let me here think of that solemn joy and triumph wherewith Jesus, our great ark of God's testament, was carried up into heaven, and set down at the right hand of God: and of that joy and triumph with which his name is carried through the world by the gospel, in the times of his love and days of his power! O then what harmony and peace in churches—what familiar feasting on his flesh

CHAP. VIII.

Before Christ 1040.

Having first sought the kingdom of God, and the righteousness of it, David has other things added to him. Here (1) He conquers and triumphs over the mighty nations around; the Philistines, Moabites, Syrians, and Edomites; 1—8, 12—14. (2) In presents, in spoil, and in tribute, he receives great wealth, which he dedicates to the service of God; 9—12. (3) Having fixed his principal officers, he, with great equity and honour, governs his subjects; 15—18.

AND after this it came to pass that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took ^bMetheg-ammah out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 And he smote Moab, and measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground^d; even with two lines measured he to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive. And so the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ David smote also Hadadezer the son of Rehob, king of Zobah, as ^{*}he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thousand chariots, and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen: and David ^ehoughed all the chariot horses, but reserved of them for an hundred chariots.

5 And, when the ^bSyrians of Damascus came to succour ^kHadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

6 Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus: and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought gifts. And the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

7 And David took ^mthe shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 And ⁿfrom Bethah, and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much brass.

9 ¶ When ^oToi king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all the host of Hadadezer,

10 Then Toi sent ^pJoram his son unto king David, to ^qsalute him, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer, and smitten him: (for Hadadezer had wars with Toi). And Joram brought with him vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of brass;

11 Which also king David did dedicate unto the LORD, with the silver and gold that he had dedicated of all nations which he subdued;

12 Of Syria, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philistines, and of Amalek, and of the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob king of Zobah.

his ordinances are in distress. It is good to strengthen the hands of such as have at heart to build up the church of God: but all our success depends on God's presence and assistance. Even prophets may be too rash: they are no further infallible than as inspired by the Holy Ghost. God may approve a work, and yet not the doing of it by a particular person. Nay, he may accept his purpose, and yet not allow him to execute it. All true honour and happiness come from God. Yet the good purposes of ministers, magistrates, and parents, sometimes entail upon churches, nations, and families, the most remarkable mercies. But how great things God hath laid up for them that fear him! How abundant, free, sovereign, and lasting, are the blessings of his covenant! Yea, pleasant, fervent, and successful, are those supplications now, which are animated by, and do reduplicate upon, the promises of God impressed on our heart; particularly those respecting Jesus Christ and his grace. Let us then boldly ask what God hath promised. Let us never stagger at the greatness of the mercy, but pray in faith, nothing doubting. Let it be our constant desire that God, in all things may be glorified. If we find in our hearts to pray, God will not fail to hear and answer.

13 And David ^rgat him a name when he returned from smiting of the Syrians, in the valley of Salt, being eighteen thousand men.

14 ¶ And ^she put garrisons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garrisons; and all they of Edom became David's servants. And the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

15 ¶ And David ^treigned over all Israel; and David executed judgment and justice unto all his people.

16 And ^vJoab the son of Zeruiah was over the host: and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was ^urecorder;

17 And ^wZadok the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and Seraiah was the ^vscribe;

18 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over both the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and David's sons were ^{||}chief rulers.

CHAP. IX.

Amidst his glorious prosperity, David calls to mind Jonathan, his old friend, and the covenant made with him. We have here

(1) His kind inquiry after some remains of the family of Saul, and discovery of Mephibosheth, Jonathan's lame son; 1—4. (2) His kind reception of Mephibosheth when brought to him, and his appointing him to live at his own table; 5—8, 10, 11. (3) The kind provision he made for his family, giving him whatever had pertained to Saul his grandfather; 9—13. (4) The modest and thankful manner in which Mephibosheth received these favours; 6, 8.

AND David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may shew him kindness for ^aJonathan's sake?

2 And ^bthere was of the house of Saul a servant, whose name was Ziba. And, when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant is he.

3 And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may shew ^cthe kindness of God unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, ^dwho is lame on his feet.

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of ^eMachir, the son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

5 ¶ Then king David sent, and ^ffetch'd him out of the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, was come unto David, he ^gfell on his face, and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant.

7 ¶ And David said unto him, ^hFear not: for I will surely shew thee kindness, for Jonathan thy father's sake; and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father;

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—Faithful is he who hath promised. Now, after many ages, he put Israel into the full enjoyment of all their promised territory, from the river of Egypt on the south-west to the Euphrates on the north-east. No mighty nations, or powerful corruptions, can withstand when God's time of humbling them arrives. The awful threatenings denounced against them take fast hold on them; and the more they have oppressed the people of God, the worse fate may they expect. While the associated enemies of the church are broken in pieces, those armies are safe with whom the Lord goes out to the battle. In all wars, the glory of God ought to be our principal end; and to him our whole success ought to be ascribed. Wars abroad ought never to hinder mildness, good order, and equity, at home. And such as have been faithful friends in adversity deserve preferment in prosperity. But lo! when God has a temple to build, how he brings under such as would incline to oppose it, and provides for its expense!

and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead dog as I am?

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him, I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul and to all his house.

10 Thou therefore, and thy sons, and thy servants shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy master's son may have food to eat: but Mephibosheth, thy master's son, shall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants.

11 Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young son, whose name was Micha. And all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the king's table; and was lame on both his feet.

CHAP. X.

Here (1) David sends a friendly message of condolence to Hanun king of the Ammonites: but his messengers, taken for spies, are abused, to his no small concern; 1—5. (2) While the Ammonites prepare for war, and hire thousands of Syrians to assist them, David appoints Joab and Abishai his generals to invade their country. They, with great conduct and bravery, attack the Ammonites and Syrians, and totally rout them; 6—14. (3) The Syrians, having recruited their troops, rally again, and are again totally routed; 15—19.

1036.

AND it came to pass after this, that the king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

2 Then said David I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, as his father shewed kindness unto me. And David sent to comfort him, by the hand of his servants, for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee to search the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it unto David he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah a thousand men, and of Ish-tob twelve thousand men.

7 And when David heard of it he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array at the entering in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Ish-tob, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field.

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians:

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in array against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but, if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God: and the LORD do that which seemeth him good.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battle against the Syrians: and they fled before him.

14 And, when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abishai, and entered into the city. So Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

15 ¶ And, when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together.

16 And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river; and they came to Helam; and Shobach the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And, when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam. And the Syrians set themselves in array against David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thousand horsemen, and smote Shobach the captain of their host, who died there.

19 And, when all the kings that were servants to Hadarezer saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them. So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

Advancement to high stations should make us remember poor friends and poor objects with more readiness and tender care. Unexpected favours ought to be received with the warmest gratitude, and the most self-denying humility of mind and behaviour. Honours sit most gloriously on the most humble and modest. But how amazing is it that, for Jesus' sake, God should seek out us deformed sinners of mankind, restore to us our eternal inheritance, and appoint us to feast continually on, and with, Jesus at his table!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—How quickly sin nearly extirpates the most flourishing families! How often good men, amidst the hurry of business, are too long forgetful of their former friends! But we should not only be ready to do good to such as need, but even seek out opportunities, and inquire after proper objects. Yea, we should be peculiarly earnest in shewing kindness to such as have injured us, or to such as have befriended us in our distress. Nor should our kindness die with our friends, but extend to their relations and posterity.

CHAP. XI.

Before Christ
1035.

Hitherto David has generally shone as a saint, as a warrior, and as a king ; but now, for our awful warning, the gold becomes dim. (1) While his troops struggle in war with the Ammonites, he indulges himself in sloth and lewdness ; commits adultery with Bath-sheba, the wife of one of his valiant commanders ; 1—5. (2) To conceal his wickedness, he stnfully attempts to have his spurious child fathered on Uriah, her husband ; 6—13. (3) Defeated in this project, he contrives and effects the murder of Uriah by the hand of the Ammonites ; 14—25. (4) He marries Bath-sheba ; 26, 27.

AND it came to pass, ^aafter the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth to battle, that David sent Joab and his servants with him, and all Israel ; and they destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah. But David tarried still at Jerusalem.

2 ¶ And it came to pass, in an evening-tide, that David ^barose from off his bed, and walked ^cupon the roof of the king's house : and from the roof he ^dsaw a woman ^ewashing herself ; and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

3 And David ^fsent and inquired after the woman. And one said, Is not this Bath-sheba, the daughter of ^gEliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite ?

4 And David ^hsent messengers, and took her ; and she came in unto him, and he lay with her ; for she was ⁱpurified from her uncleanness : and she returned unto her house.

5 ¶ And the woman conceived, and sent and told David, and said, ^k*I am* with child.

6 And David sent to Joab, saying, Send me Uriah the Hittite. And Joab sent Uriah to David.

7 And, when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him ^lhow Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war prospered.

8 And David said to Uriah, ^mGo down to thy house, and wash thy feet. And Uriah departed out of the king's house, and ⁿthere [†]followed him a mess of meat from the king.

9 But Uriah slept at the door of the king's house, with all the servants of his lord, and went not down to his house.

10 And, when they had told David, saying, Uriah went not down unto his house, David said unto Uriah, Camest thou not from thy journey ? why then didst thou not go down unto thine house ?

11 And Uriah said unto David, ^oThe ark, and Israel, and Judah, abide in tents ; and ^pmy lord Joab, and the servants of my lord, are encamped in the open fields ; shall I then go into mine house, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife ? as ^qthou livest, and as thy soul liveth, I will not do this thing.

12 And David said to Uriah, Tarry here to-day also, and to-morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jerusalem that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him he did eat and drink before him ; and he ^rmade him drunk : and at even he went out to lie on his bed with the servants of his lord, but went not down to his house.

14 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning that David ^swrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the ^thottest battle, and retire ye ^ufrom him, that he may be smitten, and die.

16 And it came to pass, when Joab observed the city, that ^vhe assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out and fought with Joab. And there fell some of the people of the servants of David ; and Uriah the Hittite died also.

18 ¶ Then Joab sent, and told David all the things concerning the war ;

19 And charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king ;

20 And if so be that the king's ^wwrath arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore approached ye so nigh unto the city when ye did fight ? knew ye not that they would shoot from the wall ?

21 Who smote ^yAbimelech the son of Jerubbesheth ? did not a woman cast a piece of millstone upon him from the wall, that he died in Thebez ? why went ye nigh the wall ? then say thou, Thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

22 ¶ So the messenger went, and came and shewed David all that Joab had sent him for.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Surely the men prevailed against us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them, even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the shooters shot from off the wall upon thy servants ; and some of the king's servants be dead ; and thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

25 Then David said unto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing [†]displease thee, for ^zthe sword devoureth one as well as another : ^amake thy battle more strong against the city, and overthrow it : and encourage thou him.

26 ¶ And, when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was past David sent, and ^bfetches her to his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing that David had done ^cdispleased the LORD.

that in battle usually prevails. Great dangers call for the greater fortitude.—Love of God, and of their country, makes the bravest soldiers. Mutual assistance is a duty incumbent in every difficulty ; and dependance upon God, in the use of the means, is the sure way to be crowned with success. What a mercy is it that inclement winters interrupt the grievous trade of war, and force the combatants to an unwilling rest ! But sinners, by their obstinate opposition to Christ and his cause, often bring upon themselves redoubled destruction. It is happy if they submit before they are totally ruined.—Meanwhile, let mankind beware of abusing Jesus' ministers and messages of grace ; for the inflamed vengeance of Almighty God awaits such wickedness as its just reward.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—It is good to return a kindness even to the wicked, and to mourn with the afflicted. Wicked princes are ordinarily attended by wicked flatterers. Base minds are always the most suspicious : and evil suspicions hurry men into the most rash and ruinous conduct. It is exceedingly criminal to violate the person of an ambassador. But little pleasure, profit, or honour, must be expected from courting or complimenting the inveterate enemies of God and his people. Calumny often drives men into obscurity ; but patience will gradually wear off the reproach. War had need to be made with good advice. No numbers will be found able to support those who fight against God.—Nor is it unwieldy strength, but a prudent disposition and application of forces,

But, though David fell, he was not cast down utterly. Here, (1) By Nathan's parable, he is made to condemn himself; and, in the explication, he is convinced and condemned by Nathan in God's name; 1—12. (2) Upon his repentance, divine remission is intimated; but with a reserve of much temporal judgment to be inflicted; 13, 14. (3) To begin the fearful chastisement, the adulterous child sickens and dies. David behaving as a deeply affected penitent; 15—23. (4) To comfort his broken spirit, Bath-sheba's birth of Solomon is attended with a declaration of the Lord's special kindness to the child; 24, 25. (5) Perhaps before all these events Rabbah, the chief city of the Ammonites, is taken, and at least the principal men treated with great severity; 26—31.

AND the LORD ^asent Nathan unto David. And he came unto him, and ^bsaid unto him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.

2 The rich man had ^cexceeding many flocks and herds;

3 But the poor man had nothing save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a ^etraveller unto the rich man; and he spared to take of his own flock and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but ^ftook the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And ^gDavid's anger was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to Nathan, ^hAs the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this ⁱthing ^jshall surely die:

6 And he shall ^krestore the lamb four-fold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

7 ¶ And Nathan said to David, ^kThou art the man. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ^lI anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul;

8 And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives ^minto thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and, if ⁿthat had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things.

9 Wherefore hast thou ^odespised the commandment of the LORD, to do evil in his sight? thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife ^pto be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore ^qthe sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, ^rI will raise up evil against thee out of thine own house, and I will take thy wives before thine eyes, and give ^sthem unto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of this sun.

12 For thou didst ^tit secretly: but I will do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

13 And David said unto Nathan, ^uI have sinned against the LORD. And Nathan said unto David, ^vThe LORD also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

14 Howbeit, because by this deed ^wthou hast given great occasion to the enemies of the LORD to blaspheme, the child also ^xthat is born unto thee shall surely die.

15 ¶ And Nathan departed unto his house. And the LORD ^ystruck the child that Uriah's wife bare unto David, and it was very sick.

16 David therefore ^zbesought God for the child; and David fasted, and went in, and lay all night upon the earth.

17 And the elders of his house arose, and went to him, to raise him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

18 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that the child died. And the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they said, Behold, while the child was yet alive we spake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice; how will he then ^{aa}vex himself if we tell him that the child is dead?

19 But, when David saw that his servants whispered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David said unto his servants, Is the child dead? And they said, He is dead.

20 Then David ^{ab}arose from the earth, and washed and anointed ^{ac}himself, and changed his apparel, and came into the house of the LORD, and worshipped: then he came to his own house; and, when he required, they set bread before him, and he did eat.

21 Then said his servants unto him, What thing is this that thou hast done? thou didst fast and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead thou didst rise and eat bread.

22 And he said, ^{ad}While the child was yet alive I fasted and wept: for I said, Who can tell ^{ae}whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? can I bring him back

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—Lord, what is man when left to himself! On this side the grave no man is secure from presumptuous sin. The lusts of the flesh are most powerful and deceitful evils, and the last to be subdued; and such as make provision for the flesh, by sloth and sensuality, are prepared for every temptation. When we are out of God's way of duty we cannot expect his protection. If our eyes be suffered to wander, our hearts and feet will soon follow. To indulge sinful lust is but to increase its cravings. And a heart given up to lewdness will sacrifice honour, interest, friends, nay, God himself, to the idol of its hateful passions. Often it requires double care to conceal sin than what would have been necessary to prevent it. One sin ordinarily requires another to hide it. And such as have defiled their neighbour's bed will not stick to destroy his soul by drunkenness, or even his life by the sword. When sin has hardened the heart, the strongest warnings of providence are disregarded.—When the devil has once got a soul before the wind of his temptations, he can drive it to the very brink of hell—to deliberate malice and murder. God, however highly displeased, may permit men for a time to prosper in their wickedness, till their particular branches of guilt have become almost innumerable.—But stand still, my soul, and tremble to behold the man according to God's heart, the royal deputy of heaven—negligent in business, indulgent of sloth, wandering in eye, and lustful in heart; in old age debauching a lady of good reputation, and the wife of a faithful hero: labouring to impose a spurious issue upon an injured friend; robbing his faithful servant of his senses by drink, to promote the base design; deliberately contriving murder, and making the intended victim the bearer of the murderous mandate; using Uriah's fidelity and valour as the means of his ruin; involving Joab, and the deserters of their post, and the Ammonites, as partners in his guilt: and, in fine, charging his murder on the providence of God! Oh, what fearful depths of corruption must be in my heart! How astonishing is it that Jesus and his Spirit should dwell in so polluted a residence! How much I am indebted to God for his restraining grace! Let me then daily commit the keeping of my soul to God; and, if overtaken in a fault, immediately apply to Jesus Christ for repentance and forgiveness of my sins.

24 ¶ And David comforted Bath-sheba his wife; and went in unto her, and lay with her: and she bare a son, and he called his name ||Solomon: and the LORD loved him.

28 Now therefore gather the rest of the people together, and encamp against the city, and take it: lest I take the city, and fit be called after my name.

29 And David gathered all the people together, and went to Rabbah, and fought against it, and took it.

30 And he ^dtook their king's crown from off his head, the ^eweight whereof was a talent of gold with the precious stones; and it was set on David's head. And he brought forth the spoil of the city [†]in great abundance.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein, and ||put them under saws, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron, and made them pass through the brick-kiln: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

CHAP. XIII.

Here, by unnatural lust and murder in his family, God carries on the punishment of David's sin. (1) Amnon his son lusts after Tamar his sister; and Jonadab his cousin helps him to a method of gratifying his detestable inclination; 1—5. (2) Pretending to be sick, he obtains from his father that Tamar should wait upon him; and, having got his opportunity, he forces her, notwithstanding her remonstrances; 6—14. (3) He immediately after hates her; and, to her further grief and shame, expels her publicly from his lodging; 15—19. (4) Provoked herewith, Absalom, her brother-german, resolves to slay Amnon; and, inviting him and his other brethren to a feast, he effects it by his servants; 20—29. (5) The news of the murder, exceedingly aggravated, greatly afflicts David, till the truth appears; 30—36. (6) Absalom escapes, and lives with his grandfather, while David is pained for his absence; 37, 38.

AND it came to pass after this, that ^aAbsalom the son of David had ^ba fair sister, whose name was Tamar, and Amnon the son of David ^cloved her.

2 And Amnon was so ^dvexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar; for she was a virgin; and Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

3 But Amnon had ^ea friend, whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah, David's brother: and Jonadab was a very ^fsubtle man.

EXPLANATORY NOTES. CHAP. XII. Ver. 23.—David's consolation could not arise from the idea that he should die too; a consideration unworthy of such a man; but from a firm persuasion that his child was gone to glory, and that he should meet him there: and so it affords us the surest consolation under the death of infants.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—It is dreadful to behold noted saints continue long impenitent in their sins: and prudent reproof is always necessary, especially for great transgressors; and when wisely administered it is doubly effectual. Every wife has a right to her husband's most endeared affection.—Multiplying of wives never cures concupiscence, but inflames it. Great sinners are often most severe in their censures of others. Reprovers ought to deal plainly and closely with the consciences of sinners, and lay before them the aggravating circumstances of their guilt; for unbelief is the great source of all our wickedness. They must pay dear for their lusts who dare indulge them. The only way to escape the judgment which we have deserved, is by returning to God, through Jesus Christ, with humble acknowledgment of our guilt. Nothing causes more reproach to God, and his cause, than the scandalous falls of professors: especially of eminent saints, high stationed in church or state. And God will make those sins bitter to his people at last, in which they sought

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the king's son, ^{*}lean from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon said unto him, ^eI love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, ^bLay thee down on thy bed, and make thyself sick: and when thy father cometh to see thee say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come, and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand.

6 ¶ So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick. And, when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and dress him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house; and he was ^klaid down. And she took [†]flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out before him; but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me. And they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

11 And, when she had brought them unto him to eat, he ^mtook hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother, do not ||force me; for ⁿno such thing ought to be done ^oin Israel: do not thou this ^pfolly.

13 And I, whither shall I cause my shame to go? and, as for thee, thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel. Now therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the king; for he will not withhold me from thee.

14 Howbeit, he ^qwould not hearken unto her voice; but, being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her [†]exceedingly; so that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her. And Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.

16 And she said unto him, There is no lasting pleasure, even though others should seem to escape unpunished. Yea, God sometimes quickly marks his people's sin in their punishment; and often children are afflicted in their parent's punishment. The sickness of our relations demands our earnest wrestlings with God on their behalf: and none more than that of distressed children, who cannot pray for themselves. We brought them into the world heirs of wrath; let us labour to pluck them as brands out of the burning, and bring them to Jesus the Saviour. If we must part with them, let us do it as Christians; and let their death fill us with the most serious impressions of our own. At the same time, let us fortify our patience by the comforting consideration of this pious king: let us return them into the hand of God, assured that "their angels do always behold the face of our Father which is in heaven," and that, "of such is the kingdom of heaven:" and let it be our only concern that we meet them again in his presence.—Meanwhile let us remember that submission to God's strokes is the way to obtain the restoration of his comforts; and that he will not chide for ever, but will in wrath remember mercy.—Alas! that, while Joab was so zealous for David's honour, David, in his fondness for the heathen crown, and his severity to the prisoners, should have so little consulted the honour of God! But, when men lie hardened in their lust, what evil are they not capable of committing!

cause: this evil, in sending me away, is greater than the other that thou didst unto me. But he would not hearken unto her.

17 Then he called his servant that ministered unto him, and said, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And she had a garment of divers colours upon her: for with such robes were the king's daughters that were virgins apparelled. Then his servant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

19 ¶ And Tamar put ashes on her head, and rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

20 And Absalom her brother said unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee? but hold now thy peace, my sister: he is thy brother: regard not this thing. So Tamar remained desolate in her brother Absalom's house:

21 ¶ But when king David heard of all these things he was very wroth.

22 And Absalom spake unto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad: for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Tamar.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after two full years, that Absalom had sheep-shearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim: and Absalom invited all the king's sons.

24 And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold now thy servant hath sheep-shearers; let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants, go with thy servant.

25 And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be chargeable unto thee. And he pressed him: howbeit, he would not go, but blessed him.

26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king said unto him, Why should he go with thee?

27 But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him.

28 ¶ Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine; and, when I say unto you, Smite Amnon, then kill him; fear not: have not I commanded you? Be courageous, and be valiant, 29 And the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded, Then all the king's sons arose, and every man gat him up upon his mule, and fled.

30 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the king's sons, and there is not one of them left.

31 Then the king arose and tare his garments, and lay on the earth; and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

32 And Jonadab, the son of Shimeah David's brother, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the king's sons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the appointment of Absalom this hath been determined from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's sons are dead; for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-side behind him.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the king's sons come: as thy servant said, so it is.

36 And it came to pass, as soon as he had made an end of speaking, that, behold, the king's sons came, and lifted up their voice and wept: and the king also, and all his servants, wept very sore.

37 ¶ But Absalom fled, and went to Talmai, the son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. And David mourned for his son every day.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three years.

39 And the soul of king David longed to go forth unto Absalom: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

CHAP. XIV.

Absalom's return is here brought about by a contrivance of Joab.

(1) Knowing how much David desired it, he suborns a widow of Tekoah to make a feigned complaint, and draw from the king a promise of pardon for her son, who had slain his brother; 1—11. (2) By an application of this to Absalom's case, an order is procured for his return; but he is forbidden to appear at court; 12—24. (3) After an account of Absalom's beauty and family, he, after some repulses, is introduced to David by Joab, and the reconciliation perfected; 25—33.

NOW Joab the son of Zeruiah perceived that the king's heart was toward Absalom.

2 And Joab sent to Tekoah, and fetched thence a wise woman, and said unto her, I pray thee, feign thyself to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thyself with oil, but be as a woman that hath a long time mourned for the dead:

3 And come to the king, and speak on

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—Righteous, but awful, are the judgments of God; especially when he punishes sin with sin, and that remarkably similar! Children are apt to imitate their parents' sins without imitating their repentance. And near relatives should be cautious that their tender affection does not degenerate into lawless lust. How unbridled is lust when once indulged! the body often suffers through vile affections: and no station can render the man happy whose lusts rage within him. A wicked and subtle friend, who leads to or flatters in sin, is a dreadful curse. Such as harbour no ill designs themselves are often made instruments of iniquity by the crafty sinner, as they are most unsuspicious. Deeds of filthiness seek for secrecy. It is therefore extremely dangerous for those who have youth and beauty to be alone with the wanton. But nothing can be more barbarous and foolish than, for a momentary gratification, to ruin a character, render a companion infamous and miserable, and rush into everlasting ruin. Yet where lust rages men are insensible of fear or shame, and deaf to all the remonstrances of reason and religion: though the pleasures of lust are quickly turned into loathing and hatred; and nothing is reckoned too shameful or cruel to be done to the object of it. The neglect of magistrates to punish infallibly occasions more, if not worse, crimes: and yet how hard for them to punish, in their children, crimes copied after their own! Revenge is often deep rooted, and masked with pretences of friendship; yea, the longer it is concealed, it often burns the more fiercely: and drunkenness remarkably exposes sinners to death, and ripens them for hell. None are more ready to imbrue their hands in our blood than our companions in luxury. What certain griefs, but uncertain comforts, are the children of the best and greatest! How kind is it to sympathize with the afflicted, and to comfort them the best way we can! And how strong is parental affection, which cannot be extinguished by the most horrid and unnatural crimes!

4 ¶ And, when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did obeisance, and said, Help, O king.

5 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am indeed a widow woman, and mine husband is dead.

6 And thy handmaid had two sons; and they two strove together in the field, and there was none to part them, but the one smote the other, and slew him.

7 And, behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid: and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he slew; and we will destroy the heir also: and so they shall quench my coal which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name nor remainder upon the earth.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my father's house: and the king and his throne be guiltless.

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, that thou wouldest not suffer the revengers of blood to destroy any more, lest they destroy my son. And he said, As the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth.

12 Then the woman said, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? for the king doth speak this thing as one who is faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished.

14 For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again: neither doth God respect any person; yet doth he devise means that his banished be not expelled from him.

15 Now, therefore, that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid: and thy handmaid said, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid:

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man that would destroy me and my son together out of the inheritance of God.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be comfortable: for, as an angel of God, so is my lord the king to discern good and bad: therefore the LORD thy God will be with thee.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now I have done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and thanked the king: and Joab said, To-day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his servant.

23 So Joab arose and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

25 ¶ But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head, there was no blemish in him.

26 And when he polled his head (for it was at every year's end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it:) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight.

27 ¶ And unto Absalom there were born three sons and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not the king's face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king; but he would not come to him: and, when he sent again the second time, he would not come.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is near mine, and he hath barley there; go and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

31 Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come

26 But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee; behold, ^mhere am I, let him do to me as seemeth good unto him.

27 The king said also unto Zadok the priest, Art not thou ⁿa seer? return into the city in peace, and your two sons with you, Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan the son of Abiathar.

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderness until there come ^oword from you to certify me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem; and they tarried there.

30 ¶ And David went up by the ascent of ^rmount Olivet, and swept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went barefoot, and all the people that was with him covered every man his head; and they went up, weeping as they went up.

31 ¶ And one told David, saying, ^tAhithophel is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, O LORD, I pray thee, turn the counsel of Ahithophel into foolishness.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, that, when David was come to the ^utop of the mount, where he worshipped God, behold, ^vHushai the Archite came to meet him with ^whis coat rent, and earth upon his head:

33 Unto whom David said, If thou passest on with me, then thou shalt be a burden unto me.

34 But, if thou ^xreturn to the city, and say unto Absalom, I will be thy servant, O king; as I have been thy father's servant hitherto, so will I now also be thy servant; then mayest thou for me defeat the counsel of Ahithophel.

35 And hast thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the priests? therefore it shall be, that, what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the king's house, thou shalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the priests.

36 Behold, they have ^ythere with them their two sons, Ahimaaz Zadok's son, and Jonathan Abiathar's son: and by them ye shall send unto me every thing that ye can hear.

37 So Hushai, David's ^zfriend, came into the city, and Absalom came into Jerusalem.

CHAP. XVI.

Here (1) David in his flight is basely cheated by Ziba, Mephibosheth's servant, and induced to transfer his master's property to him; 1—4. (2) Outrageously stoned and cursed by Shimei, a friend of Saul; but bears it with marvellous patience and resignation to the will of God; 5—14. (3) Absalom, at his entry into Jerusalem, is 1, outwitted by Hushai's pretences of friendship; 15—19. And 2, persuaded by Ahithophel publicly to defile his father's concubines, in order to render a reconciliation with his father impossible; 20—23.

AND, when David was a little past ^athe top of the hill, behold, ^bZiba, the servant of Mephibosheth, met him ^cwith a couple of asses saddled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and an hundred bunches of raisins, and an hundred of summer fruits, and a bottle of wine.

2 And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou by these? And Ziba said, The asses be for the king's household to ^dride on; and the bread and summer fruit for the ^eyoung men to eat; and the wine, that such as be faint in the wilderness may drink.

3 And the king said, And ^fwhere is thy master's son? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he abideth at Jerusalem: for ^ghe said, To-day shall the house of Israel restore me the kingdom of my father.

4 Then said the king to Ziba, Behold, ^hthine are all that pertained unto Mephibosheth. And Ziba said, I ⁱthumbly beseech thee that I may find grace in thy sight, my lord, O king.

5 ¶ And, when king David came to ^jBahurim, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the house of Saul, whose name was ^kShimei, the son of Gera: ^lhe came forth, and ^mcursed still, as he came.

6 And he cast stones at David, and at all the servants of king David: and all the people and all the mighty men were on his right hand and on his left.

7 And thus said Shimei when he cursed, Come out, come out, thou ⁿbloody man, and thou ^oman of Belial:

8 The LORD hath ^preturned upon thee all the blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned; and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son: and, ^qbehold, thou art taken in thy mischief, because thou art a bloody man.

9 ¶ Then said Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, unto the king, Why should this ^rdead dog curse my lord the king? ^slet me go over, I pray thee, and take off his head.

10 And the king said, What have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruiah? ^tso let him curse, because the LORD hath said unto him, Curse David. Who shall then say, Wherefore hast thou done so?

11 And David said to Abishai, and to all his servants, Behold, my son, which large families are great incumbrances: and, though terrible revolutions are great trials for young converts, yet strangers are often more faithful than our kindred and countrymen: and, the more distressful our case, they cleave to us the more resolutely. So let us, sinners of the Gentiles, cleave to David's Lord. Let neither the trials of life, nor the torments of death, separate us from him. The Lord's ministers ought to be patterns of fidelity when others are inclined to rebel against their rightful sovereigns. It is hard for gracious persons to bear at once the stings of conscience, the base rebellion of children, and a want of the public ordinances of God: such, if any, require our deepest sympathy and fellowship in grief. Bitter grief for our sin, and resignation to God's afflicting hand, must be attended with the diligent use of proper means for our relief: but none that trust in the Lord shall perish. Often our friends, and especially our Jesus, helps us most when unseen. It is not the craft of politicians, but the God of heaven, that governs the world. He can easily turn the counsels of the crafty into foolishness, and cause the traitors to be betrayed. Let us commit our way to God, and he will bring it to pass.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—Indulged children often become the plague, if not the murderers of parents. Young fools are fond of making a pompous figure in the world. And they who are least fit to rule are ordinarily the most ambitious of it. Zeal for the public welfare, and care to redress grievances, are the ordinary cloaks of the vilest ambition and treachery. Nor is the most upright administration able to escape the malignant aspersions of a discontented faction. But none are more apt to play the tyrant, when they have obtained power, than those who have paved their way to it by the basest condescensions. Gracious parents easily credit their children's pretences to reformation and devotion. But the vilest designs are ordinarily masked with a cloak of pretended religion: and they never want carnal prudence who have the devil to be their director. Slippery and tottering are the exalted stations and honours of this world. Our fortified abodes may soon become too weak or too hot for us, whilst our intimates, yea, almost all beside, go over to our enemy. Our severest strokes often come from hands which we least suspected; and fear of God's wrath, in our sufferings, sinks the spirits, and makes men cowards. In suffering times, came forth of my bowels, seeketh my life; how much more now may this Benjamite do it? let him alone, and let him curse; for the LORD hath bidden him.

12 It may be that the LORD will ^alook on mine affliction, and that the LORD will ^arequite me good for his cursing this day.

13 And, as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hill's side over against him, and cursed as he went, and threw stones at him, and ^acast dust.

14 And the king, and all the people that were with him, came weary, and refreshed themselves ^athere.

15 ¶ And Absalom, and all the people the men of Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 And it came to pass, when Hushai the Archite, David's friend, was come unto Absalom, that Hushai said unto Absalom, ¶ God save the king, God save the king.

17 And Absalom said to Hushai, Is this thy kindness to thy friend? why wentest thou not with thy ^afriend.

18 And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay; but ^awhom the LORD, and this people, and all the men of Israel, choose, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

19 And again, whom should I serve? ^ashould I not serve in the presence of his son? as I have served in thy father's presence, so will I be in thy presence.

20 ¶ Then said Absalom to Ahithophel, ^aGive counsel among you what we shall do.

21 And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, ^aGo in unto thy father's concubines, whom he hath ^aleft to keep the house, and all Israel shall hear that thou art abhorred of thy father: then shall the hands of all that are with thee be strong.

22 So they spread Absalom a tent upon ^athe top of the house; and Absalom went in unto his father's concubines in the sight of all Israel.

23 And the ^acounsel of Ahithophel, which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had inquired at the ^aoracle of God; so was all the counsel of Ahithophel, both with David and with Absalom.

CHAP. XVII.

The contest between David and Absalom hastens to a crisis.

(1) Absalom calls a council of war; in which Ahithophel advised him to use the utmost dispatch, before David and his friends could recover from their consternation; and that himself should direct the troops employed to pursue them; 1—4. But Hushai advised to slow, but pompous, and seemingly sure, measures; and that Absalom should have the honour of commanding the huge army himself. This, suiting the vanity of Absalom and his friends, was preferred; 5—14. For vexation at which, Ahithophel hanged himself; 23. (2) With no small difficulty, Hushai, by means of Jonathan and Ahimaaz, conveys information of their counsels to David; 15—21. (3) David and his forces immediately march over Jordan into the land of Gilead, where his friends seasonably supply them with provisions; 22, 24, 27—29. (4) Absalom, with Amasa, his general, and his forces, marches after him; 25, 26.

MOREOVER, Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Let me now choose out twelve thousand men, and I will arise and pursue after David ^athis night:

2 And I will come upon him while he is ^aweary and weak-handed, and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him shall flee; and I will smite the king only:

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee: the man whom thou seekest is as if all returned so all the people shall be ^ain peace.

4 And the saying ^apleased Absalom well, and all the elders of Israel.

5 Then said Absalom, Call now ^aHushai the Archite also, and let us hear likewise what he saith.

6 And, when Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake unto him, saying, Ahithophel hath spoken after this manner: shall we do after his ^asaying? if not, speak thou.

7 And Hushai said unto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath ^agiven is ^anot good at this time.

8 For (said Hushai) thou knowest thy father and his men, that they be ^amighty men, and they be chafed in their ^aminds ^aas a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he ^ais hid now in some pit, or in some ^aother place: and it will come to pass, ^awhen some of them be overthrown at the first, that whosoever heareth it will say, There is a slaughter among the people that follow Absalom.

10 And ^ahe also that is ^avaliant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall ^autterly melt: for all Israel knoweth that thy father is ^aa mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men

11 Therefore I counsel that ^aall Israel be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, as ^athe sand that is by the sea for multitude; and ^athat thou go to battle in thine own person.

12 So shall we come upon him in some place where he shall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground: and of him, and of all the men that are with him, there shall not be left so much as one.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then shall all Israel bring ropes to that city, and we will ^adraw it into the river, until there be not one small stone found there.

vilest reproaches should make us to search our ways, and condemn ourselves for our real faults. To see God's hand in every trial is the way to bear it aright. Patience under reproaches will issue in our full vindication at last. And happy are they who can thus withstand the strongest temptations to revenge when they meet with the most insolent abuse. What an easy prey are proud men to every subtle flatterer! They take all those for friends whom they would wish to be such. It is hard for crafty politicians to confine themselves to untainted veracity and candour. Nay, such will often stick at nothing, however infamous or wicked, to secure their own purposes. But let us here observe how this most abominable conduct fulfils the righteous threatenings of God. He, who murdered his friend to conceal his adultery, has now ten of his concubines publicly debauched by his son on the same top of the house where he began his crime.

14 And Absalom and all the men of Israel said, the counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel. For the LORD had appointed to defeat the good counsel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom.

15 ¶ Then said Hushai unto Zadok and to Abiathar the priest, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and thus have I counselled.

16 Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderness, but speedily pass over; lest the king be swallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stayed by En-rogel; for they might not be seen to come into the city; and a wench went and told them: and they went and told king David.

18 Nevertheless, a lad saw them, and told Absalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's house in Bahurim, which had a well in his court, whither they went down.

19 And the woman took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and spread ground corn thereon: and the thing was not known.

20 And, when Absalom's servants came to the woman to the house, they said Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said unto them, They be gone over the brook of water. And when they had sought, and could not find them, they returned to Jerusalem.

21 And it came to pass, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and said unto David, Arise, and pass quickly over the water; for thus hath Ahithophel counselled against you.

22 Then David arose, and all the people that were with him, and they passed over Jordan: by the morning light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

23 ¶ And, when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled his ass, and arose, and gat him home to his house, to his city, and put his household in order, and hanged himself, and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

25 ¶ And Absalom made Amasa captain of the host instead of Joab: which Amasa was a man's son whose name was Ithra an Israelite, that went into Abigail, the daughter of Nahash, sister to Zeruiah, Joab's mother.

26 So Israel and Absalom pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the son of Nahash of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Machir the son of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim,

28 Brought beds, and basins, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched pulse,

29 And honey, and butter, and sheep, and cheese of kine, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat: for they said, The people is hungry, and weary, and thirsty, in the wilderness.

CHAP. XVIII.

Here (1) David's small army marches to attack Absalom's, but is charged to spare his life; 1—5. (2) Absalom's forces are totally routed and dispersed; 6—8. (3) Absalom being hung on a tree by his fine hair, Joab and his servants kill him, and he is disgracefully buried; 9—18. (4) Ahimaaz and Cushie carry the tidings to David; 19—32. (5) David bitterly bewails Absalom's death; 33.

AND David numbered the people that were with him, and set captains of thousands and captains of hundreds over them.

2 And David sent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. And the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you myself also.

3 But the people answered, Thou shalt not go forth: for if we flee away they will not care for us; neither if half of us die will they care for us: but now thou art worth ten thousand of us: therefore now it is better that thou succour us out of the city.

4 And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best I will do. And the king stood by the gate side, and all the people came out by hundreds and by thousands.

5 And the king commanded Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

6 ¶ So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battle was in the wood of Ephraim;

7 Where the people of Israel were slain before the servants of David: and there was there a great slaughter that day of twenty thousand men.

8 For the battle was there scattered over the face of all the country: and REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—Some men have large capacities for contriving or executing mischief, or for imposing on their neighbours: yea, when men are once involved in sin, they drive deeper and deeper, till the most horrid crimes become, as it were, necessary for their own safety. Dangerous is the case of those princes who have rebellious subjects and unnatural children: but vain is their counsel who aim at the ruin of God's church and people. By the most secret ways He can divert their blows, and make them unanimously to alter their mind, and applaud what is for his glory and their own ruin: and the weakest instruments in his hand can answer the greatest of purposes. Good intelligence in war is as necessary as good advice. In my spiritual warfare, let the all-knowing Jesus, whose dispatches neither hell nor earth can stop, communicate to me my necessary informations. While we depend on God's protection, we must give all diligence to save ourselves. But not one follower of Jesus Christ shall be lost in the Jordan of trouble or death. The prayers of his saints are often indeed answered in a more awful manner than they could have wished.—Disappointed pride produces self-murder to such as sought their life. But how much more terrible is their disappointment, who meet with everlasting shame and destruction by fleeing to death as their refuge from present contempt or hazard! In the time of their greatest trouble God unexpectedly provides for his people. And it is very honourable to assist a sovereign or a saint when almost every body is become his enemy.

serve only to perpetuate the disgrace of the erectors. Fearful is the guilt, and dreadful the end, of rebellious children. But success, whether in work or warfare, should be wholly ascribed to the Lord; and messages of evil cannot be too tenderly delivered. Yet, is it not astonishing to find so great and good a man neglecting to praise God for his wonderful salvation; quarrelling with his kind providence; opposing the justice of the nation; uttering things unadvisedly with his lips; and so immoderately bewailing a son abandoned of heaven to every thing vile and hateful!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—In dangerous times great care ought to be taken for the security and honour of princes: and good advice from inferiors ought to be readily complied with. No undutifulness can root out or obliterate strong parental affection. What then must be the affection of God to his children! How quickly, how easily the enemies of God are overthrown, and that by means the most unexpected! Both the hopes and joys of the wicked soon issue in misery and shame: and they who flee from God's arm only rush into his net. Pride proves men's shame at last. A head trimmed, at the expence of neglecting the soul, is like to prove ruinous to both. Monuments of fame often

AND it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Absalom.

2 And the ^avictory that day was ^bturned into mourning unto all the people: for the people heard say that day how the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people gat them by stealth that day into the city, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battle.

4 But the king ^ccovered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son!

5 And Joab came into the house to the king, and said, Thou hast ^dshamed this day the faces of all thy servants, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines;

6 *In that thou lovest thine enemies, and hatest thy friends. For thou hast declared this day [†]that thou regardest neither princes nor servants: for this day I perceive that if Absalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then [‡]it had pleased thee well.

7 Now therefore arise, go forth, and speak [§]comfortably unto thy servants: for I swear by the LORD, if thou go not forth there [¶]will not tarry one with thee this night; and that will be worse unto thee than all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now.

8 Then the king arose, and ^bsat in the gate. And they told unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king doth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the king: for [†]Israel had fled every man to his tent.

9 ¶And all the people were at ^kstrife throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, The king [†]saved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines; and now he is fled out of the land for Absalom.

10 And Absalom, whom we ^manointed over us, is dead in battle; now therefore why ⁿspeak ye not a word of bringing the king back?

11 ¶And king David sent to ^oZadok and to Abiathar the priests, saying, Speak unto the elders of Judah, saying, Why are ye the ^plast to bring the king back to his house, seeing the speech of all Israel is come to the king, even to his house?

12 Ye are ^qmy brethren, ye are my bones and my flesh: wherefore then are ye the last to bring back the king?

13 And say ye ^rto Amasa, Art thou not of my bone and of my flesh? ^sGod do so to me, and more also, if thou be not captain of the host before me continually ^tin the room of Joab.

14 And he bowed the heart of all the men of Judah, even ^uas the heart of one man; so that they sent this word unto the king, Return thou and all thy servants.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan. And Judah came to ^vGilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan.

16 ¶And ^wShimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, hasted, and came down with the men of Judah, to meet king David.

17 And there were a thousand men of Benjamin with him, and ^xZiba the servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and his twenty servants with him; and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat to carry over the king's household, and to do ^ywhat he thought good. And Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king as he was come over Jordan;

19 And said unto the king, Let not my lord impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember ^zthat which thy servant did perversely the day that my lord the king went out of Jerusalem, that the king should take it to his heart.

20 For thy servant doth know that I have sinned: therefore, behold, I am come ^{aa}the first this day of all the house of Joseph to go down to meet my lord the king.

21 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah answered and said, ^{ab}Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, because he cursed the LORD's anointed?

22 And David said, ^{ac}What have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, that ye should this day be adversaries unto me? ^{ad}shall there any man be put to death this day in Israel? for do not I know that I am this day king over Israel?

23 Therefore the king said unto Shimei, ^{ae}Thou shalt not die. And the king ^{af}swore unto him.

24 ¶And ^{ag}Mephibosheth the son of Saul came down to meet the king; and had neither ^{ah}dressed his feet nor trimmed his beard, nor washed his clothes, from the day the king departed until the day he came again in peace.

25 And it came to pass, when he was come to Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said unto him, Wherefore wentest not thou with me, Mephibosheth?

26 And he answered, my lord, O king, my servant deceived me: for thy servant said, I will saddle me an ass, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king; because thy servant is lame.

27 And ^{ai}he hath slandered thy servant unto my lord the king: but my lord the king is as an ^{aj}angel of God; do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

28 For ^{ak}all of my father's house were but ^{al}dead men before my lord the king: yet didst thou set thy servant among them that did eat at thine own table: what right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king?

29 And the king said unto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters? I have said, ^{am}Thou and Ziba divide the land.

30 And Mephibosheth said unto the king, ^{an}Yea, let him take all, forasmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own house.

31 ¶ And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourscore years old; and he had provided the king of sustenance while he lay at Mahanaim; for he was a very great man.

33 And the king said unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jerusalem.

34 And Barzillai said unto the king, How long have I to live, that I should go up with the king unto Jerusalem?

35 I am this day fourscore years old: and can I discern between good and evil? can thy servant taste what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of singing men and singing women? wherefore then should thy servant be yet a burden unto my lord the king?

36 Thy servant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why should the king recompense it me with such a reward?

37 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father and of my mother: but behold thy servant Chimham; let him go over with my lord the king; and do to him what shall seem good unto thee.

38 And the king answered, Chimham shall go over with me, and I will do to him that which shall seem good unto thee: and whatsoever thou shalt require of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan. And when the king was come over, the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him; and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him: and all the people of Judah conducted the king, and also half the people of Israel.

41 ¶ And, behold, all the men of Israel came to the king, and said unto the king, Why have our brethren, the men of Judah, stolen thee away, and have brought the king, and his household, and all David's men with him, over Jordan?

42 And all the men of Judah answered the men of Israel, Because the king is near of kin to us: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the king's cost? or hath he given us any gift?

43 And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, We have ten parts in the king, and we have also more right in David than ye: why then did ye despise us, that our advice should not be first had in bringing back our king? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

CHAP. XX.

Still the sword cleaves to David's house. (1) Before he reaches Jerusalem in his return home, ten tribes of Israel, provoked with the harsh words of the men of Judah, again rebel, and are headed by Sheba, a Benjaminite; 1, 2. (2) Having condemned his ten debauched concubines to perpetual confinement, he orders Amasa, Absalom's late general, to arm the tribe of Judah; but, his motions being too slow, he orders Abishai after the rebels with the life-guards; 3-7. (3) Amasa, the new general, had no sooner come up with his army than Joab his cousin murdered him, and resumed the command of the troops; 8-13. (4) Sheba, the commander of the rebels, shuts himself up in Abel-beth-maachah, a strong city of Naphtali; where, by the mediation of a wise woman, his head is cut off, and so the war is ended; 14-22. (5) The kingdom being again settled, we have a new list of the principal officers; 23-26.

AND there happened to be there a man of Belial, whose name was Sheba, the son of Bichri, a Benjaminite; and he blew a trumpet, and said, We have no part in David, neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to his tents, O Israel.

2 So every man of Israel went up from after David, and followed Sheba the son of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jerusalem.

3 ¶ And David came to his house at Jerusalem; and the king took the ten women his concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them. So they were shut up unto the day of their death, living in widowhood.

4 ¶ Then said the king to Amasa, Assemble me the men of Judah within three days, and be thou here present.

5 So Amasa went to assemble the men of Judah; but he tarried longer than the set time which he had appointed him.

6 And David said to Abishai, Now shall Sheba the son of Bichri do us more harm than did Absalom: take thou thy lord's servants, and pursue after him, lest he get him fenced cities and escape us.

7 And there went out after him Joab's men, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jerusalem to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

8 When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon Amasa went before them: and Joab's garment that he had put on was girded unto him, and upon

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—The productions of unbridled passions are always unseasonable and dangerous. Few will risk their life for such as, after all, will look down upon them with neglect. And, if we foolishly bring ourselves into danger, we shall justly be upbraided with it. Good counsel, though bluntly and even roughly given, should be thankfully received. And, when we have done ill, we cannot too soon seek to amend it: but, when many are guilty, it is too common to cast the blame on their neighbours. Ministers ought to be principal promoters of loyalty. It is shameful when those, who ought to be most forward in duty, need instigation to it. Clemency is one of the noblest qualities of princes: and professions of deep sorrow for faults committed powerfully pacify the injured. But let us rejoice that Jesus will never condemn penitent sinners, though Satan stand at their right hand to accuse them. Our rash reception of evil reports concerning our friends turns to our shame, when they manifest their innocence. Wicked servants do their masters inexpressible injuries: but good men, like Mephiboseth, make times of distress seasons of mourning and grief, and disregard their own interests in comparison of those of God's church and people. Riches are truly blessings when possessed by generous minds, and liberally ministered for the support of the indigent. Grateful hearts count themselves happy to have it in their power to recompense their friends: and noble minds count little of all the services they can do to their friends. But observe, courts, feasting, and mirth, are poor preparations for death; and old men especially would do well often to decline all intercourse with them, that they may contemplate the more important concerns that now so closely press upon them, and cheerfully leave the more active employments for those whose age and capacities are more suitable to such a task. With what caution ought public affairs to be conducted! By pride cometh contention. A small evidence of respect might often prevent, not only angry altercation, but much murder and bloodshed. It is best to yield, and to leave off strife before it be meddled with: for when men are once in a passion they are sure to speak wrong, even though they have truth on their side.

it a girdle with a sword fastened upon his loins in the sheath thereof; and as he went forth it fell out.

9 And Joab said to Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kiss him.

10 But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joab's hand: so he smote him therewith in the fifth rib, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again; and he died. So Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba the son of Bichri.

11 And one of Joab's men stood by him, and said, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David, let him go after Joab.

12 And Amasa wallowed in blood in the midst of the highway. And, when the man saw that all the people stood still, he removed Amasa out of the highway into the field, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still.

13 When he was removed out of the highway all the people went on after Joab, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

14 ¶ And he went through all the tribes of Israel unto Abel, and to Bethmaachah, and all the Berites: and they were gathered together, and went also after him.

15 And they came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and they cast up a bank against the city, and it stood in the trench: and all the people that were with Joab battered the wall, to throw it down.

16 ¶ Then cried a wise woman out of the city, Hear, hear; say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am he. Then she said unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do hear.

18 Then she spake, saying, They were wont to speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel at Abel: and so they ended the matter.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Israel: thou seekest to destroy a city and a mother in Israel; why wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of the LORD?

20 And Joab answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should swallow up or destroy.

21 The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Sheba the son of Bichri by name) hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to thee over the wall.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wisdom. And they cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab. And he blew a trumpet, and they retired from the city, every man to his tent: and Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

23 ¶ Now Joab was over all the host of Israel: and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and over the Pelethites:

24 And Adoram was over the tribute: and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was recorder:

25 And Sheva was scribe: and Zadok and Abiathar were the priests:

26 And Ira also the Jairite was chief ruler about David.

CHAP. XXI.

Almost forty years ago Saul had slain many of the Gibeonites in his pretended zeal for the children of Israel. Here (1) God punishes that violation of the national oath, and effusion of innocent blood, by a three years' famine; 1, 2. (2) By the delivery of seven of Saul's offspring to the Gibeonites, who hanged them before the Lord, the plague of famine is stopt; 2—9. (3) Affected with Rizpah's care of the hanged bodies, David orders them to be taken down, and decently buried along with the bones of Saul and Jonathan, now brought from Jabesh-gilead; 10—14. (4) In four different battles the Philistines are defeated, and their giants slain, by the hand of David and his servants; 15—22.

THEN there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David inquired of the LORD. And the LORD answered, It is for Saul, and for his bloody house, because he slew the Gibeonites.

2 And the king called the Gibeonites, and said unto them: (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but of the remnant of the Amorites, and the children of Israel had sworn unto them: and Saul sought to slay them in his zeal to the children of Israel and Judah:)

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites, What shall I do for you? and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may bless the inheritance of the LORD?

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him, We will have no silver nor gold of Saul, nor of his house; neither for us shalt thou kill any man in Israel. And he said, What ye shall say, that will I do for you.

5 And they answered the king, The man that consumed us, and that devised against us that we should be destroyed from remaining in any of the coasts of Israel,

6 Let seven men of his sons be delivered unto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD in Gibeah of Saul, whom the LORD did choose. And the king said, I will give them.

7 But the king spared Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan the son of Saul, because of the LORD's oath that was

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—We must not expect to enjoy long peace on earth. Foolish, and even trifling quarrels have often dangerous consequences; and all of a sudden our most zealous friends may become our bitterest enemies. Objects of unlawful pleasure are often turned into standing memorials of our grief and shame: and an obscure retirement is fittest for those who have made themselves publicly scandalous. Kings seldom find that rash changes of the commanders in their army turn out to their satisfaction. Hardened murderers cannot be restrained by law. Impunity in one act encourages them to another. But let them outbrave their sovereign, or cover their bloodshed; yet God will punish them at last. One daring sinner often involves many in his punishment. But what a mercy, amidst the ravages of war, is a fit mediator! The terms of peace may often be very easy, would the parties but once confer together and understand one another.

between them, between David and Jonathan the son of Saul.

8 But the king took the two sons of ^aRizpah the daughter of Aiah, whom she bare unto Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth; and the five sons of ^aMichal the daughter of Saul, whom she ^abrought up for Adriel the son of Barzillai the Meholathite:

9 And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites; and they hanged them in the hill before the LORD: and they fell all seven together, and were put to death in the days of harvest, in the first days, ^ain the beginning of barley-harvest.

10 ¶ And ^aRizpah the daughter of Aiah took sackcloth, and spread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night.

11 And it was told David what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah the concubine of Saul had done.

12 ¶ And David went and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the men of Jabesh-gilead, which had stolen them from the street of Beth-shan, where the ^aPhilistines had hanged them when the Philistines had slain Saul in Gilboa:

13 And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son; and they gathered the bones of them that were hanged.

14 And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son buried they in the country of Benjamin in Zelah, ^ain the sepulchre of Kish his father: and they performed all that the king commanded. And after that ^aGod was entreated for the land.

15 ¶ Moreover, the Philistines had yet war again with Israel; and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines; and David waxed faint.

16 And Ishbi-benob, who was of the sons of ^athe giant, the weight of whose ^aspear weighed ^athree hundred shekels of brass in weight, he being girded with a new sword, thought to have slain David.

17 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah ^asuccoured him, and smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then the men of David sware unto him, saying, ^aThou shalt go no more out with us to battle, that thou ^aquench not the light of Israel.

18 ^aAnd it came to pass after this, that there was again a battle with the Philistines at ^aGob: then Sibbechai the Hushathite slew Saph, who was of the sons of ^athe giant.

19 And there was again a battle in Gob with the Philistines, where ^aElhanan, the son of Jaare-oregim, a Beth-lehemite, slew the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

20 And ^athere was yet a battle in Gath, where was a man of great stature, that had on every hand six fingers, and on every foot six toes, four and twenty in number; and he also was born to the giant.

21 And, when he ^adefied Israel, Jonathan the son of ^aShimea the brother of David slew him.

22 ^aThese four were born to the giant in Gath, and fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

CHAP. XXII.

Is much the same as Psalm xviii. After the title we have (1) Exulting professions of faith in, and love to, God, as related to him; 2—4. (2) High praises of God for those marvellous deliverances from distress; 5—21: and advancements in conquests and power he had bestowed upon him; 30—49: and for what he would do for him and for others; 26—29, 50, 51. (3) Sweet comfort in the review of his own integrity; 21—25.

AND David ^aspake unto the LORD the words of this song in the day that the ^aLORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul:

2 And he said, ^aThe LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer;

3 The God of my rock; in him will I trust: he is my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour; thou savest me from violence.

4 ^aI will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praised: so shall I be saved from mine enemies.

5 When the ^awaves of death compassed me, the floods of ^aungodly men made me afraid;

6 The ^asorrows of hell compassed me about; the snares of death prevented me;

7 ^aIn my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God; and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

8 ^aThen the earth shook and trembled; the foundations of heaven moved, and shook because he was wroth.

9 ^aThere went up a smoke out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

10 ^aHe bowed the heavens also, and came down; and darkness was under his feet.

11 And ^ahe rode upon a cherub, and did fly: and he was seen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made ^adarkness pavilions round about him, ^adark waters, and thick clouds of the skies.

13 Through the brightness before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The ^aLORD thundered from heaven, and the Most High uttered his voice.

15 And he ^asent out arrows, and scating from God. Thus they, who maliciously designed the ruin of others, bring themselves and families to misery: and how unsearchable are the judgments of God in ruining the families of his wrath! Severe executions for the public good are sometimes necessary. Many parents are long spared to meet with sad scenes of anguish and grief: and often survivors, by taking pains to revive the memory of lost friends, prove their own self-tormentors. Fidelity to sovereigns in moments of danger is extremely honourable. Strength of body is of no use to resist God or withstand death. But, let God's people be attacked as often as they may by their enemies, they will come off more than conquerors through him who loveth them.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—The obligations of public oaths and covenants are lasting and solemn; and the breaches of them, be the pretenses what they will, are highly provoking to God. Wicked and murderous magistrates are a great plague to nations. God may long defer his judgments without averting them: but old sins are not forgotten by him. The time of recompense will come at last; and may soon turn a fruitful land into barrenness. God's judgments should therefore make us search out and bewail our own and our fathers' iniquities. The sins of parents often entail misery on their posterity. And, though the poor oppressed should have no power to relieve themselves, God will plead their cause: nor, till satisfaction be made them, can we hope for a bless-

16 And ^pthe channels of the sea appeared, the foundations of the world were discovered, at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blast of the breath of his nostrils.

17 ^qHe sent from above, he took me; he drew me out of ^rmany waters:

18 ^sHe delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

19 ^tThey prevented me in the day of my calamity; but the LORD was my stay.

20 He ^ubrought me forth also into a large place: he delivered me, because he delighted in me.

21 The ^xLORD rewarded me according to my righteousness: according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me.

22 For I have ^ykept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

23 For all his ^zjudgments were before me: and as for his statutes, I did not depart from them.

24 I ^awas also upright || before him, and have kept myself from mine iniquity.

25 ^bTherefore the LORD hath recompensed me according to my righteousness; according to my cleanness in his eyesight.

26 ^cWith the merciful thou wilt shew thyself merciful, and with the upright man thou wilt shew thyself upright.

27 ^dWith the pure thou wilt shew thyself pure; and with the froward thou wilt ^eshew thyself unsavoury.

30 For by thee I have ⁱrun through a troop: by my God have I leaped over a wall.

31 As for God, ^jhis way is perfect; the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all them that trust in him.

32 For ^kwho is God, save the LORD? and who is a rock, save our God?

33 ^lGod is my strength and power; and he maketh my way perfect.

34 He ^mmaketh my feet like hinds' feet: and setteth me upon my high places.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—Such as God has intended for great honour, or who follow Jesus into his kingdom, may be assured of meeting with many enemies by the way. But what was in the promise the object of our faith, will, in the fulfilment, become the matter of our praise. Behold what God is to his people! Every thing they can need; every thing they can enjoy. Happy those who can claim this infinite ALL, in every form, as their own. To awaken their importunity, and to magnify God's love and power in their deliverances, God's people are often reduced to the deepest distresses: and those whom he most delights in have the severest exercises of their faith and patience. But the sharper 38 ^uI have pursued mine enemies, and destroyed them; and turned not again until I had consumed them.

39 And ^vI have consumed them, and wounded them that they could not arise; yea, they are fallen under my feet.

40 For ^wthou hast girded me with strength to battle; them that rose up against me hast thou ^xsubdued under me.

41 Thou ^yhast also given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might destroy them that hate me.

42 They ^zlooked, but there was none to save; even unto the LORD, but he answered them not.

43 Then ^adid I beat them as small as the dust of the earth; I did stamp them as the mire of the street, and did spread them abroad.

44 Thou ^balso hast delivered me from the strivings of my people; thou hast kept me to be ^chead of the heathen: a people which I knew not shall serve me.

45 ^dStrangers shall ^esubmit themselves unto me: as soon as they hear they shall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers shall fade away, and they shall be ^fafraid out of their close places.

47 The ^gLORD liveth; and blessed be my rock; and exalted be the God of the rock of my salvation.

48 It is ^hGod that avengeth me, and that ⁱbringeth down the people under me, 49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: ^jthou also hast lifted me up on high above them that rose up against me: thou hast delivered me from the violent man.

50 Therefore ^kI will give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen, and I will sing praises unto thy name.

51 He ^lis the tower of salvation for his king; and sheweth mercy to his anointed, unto David, and to his seed for evermore.

CHAP. XXIII.

Contains (1) Some of David's last words, intimating what magistrates ought to be and do, and what Jesus would be and do; what comfort he found in the fulness and stability of God's covenant; and what misery should befall the enemies of his seed, and especially of Jesus Christ; 1—7. (2) A list of his principal warriors, and their most remarkable exploits; 8—39.

NOW these ^abe the last words of David. David the son of Jesse said, and ^bthe man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the ^csweet psalmist of Israel, said, our trials, let us call the more earnestly upon God. Perseverance in prayer will assuredly be crowned with deliverance—amazing deliverance! What a mercy is it to receive grace to watch and wrestle against the sins which do so easily beset us—to have the testimony of a good conscience—and to have God freely rewarding his own grace in us! Great is the advancement of God's people. And it is reasonable that God should have the glory of all that strength, success, or honour, with which he hath blessed us: yea, the more God has done for us, the more good we may expect at his hands. And the more confidently should all our faith, our thanksgiving, and our joy, centre in Jesus Christ our Lord.

6 But the sons of Belial shall be all of them as thorns thrust away, because they cannot be taken with hands:

7 But the man that shall touch them must be fenced with iron and the staff of a spear, and they shall be utterly burned with fire in the same place.

8 ¶ These be the names of the mighty men whom David had: the Tachmonite that sat in the seat, chief among the captains; the same was Adino the Eznite: he lifted up his spear against eight hundred, whom he slew at one time.

9 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite, one of the three mighty men with David when they defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Israel were gone away.

10 He arose, and smote the Philistines until his hand was weary and his hand clave unto the sword: and the Lord wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to spoil.

11 And after him was Shammah the son of Agee the Hararite. And the Philistines were gathered together into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles: and the people fled from the Philistines.

12 But he stood in the midst of the ground and defended it, and slew the Philistines: and the Lord wrought a great victory.

13 And three of the thirty chief went down, and came to David in the harvest time unto the cave of Adullam: and the troop of the Philistines pitched in the valley of Rephaim.

14 And David was then in an hold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Beth-lehem.

15 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem which is by the gate!

16 And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless, he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the Lord.

17 And he said, Be it far from me, O Lord, that I should do this: is not this the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men.

18 And Abishai the brother of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was chief among three. And he lifted up his spear against three hundred, and slew them, and had the name among three.

19 Was he not most honourable of three? therefore he was their captain: howbeit, he attained not unto the first three.

20 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, who had done many acts, he slew two lion-like men of Moab: he went down also and slew a lion in the midst of a pit in time of snow:

21 And he slew an Egyptian, a goodly man: and the Egyptian had a spear in his hand; but he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear.

22 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had the name among three mighty men.

23 He was more honourable than the thirty, but he attained not to the first three. And David set him over his guard.

24 Asahel the brother of Joab was one of the thirty; Elhanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lehem, 25 Shammah the Harodite, Elikah the Harodite,

26 Helez the Paltite, Ira the son of Ikkeish the Tekoite,

27 Abiezer the Anethothite, Mebunnai the Hushathite,

29 Heleb the son of Baanah a Netophathite, Ittai the son of Ribai out of Gibeah of the children of Benjamin, 30 Benaiah the Pirathonite, Hiddai of the brooks of Gaash.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—It is an high honour to be endowed with gifts, and invested with offices, by the God of Israel, for the benefit of his people: for his gifts and graces are necessary for the faithful discharge of every office in church or state. What a mercy to mankind is Jesus and his new covenant! It is pleasant to die in his arms, beholding his glory, resting on his atonement, and cleaving to his promise: but great is the wickedness, and dreadful the end of those that oppose him and the interests of his church. God distributes in a most sovereign manner his endowments even in natural things, rendering men weak or strong, cowardly or brave, as he pleases. And it is sinful, for self-indulgence, or to please a superior's humour, to hazard human life: and very necessary to repent bitterly of such conduct. But let me, refreshed with the living water which flows from Jesus the Bethlehemite, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might; so shall I put to flight the heroes and the armies of the aliens. No powers of hell or earth shall be able to withstand me; and with honour shall my deeds be recorded in the Lamb's book of life.

CHAP. XXIV.

Here (1) Permitted of God, and tempted by Satan, David, contrary to Joab's remonstrance, gratifies his pride in numbering his Hebrew subjects; 1—9. (2) Convicted of his sin, by means of Gad the prophet, he bitterly repents of it; but is obliged to choose what punishment God should inflict for diminishing their number; 10—14. (3) By his humble and fervent intercession, the pestilence is stopped, when it had continued about nine hours, and destroyed seventy thousand; 15—17. (4) By erecting an altar in Araunah's threshing-floor, and offering sacrifices upon it, the reconciliation between God and Israel is confirmed; 18—25.

AND again the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he moved David against them to say, Go number Israel and Judah.

2 For the king said to Joab the captain of the host, which was with him, Go now through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, and number ye the people, that I may know the number of the people.

3 And Joab said unto the king, Now the LORD thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, an hundred fold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may see it. but why doth my lord the king delight in this thing?

4 Notwithstanding the king's word prevailed against Joab, and against the captains of the host: and Joab and the captains of the host went out from the presence of the king to number the people of Israel.

5 And they passed over Jordan, and pitched in Aroer, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the river of Gad, and toward Jazer:

6 Then they came to Gilead, and to the land of Tahtim-hodshi; and they came to Dan-jaan, and about to Zidon,

7 And came to the strong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites and of the Canaanites: and they went out to the south of Judah, even to Beer-sheba,

8 So, when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And Joab gave up the sum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Israel eight hundred thousand valiant men that drew the sword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand men.

10 And David's heart smote him after that he had numbered the people. And David said unto the LORD, I have sinned greatly in that I have done: and now, I beseech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have done very foolishly.

11 For, when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, David's seer, saying, 12 Go and say unto David, Thus saith the LORD; I offer thee three things; choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and said unto him, Shall seven years of famine come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three days pestilence in thy land? now advise, and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me.

14 And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait: let us fall now into the hand of the LORD; for his mercies are great; and let me not fall into the hand of man.

15 So the LORD sent a pestilence upon Israel, from the morning even to the time appointed: and there died of the people, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, seventy thousand men.

16 And, when the angel stretched out his hand upon Jerusalem to destroy it, the LORD repented him of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed the people, It is enough; stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threshing place of Araunah the Jebusite.

17 And David spake unto the LORD when he saw the angel that smote the people, and said, Lo, I have sinned, and I have done wickedly: but these sheep, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, be against me and against my father's house.

18 And Gad came that day to David, and said unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto the LORD in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

19 And David, according to the saying of Gad, went up, as the LORD commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and saw the king and his servants coming on towards him: and Araunah went out, and bowed himself before the king on his face upon the ground.

21 And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant, And David said, To buy the threshing-floor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood.

23 All these things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee.

24 And the king said unto Araunah, Nay, but I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God of that which doth cost me nothing. So David bought the threshing floor and the oxen for fifty shekels silver.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings. So the LORD was entreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

put them in mind of the promises of God and of their own duty. The pleasures obtained by sinful methods are quickly turned into the gall of asps within us; and bitter are the griefs, and great the straits, when we have no choice but of destructive judgments allowed us by God! Alas! our sin, our folly, makes it so! But let a sense of guilt put an edge of importunity upon our prayers:—it may be the Lord will be gracious. He often smites where he means not to destroy. And though, in his just judgment, he will abase our pride by smiting our idol, he will mingle mercy with judgment. While, therefore, we tremble at his judgments, let us beware of provoking him by our sins. How it stings a generous mind to have neighbours, and especially a Saviour, suffering for his sins! But under all our guilt, and all our plagues, let Jesus, our altar, our sacrifice, and ransom, be applied to as the means of our reconciliation to God. Let sacrifices of praise attend our pardon, and every manifestation of it. And, however generous our friends may be, let us never willingly come under needless obligations to them; and never let us wish to serve God at the expense of others.

THE FIRST BOOK OF KINGS.

Perhaps this and the following book were written by the prophets who lived in the respective periods; and the whole connected together by Jeremiah or Ezra. They contain the history of the Jewish church and nation for about four hundred and twenty-seven years, from the coronation of Solomon to the burning of the temple by the Chaldeans. The alternate changes of mercies and judgments therein represented are an exact fulfilment of Lev. xxvi. Deut. xxviii. xxxii.

Forty years the kingdom of Israel continued united under Solomon, whose instalment, wisdom, wealth, erection of the temple, and idolatrous apostasy, are largely described; i.—xi. After the division, the kingdom of the ten tribes continued two hundred and fifty-four years, under nineteen kings, descended from nine different families; viz. Jeroboam I. Nadab;—Baasha, Elah;—Zimri;—Omri, Ahab, Ahaziah, Jehoram;—Jehu, Jehoahaz, Jehoash, Jeroboam II. Zachariah;—Shallum;—Menahem, Pekahiah;—Pekah;—Hoshea; all of them idolaters. The kingdom of Judah continued three hundred and eighty-seven years, under nineteen kings of the line of David; viz. Rehoboam, Abijah, Asa, Jehoshaphat, Jehoram, Ahaziah, (Athaliah was an usurper) Joash, Amaziah, Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh, Amon, Josiah, Jehoahaz, Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin and Zedekiah; of whom Asa, Jehoshaphat, Jotham, Hezekiah, and Josiah, were pious, and Manasseh a penitent. The history of these thirty-nine sovereigns, with that of the prophets Elijah and Elisha, is the subject matter of these books. The scope is to shew how righteousness exalts a nation, and sin is the reproach of any people.

CHAP. I.

Here (1) Abishag, a young woman, is procured to assist the declining health of king David; 1—4. (2) His son Adonijah attempts to seize the kingdom, and feasts his party for that purpose; 5—10. (3) Nathan and Bath-sheba contrive to secure the succession for Solomon, and obtain an order from David for his instalment; 11—31. (4) Solomon is publicly anointed king, to the great joy of the people; 32—40. (5) The news hereof stops Adonijah's usurpation, and disperses his party; 41—49. (6) Solomon pardons Adonijah on condition of his good behaviour; 50—53.

2 Sam. 5. 4.
Ps. 90. 10.

NOW king David was ^aold and stricken in years; and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat.

2 Wherefore his ^bservants said unto him, Let there be sought for my lord the king a young virgin; and let her ^cstand before the king, and let her cherish him, and ^dlet her lie in thy bosom, that my lord the king ^emay get heat.

3 So they ^fsought for a fair damsel throughout all the coasts of Israel; and found ^gAbishag a Shunamite, and brought her to the king.

4 And the damsel ^hwas very fair, and cherished the king, and ministered to him: but the king ⁱh^knew her not.

5 ¶ Then ^jAdonijah the son of Haggith ^kexalted himself, saying, I will be king. And ^lhe prepared him chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him.

6 And his father ^mhad not displeased him at any time in saying, Why hast thou done so? and he also ⁿwas a very goodly man; and his ^omother bare him after Absalom.

7 And ^phe conferred with ^qJoab the son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest: and they, following Adonijah, helped him.

8 But ^rZadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the ^smighty men who belonged to David, were not with Adonijah.

9 And Adonijah ^tslew sheep, and oxen, and fat cattle, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is by ^uEn-rogel, and called all his brethren the king's sons, and all the men of Judah the king's servants:

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother, he called not.

11 ¶ Wherefore Nathan ^vspake unto Bath-sheba the mother of Solomon, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth ^wit not?

12 Now therefore come, ^xlet me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou ^ymayest save thine own life and the life of thy son Solomon.

13 Go, and get thee in unto king David, and say unto him, Didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear unto thine handmaid, saying, ^zAssuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall ^{aa}sit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign?

14 Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I also will come in after thee, and ^{ab}confirm thy words.

15 ¶ And Bath-sheba went in unto the king into the chamber: and the ^{ac}king was very old; and Abishag the Shunamite ministered unto the king.

16 And Bath-sheba ^{ad}bowed, and did obeisance unto the king. And the king said, What wouldest thou?

thou swarest by the LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, saying, 'Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne:

18 And now, behold, ^bAdonijah reigneth; and now, my lord the king, thou knowest it not:

19 And he ^hhath slain oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab the captain of the host: but Solomon thy servant hath he not called.

20 And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwise it shall come to pass, when my lord the king shall ^ksleep with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon shall be counted ^loffenders.

22 ¶ And, lo, while she yet talked with the king, ^mNathan the prophet also came in.

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold Nathan the prophet. And, when he was come in before the king, he ⁿbowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou said, Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

25 For ^ohe is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the king's sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and, behold, they eat and drink before him, and say, ^pGod save king Adonijah.

26 But me, ^qeven me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and thy servant Solomon, hath he not called.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou hast not ^rshewed it unto thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 ¶ Then king David answered and said, Call me Bath-sheba. And she came ^sinto the king's presence, and stood before the king.

29 And the king sware, and said, ^tAs the LORD liveth, that hath ^rredeemed my soul out of all distress, 30 Even as ^uI sware unto thee by the LORD God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne in my stead; even so will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bath-sheba ^vbowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and said, ^wLet my lord king David live for ever.

32 ¶ And king David said, Call me ^xZadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ^yride upon mine own mule, and bring him down to ^zGihon:

34 And let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet ^aanoint him there king over Israel: ^band blow ye with the trumpet, and say, God save king Solomon.

35 Then ye shall come up after him, that he may come and sit upon my throne; for he shall be king in my stead: and ^cI have appointed him to be ruler over Israel and over Judah.

36 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada answered the king, and said, ^dAmen: the LORD God of my lord the king say so too.

37 ^eAs the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and ^fmake his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David.

38 ¶ So ^gZadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the priest took an ^hhorn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon. And they blew the trumpet; and all the people said, God save king Solomon.

40 And ⁱall the people came up after him, and the people piped with pipes, and rejoiced with great joy, so that the earth rent with the sound of them.

41 ¶ And Adonijah and all the guests that ^jwere with him heard it as they had made an ^kend of eating. And when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet he said, Wherefore ^lis this noise of the city being in an uproar?

42 And, while he yet spake, behold ^mJonathan the son of Abiathar the priest came; and Adonijah said unto him, Come in; for thou ⁿart ^oa valiant man, and bringest good tidings.

43 And Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah, ^pVerily our lord king David hath made Solomon king.

44 ^qAnd the king hath sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride upon the king's mule:

45 And Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come ^rup from thence rejoicing, so that the city rang again. This ^sis the noise that ye have heard.

46 And also Solomon ^tsitteth on the throne of the kingdom.

47 And, moreover, the king's servants came to ^ubless our lord king David, saying, ^vGod make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne. And the king ^wbowed himself upon the bed.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—The strongest constitution of men quickly wastes of itself, and every project for retaining of strength or vigour is foolish and ineffectual. A burden of infirmities attends old age; and happy they who, in the views of it, have all things ready for an eternal state! Indulgent parents are commonly in their old age contemned and plagued by their children, especially such as they most indulged. Ambition of reigning leads many to trample on the ordinances of both God and men. And they are in general most fond of high stations who neither know the duties of them, nor consider the labour and vexation which attend them. Such as make their belly their god will side with any party that will feast them best. But how easily God defeats every project inconsistent with his promise, even when it seems fully secured! In times of danger every prudent mean ought to be used for averting it. And they who know God's will should be zealous for the accomplishment of it.—While kings are often kept ignorant of things nearly concerning their kingdom and interest, usurpers will stick at no cruelty to fix themselves on a throne. But, if the enemies of God's people be alert and vigorous, their friends ought to be active and vigilant: and such as are weak, through infirmity, should be stirred up and encouraged. Our oaths should be ever remembered, and our consciences bound to fulfil them. Hearts truly grateful never forget God's mercies, nor allow themselves to neglect opportunities of thankfully mentioning them. And it is extremely pleasant when aged saints take every opportunity of witnessing for God. What is right and reasonable should be done without delay: and that is most likely to prosper which is begun with dependance on God, and fervent prayer for his blessing. It is affection, not force, that can make dutiful subjects: and to leave church and state in a prosperous condition is the joy of a dying saint. What discouragement and danger attend a bad cause! And blustering traitors are often cowards when matters come to a crisis. How becoming is it when kings are ready to forgive those who have injured them. But much more astonishing is the pardoning mercy of our Lord Jesus to the guiltiest sinners who flee to his atonement, and prostrate themselves at his throne of grace.

7 But shew kindness unto the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of those that eat at thy table: for so they came to me when I fled because of Absalom thy brother.

33 Their blood shall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed for ever: but upon David, and upon his seed, and upon his house, and upon his throne, shall there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benaiah the son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and slew him: and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness.

35 ¶ And the king put Benaiah the son of Jehoiada in his room over the host; and Zadok the priest did the king put in the room of Abiathar.

36 ¶ And the king sent and called for Shimei; and said unto him, Build thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither.

37 For it shall be, that, on the day thou goest out, and passest over the brook Kidron, thou shalt know for certain that thou shalt surely die: thy blood shall be upon thine own head.

38 And Shimei said unto the king, The saying is good: as my lord the king hath said, so will thy servant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

39 And it came to pass, at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei ran away unto Achish son of Maachah king of Gath: and they told Shimei, saying, Behold, thy servants be in Gath.

40 And Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath to Achish to seek his servants: and Shimei went and brought his servants from Gath.

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? and thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with?

44 The king said moreover to Shimei, Thou knowest all the wickedness which thine heart is privy to, that thou didst to David my father: therefore the LORD shall return thy wickedness upon thine own head.

45 And king Solomon shall be blessed, and the throne of David shall be established before the LORD for ever.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the son of Jehoiada; who went out, and fell upon him that he died. And the kingdom was established in the hand of Solomon.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—Happy are they who die in the Lord, encouraging their survivors to their proper duty! But none can be faithful to God without holy courage answerable to their station. In the way of obedience to God's precepts we may expect the fulfilment of his promises. And all, especially magistrates, ought to be careful in executing justice upon offenders, and discharging the obligations of gratitude. Some, however happy their lot, cannot rest till they ruin themselves: and the most dangerous designs have often fair pretences. While such as mean no ill themselves are, by the craft of others, rendered instruments of ambition. Such therefore, who have the ear of princes, ought carefully to consider their requests, lest they abuse their influence to the hurt of their benefactor. No station should protect criminals from justice. And often the awakening of their guilty conscience, and punishment of their sins, meet them in a time and manner which they never expected. But, while kindness to God's suffering saints ought to be remembered even in criminals, nothing must satisfy for murder but the blood of the guilty. Wicked men entail a curse on their posterity; and negligent magistrates must bear the sin of those crimes which they are not duly careful to avenge: for the due execution of justice is the establishment of their throne. Men ruin themselves by sinning against

CHAP. III.

Here is an account (1) Of Solomon's marriage with Pharaoh's daughter, and of the state of religion in the beginning of his reign; 1—4. (2) Of God's appearance to him at Gibeon; his petition for wisdom as the principal thing; and God's grant of it, attended with riches and honour; 5—15. (3) A remarkable display of his wisdom, in deciding concerning the two harlots' right to the living child; 16—28.

AND ^aSolomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into ^bthe city of David, until he had made an end of ^cbuilding his own house, and the house of the LORD, and the wall of Jerusalem round about.

2 ¶ Only the people sacrificed in high places, because there ^cwas no house built unto the name of the LORD, until those days.

3 And Solomon ^cloved the LORD, walking in ^ethe statutes of David his father: only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places

4 And the king went to ^bGibeon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place: ⁱa thousand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon ^kin a dream by night: and God said, ⁱAsk what I shall give thee.

6 And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto ^mthy servant David my father great mercy, ⁿaccording as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, ^othou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father: and I am but a ^plittle child: I know not how to ^qgo out or come in.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of ^rthy people which thou hast chosen, a ^sgreat people, that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may ^udiscern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

10 And the speech pleased the LORD, that Solomon had asked this thing.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked ^xfor thyself ^ylong life; neither hast asked riches for thyself, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies; but hast asked for thyself understanding to discern judgment;

12 Behold, I have done according to thy ^zwords: lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee.

13 And I have also ^agiven thee that which thou hast not asked, both riches and honour: so that there shall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.

14 And ^bif thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon ^cawoke; and, behold, it was a dream. And he came to Jerusalem, and stood ^dbefore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made ^ea feast to all his servants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women ^fthat were ^gharlots unto the king, and stood before him.

17 And the one woman said, ^hO my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house, and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day, after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house save we two in the house.

19 And this woman's child died in the night, because she overlaid it.

20 And she arose at ⁱmidnight, and took my son from beside me while thine handmaid slept, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom.

21 And when I arose in the morning, ^kto give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but, when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay, but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son. And this said, No, but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king.

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead: and the other saith, Nay, but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

25 And the king said, ^lDivide the living child in two, and give half to the one and half to the other.

26 Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, for her bowels ^myearned upon her son; and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no ways slay it. But the other said, their own mercies. Our heart contains much wickedness, to which only God and our conscience are privy. And dreadful is the account to which God will call men at last for their perjury and other sins.

But in David I behold a lively figure of Jesus, God's chosen one; the man according to his own heart, born in Beth-lehem, and who fulfils all his counsels. How amazing his fidelity, meekness, humility, faith in God, love to him, zeal for his honour, and devout intimacy with him! Thrice—in his conception, at his baptism, and in his ascension—he was plentifully anointed with the Holy Ghost to his arduous and extensive office. He is the covenant head of all his spiritual seed, the chosen people, kings and priests unto God. He is our sweet Psalmist, who tunes our hearts and indites our songs of praise. He is our great Prophet, and King, who instructs, forms, and governs his church, the Israel of God. Through debasement, labour, reproach, and temptations on every side—and all endured with holy courage, steady regard to his Father's honour, full resignation to his will, and firm confidence of an happy issue—he entered into his kingdom and glory. How skilful, prudent, kind, and righteous, is he in governing his subjects! and how active in framing and fixing the worship of God, preparing the temple above for his people, and them for it! All his faithful soldiers are such as, convinced of their spiritual guiltiness, pollution, poverty, and debt, have been obliged to enlist in his service. His mighties, prophets, apostles, evangelists, pastors, and teachers, by the whole armour of God, particularly the sword of the Spirit, do marvellous exploits. He himself defeated the lions, the bears, the giants of hell. He fulfilled the law, destroyed death and the grave: a d by the gospel he conquers the nations to the obedience of faith, and puts his chosen people in the full possession of their promised blessings.

SOLOMON'S WISDOM IN JUDGING.

1 KINGS II. 19.

Before Christ
1014.

Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is ^{the} mother thereof.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him to do judgment.

CHAP. IV.

Still the Lord adds riches and honour to the wisdom of Solomon. We have here (1) The magnificence of his court; comprehending his ministers of state, 1—6; his purveyors of provision from different parts of his dominions, 7—19; and their office, 27, 28; the kinds and quantity of provision made for his table; 22, 23. (2) The extent of his dominion, 21, 24. (3) The number, ease, and peace, of his subjects; 20—25. (4) The multitude of his horses and stables; 26. (5) The discoveries he made of his wisdom in philosophy, poetry, &c.; and fame on account of it; 29—31.

SO king Solomon was king over ^{all} Israel.

2 And these were the ^{princes} which he had; Azariah the son of Zadok ^{the} priest;

3 Elihoreph and Ahiah, the sons of ^{Shisha}, ^{scribes}; Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, the ^{recorder}:

4 And ^{Benaiah} the son of Jehoiada was over the host: and ^{Zadok} and Abiathar were the priests:

5 And Azariah the son of Nathan was over the officers: and Zabud the son of Nathan was principal officer, and the king's ^{friend}:

6 And Ahishar was over the household: and ^{Adoniram} the son of Abda was over the ^{tribute}.

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, which provided victuals for the king and his household: each man his month in a year made provision.

8 And these are their names: ¶ The son of Hur in ^{mount} Ephraim:

9 ^{The} son of Dekar in Makaz, and in ^{Shaalbim}, and Beth-shemesh, and Elonbeth-hanan:

10 ^{The} son of Heseb in ^{Aruboth}; to him pertained Sochoh and all the land of Hephher.

11 ^{The} son of Abinadab in all the region of ^{Dor}; who had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife:

12 Baana the son of Ahilud; to him pertained ^{Taanach} and Megiddo, and all Beth-shean which is by ^{Zartanah} beneath Jezreel, from ^{Beth-shean} to Abel-meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jokneam:

13 ^{The} son of Geber in ^{Ramoth-gilead}; to him pertained the towns of Jair the son of Manasseh which are in Gilead; to him also pertained the region of Argob which is in Bashan, threescore great cities with walls and brazen bars:

14 Ahinadab the son of Iddo had ^{Mahanaim}:

15 Ahimaaz was in ^{Naphtali}; he also took Basmath the daughter of Solomon to wife:

16 Baanah the son of Hushai was in ^{Asher} and in Aloth:

17 Jehoshaphat the son of Paruah in ^{Issachar}:

18 Shimei the son of Elah in ^{Benjamin}:

19 Geber the son of Uri was in the ^{country} of Gilead, in the country of Sihon king of the Amorites and of Og king of Bashan; and he was the only officer which was in the land.

20 ¶ Judah and Israel were many, as the sand which is by the sea in multitude, ^{eating} and drinking, and making merry.

21 And ^{Solomon} reigned over all kingdoms, from the river unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt: they ^{brought} presents, and served Solomon all the days of his life.

22 ¶ And Solomon's provision for one day was thirty ^{measures} of fine flour, and threescore measures of meal, 23 Ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the pastures, and an hundred sheep, besides harts, and roebucks, and fallow deer, and fatted fowl.

24 For he had dominion over all the region on this side the river, from Tiphshah even to Azzah, over all the kings on this side the river: and he had peace on all sides round about him.

25 And Judah and Israel dwelt ^{safely}, every man under his vine and under his fig tree, ^{from} Dan even to Beer-sheba, all the days of Solomon.

26 ¶ And ^{Solomon} had forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.

27 And those officers provided victual for king Solomon, and for all that came unto king Solomon's table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing.

28 Barley also and straw for the horses and ^{dromedaries} brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

29 ¶ And ^{God} gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart, even as the sand that is on the sea shore.

30 And Solomon's wisdom excelled the wisdom of all the children of ^{the} east country, and all the wisdom of Egypt.

31 For he was ^{wiser} than all men; than ^{Ethan} the Ezrahite, and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol: and his fame was in all nations round about.

32 And he ^{spake} three thousand proverbs: and his songs were a thousand and five.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Happy are the children who walk in the steps of their pious parents; and highly honoured are they to whose unfeigned faith and love God himself bears witness. How infinitely bountiful is God!—he even encourages us to ask his favours! and such as wait upon him in prayer and praise will find him speedy in his returns of blessing. Happy are they whose devout turn of mind, when awake, tinctures their very dreams with serious devotion. Godly children will always pay great regard to their parents' memory. None are so sensible of their own insufficiency as they who seriously ponder the weight of public offices: and hopeful is their administration who earnestly ask wisdom and direction from God. The disinterested prayer of faith is always acceptable to God: and, when we seek first the kingdom of God, all things shall be added to us. He will give us exceeding abundantly above what we can ask or think: and quickly he gives opportunity for the exercise of the gifts which he bestows. How helpless and perilous is our infantine state! by the most marvellous providence we escape the dangers of it. How tender is the affection of a mother's breast; and monsters of brutality must they be who can neglect or destroy the fruit of their own womb. Magistrates, before whom such difficult causes come, have great need of their subjects' fervent prayers, and of God's special direction. And the greater abilities men have, they are the more indebted to God who bestowed them. But alas! oftentimes the fear of detection and punishment from men is a greater restraint upon evil doers than all the terrors of God's everlasting wrath.

CHAP. V.

It had been promised that Solomon should build a temple for God. He had received wisdom and wealth to fit him for it. David his father had left him gold, silver, brass, and iron, in abundance: now wood and stones must be had. Here, (1) Upon Hiram king of Tyre's congratulation of his accession to the throne, Solomon informs him of his design to build a temple, and requests some of his most skilful artificers;—to which Hiram agrees; 1-9. (2) Hiram's servants being well paid, they, with thirty thousand Israelites, and an hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred Gentile slaves, proceed with the utmost diligence and dexterity in the work; 10-18.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—Great men should appear great, answerably to their stations. And it is often prudent for kings to continue most of their predecessor's officers in their respective places. But it is necessary for all men to provide for their household in the manner that is best for their own and the nation's advantage. God wisely balances men's honour and wealth with proportionate burdens of expence and care. He can give great happiness on earth, but infinitely greater is the happiness of Jesus' kingdom, which fills both heaven and earth; and unbounded are his provisions of new covenant blessings. How sovereign is God in the bestowal of his gifts and grace! But let us never envy such as outshine us. It is the Lord; let him give as seemeth him good! If we lack wisdom, let us ask it of God! and out of Jesus' fulness, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge, let us receive, and grace for grace.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—Condolence with the afflicted is truly kind: and faithful friends love the children for their parents' sake. It is good for kings to cultivate peace with their neighbours, especially such as fear God. The more outward rest we have, the more earnestly we should lay out ourselves in promoting the worship and honour of God: and, when we have God's promise to encourage us, we need never doubt of our success. They have often most of natural ingenuity who have no real knowledge of God. And frequently God employs those in building his church who have no spiritual interest in her. But it is highly honourable to assist in promoting her welfare. In all bargains, the conditions ought to be clear, that after disputes may be prevented. And labourers' wages should be always paid with the greatest punctuality. When God hath a temple to build, he can easily provide workmen: and in his work every one ought to have his particular allotment. But great is the mercy that thousands numbered of Gentile sinners have been brought into the gospel church, and built up a spiritual temple, a meet habitation of God, through the Spirit.

house; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the house.

4 And for the house he made ^cwindows of narrow lights.

5 ¶ And against the wall of the house he built ^cchambers round about, against the walls of the house round about, both of the temple and of the ^eoracle: and he made chambers round about:

6 The nethermost chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was six cubits broad, and the third was seven cubits broad; for without in the wall of the house he made [†]narrowed rests round about, that the beams should not be fastened in the walls of the house.

7 And the house, when it was in building, was ^bbuilt of stone made ready before it was brought thither: so that there was neither ⁱhammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron, heard in the house while it was in building.

8 The door for the middle chamber was in the right [‡]side of the house: and they ^kwent up with winding stairs into the middle chamber, and out of the middle into the third.

9 So he built the house, and finished it; and covered the house || with beams and boards of cedar.

10 And then he built ⁱchambers against all the house, five cubits high: and they rested on the house with timber of cedar.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, saying,

12 Concerning this house which thou art in building, ^mif thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them; then will I perform my word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father:

13 And I ⁿwill dwell among the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel.

14 ¶ So Solomon built the house, and finished it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, ^{*}both the floor of the house and the walls of the ceiling, and he covered them on the inside with wood, and covered the floor of the house with planks of fir.

16 And he ^obuilt twenty cubits on the sides of the house, both the floor and the walls with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the ^pmost holy place.

17 And the house, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar of the house within was carved with [†]knops and [‡]open flowers: all was cedar: there was no stone seen.

19 ¶ And the oracle he prepared in the house within, to ^qset there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

20 And the oracle in the fore part was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof: and he overlaid it with || pure gold; and so covered the altar which was of cedar.

21 So ^sSolomon overlaid the house within with pure gold: and he made a partition by the ^cchains of gold before the oracle; and he overlaid it with gold.

22 And the whole house he overlaid with gold, until he had finished all the house: also the whole altar that was by the oracle he overlaid with gold.

23 ¶ And within the oracle he made ^utwo cherubims of ^volive tree, each ten cubits high.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermost part of the one wing unto the uttermost part of the other were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one measure and one size.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so was it of the other cherub.

27 And he set the cherubims within the inner house: and ^ythey stretched forth the wings of the cherubims, so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall; and their wings touched one another in the midst of the house.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the house round about with carved ^zfigures of cherubims and palm trees and ^aopen flowers, within and without.

30 And the ^bfloor of the house he overlaid with gold, within and without.

31 ¶ And for the ^centering of the oracle he made doors of olive tree: the lintel and side posts were ^aa fifth part of the wall.

32 The ||two doors also were of olive tree; and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims and palm trees and ^{*}open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims and upon the palm trees.

33 So also made he for the door of the temple posts of olive tree, [†]a fourth part of the wall.

34 And the two doors were of ^cfir tree: the ^ftwo leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims and palm trees and open flowers; and covered them with gold fitted upon the carved work.

36 ¶ And he built the inner ^ecourt with three rows of hewed stone and a row of cedar beams.

37 ¶ In ^hthe fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Zif:

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eighth month, was the house finished [‡]throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it. So was he seven ||years in building it.

EXPLANATORY NOTES. CHAP. VI. Ver. 37, 38. Never was such a magnificent structure on earth as this temple of Solomon. God himself had given the plan of it to David; 1 Chron. xxviii. 19. David and his princes prepared, for the erection of it, about 46,000 ton weight of gold and silver: amounting, in all, to about 942,719,750*l.* sterling. About 183,600 Canaanites and Hebrews were employed in building it. It took above seven years to finish it. The whole top of mount Moriah was enclosed within a wall, to be a court for it. This court was divided into two; the outer for the clean Hebrews, which had an entrance from every side, but the principal one was from the east; and that of the royal family from the south-west: the inner court separated from the outer by a low wall, was appointed for the priests and Levites. Here, just before the east end of the temple, stood the brazen altar, 36½ feet square, and 18½ high, with the brazen sea, ten lavers, five on each side of the entrance of the temple. Immediately westward from these was the porch of the temple, 36½ feet from north to south, and 18½ from east to west, and about 219 feet high: on each side it had an ornamental pillar of brass about 33 feet high. This served as a magnificent steeple, and as a place of shelter and prayer for the serving priests. Passing through this porch, you entered into the sanctuary, an apartment about 73 feet long, 36½ broad, and 54½ high. This was illuminated by at least ten golden candlesticks; each of which had seven curiously adorned branches for lamps: five of those were placed on the north, and as many on the south side of the house. An equal number of golden tables, furnished each with 12 loaves of shew-bread, stood on each side of the house, probably between the candlesticks. Close to the west end, in the middle, stood the golden altar of incense, passing by it, through a door-way, hung with a fine veil, and having leaves for shutting it, the high priest, on the day of atonement, entered into the Oracle, or most holy place. It was an apartment 36½ feet in length, and as much in breadth, and 54½ in height. Here, amidst perpetual darkness, was placed the ark, with its golden cherubims overshadowing it and the whole furniture. Solomon added two new cherubims of olive trees, which stretched their wings over 13 ¶ And ^lking Solomon sent and brought Hiram out of Tyre.

14 He was ^ma widow's son of the tribe of Naphtali, and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in brass: and he was ⁿfilled with wisdom and understanding, and cunning to work all works in brass. And he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

15 ¶ For he ^ocast two pillars of brass, of eighteen cubits high apiece: and a line of twelve cubits did compass either of them about.

16 And he made two chapiters of molten brass to set upon the tops of the pillars; the height of the one chapter was ^pfive cubits, and the height of the other chapter was five cubits.

17 And nets of checker work, and wreaths of chain work, for the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars; seven for the one chapter, and seven for the other chapter.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars had ^qpomegranates also above, over against the belly which was by the net work: and the pomegranates were ^rtwo hundred in rows round about upon the other chapter.

it, and to the whole breadth of the house, each wing extending about 18 feet. The wall of this temple consisted of alternate rows of cedar planks and hewn stone, probably polished marble. The whole inside of the house was overlaid with fine gold, and curiously ornamented with figures of cherubims and palm trees. On the outside of the wall were erected ninety chambers in three stories, for the accommodation of the priests who served at it. After Solomon had dedicated it to the service of God, by solemn prayer and sacrifices, and God had taken possession of it, by the entrance of the cloud of glory, the priests, singers, and porters, attended it, in the order prescribed by king David. After it had stood about four hundred and sixteen years, and had been frequently pillaged, it was burnt by Nebuchadnezzar. About seventy years after it was rebuilt, with inferior glory, by the captives who returned from Babylon. This had stood about five hundred years, when it was rebuilt with far more magnificence by Herod the Great; and a new court for the Gentiles was added; but, in little more than eighty years after, it was finally destroyed by the Romans, A. REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—How little God regards pomp in his worship, who wanted a temple so long in his holy nation! But, when he calls for our substance, we ought cheerfully to give in proportion to our greatness and wealth. What we do in God's church should be done diligently, orderly, and peaceably. But a hearty obedience to his law is more valuable than the most expensive donations to his church. They, who go forth with a desire to his glory, may confidently expect some tokens of his approbation. And, wherever God by his grace begins a good work, he will finish it in his time. But great is our mercy that, instead of a magnificent but carnal temple, we have now an incarnate, an ascended Redeemer! a glorious gospel church, planned, prepared for, erected, fashioned, and furnished, by God!—that every believer is made a living temple for the Lord! and that in heaven we have an house eternal, immovable, incorruptible, and that fadereth not away!

23 ¶ And he made a 'molten sea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of || thirty cubits did compass it round about.

24 And under the brim of it round about therewere knops compassing it, ten in a cubit, "compassing the sea round about: the knops were cast in two rows when it was cast.

25 'It stood upon twelve oxen; three looking toward the north, and three look- ing toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking to- ward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And it was an 'hand-breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup with flowers of lilies: it contained two thousand baths.

27 ¶ And he made ten bases of brass; four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had 'borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were be- tween the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a base above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

30 And every base had four brazen wheels, and plates of brass: and the four corners thereof had undersetters: under the laver were undersetters molten at the side of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the base, a cubit and an half: and also upon the mouth of it were grav- ings with their borders, four-square, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels; and the axletrees of the wheels were *joined to the base; and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel: their axletrees, and their naves, and their fel- loes, and their spokes, were all molten.

34 And there were four undersetters to the four corners of one base: and the undersetters were of the very base itself.

35 And in the top of the base was there a round compass of half a cubit high: and on the top of the base the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof, were of the same.

36 For on the plates of the † ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved 'cherubims, lions, and palm trees, according to the † proportion of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten bases: all of them had one casting, one measure, and one size.

38 ¶ Then made he ten 'lavers of brass: one laver contained || forty baths: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten bases one laver.

39 And he put five bases on the right *side of the house, and five on the left *side of the house: and he set the sea on the right side of the house eastward over against the south.

40 ¶ And 'Hiram made the lavers, and the shovels, and the basons. So Hi- ram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon for the house of the LORD:

41 The 'two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapters that were on the top of the two pillars; and the two net works, to cover the two bowls of the chapters which were upon the top of the pillars;

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net work, to cover the two bowls of the chapters that were upon the pillars:

43 And the 'ten bases, and ten lavers on the bases;

44 And 'one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea.

45 And the 'pots and the shovels, and the basons: and all these vessels, which Hiram made to king Solomon for the house of the LORD, were of † bright brass.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them, 'in the clay ground between Succoth and Zarthan.

47 And Solomon left all the vessels unweighed, ^kbecause they were exceed- ing many: neither was the weight of the brass || found out.

48 ¶ And Solomon 'made all the ves- sels that pertained unto the house of the LORD: the altar of gold, and the table of gold, whereupon the shew-bread was,

49 And the "candlesticks of pure gold, five on the right side, and five on the left, before the oracle, with the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold.

50 And the bowls, and the snuffers, and the basons, and the spoons, and the *censers of pure gold; and the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner house, the most holy place, and for the doors of the house, to wit, of the temple.

51 So was ended all the "work that king Solomon made for the house of the LORD. And Solomon brought in the † things which 'David his father had de- dicated; even the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, did he put among the treasures of the house of the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

honest, and faithful. But great is our mercy that, instead of these material uten- sils, we have the blessed Jesus as our pillar of stability and strength. We have him as the great propitiation—and full of grace and truth—to be our sea, our laver, for washing our hearts and hands in our approaches to, and dealings with, God.—We have him to be our altar of incense, our light, and our true bread, which cometh down from heaven.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—Great men may lodge and live in a manner becoming their station. But great builders had need to beware of neglecting to build up their own souls in their most holy faith, and of forgetting the building not made with hands, the house eternal in the heavens. If therefore we wish to be honoured, let our great and earliest care be to honour God. It is an agree- able thing to have instruments employed in the church who are at once active,

THEN^a Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the ^{*}chief of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might ^bbring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

2 And all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto king Solomon at the ^cfeast in the month Ethanim, which is the seventh month.

3 And all the ^delders of Israel came, and the priests ^etook up the ark.

4 And they brought up the ^fark of the LORD, and the ^gtabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, even those did the priests and the Levites bring up.

5 And ^hking Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

6 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the oracle of the house, to the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the ^kcherubims spread forth ^{their} two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark, and the staves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the staves, that the ^ltends of the staves were seen out in the ^{holy} place before the oracle, and they were not seen without: and there they are unto this day.

9 There ^mwas nothing in the ark save the two tables of stone, which Moses put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

10 And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that ⁿthe cloud filled the house of the LORD, 11 So that the ^opriests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of the LORD.

12 ¶ Then spake Solomon, The LORD ^psaid that he would dwell in the thick darkness.

13 I have ^{surely} built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and ^qblessed all the congregation of Israel: (and all the congregation of Israel stood:)

15 And he said, ^{Blessed} be the LORD God of Israel, who spake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand ^rfulfilled it, saying, 16 ^sSince the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that my name might be therein; but ^tI chose David to be over my people Israel.

17 And ^uit was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

18 And the LORD ^vsaid unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart:

19 Nevertheless, thou ^wshalt not build the house, but thy son, that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

20 And the LORD ^xhath performed his word that he spake; and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

21 And ^yI have set there a place for the ark, wherein is the ^dcovenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon ^zstood before the altar of the LORD, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven:

23 And he said, ^{LORD} God of Israel, ^{there is} no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who ^{keep}est covenant and mercy with thy servants that ^bwalk before thee with all their heart:

24 Who hast kept with thy servant David ^{my} father that thou promisedst him: thou spakest also with thy mouth, and hast ^rfulfilled it with thine hand, as ^{it is} this day.

25 Therefore now, LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that thou promisedst him, saying, ^k† There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit on the throne of Israel; so that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me as thou hast walked before me.

26 And now, O God of Israel, ^{let} thy word, I pray thee, be verified, which thou spakest unto thy servant David my father.

27 But ^{will} God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, how much less this house that I have builded?

28 Yet have ^{thou} respect unto the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and to the prayer which thy servant prayeth before thee to-day:

29 That ^{thine} eyes may be open toward this house night and day, ^{even} toward the place of which thou hast said, ^{My} name shall be there: that thou mayest hearken unto the prayer which thy servant shall make ^{toward} this place.

30 And hearken thou to the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place: and hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place; and, when thou hearest, forgive.

31 ¶ If any man trespass against his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to cause him to swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house:

32 Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy servants, condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head; and justifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteousness.

33 ¶ When thy people Israel be smitten down before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and shall turn again to thee, and confess thy name, and pray, and make supplication unto thee in this house:

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest unto their fathers.

35 ¶ When heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou afflictest them;

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou teach them the good way wherein they should walk, and give rain upon thy land which thou hast given to thy people for an inheritance.

37 ¶ If there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locust, or if there be caterpillar; if their enemy besiege them in the land of their cities; whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness there be;

38 What prayer and supplication soever be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, which shall know every man the plague of his own heart, and spread forth his hands toward this house:

39 Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive, and do, and give, to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou knowest: (for thou, even thou only, knowest the hearts of all the children of men;)

40 That they may fear thee all the days that they live in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

41 Moreover, concerning a stranger that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake;

42 (For they shall hear of thy great name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched-out arm;) when he shall come and pray toward this house;

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel; and that they may know that this house which I have builded is called by thy name.

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battle against their enemy, whithersoever thou shalt send them, and shall pray unto the LORD toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house that I have built for thy name;

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.

46 If they sin against thee, (for there is no man that sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy, so that they carry them away captives unto the land of the enemy, far or near;

47 Yet if they shall bethink themselves in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make supplication unto thee in the land of them that carried them captives, saying, We have sinned, and have done perversely, we have committed wickedness;

48 And so return unto thee with all their heart and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies which led them away captive, and pray unto thee toward their land which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name;

49 Then hear thou their prayer and their supplication in heaven thy dwelling place, and maintain their cause.

50 And forgive thy people that have sinned against thee, and all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee, and give them compassion before them who carried them captive, that they may have compassion on them.

51 For they be thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest forth out of Egypt from the midst of the furnace of iron:

52 That thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.

53 For thou didst separate them from among all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance, as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant when thou broughtest our fathers out of Egypt, O LORD God.

54 ¶ And it was so, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the LORD, he arose from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands spread up to heaven.

55 And he stood, and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying, 56 Blessed be the LORD that hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised: there hath not failed one word of all his good promise which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant.

57 The LORD our God be with us as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us nor forsake us:

unto him, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers.

59 And let these my words, where-with I have made supplication before the LORD, be nigh unto the LORD our God day and night, that he maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel, at all times, as the matter shall require :

60 That all the people of the earth may know that the LORD is God, and that there is none else.

61 Let your heart therefore be perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 ¶ And the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifice before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered a sacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the LORD.

64 The same day did the king hallow the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings; because the brazen altar, that was before the LORD, was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

65 ¶ And at that time Solomon held a feast, and all Israel with him, a great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt, before the LORD our God, seven days and seven days, even fourteen days.

66 On the eighth day he sent the people away: and they blessed the king, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David his servant and for Israel his people.

CHAP. IX.

We have here (1) The answer which God, in a vision, gave to Solomon's prayer; and his settlement of the rewards of obedience and disobedience to him, his subjects, and seed; 1—9. (2) The interchanging of grateful kindnesses between Solomon and Hiram; 10—14. (3) An account of Solomon's workmen and buildings, and the property and residence of Pharaoh's daughter; 15—24. (4) Of his stated solemn devotions; 25. (5) Of his trading navy and profits; 26—28.

AND it came to pass, when Solomon had finished the building of the house of the LORD, and the king's house, and all Solomon's desire which he was pleased to do.

2 That the LORD appeared to Solomon the second time, as he had appeared unto him at Gibeon.

3 And the LORD said unto him, I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication that thou hast made before me: I have hallowed this house: which thou hast built to put my name there for ever, and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually.

4 And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, in integrity of heart, and in uprightness, to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and wilt keep my statutes and my judgments;

5 Then I will establish the throne of thy kingdom upon Israel for ever, as I promised to David thy father, saying, There shall not fail thee a man upon the throne of Israel.

6 But if thou shalt at all turn from following me, you, or your children, and will not keep my commandments and my statutes, which I have set before you but go and serve other gods, and worship them;

7 Then will I cut off Israel out of the land which I have given them; and this house, which I have hallowed for my name, will I cast out of my sight; and Israel shall be a proverb and a by-word among all people:

8 And at this house, which is high, every one that passeth by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss; and they shall say, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land and to this house?

9 And they shall answer, Because they forsook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold upon other gods, and have worshipped them, and served them: therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.

10 ¶ And it came to pass at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses, the house of the LORD and the king's house, 11 (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furnished Solomon with cedar trees, and fir trees, and with gold, according to all his desire), that then king Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to see the cities which Solomon had given him; and they pleased him not.

13 And he said, What cities are these which thou hast given me, my brother? And he called them the land of Cabul unto this day.

14 And Hiram sent to the king six score talents of gold.

15 ¶ And this is the reason of the levy which king Solomon raised; for to build the house of the LORD, and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazer, and Megiddo, and Gezer.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—When religion prospers it is the subject of general joy to God's people: and, when kings become nursing fathers to the church, courtiers will pretend much zeal for her interests. But it is pleasant to observe all ranks concur in the solemn worship of God. He rejoices to meet them who work righteousness and remember him in all their ways, and to take up his abode with them. Though clouds and darkness be round about him, justice and judgment are the habitation of his throne, and mercy and truth go before his face. When God is present, and his Spirit poured out, with what liveliness do men observe the fulfilment of God's promises, and pour forth their prayers to him. The fervent petitions which are then presented to God, in the name of Christ our true temple, are always effectual, and available to nations, families, and individuals. What pardon—what healing—what purification—what victory—what deliverance, may they obtain! The grateful sense of God's special favours thus enjoyed, the influences of his presence and grace, and the faith of his Son's mediation, most powerfully determine and constrain to an holy obedience to his laws. Such real and lively religion would make our meetings and partings on earth pleasant and happy. But how much more so shall our gathering to Jesus be, never to part, but to feast eternally on him, as our great atonement, our only peace-offering, and our ALL and in ALL!

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and slain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a present unto his daughter, ¹Solomon's wife.

17 And ²Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether,

18 And ³Baalath, and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land,

19 And all ⁴the cities of store that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horsemen, and that which Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

20 ¶ And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuzites, which were not of the children of Israel, 21 Their children that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel also were not able utterly to destroy, upon those did Solomon levy a tribute of bond service unto this day.

22 But of the children of Israel did Solomon make no bond-men: but they were men of war, and his servants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horsemen.

23 These were the chief of the officers that were over Solomon's work, five hundred and fifty, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.

24 ¶ But ⁵Pharaoh's daughter came up out of the city of David unto her house which Solomon had built for her: then did he build Millo.

25 ¶ And ⁶three times in a year did Solomon offer burnt-offerings and peace-offerings upon the altar which he built unto the LORD, and he burnt incense upon the altar that was before the LORD. So he finished the house.

26 ¶ And king Solomon made a navy of ships ⁷in Ezion-geber, which is beside Eloth, on the shore of the Red sea, in the land of Edom.

27 And Hiram sent in the navy his servants, shipmen that had knowledge of the sea, ⁸with the servants of Solomon.

28 And they came to ⁹Ophir, and fetched from thence gold, ¹⁰four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to king Solomon

CHAP. X.

Here (1) The wisdom and glory of Solomon are manifested in the visit given him by the queen of Sheba, and the great satisfaction she obtained; 1—13: and by others; 24. (2) His wealth appears in the gold and other fineries imported from abroad, or presented by his neighbouring princes; 14, 15, 22, 25, 28, 29: in the golden targets, shields, vessels, and stately throne, which he made; 16—21: and in the chariots and horsemen which he provided; and the plenty of gold, silver, and cedar wood, which he made to be in Jerusalem; 26, 27.

AND, when the ¹¹queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions.

2 And she came to Jerusalem with a ¹²very great train, with camels that bare spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

3 And Solomon ¹³told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not

4 And, when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon's ¹⁴wisdom, and the house that he had built,

5 And ¹⁵the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cup-bearers, and his ¹⁶ascent by which he went up into the house of the LORD, there was no more spirit in her.

6 And she ¹⁷said to the king, It was a true report that I heard in mine own land of thy ¹⁸acts and of thy wisdom.

7 Howbeit, I believed not the words until I came and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the half was not told me: ¹⁹thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard.

8 ²⁰Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom.

9 ²¹Blessed be the LORD thy God, who delighteth in thee to set thee on the throne of Israel: ²²because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore ²³made he thee king, to do judgment and justice.

10 ¶ And she gave the king ²⁴an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices very great store, and precious stones: there came no more such abundance of spices as these which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And the navy also of Hiram, that brought gold from ²⁵Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of almug trees and precious stones.

12 And the king made of the almug trees ²⁶pillars for the house of the LORD, and for the king's house, harps also and psalteries for singers: there came no such almug trees, nor were seen, unto this day.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all ²⁷her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty. So ²⁸she turned and went to her own country, she and her servants.

14 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was ²⁹six hundred threescore and six talents of gold, 15 Besides that he had of the merchantmen, and of the traffick of the spice merchants, and of all the kings of ³⁰Arabia, and of the governors of the country.

16 ¶ And king Solomon made ³¹two hundred targets of beaten gold; ³²six

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—The Lord bears the greatest regard to his people's hearty and solemn worship of himself. Every where his eyes are on the righteous, and his ears are open to their cry. If we would secure to our children the entail of God's blessings, we must leave them the examples of our fidelity. But, if our growth in grace does not correspond with our privileges, the best forms of religion will but delude and destroy us. How gracious are God's rewards of his people's obedience; and how severe his corrections of their transgressions! While we tremble at the ruin of Israel and their temple, let our care be to take fast hold of the better covenant, which is established upon better promises, and in which men are kept, by the power of God, through faith unto salvation. Generous minds are forward to discharge their obligations, if it be in their power. But very diversified are the sentiments of men concerning worldly things. Nothing but Jesus Christ, and God in him, is answerable to every need, every state, every mind. And it is glorious when great activity in secular business is attended with a proportionate ardour in religion. They who make God's glory their first concern, may expect his blessing upon the work of their hands; for at his command both earth and sea shall concur to enrich them.

hundred shekels of gold went to one target.

17 And he made ^ythree hundred shields of beaten gold; *three pounds of gold went to one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

18 ¶ Moreover, the king ^zmade a great throne of ^aivory, and overlaid it with the best gold.

19 The throne had six steps, and the top of the throne was round †behind: and there were †stays on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions stood beside the stays.

20 And twelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other upon the six steps: there was not ||the like made in any kingdom.

21 ¶ And ^ball king Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; *none were of silver: it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

22 For the king had at sea a navy of ^cTarshish with the navy of Hiram: once in three years came the navy of Tarshish, bringing gold, and silver, ^divory, and apes, and peacocks.

23 So king Solomon ^eexceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.

24 ¶ And ^fall the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And ^gthey brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

26 ¶ And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jerusalem.

27 And ^hthe king made silver to be in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars made he to be as the sycamore trees that are in the vale for abundance.

28 ¶ And Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and ⁱlinen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

29 And ^ma chariot came up and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out ⁿby their means.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—So respectable is true wisdom, that one cannot purchase it too dear, or fetch it too far: nor hath God confined it to one sex more than another. And such as have real knowledge should delight in the communication of it. But especially let us observe that God on every occasion has taken delight to prefigure the gathering of the Gentiles to Jesus Christ, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. Good order in families, courts, and kingdoms, is extremely amiable and useful: and to enjoy the converse of such as are wise in the things of God is a great and unspeakable mercy: but God, who is the author of all our mercies, deserves the praise of them all. Mutual presents are pledges of friendship: but happiest of all is friendship with God. Prosperity in earthly enjoyments shall attend the active honouring of him, if for the real good of his people, but the most certain prosperity of soul. The Almighty himself is their gold; and they shall have plenty of silver. But in these labours, these glories of Solomon, let me contemplate the infinitely greater one, even Jesus Christ, our Prince of peace. He is JEDIDIAH, the darling of the Lord. His birth is our consolation against griefs and woes

CHAP. XI.

Before Christ
983.

Hitherto Solomon has appeared great and good: but, alas! here his sun sets under a dark cloud. (1) His piety and wisdom, are fearfully stained in his marrying idolatrous women, adoring their gods, and building temples for them; 1—8. (2) On this account God threatens him with a fearful rending of the kingdom from his family; 9—13. (3) He stirs up against him foreign enemies; Hadad the Edomite, and Rezon the Syrian; 14—25. (4) By the ministry of Ahijah, the Shilonite, he assigns ten Hebrew tribes to Jeroboam the Ephraimite, whom Solomon suspecting, sought to murder; 26—40. (5) Without mention of his repentance, Solomon dies, and is buried; 41—43.

BUT king Solomon loved ^amany strange women together with the daughter of Pharaoh; women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites;

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, ^bYe shall not go in to them, neither shall they come in unto you; for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods: Solomon clave unto these in love.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines: and his wives ^cturned away his heart.

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was ^dold, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and ^ehis heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

5 For Solomon went after ^fAshtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after ^gMilcom the abomination of the Ammonites.

6 And Solomon ^hdid evil in the sight of the LORD, and went ⁱnot fully after the LORD, as did David his father.

7 Then did Solomon build an ^khigh place for ^lChemosh, the abomination of Moab, in ^mthe hill that is before Jerusalem; and for ⁿMolech, the abomination of the children of Ammon.

8 And likewise did he for ^oall his strange wives, who burnt incense and sacrificed unto their gods.

9 ¶ And the LORD was ^pangry with Solomon, because ^qhis heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel, ^rwho had appeared unto him twice.

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, ^sthat he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou ^thast not kept my covenant and my statutes which I have commanded thee, ^uI will surely rend the kingdom from thee and will give it to thy servant.

12 Notwithstanding, ^vin thy days I will not do it for David thy father's sake: but ^wI will rend it out of the hand of thy son.

13 Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom; but will give ^xone tribe unnumbered. He is infinitely peaceful, prudent, and wise; and to him every thing is naked and open. Notwithstanding oppositions innumerable, he was solemnly chosen, anointed, and enthroned, by his Father. Justly he punishes the guilty and rewards the virtuous, particularly such as have favoured his cause in distress. Wisely he judges his subjects, and will judge the world. In infinite wisdom he endites and applies his revelations of truth. At infinite expense he builds the temple of his church, and consecrates her to God by his great sacrifice of himself, and his prevalent intercession. Plentifully he enriches and prudently he governs his people in his extensive dominions. Great is the peace, the safety, the glory, of his reign; and no report can sufficiently describe his glory and wisdom. Happy they who are his servants, behold his beauty, and for ever inquire reverently in his temple! And blessed be the Lord that multiplies, chiefly of Gentile sinners, are brought to him, admire his excellency, and labour in his service: nay, captivated with his love, grace, and beauty, abide in his house for ever.

to thy son ^afor David my servant's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake which I have chosen.

14 ¶ And the LORD ^bstirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he was of the king's seed in Edom.

15 ^cFor it came to pass, when David was in Edom, and Joab the captain of the host was gone up to bury the slain, after he had smitten every male in Edom;

16 (For six months did Joab remain there with all Israel, until he had cut off every male in Edom;)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's servants with him to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a ^dlittle child.

18 And they arose out of ^eMidian, and came to ^fParan; and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; who gave him an house, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found ^ggreat favour in the sight of ^hPharaoh, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the ⁱqueen.

20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his son, whom Tahpenes ^kweaned in Pharaoh's house; and Genubath was in Pharaoh's household among the sons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad ^lheard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the host was dead,
Hadad said to Pharaoh, ^mLet me depart, that I may go to mine own country.

22 Then Pharaoh said unto him, But what hast thou lacked with me, that, behold, thou seekest to go to thine own country? And he answered, ⁿNothing:
howbeit, let me go in any wise.

23 ¶ And God stirred him up another adversary, Rezon the son of Eliadah, which fled from his ^olord Hadadezer king of Zobah.

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band ^pwhen David slew them of Zobah: and they went to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus.

25 And he was an adversary to Israel
^qall the days of Solomon, beside the mischief that Hadad did: and he abhorred
Israel, and reigned over Syria.

26 ¶ And ^rJeroboam the son of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomon's servant, (whose mother's name was Zeruah, a widow woman), even he lifted up his hand against the king.

27 And this was the cause that he lifted up his hand against the king: Solomon ^sbuilt Millo, and ^trepaired the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon, ^useeing the young man that he was industrious, he made him ruler over all the ^vcharge of the house of Joseph.

29 And it came to pass, at that time when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, that the prophet ^wAhijah the Shilonite found him in the way, and he had clad himself with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field:

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and ^xrent it in twelve pieces:

31 And he said to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces: for thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, Behold, ^yI will rend
the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee:

32 (But ^zhe shall have one tribe for my servant David's sake, and for Jeru-salem's sake, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel:)

33 ^aBecause that they have forsaken me, and have worshipped Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, Chemosh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon, and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my statutes and my judgments, as did David his father.

34 Howbeit, ^bI will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand: but I will make him prince all the days of his life for David my servant's sake, whom I chose, because he kept my commandments and my statutes:

35 But ^cI will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.

36 And unto his son will I give one tribe, that David my servant may have a ^dlight alway before me in Jerusalem, ^ethe city which I have chosen me to put my name there.

37 And I will take thee, and thou shalt reign ^faccording to all that thy soul desireth, and shalt be king over Israel.

38 And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that is right in my sight, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did; that I ^gwill be with thee, and build thee a sure house, as I built for David, and will give Israel unto thee.

39 And I will for this ^hafflict the seed of David, but ⁱnot for ever.

40 Solomon sought therefore to kill Jeroboam. And Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypt, unto ^jShishak king of Egypt; and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

41 ¶ And ^kthe rest of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon?

42 And the time that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel was forty years.

43 And Solomon ^lslept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XII.

For almost eighty years under David and Solomon, the kingdom of Israel, had gloriously flourished; now it becomes divided, weakened, and corrupted. (1) Rehoboam accedes to the throne of Solomon his father, and Jeroboam returns from his exile in Egypt; 1; 2. (2) The Israelites supplicate redress of their grievances. And Rehoboam, rejecting the advice of his aged counsellors, and taking that of the younger, irritates them with a rough and threatening answer; 3—15. (3) Ten of the tribes, provoked thereby, revolt, and make Jeroboam their king; 16—20. (4) By raising an army out of his two tribes of Judah and Benjamin, Rehoboam intends to reduce the revolters; but the Lord, by a prophet, forbids him, and he obeys; 21—24. (5) To establish himself in his kingdom, Jeroboam introduces an idolatrous worship, like to that which he had seen in Egypt: 25—33.

3 That they sent and called him. And Jeroboam and all the congregation of Israel came and spake unto Rehoboam, saying, remarkable reproach to it. Never let me expect that base ingratitude and wilful disobedience will pass unpunished. But God never deals with his people in such severity as they deserve. For Jesus' sake he defers his anger, and in wrath remembers mercy. But, alas! how sin turns peace into war! From the most abject and low condition God can raise up the most terrible instruments of his wrath: and when he intends to chastise he never wants a rod, but makes men's sinful ambition the means of his just but awful rebukes. Diligence paves the way to advancement, and advancement inflames ambition. But hopeless is the case when God gives men kings in his anger: and it is impossible to keep down the scourge which the Lord stirs up. God generally renders sinners inexcusable by the fair warnings which he gives them of their danger. But it is shameful, and very depressing, when his people die under divine frowns. To what a tremendous length and degree God may carry the just chastisement of his dearest saints!

akes the heart brutish, and stupifies the conscience: and even sumptuous fare so fearfully pampers our lusts. No present attainment of gifts or grace, without continued watchfulness, will secure us against the most shameful falls. How sad, how stumbling, when the old age of once famous saints becomes a long continued scene of profligacy! Alas! how Solomon's inordinate love of horses issues in an inordinate love of base women; and this in a multiplication of abominable idols! How the aged saint is ensnared by youthful lusts! How the wisest sage is made an arrant fool by silly women! How the man, who so often warned others against lechery and whoredom, turns out a monster of villainy! How the man, once so familiar with his God, is plunged into the vilest depths of fellowship with Satan and his most abominable agents! Let me then always suspect my corruptions, and depend on the grace that is in Christ Jesus. Let me never covet great prosperity, which hath so great snares attending it. threw the children of Israel: return every man to his house; ^bfor this thing is from me. They ^chearkened therefore to the word of the LORD, and returned to depart according to the word of the LORD.

28 Whereupon the king ^ktook counsel, and made two calves of gold, and said unto them, ^lIt is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem: behold thy gods, O Israel, who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he set the one in ^mBeth-el, and the other put he in ⁿDan.

So did he in Beth-el, ^tsacrificing unto the calves that he had made: and he placed in Beth-el the priests of the high places which he had made.

33 So he ^uoffered upon the altar which he had made in Beth-el the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had ^vdevised of his own heart; and ordained a feast unto the children of Israel: and he ^woffered upon the altar, ^xand burnt incense.

¶ Heb. to burn incense. Here (1) By a man of God from Judah, a solemn testimony, confirmed by a sign, is given against Jeroboam's false worship; and the ruin of his altar, and disgrace of his priest, by Josiah, a descendant of David, is foretold; 1—3, 5. (2) While Jeroboam attempts to lay hold on the prophet, his hand withers, but is healed by the prophet's prayer: thus he himself is made another sign; 4—6. REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—Sin is but a bad way of building families. By all his wives Solomon seems to have had but one son, and he a fool. Neither wisdom nor grace run in the blood. And often the best instructions are thrown away upon children; especially if the parent has practically disregarded them himself. Some factious spirits are always ready to blow up the coals of sedition; and often their vile designs lurk under the most specious appearances. It is astonishing that we hear no complaint of Solomon's idolatry, when we hear so much of his oppressive servitude. But most men seek their own, not the things of Jesus Christ. They are more concerned to save their money than their souls. That government is but in a tottering condition which subsists by severity, and where the king does not reign in the hearts of his subjects. They are our best friends who dissuade us from our rash designs, and they our worst enemies who soothe our folly and flatter our pride. It is mad to give true causes of provocation to those who are already provoked without cause. But it is common at courts to study the pleasure of the king more than the profit of the kingdom. And God fulfils his purposes, promises, and threatenings, by the follies as well as by the crimes of mankind. When people once become unreasonable they will not stick to condemn and calumniate the best of kings, and lion, and buried at Beth-el; 20—32 (6) Notwithstanding these alarming admonitions, Jeroboam proceeds in his impieties, to the ruin of himself and his family; 33, 34.

AND, behold, there came a man of ^aGod out of Judah ^bby the word of the LORD unto Beth-el: and Jeroboam stood by the altar to ^cburn incense.

2 And he ^dcried against the altar in the word of the LORD, and said, O altar, altar, thus saith the LORD; Behold, a child shall be born unto the house of David, ^eJosiah by name; and upon thee shall he offer the priests of the high places that burn incense upon thee, and men's bones shall be burnt upon thee.

3 And he ^fgave a sign the same day, saying, This is the sign which the LORD hath spoken; Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes that are upon it shall be poured out.

4 ¶ And it came to pass, when king Jeroboam heard the saying, of the man of God, which had cried against the altar in Beth-el, that he ^gput forth his hand from the altar, saying, Lay hold on him. And his hand which he put forth against him ^hdried up, so that he could not pull it in again to him.

5 The altar also was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king answered and said unto the man of God, ⁱEntreat now the face of the LORD thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God, ^kbesought the LORD, and the king's hand was restored him again, and became as it was before.

7 ¶ And the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and ^lrefresh thyself, and I will give thee a ^mreward.

8 And the man of God said unto the king, ⁿIf thou wilt give me half thine house, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water in this place:

9 For ^oso was it charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, ^pEat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the same way that thou camest.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

the best of governments. And they, who by oppression drive men into rebellion, must blame themselves for the mischiefs which they incur. Princes, once infatuated in their counsels, readily add one blunder to another, running to the various extremes of haughtiness, silly compliance, and open violence. We often see the miseries which our follies occasion when it is too late to remedy them. Hasty words often produce endless mischiefs. But love to our brethren should make us put up with many injuries, rather than seek to redress them in a manner which may be ruinous to both: and, when God's will contradicts our designs, we must submit without delay. If we fight against him there can be no hope of success. Wicked princes soon forget the express conditions on which God granted them their power. And with infinite infamy, guilt, and danger, to themselves and their subjects, they model the worship of God after patterns of human invention which they have seen, or as they hope will best answer their carnal purposes; or which, by contrariety to what God has appointed, most gratifies their enmity against him. But to secure our safety by sin is only to hasten our ruin. Great men's examples are grievously infectious: and most subjects are ready to comply with any form of religion which their rulers please to appoint.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? for his sons had seen what way the man of God went which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, 'Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass; and he rode thereon, 14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak: and he said unto him, 'Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

15 Then he said unto him, 'Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he said, 'I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place:

17 For it was said to me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread, nor drink water, there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

18 And he said unto him, I am a prophet also as thou art: and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, as they sat at the table, that the word of the LORD came unto the prophet that brought him back:

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, 'Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee, 22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread and drunk water in the place of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcass shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone a lion met him by the way, and slew him: and his carcass was cast in the way, and the ass stood by it; the lion also stood by the carcass.

25 And, behold, men passed by, and saw the carcass cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcass: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 ¶ And, when the prophet that brought him back from the way heard thereof, he said, It is the man of God who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD: therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath torn him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD which he spake unto him.

27 And he spake to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass. And they saddled him.

28 And he went and found his carcass cast in the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the carcass: the lion had not eaten the carcass, nor torn the ass.

29 And the prophet took up the carcass of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back: and the old prophet came to the city to mourn, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcass in his own grave, and they mourned over him, saying, Alas, my brother!

31 And it came to pass, after he had buried him, that he spake to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried; lay my bones beside his bones:

32 For the saying which he cried by the word of the LORD against the altar in Beth-el, and against all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, shall surely come to pass.

33 ¶ After this thing Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but made again of the lowest of the people priests of the high places: whosoever would, he consecrated him, and he became one of the priests of the high places.

34 And this thing became sin unto the house of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to destroy it from off the face of the earth.

CHAP. XIV.

Concerning Jeroboam, king of Israel, we are here informed, (1) How he sent his wife in disguise to Ahijah the prophet, to inquire whether their sick son should recover; 1—4. (2) How Ahijah, divinely informed of the deceit, denounced to her the death of her son, and the ruin of the rest of the family; 5—16. (3) How the child died, and soon after Jeroboam himself, as an earnest of the approaching ruin: 17—20. Concerning Rehoboam, king of Judah, we are informed (4) How he and his subjects apostatized to idolatry, &c. 21—24. (5) How Shishak, king of Egypt, ravaged their country, and took away the shields of gold from the temple, instead of which were made shields of brass; 25—28. (6) How Rehoboam concluded his life, after an almost continued warfare with Jeroboam; 29—31.

AT that time Abijah the son of Jeroboam fell sick.

2 And Jeroboam said to his wife, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thyself, and every thing which contributes to the support of it: and we should rather deny ourselves the common comforts of life than have fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness. How dangerous enemies to God's people are false prophets and unfaithful ministers, who pretend intercourse with God! Men may be seduced to evil by appearances of piety, when no fears of suffering can drive them to it. And none are more ready to upbraid and torment us than those who have seduced us. God severely punishes the disobedience of his dearest saints! and yet how marvellously he bounds their trouble! How great his sovereignty, in permitting the tempter to escape while the seduced is so awfully punished! How necessary is constant readiness for death! But hypocrites in vain claim kindred to, and connection with, the people of God, and wish their last end to be like theirs.—God will never want witnesses for his cause. If the man of God be dead, the false prophet must attest his warnings. And how desperate those sinners who, after repeated warnings, corrections, and mercies, continue impenitent! For, sooner or later, the vengeance of God will overtake the sinner, and he shall perish in his own deceivings.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—God warns men before he strikes. And his prophets must, without fear of the greatest or the worst, faithfully declare his messages. Nothing, however contingent, or distant in futurity, is unknown to God: his purpose is fixed and unchangeable, with respect to even the smallest circumstances of our lot. Shame and disgrace attend sin and sinners at last. Most daring is their presumption who persecute the faithful messengers of God: but faithful rebukes will often provoke proud wrath. Faithful preachers are the butt of wicked men's malice: but God will protect them. In the way of duty we need fear no danger. But it is infinitely dangerous to condemn God's warnings, when he can so easily make us monuments of his vengeance. They, who in prosperity condemn the messengers of God, may soon be obliged by their troubles to have recourse to their prayers. Nor must saints ever be averse to pray even for them who despitefully use them.—Impenitent sinners are in general more affected with their sufferings than with their sins: neither mercies nor judgments will make any lasting impression upon reprobates. And men are often more ready to thank the instruments of their deliverance than to thank God, the author of them. God and his faithful servants detest false worship, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam; and get thee to Shiloh: behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that I should be king over this people.

3 And take with thee ten loaves, and *cracknels, and a †cruse of honey, and go to him: he shall tell thee what shall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboam's wife did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Ahijah. But Ahijah could not see, for his eyes ^hwere set by reason of his age.

5 ¶ And the LORD said unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to ask a thing of thee for her son, for he is sick: thus and thus shalt thou say unto her: for it shall be, when she cometh in, that she shall feign herself to be another woman.

6 And it was so, when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet as she came in at the door, that he said, Come in, ^kthou wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another? for I am sent to thee with heavy tidings.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people Israel,

8 And rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it thee; and yet thou hast not been as my servant David, ^owho kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart to do that only which was right in mine eyes;

9 But ^phast done evil above all that were before thee: for thou hast gone and made thee other gods and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and ^qhast cast me behind thy back:

10 Therefore, behold, I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam ^rhim that will pisseth against the wall, and him that is shut up and left in Israel, and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung, till it be all gone.

11 Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat: for the LORD hath spoken it.

12 Arise thou therefore, get thee to thine own house: and ^swhen thy feet enter into the city the child shall die.

13 And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found ^tsome good thing toward the LORD God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

14 Moreover, the LORD shall raise him up a king over Israel, who shall cut off the house of Jeroboam that day: but what? ^ueven now.

15 For the LORD shall smite Israel as a reed is shaken in the water, and he shall root up Israel out of this good land which he gave to their fathers, and shall scatter them beyond the river, because they have made their groves, provoking the LORD to anger.

16 And he shall give Israel up because of the sins of Jeroboam, ^vwho did sin, and who made Israel to sin.

17 ¶ And Jeroboam's wife arose, and departed, and came to Tirzah: and ^wwhen she came to the threshold of the door the child died:

18 And they buried him; and all Israel mourned for him, according to the word of the LORD which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the prophet.

19 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned were two and twenty years: and he slept with his fathers, and Nadab his son reigned in his stead.

21 ¶ And Rehoboam the son of Solomon reigned in Judah. Rehoboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD did choose out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

22 And Judah did evil in the sight of the LORD; and they provoked him to jealousy with their sins which they had committed above all that their fathers had done.

23 For they also built them high places, and images, and groves, on every high hill, and under every green tree.

24 And there were also Sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

25 ¶ And it came to pass, in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem:

26 And he took away the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house; he even took away all; and he took away all the shields of gold which Solomon had made.

27 And king Rehoboam made in their stead brazen shields, and committed them unto the hands of the chief of the guard, which kept the door of the king's house.

28 And it was so, when the king went into the house of the LORD, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard chamber.

29 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

30 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.

31 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

And Abijam his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XV.

Concerning Judah, we are informed (1) How short, evil, and full of war, the reign of Abijam was; and how the Lord preserved the kingdom for David's sake; 1—8. (2) How piously Asa, his successor, reformed his kingdom; sinfully leagued with the Syrians against Israel; politically built cities to secure his frontiers; and, after a long reign, died of a disease in his feet; 9—24. Concerning Israel, we are informed (3) Of Nadab's wicked reign, and of the ruin of him and all Jeroboam's family; 25—31. (4) Of the wicked reign of Baasha, Nadab's murderer and successor; 32—34.

NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the son of Nebat reigned Abijam over Judah.

2 Three years reigned he in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

3 And he walked in all the sins of his father, which he had done before him: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God as the heart of David his father.

4 Nevertheless, for David's sake did the LORD his God give him a lamp in Jerusalem, to set up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem:

5 Because David did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

6 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life.

7 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 And Abijam slept with his fathers; and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa his son reigned in his stead.

9 ¶ And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Asa over Judah.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

11 And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, as did David his father.

12 And he took away the Sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

13 And also Maachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen, because she had made an idol in a grove, and Asa destroyed her idol, and burnt it by the brook Kidron.

14 But the high places were not removed: nevertheless, Asa's heart was perfect with the LORD all his days.

15 And he brought in the things which his father had dedicated, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD; silver and gold, and vessels.

16 ¶ And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

17 And Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah, and built Ramah, that he might not suffer any to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.

18 Then Asa took all the silver and the gold that were left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and delivered them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa sent them to Benhadad, the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

19 There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold: come and break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

20 So Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of the hosts which he had against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah, and dwelt at Tirzah.

22 Then king Asa made a proclamation throughout all Judah; none was exempted; and they took away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, where-with Baasha had builded; and king Asa built with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpeh.

23 The rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? Nevertheless, in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet.

24 And Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead.

25 ¶ And Nadab the son of Jeroboam began to reign over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned over Israel two years.

26 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

27 ¶ And Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him: and Baasha smote him at

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—When God visits our family with his rod, we ought to search out the sinful cause. And as sickness and death are equally the lot of young and old, we should always expect and prepare for it. It is common for sinners to be more anxious about the removal of their troubles than of their sins; and under trouble to apply for the assistance of God's ministers, whom they heartily hate. But it is absolute folly for those who do evil to expect from God's faithful ministers an answer of peace. It is daring to attempt imposing upon them; however aged and blind. But, as no covering can hide the hypocrite from the eye of God, no presents, nor compliments, nor flattery, must ever divert a minister from a bold and free declaration of the mind of God. Fearfully confounded will such impostors appear when he discovers them, especially at his awful bar. And ingratitude for singular favours, and seduction of others to sin, entail upon the transgressors the most terrible ruin. God sovereignly bestows his grace upon some in the very worst of families. He takes of such the greatest care, and often removes them from the evil to come by an honourable death. How amiable is early religion! and happy is it to be early ripe for, and transported to, the joy of the Lord! At the same time it is a fearful prelude of destruction to families or nations when the godly die out from among them. Alas! that, notwithstanding warnings and judgments upon the wicked, their pattern should be so greedily followed! Even amidst weakness and distress men will become more and more wicked; while God, to punish former sins, gives them up to their hearts' lusts, till they have ripened themselves for his judgments. God's instruments are always ready at hand for chastising even his professed people: and sin quickly reduces the wealthiest to poverty and debasement. Jerusalem is now emptied of her gold and silver; yet not chiefly Shishak, but sin, hath done it.

Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines; for Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon.

28 Even in the third year of Asa king of Judah did Baasha slay him, and reigned in his stead.

29 And it came to pass, when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam; he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed, until he had destroyed him, according unto the saying of the LORD which he spake by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

30 Because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel to sin, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

31 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

32 ¶ And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah began Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah, twenty and four years.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

CHAP. XVI.

Here the kingdom of Israel appears most miserable. (1) Jehu the prophet foretells Baasha the terrible ruin of his family, for his ingratitude, idolatry, &c. 1—7. (2) Elah, Baasha's son and successor, with all the family, are murdered by Zimri, his servant; 8—14. (3) After a reign of seven days, Zimri, besieged by Omri, burns his palace upon himself and his family; 15—20. (4) After five years of civil war, Omri prevails, reigns, builds Samaria, and becomes worse than any of his wicked predecessors; 21—28. (5) Ahab his son succeeds, who, instigated by Jezebel his wife, is still worse, and introduces the worship of the Zidonian Baal; 29—33. (6) In his days Hiel dares to rebuild accursed Jericho, but his family is ruined in the attempt; 34.

THEN the word of the LORD came to Jehu the son of Hanani against Baasha, saying,

2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and made thee prince over my people Israel; and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger with their sins;

3 Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house; and will make thy house like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

4 Him that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth of his in the fields shall the fowls of the air eat.

5 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

6 So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah: and Elah his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of the prophet Jehu, the son of Hanani, came the word of the LORD against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam; and because he killed him.

8 ¶ In the twenty and sixth year of Asa king of Judah began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel in Tirzah, two years:

9 And his servant Zimri, captain of half his chariots, conspired against him as he was in Tirzah, drinking himself drunk in the house of Arza steward of his house in Tirzah.

10 And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him, in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he slew all the house of Baasha: he left him not one that pisseth against the wall, neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD which he spake against Baasha by Jehu the prophet, 13 For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son, by which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

14 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

15 ¶ In the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah did Zimri reign seven days in Tirzah. And the people were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines.

16 And the people that were encamped heard say, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: wherefore all Israel made Omri, the captain of the host, king over Israel that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to pass, when Zimri saw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the king's house, and burnt the king's house over him with fire, and died, 19 For his sins which he sinned in doing evil in the sight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he did to make Israel to sin.

20 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Zimri, and his treason that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

21 ¶ Then were the people of Israel divided into two parts: half of the people followed Tibni the son of Ginath,

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—How few great men, especially kings, have any real piety! And what a plague to their subjects is their want of it! Parents' ill example is very pernicious to their children: and it is a double reproach on those who degenerate from the piety of their ancestors. Sin often shortens men's days, and hastens them to an untimely end. But what a remarkable blessing to nations and families are God's noted favourites! Even after their death God often pities, from regard to them, and to his promises made to them. It is a mercy when God shortens the reign of wicked rulers to make way for better, and who will begin reformation at themselves and their court. Many defects are in the best, much imperfection in their works of reformation; and great proneness to rely upon an arm of flesh in the time of trouble. But God generally imbibes to his people the success of their own sinful projects. How wretched are nations when one wicked prince still follows another! when successors murder their wicked sovereigns, but continue clearing to their ruinous wickedness!

CHAP. XVII.

While the Israelites are governed by the worst of kings, God, for their awakening, raises up among them Elijah, a wonderful prophet, in whom the great honours of Enoch and Moses were united. (1) He by his prayer procures, and foretells to Ahab, a famine, occasioned by a drought of three years and six months. (2) While Ahab sought to murder him, God makes the ravens feed him by the brook Cherith, till it dried up; 2—7. (3) God nourishes him during the rest of the dearth by a poor Zidonian widow, whose meal and oil he multiplied, and whose dead child he restored to life; 8—24.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—For the wickedness of a land, many and bad are the princes thereof: and they multiply their murders and massacres one of another. But short-lived and troublesome is the power and honour procured by murder. How eagerly do men follow the very sins, or worse, which ruined their predecessors before their eyes! But, if thus they hardened themselves in their ingratitude, their blood must be on their own heads. God indeed sometimes permits wicked men to die in their beds, and leave their wicked children to pay off their awful reckoning. Drunkards fearfully expose themselves to death in a Rebellious projectors often perish in the flames which they have kindled; and revenge and envy attend them in death. And it is terrible when God punishes men's harmony in wickedness with civil wars and discords. Dreadful is his case who is married to a wicked and abandoned woman: nothing is so base or horrid but she can persuade him to it. When kings are monsters in wickedness, the subjects will strive to outdo them in contempt of God. But such as despise his curse shall feel the weight of it.

CHAP. XVIII.

For more than three years Elijah had concealed himself from the persecuting rage of Ahab. Now, (1) By God's direction, he goes to present himself to him; 1, 2. (2) While Ahab, and Obadiah, a pious officer in his family, take different routs, to procure pasture for their horses and mules, Elijah presents himself to Obadiah, and bids him inform his master that he desired to see him. After some remonstrances concerning his danger, Obadiah complies; 3-16. (3) Ahab being come, Elijah orders him to assemble the Israelites; and the idolatrous prophets at mount Carmel, which is done; 17-20. (4) Before the assembled Israelites, and the prophets of Baal and the groves, he demands a solemn trial, whether Baal or JEHOVAH was the true God, by their calling upon each to inflame the sacrifices presented to him; 21-24. (5) The idolatrous prophets failing, while JEHOVAH with fire consumed Elijah's sacrifice and altar of stones, all drenched with water, Elijah ordered them all to be slain; 25-41. (6) These impostors and ringleaders in idolatry being slain, at Elijah's repeated request, a plentiful rain falls; of which he forewarns Ahab, that he might first get home; 41-46.

AND it came to pass, after 'many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the 'third year, saying, 'Go, shew thyself unto Ahab; and I 'will send rain upon the earth.

2 And Elijah went 'to shew himself unto Ahab. And there was a sore famine in Samaria.

3 ¶ And Ahab called Obadiah, who was 'the governor of his house. (Now Obadiah 'feared the LORD greatly:

4 For it was so, when Jezebel 'cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water.)

5 And Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks: peradventure we may find 'grass to save the horses and mules alive, †that we lose not all the beasts.

6 So they divided the land between them to pass throughout it. Ahab went one way by himself, and Obadiah went another way 'by himself.

7 ¶ And as Obadiah was 'in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and 'fell on his face, and said, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

8 And he answered him, I am: go, tell thy 'lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

9 And he said, 'What have I sinned, that thou wouldest deliver thy servant into the hand of Ahab to slay me?

10 'As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom, 'whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee: and when they said, He is not there, he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.

11 And now thou sayest, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it shall come to pass, as soon as I am gone from thee, that the Spirit of the LORD 'shall carry thee whither I know not; and so, when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he shall slay me; but I thy servant fear the LORD 'from my youth.

13 Was it not told my lord "what I did when Jezebel slew the prophets of the LORD, how I hid an hundred men of the LORD's prophets by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now thou sayest, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he shall slay me.

15 And Elijah said, As the 'LORD of hosts liveth, before whom 'I stand, I will surely shew myself unto him to-day.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to pass when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Art thou he that 'troubleth Israel?

18 And he answered, I 'have not troubled Israel; but thou and thy father's house, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim.

19 Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount Carmel; and the 'prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—God will have his witnesses in the worst of times, and will endue them with gifts and graces proportionable to the difficulties with which they are called to struggle. Great and inexpressible is the power of fervent prayer with God. But it bodes ill for a people when God's prophets are driven into corners, and when obscurity becomes their duty by the call of God. They who dare to be bold for God may trust him with their protection; he will take care that they shall not starve. He can make the most ravenous or the most destitute creatures on earth to provide for them. When one created source runs dry, he can make another to break forth. And plentifully he rewards those who cheerfully supply the wants of his servants. Yet to what straits and perplexity may those who fear his name, or their children, be reduced before he appear for their relief. But, in our deepest distresses, God is nearer to relieve us than we think: and faith must silence all objections. A promise of God is instead of a thousand arguments. They, who can trust God with their all, will find themselves no losers by him: and works of piety and charity bring us again our own with usury. God often exercises his people with the heaviest trials after they have met with remarkable favours. And, the more unexpected the stroke, the harder it is to be composed under it at first. In our troubles, how apt are we to quarrel with our best friends, and in our haste to speak unadvisedly with our lips! But it is more decent and becoming humbly to search out, confess, and acknowledge our sin, which is the cause of them. And, if others be in trouble, our business is to sympathise with them, and intercede with God in their favour. And great is the mercy when troubles and deliverances concur to strengthen our faith and increase our knowledge. But how great the condescension of God—he hath chosen the poor, rich in faith and heirs of his kingdom! How great his sovereignty in selecting the monuments of his special kindness! A Canaanitish widow is regarded, is honoured with miracles, when multitudes in Israel, as destitute as her, are overlooked!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—God can turn a fruitful land into barrenness for the sins of them that dwell therein: but judgments, instead of humbling, enrage the impenitent. When persecutors cannot wreck their malice and fury on God, they do it upon his servants. But what a mercy is it that God, even in wicked courts, hath those who fear him and protect his ministers. It is very honourable when saints are so faithful in relative duties, that such who hate their religion cannot but show them distinguished regard; and when persons in high station lay out their influence or wealth for the support of God's faithful ministers and people. But God often, when his people's condition is seemingly desperate, raises up helpers where they could be least expected. It is proper that saints be cautious in dealing with enraged persecutors: but sometimes they are apt to overdo in their caution. The faithful servants of Christ are often calumniated as enemies to the state; and, even when they bring the best of tidings, the impenitent brand them as their troublers. But they, who by their sins provoke God against a nation, are the real troublers of it, and ought faithfully to be told it. God can overrule the hearts of his most inveterate enemies, and make them to grant what his servants demand for his honour. Unsettled notions of religion lead to unchristian practices: and there can be no communion betwixt

CHAP. XIX.

To punish the Israelites' insincerity and inconstancy in their reformation, God again drives Elijah, their great instructor, into corners. (1) Frighted by the threatenings of Jezebel, his sworn enemy, he flees far southward to the Arabian desert; 1—3. (2) Amidst his wandering and weariness of life, the Lord wonderfully strengthens him by miraculously feeding him at Beer-sheba; 4—8. (3) At mount Sinai God meets him; rebukes him for deserting his work in Israel; appoints him to anoint Hazael, Jehu, and Elisha; and assures him that there yet remained seven thousand worshippers of the true God in Israel; 9—18. (4) He is scarcely returned to the land of Israel when Elisha joins him as an assistant; 19—21.

Christ and Belial. Let us then never in inclination, profession, or practice, halt between God and his rivals. Nor must the ministers of Christ be discouraged when they see multitudes against them: it is enough that God is on their side. He can take the wise in their own craftiness, and turn the counsel of the froward headlong; and the hope of the hypocrite perishes. It is a poor religion that consists chiefly in externals; and a devilish one that requires inhuman severities. Nothing, neither disappointment nor public shame, will undeceive those whom God hath given up to strong delusions. But how condescending was it in God to put his own pre-eminence, or rather Godhead, to the trial! Graciously he answers the fervent prayers of his zealous servants; and gloriously he overcomes when he is judged. Dreadful is the ruin of such as obstinately dispute his supremacy. But, when false prophets and evil ministers are removed from a land, God will return and refresh it. Secret, importunate, and repeated prayers must indeed be used to draw down the promised blessings; and great mercies may arise from the very smallest beginnings. But distinguished humility and dependence upon an all-strengthening God ought to attend upon, and flow from, the receipt of such most distinguishing honours.

malicious or furious than a profane woman. How weak and spiritless are the greatest zealots for God when left to themselves! Elijah had just commanded both king and subjects: now he shrinks for fear of a dignified harlot. But it is mean to desire death as a refuge from distress: and to seek to die, like a wandering sheep, in the wilderness, while shunning the honourable death of a martyr for God at Jezreel! When men impatiently wish for death they are ordinarily in a frame very unfit for it; and would be ready to recal their wish if God were to grant it. We ought never to desert the path of duty, though it lead us through the valley of the shadow of death. However dark providences appear, we must never despair. We know not what further work God may have for us. To desire to be with Christ is laudable; but to be weary of our warfare is sinful. But God kindly overlooks the infirmities of his people; visits them when on the brink of despair; and lays meat before them when they shamefully desert his service. Such as are travelling to Horeb, to the mount of God in heaven, will find strength ministered to them for their journey, and angels to be their ministering spirits. To encourage their own peevish frowardness, saints are apt to think matters in the church worse than they really are. But whom the Lord loves he will rebuke and chasten, he will direct and further employ. No place can exclude his gracious manifestations. It is the folly of human weakness to be discouraged for want of success in God's work. The sufficiency of the power is

CHAP. XX.

While Elijah and Elisha, his new assistant, were occupied in founding and directing colleges of young prophets for reforming the nation, Ahab, having ceased his persecution, is favoured with remarkable victories over the Syrians, but abuses them. Here (1) Ben-hadad invades the land of Israel, and insolently demands to have whatever he or his servants should require of Ahab or his people; and being refused, threatens immediate destruction; 1—12. (2) Encouraged and directed by a prophet, Ahab and an handful of Israelites defeat the huge hosts of the Syrians; 13—21. (3) The Syrians, imagining that the God of Israel could not assist his people in the plains, again invade the country; but, to punish their blasphemy, are almost entirely cut off: 22—30. (4) By humble supplication, Ben-hadad procures from Ahab a covenant of friendship; 31—34: for which (5) A prophet, perhaps Micah, first in a parable, and afterwards more plainly, denounces almost utter destruction to Ahab and his kingdom by the Syrians; 35—43.

AND ^aBen-hadad the king of Syria gathered all his host together: and there were ^bthirty and two kings with him, and horses, and chariots. And he went up and ^cbesieged Samaria, and warred against it.

2 And he ^dsent messengers to Ahab king of Israel into the city, and said unto him, Thus saith Ben-hadad,

3 Thy ^esilver and thy gold is mine; thy wives also and thy children, ^feven the goodliest, are mine,

4 And the king of Israel answered and said, My lord, O king, according to thy saying, ^gI am thine, and all that I have.

5 And the messengers came again, and said, Thus speaketh Ben-hadad, saying, Although I have sent unto thee, saying, ^hThou shalt deliver me thy silver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children;

6 Yet I will send my servants unto thee to-morrow about this time, and they shall search thine house, and the houses of thy servants; and it shall be, ⁱthat whatsoever is ^j*pleasant in thine eyes, they shall put ^kit in their hand, and take ^lit away.

7 Then the king of Israel called ^mall the elders of the land, and said, Mark, I pray you, and see how this ⁿman ^oseeketh mischief: for he sent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my silver, and for my gold; and I ^pdenied him not.

8 And all the elders, and all the people said unto him, ^qHearken not ^runto him, nor consent.

9 Wherefore he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, all that thou didst send for to thy servant at the first I will do; but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed, and brought him word again.

10 And Ben-hadad sent unto him, and said, ^sThe gods do so unto me, and more also, if the dust of Samaria shall ^tsuffice for handfuls for all the people that ^ufollow me.

11 And the king of Israel answered and said, Tell ^vhim, ^wLet not him that girdeth on ^xhis harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.

12 And it came to pass, when Ben-hadad heard this ^ymessage, (as he was ^zdrinking, he and the kings in the ^{aa}pavilions,) that he said to his servants, ^{ab}Set yourselves in array. And they set themselves in array against the city.

13 ¶ And, ^{ac}behold, there ^{ad}*came a prophet unto Ahab king of Israel, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day; and ^{ae}thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

14 And Ahab said, By whom? And he said, Thus saith the LORD, ^{af}Even by the ^{ag}young men of the princes of the provinces. Then he said, Who shall ^{ah}order the battle? And he answered, ^{ai}Thou.

15 Then he numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two: and after them he numbered all the people, ^{aj}even all the children of Israel, ^{ak}being ^{al}*seven thousand.

16 And they went out at noon. ^{am}But Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out first: and Ben-hadad sent out, and they told him, saying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he said, ^{an}Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.

19 So these young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they slew ^{ao}*every one his man: and the Syrians ^{ap}fled; and Israel ^{aq}pursued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on an horse with the horsemen.

21 And the king of Israel ^{ar}went out, and smote the horses and chariots, and slew the Syrians with a great slaughter.

22 ¶ And the ^{as}prophet came to the king of Israel, and said unto him, Go, ^{at}*strengthen thyself, and mark, and see what thou dost; for ^{au}at the return of the year the king of Syria will come up against thee.

23 And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him, ^{av}Their gods are gods of the hills, therefore they were stronger than we; but let us fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they.

24 And do this thing, ^{aw}Take the kings away, every man out of his place, and put captains in their rooms:

25 And number thee an army, like the army ^{ax}*that thou hast lost, horse for horse, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they.

of God, not of ourselves. They, that would be faithful for God in bad times, must put their lives in their hands, and be ready to die for him.—In the most terrible manner God often introduces his most mild and gracious intimations. God's saints are generally few; but they are often more numerous, in times of general apostacy, than good men think; and all of them are under the special knowledge and care of God. It bodes ill when God's favourites become inter-cessors against a people. We may expect quickly to see or hear of instruments of God's wrath raised up to destroy them; for in his due time God will avenge his people, and that speedily. Never can he want agents for his work, whether of mercy or judgment. None can resist his effectual and heart-touching call: and no earthly cares can detain them from his service.

Before Christ 900. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did so.

26 And it came to pass, at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians, and went up to Aphek to fight against Israel.

27 And the children of Israel were numbered, and were all present, and went against them: and the children of Israel pitched before them like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the country.

28 ¶ And there came a man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus saith the LORD, "Because the Syrians have said, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys, therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

29 And they pitched one over against the other seven days. And so it was, that in the seventh day the battle was joined: and the children of Israel slew of the Syrians an hundred thousand footmen in one day.

30 But the rest fled to Aphek into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and seven thousand of the men that were left. And Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city into an inner chamber.

31 ¶ And his servants said unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful kings; let us, I pray thee, put sackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Israel; peradventure he will save thy life.

32 So they girded sackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Israel, and said, Thy servant Ben-hadad saith, I pray thee, let me live. And he said, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.

33 Now the men did diligently observe whether any thing would come from him, and did hastily catch it: and they said, Thy brother Ben-hadad. Then he said, Go ye, bring him. Then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he caused him to come up into the chariot.

34 And Ben-hadad said unto him, "The cities which my father took from thy father I will restore, and thou shalt make streets for thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria. Then said Ahab, I will send thee away with this covenant. So he made a covenant with him, and sent him away.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the sons of the prophets said unto his neighbour in the word of the LORD, "Smite me, I pray thee. And the man refused to smite him.

36 Then he said unto him, "Because thou hast not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as soon as thou art departed from me a lion shall slay thee. And as soon as he was departed from him a lion found him, and slew him.

37 Then he found another man, and said, "Smite me, I pray thee. And the man smote him, so that in smiting he wounded him.

38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and disguised himself with ashes upon his face.

39 And as the king passed by he cried unto the king: and he said, Thy servant went out into the midst of the battle, and, behold, a man turned aside, and brought a man unto me, and said, Keep this man: if by any means he be missing, then shall thy life be for his life, or else thou shalt pay a talent of silver.

40 And, as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone. And the king of Israel said unto him, "So shall thy judgment be; thyself hast decided it.

41 And he hasted and took the ashes away from his face; and the king of Israel discerned him that he was of the prophets.

42 And he said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people.

43 And the king of Israel went to his house heavy and displeased, and came to Samaria.

CHAP. XXI.

By neglecting to enlarge his kingdom, Ahab had brought one curse upon himself. By a covetous attempt to enlarge his garden, he entails another. (1) He covets Naboth's vineyard, and sickens on account of the refusal given him; 1-4. (2) By Jezebel's plot Naboth is condemned and executed as a traitor and blasphemer, that his property might fall to the king; 5-14. (3) While Ahab goes to take possession, Elijah meets him, and denounces the judgments of God upon him and his wife for their injustice; 15-24. (4) Upon his humiliation a reprieve is granted by God; 25-29.

AND it came to pass, after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

2 And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near unto my house; and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it; or, if it seem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

3 And Naboth said to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.

4 And Ahab came into his house heavy and displeased because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had that fight against him will at last be covered with confusion and despair. Malicious persecutors are in general extremely indulgent to horrid murderers and blasphemers. But sinful indulgence issues in men's own ruin. God's servants have need of great boldness and zeal, that they may declare his mind to the most powerful transgressors. And it is peculiarly stinging when men are condemned out of their own mouth.

Learn, O my soul, notwithstanding all my emptiness, to be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might. If my spiritual enemies compass me about like bees, let me attack them in the name of the Lord. If I obtain one victory, let me prepare for another assault. But let me never shew mercy to the most humble and suppliant lust: to pity those is to be careless of God's honour, and cruel to myself.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—Weak and defenceless are those who have provoked God to forsake them, however former successes may make them proud or insolent. There is no satisfying the covetous mind: and mean spirits delight to tyrannize over those who they think dare not resist them. But pride and insolent boasting go before destruction. The greatest talkers are seldom the greatest actors. And, the more secure men are, the more certain is their ruin. God often heaps mercies on his sinful people when they are almost ripe for destruction. Inadequate means must be used when God directs, but no means ever trusted to. By the weakest instruments God can abase the proud, and defeat the most powerful armies, even when flushed with victory and success. But we must never on earth think the danger over. Earth and hell cannot long lie quiet. Atheistical apprehensions of God effectually plunge men headlong into misery. For they spoken to him: for he had said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers. And he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread.

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city dwelling with Naboth.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaim a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people:

10 And set two men, sons of Belial, before him, to bear witness against him, saying, Thou didst blaspheme God and the king: and then carry him out, and stone him, that he may die.

11 And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had sent unto them, and as it was written in the letters which she had sent unto them.

12 They proclaimed a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and sat before him: and the men of Belial witnessed against him, even against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth did blaspheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died.

14 Then they sent to Jezebel, saying, Naboth is stoned, and is dead.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned and was dead, that Jezebel said to Ahab, Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, which is in Samaria: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to possess it.

19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20 And Ahab said to Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee; because thou hast sold thyself to work evil in the sight of the LORD.

21 Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and will take away thy posterity, and will cut off from Ahab him that pisseth against the wall, and him that is shut up and left in Israel;

22 And will make thine house like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah, for the provocation wherewith thou hast provoked me to anger, and made Israel to sin.

23 And of Jezebel also spake the LORD, saying, The dogs shall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.

24 Him that dieth of Ahab in the city the dogs shall eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat.

25 ¶ But there was none like unto Ahab, which did sell himself to work wickedness in the sight of the LORD, whom Jezebel his wife stirred up.

26 And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things as did the Amorites, whom the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, when Ahab heard those words, that he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sackcloth, and went softly.

28 And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

29 Seest thou how Ahab humbleth himself before me? because he humbleth himself before me, I will not bring the evil in his days: but in his son's days will I bring the evil upon his house.

CHAP. XXII.

The punishment of Ahab, for sparing Ben-hadad, now comes upon him. Here (1) Ahab consults with his privy council concerning the renewal of the war with the Syrians, for recovering of Ramoth-gilead: and engages Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, to assist him; 1—4. (2) At Jehoshaphat's desire, he consults not only his false prophets, who flatter him with hopes of success, but also Micaiah, a true prophet; 5—12. (3) Notwithstanding advice to flatter Ahab, Micaiah upbraids him with his fond belief of the false prophets; foretells his fall in the expedition; and informs him in a figurative manner, how God had permitted Satan, by his false prophets, to seduce him into ruin; 13—23. (4) For his faithfulness, Micaiah is abused by Zedekiah, a leading prophet of Baal, and imprisoned by Ahab; 24—28. (5) To punish Jehoshaphat's helping of Ahab, he is treacherously exposed to great hazard of his life; but Ahab is slain, and his troops scattered; 29—40. (6) Jehoshaphat in the main reigns well; but sinfully joins in an adventure of trade with Ahaziah king of Israel who reigns very wickedly; 41—53.

to shame. But that which is unlawfully gotten frequently proves a burden instead of a comfort. The very presence of faithful ministers, who cannot endure to see the wicked perish in their iniquities, is a terror to such, and their faithful rebukes torment them: but how much more, and how often even in this life, does the distinguished vengeance of God perplex and pursue them! Legal terrors may produce strong professions of repentance, but only a sense of God's pardoning love can convert the heart. And, if God mark such regard to apparent repentance, how great is his mercy, and how great is his regard to those who sorrow after a godly sort!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—Nearness to great men often exposes to oppression: and there is need of steadfast adherence to the Lord's command when we meet with strong temptations. How insatiable is a covetous heart! Many great men, in all that they have, can enjoy but small pleasure, because of some fancied want: and proud and discontented spirits terribly torment themselves. What a plague to nations are covetous and tyrannical rulers! Having their heart set on wickedness, the devil quickly furnishes the means: and nothing is too base and hypocritical, or even horrid or blasphemous, for them to stick at. When sin has hardened their heart, men glory in their wickedness, and are lost

AND they continued ^a three years without war between Syria and Israel.

2 And it ^bcame to pass in the third year, that Jehoshaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Israel.

3 And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that ^cRamoth in Gilead is our's, and we ^dbe ^estill, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?

4 And he said unto Jehoshaphat, ^fWilt thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, ^gI am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horses as thy horses.

5 ¶ And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, ^hInquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to-day.

6 Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets together, about four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up; ⁱfor the LORD shall deliver ^jit into the hand of the king.

7 ¶ And Jehoshaphat said, ^kIs there not here a prophet of the LORD besides, that we might enquire of him?

8 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, ^lThere is yet one man Micaiah the son of Imlah, by whom we may ^minquire of the LORD; but ⁿI hate him, for he doth not prophesy ^ogood concerning me, but evil. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

9 Then the king of Israel called an officer, and said, ^pHasten ^qhither Micaiah the son of Imlah.

10 And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah sat each on his throne, having ^rput on their robes in a ^svoid place in the entrance of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets ^tprophesied before them.

11 And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made him ^uhorns of iron: and he said, ^vThus saith the LORD, With these shalt thou push the Syrians until thou have consumed them.

12 And all the prophets prophesied so, ^wsaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper; for the LORD shall deliver ^xit into the king's hand.

13 And the messenger that was gone to call Micaiah spake unto him, saying, Behold now ^ythe words of the prophets ^zdeclare good unto the king with one mouth: let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and speak ^{aa}that which is good.

14 And Micaiah said, ^{ab}As the LORD liveth, ^{ac}what the LORD saith unto me that will I speak.

15 ¶ So he came to the king. And the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear? And he answered him, ^{ad}Go, and prosper; for the LORD shall deliver ^{ae}it into the hand of the king.

16 And the king said unto him, How many times shall I ^{af}adjure thee that thou tell me nothing but ^{ag}that which is true in the name of the LORD?

17 And he said, ^{ah}I saw all Israel ^{ai}scattered upon the hills, as sheep that have not a shepherd: and the LORD said, ^{aj}These have no master; let them return every man to his house in peace.

18 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did ^{ak}I not tell thee that he would prophesy no good concerning me, but evil?

19 And he said, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD ^{al}sitting on his throne, and all the ^{am}host of heavens standing by him on his right hand and on his left.

20 And the LORD said, Who shall ^{an}persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one said on this manner, and another said on that manner.

21 And there came forth ^{ao}a spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will persuade him.

22 And the LORD said unto him, Where-with? And he said, I will go forth, and I ^{ap}will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said, Thou ^{aq}shalt persuade ^{ar}him, and prevail also: go forth, and do so.

23 Now therefore, behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

24 ¶ But Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah went near, and ^{as}smote Micaiah on the cheek, and said, Which way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

25 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go into ^{at}an inner chamber to hide thyself.

26 And the king of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

27 And say, Thus saith the king, ^{au}Put this ^{av}fellow in the prison, and feed him with ^{aw}bread of affliction and with water of affliction until I come in peace.

28 And Micaiah said, ^{ax}If thou return at all in peace, the LORD hath not spoken by me. And he said, ^{ay}Hearken, O people, every one of you.

29 ¶ So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

30 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, ^{az}I will disguise myself, and enter into the battle; ^{ba}but put thou on thy robes. And the king of Israel disguised himself, and went into the battle.

31 ¶ But the king of Syria commanded his ^{bb}thirty and two captains that had rule over his chariots, saying, ^{bc}Fight neither with small nor great, save only with the king of Israel.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely it is the king of Israel. And they turned aside to fight against him: and Jehoshaphat cried out.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him.

34 ¶ And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and smote the king of Israel between the joints of the harness: wherefore he said unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the host, for I am wounded.

35 And the battle increased that day: and the king was stayed up in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound into the midst of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the host, about the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.

37 ¶ So the king died, and was brought to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked up his blood, and they washed his armour, according unto the word of the LORD which he spake.

39 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house which he made, and all the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

40 So Ahab slept with his fathers; and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

41 ¶ And Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

43 And he walked in all the ways of Asa his father; he turned not aside from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of the LORD; nevertheless, the high places were not taken away; for the people offered and burnt incense yet in the high places.

44 And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

45 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

46 And the remnant of the Sodomites, which remained in the days of his father Asa, he took out of the land.

47 There was then no king in Edom: a deputy was king.

48 Jehoshaphat made ships of Tharshish to go to Ophir for gold; but they went not, for the ships were broken at Ezion-geber.

49 Then said Ahaziah the son of Ahab unto Jehoshaphat, Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships. But Jehoshaphat would not.

50 ¶ And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

51 ¶ Ahaziah the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned two years over Israel.

52 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

53 For he served Baal, and worshipped him, and provoked to anger the LORD God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—Wicked sovereigns pay little regard to the laws either of gratitude or of solemn treaties. It is taking hold of the opportunities which God puts in our hand, not leagues with perfidious princes, that will secure our rights; and least of all ought leagues extorted by distress to be trusted to. The worst of men, from selfish motives, will court the friendship of the godly; but, whenever opportunity serves, are sure to expose them to danger. The conscience, the life of saints, yea, and all that they have, are endangered by sinful compliances to evil men: but tender saints can never delight in evil and flattering ministers, nor fail to regard the faithful servants of God. Unity and multitude are poor proofs of a good cause. Nothing is a surer sign of an evil minister than his encouraging wicked and hypocritical men to sleep on in their sin: nor is any thing a more dreadful plague to persons or nations than the united flattery of unfaithful ministers. When flatterers abound the men of God ought to be the more bold and faithful in opposition to them. Hardened sinners will indeed hate them for dealing faithfully with their conscience, but God will stand by them, when he gives up the lovers of flattery to be imposed on by it to their own ruin; and multitudes of evil spirits are always waiting his permission to delude into destruction their own most hearty votaries. Faithful ministers are commonly rewarded with persecution and abuse: and none are more bitter enemies than the teachers of lies. But God will quickly vindicate his servants in accomplishing the threatenings which they have denounced. Such as are guileless themselves are unsuspicious of others; but wicked men, to compass their own ends, will not stick to betray their best friends. And indeed, when the godly are out of the way of their duty, they need not wonder that they fall into mischief. But, if they cry unto the Lord, they will find him a present help in the time of trouble. When the hour of men is come, there is no avoiding their destiny. By events, which to us are purely accidental, God will execute his purpose and accomplish his word. No character on earth, except Christ's is perfectly spotless. Even good men are apt to indulge long rooted customs of sinning. But how unwise is it for them to cultivate familiarity with the wicked, even after they have smarted for it! and it is a mercy if repeated strokes make them amend their error at the last.

THE SECOND BOOK OF KINGS.

The second book of Kings is but a continuation of the former, from the death of Ahab to the death of Jehoiachin, which is about three hundred and forty years. The principal events recorded are, (1) The miracles of Elijah and Elisha; i.—vii. xiii. (2) The destruction of the family of Ahab by Jehu; viii.—x. (3) The misery of Israel under Jehu and Jehoahaz, from the oppressions of the Syrians, and their restoration by Joash and Jeroboam; xiii. xiv.; and, in fine, their civil wars, harrassment and captivity by the Assyrians; xv. xvii. (4) The history of Judah under fifteen kings; of whom Jehoram, Ahaz, Manasseh, and Amon, were most wicked, and Hezekiah and Josiah most pious and reforming; and, in fine, of their harrassment and captivity by the Chaldeans; viii. xxv.

CHAP. I.

Here (1) While the Moabites revolt from under his authority, Ahaziah king of Israel falls dangerously ill, and in his sickness sends to Baalzebub, god of Ekron, to ask whether he should recover; 1, 2. (2) Elijah, directed of God, meets his messengers, and turns them back with a denunciation of certain death; 3—8. (3) Highly enraged, Ahaziah repeatedly orders a troop to apprehend Elijah, that he might be punished; but, by fire from heaven, he destroys the two first companies; and on their captain's humble request, spares the third; 9—14. (4) Directed by God, he goes with him to Ahaziah, and denounces his approaching death, which quickly follows; 15—18.

CHAP. II.

Here is (1) The miraculous translation of Elijah to heaven without tasting of death. He takes his leave of the young prophets, and especially of Elisha, who adheres to him till the last, when angels carry him up into heaven; and Elisha laments Israel's loss for want of him; 1-12. (2) The miraculous manifestations of Elisha to be his successor in office, by his dividing of Jordan, 13, 14; by the respect paid to him by the young prophets, 15-18; by his healing the unwholesome waters of Jericho; 19-22; and by the destruction of the children of Bethel, who mocked him, by two bears; 23-25.

AND it came to pass, when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah said unto Elisha, Tarry here, I pray thee; for the LORD hath sent me to Beth-el. And Elisha said unto him, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And the sons of the prophets that were at Beth-el came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he answered, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

6 And Elijah said unto him, Tarry, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood to view afar off: and they two stood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither; so that they two went over on dry ground.

9 And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elijah said unto Elisha, Ask what I shall do for thee before I be taken away from thee. And Elisha said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me.

10 And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing: nevertheless, if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but, if not, it shall not be so.

11 And it came to pass, as they still went on and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven.

12 And Elisha saw it, and he cried,

My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

13 He took up also the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and went back and stood by the bank of Jordan;

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is the LORD God of Elijah? And, when he also had smitten the waters, they parted hither and thither; and Elisha went over.

15 And when the sons of the prophets, who were to view at Jericho, saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themselves to the ground before him.

16 And they said unto him, Behold now there be with thy servants fifty strong men; let them go, we pray thee, and seek thy master: lest peradventure the Spirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and cast him upon some mountain or into some valley. And he said, Ye shall not send.

17 And, when they urged him till he was ashamed, he said, Send. They sent therefore fifty men; and they sought three days, but found him not.

18 And, when they came again to him, (for he tarried at Jericho,) he said unto them, Did I not say unto you, Go not?

19 And the men of the city said unto Elisha, Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my lord seeth: but the water is naught, and the ground barren.

20 And he said, Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him.

21 And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said, Thus saith the LORD, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the saying of Elisha which he spake.

23 And he went up from thence unto Beth-el: and, as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him, and said unto him, Go up, thou bald head; go up, thou bald head!

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and cursed them in the name of the LORD. And there came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and tare forty and two children of them.

25 And he went from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he returned to Samaria.

monstrations of the wickedness of it, richly deserve death for their punishment: and, if they will harden their heart against the terrors of God, it is just that their destruction be uncommonly terrible. The way to prevail with God is not to insult him, but humbly to bow before him; and the sufferings of others should be our warning. God can endow his servants with such honourable boldness that captains and kings look contemptible before them. And those who consult the devil, if superabounding mercy prevent not, may expect soon to have their lodging with him in hell.

ELIJAH TAKEN UP INTO HEAVEN.

CHAP. III.

Here is (1) The character of Jehoram, the second son of Ahab, who reigned after Ahaziah; bad, but better than his parents; 1-3. (2) His preparation to reduce the Moabites, who had rebelled and withdrawn their tribute ever since Ahab's death; and his engaging the assistance of the Jews and Edomites; 4-9. (3) The distress of their army, through want of water, in their march; and Elisha's miraculous supply of it from regard to Jehoshaphat, and his promise of success; 9-20. (4) Their easy victory over the deceived Moabites; their destruction of the country; and the barbarous stratagem used by the king of Moab to make them raise the siege of his capital: 21-27.

NOW Jehoram the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned twelve years.

2 And he wrought evil in the sight of the LORD; but not like his father and like his mother; for he put away the image of Baal that his father had made.

3 Nevertheless, he cleaved unto the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin; he departed not therefrom.

4 ¶ And Mesha king of Moab was a sheep master, and rendered unto the king of Israel an hundred thousand lambs, and an hundred thousand rams, with the wool.

5 But it came to pass, when Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled against the king of Israel.

6 ¶ And king Jehoram went out of Samaria the same time, and numbered all Israel.

7 And he went and sent to Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, saying, The king of Moab hath rebelled against me: wilt thou go with me against Moab to battle? And he said, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horses as thy horses.

8 And he said, Which way shall we go up? And he answered, The way through the wilderness of Edom.

9 So the king of Israel went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom: and they fetched a compass of seven days' journey: and there was no water for the host, and for the cattle that followed them.

10 And the king of Israel said, Alas, that the LORD hath called these three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab!

11 But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may inquire of the LORD by him? And one of the king of Israel's servants answered and said, Here is Elisha the son of Shaphat, who poured water on the hands of Elijah.

12 And Jehoshaphat said, The word of the LORD is with him. So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom, went down to him.

13 And Elisha said unto the king of Israel, What have I to do with thee? get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother. And the king of Israel said unto him, Nay; for the LORD hath called these three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

14 And Elisha said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I stand, surely, were it not that I regard the presence of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, I would not look toward thee, nor see thee.

15 But now bring me a minstrel. And it came to pass, when the minstrel played, that the hand of the LORD came upon him.

16 And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Make this valley full of ditches.

17 For thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not see wind, neither shall ye see rain; yet that valley shall be filled with water, that ye may drink; both ye, and your cattle, and your beasts.

18 And this is but a light thing in the sight of the LORD: he will deliver the Moabites also into your hand.

19 And ye shall smite every fenced city, and every choice city, and shall fell every good tree, and stop all wells of water, and mar every good piece of land with stones.

20 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered, that, behold, there came water by the way of Edom, and the country was filled with water.

21 And, when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight against them, they gathered all that were able to put on armour, and upward, and stood in the border.

22 And they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, and the Moabites saw the water on the other side as red as blood:

23 And they said, This is blood: the kings are surely slain, and they have smitten one another; now therefore, Moab, to the spoil.

24 And, when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them: but they went forward smiting the Moabites, even in their country.

But stop, thou ascending Elijah, till, in thy character and work, I contemplate the glories of my Redeemer. His call to his mediatorial office was solemn; and was remarkably confirmed by miracles of mercy and judgment. His condition on earth was mean, afflicted and persecuted. His holy zeal was ardent; his rebukes pungent; his denunciations of wrath terrible and effective; his prayers for mercy to his friends, or destruction to his foes, were always prevalent; his fast was long and afflicting; his great sacrifice was inflamed by infinite and unquenchable love from within, and by infinite wrath from above: and by means of it he shewed the Lord to be God, restored the true worship of God in the world, and made the unclean spirits and false prophets to pass out of the land. By him kings are appointed to death or dominion; and prophets, apostles, and ministers, called to, and furnished for, their office. In high sovereignty he removed his ordinances from the Jews, that he might dwell with raven-like publicans and sinners; dwell with long-widowed Gentiles, and restore to life their children, dead in trespasses and sins. Baptized in Jordan, and travelling through trouble and death, he ascended to heaven without seeing corruption. In vain have the Jews ever since searched for a promised Messiah. And dreadful and lasting vengeance has or shall overtake his Jewish, heathen, antichristian, or other obstinate enemies, according to the predictions of his mouth.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—What honour God delights to put upon his faithful servants! The least of them shall lack nothing of Elijah's happiness, at that they must lodge a little in the grave on the way to their perfect felicity above. Faithful saints have the good of the rising generation much on their heart; and we should make the most of their conversation while we can have it. It is very distressing, though hopeful, to part with dear friends, high in favour with God. And how easy and majestic is their composed retirement to the heavenly state, even in their passage through Jordans of trouble and of death! The removal of such is indeed a great loss to churches and nations; especially if they be come to a great height. But when God removes one eminent servant he can raise up another equally endowed with the Holy Ghost. And when an animating pattern, a powerful prayer of faith, and the distinguished presence of God, concur, there is great ground of hope. They whom God honours ought to be honoured; and the strong must bear with the infirmities of the weak. A people ought to make all the profitable improvement of their ministers they can while they have them: for what bitterness, barrenness, and death, can God cure their gospel ministrations! They often bring, even to accursed places, the most distinguished mercies where providence orders their lot. But how terrible are the consequences of idolatry, and of careless education of children! For parents are often punished for their neglect or bad example in the loss, the etchedness, or ruin of their seed!

26 ¶ And, when the king of Moab saw that the battle was too sore for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through even unto the king of Edom: but they could not.

27 Then he took his eldest son that should have reigned in his stead, and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall. And there was great indignation against Israel: and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

CHAP. IV.

By his prayers, Elisha had saved three armies from ruin, and had procured them an easy triumph; yet no man rewarded him: but God here magnifies him exceedingly in working five illustrious miracles. (1) To enable a poor prophet's widow to pay her debt and maintain her family, he multiplies her potful of oil; 1—7. (2) In gratitude to his kind hostess, a Shunamite, he obtains for her a son in her old age; 8—17. (3) When the child dies he restores him to life; 18—37. (4) By a little meal he prevents the deadly influence of pottage of wild gourds; 38—41. (5) He feeds an hundred men with twenty small loaves of barley meal; 41, 42.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD; and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bondmen.

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the house save a pot of oil.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty vessels: *borrow not a few.

4 And, when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

5 So she went from him, and shut the door upon her and upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her, and she poured out.

6 And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed.

7 Then she came and told the man of God. And he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest.

8 ¶ And it fell on a day that Elisha passed to Shunem, where was a great woman; and she constrained him to eat bread. And so it was, that, as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold, now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God, who passeth by us continually.

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall; and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick: and it shall be, when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither.

11 And it fell on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he said to Gehazi his servant, Call this Shunammite. And, when he had called her, she stood before him.

13 And he said unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou hast been careful for us with all this care; what is to be done for thee? wouldest thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host? And she answered, I dwell among mine own people.

14 And he said, What then is to be done for her? And Gehazi answered, Verily she hath no child, and her husband is old.

15 And he said, Call her. And, when he had called her, she stood in the door.

16 And he said, About this season, according to the time of life, thou shalt embrace a son. And she said, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lie unto thine handmaid.

17 And the woman conceived, and bare a son at that season that Elisha had said unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And, when the child was grown, it fell on a day that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said unto his father, My head, my head! And he said to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And, when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him, and went out.

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to-day? it is neither new moon nor sabbath. And she said, It shall be well.

24 Then she saddled an ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward; slack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—To be better than monsters in crimes is no evidence of real goodness: and a partial reformation is often made without real conversion. To forbear the sins which we no longer love, while we cleave to those which are more pleasing and profitable, shews the insincerity of our pretended repentance. Sinners prefer the recovery of outward losses to all the advantages of real godliness; and they readily court the friendship of such saints as are remarkably prosperous in outward things. Rash counsels generally drive men into great straits; and these into murmuring against the providence of God. And, if we keep company with sinners, we are in danger of smarting under their rod. Afflictions often drive those to God who in their prosperity neglected him. His mercies are not only beyond our desert, but beyond our expectation; and others fare the better for their connections with his people; for he will not leave his own who cry unto him, even in the straits into which their folly has plunged them. What a remarkable blessing are pious commanders and faithful ministers to armies! and the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. How composed ought our minds to be in all our approaches to God! And never must we expect a gracious answer to our requests, but only through Jesus' offering of himself a sacrifice for sins. How strangely men fancy what they wish! for God often infatuates those whom he intends to destroy; and makes them to rush headlong upon their own destruction. What inhuman and bloody courses will people take to procure the favour of their idol, or to mar themselves desperately obstinate!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—Parents ought carefully to avoid dying in debt, as it may render their children miserable. Yet, when persons are involved in debt, not by their own rashness, prodigality, or sloth, but by the afflicting providence of God, they deserve our pity, not our censure. Unforeseen providences may involve the most honest man in debts which he cannot pay. And how grievous is it (though not unjust) when providence obliges a faithful minister to die indebted to rigid creditors! But, if providence distress a good man, it will also relieve him. Let husbands then fear God, and he will take care of their widows and children. Let poor distressed widows and fatherless children cast all their care upon him: he is ready to relieve them in the most destitute case. And, if we wish or expect God to do for us, we must do all that is in our own power. It is only in our diligent endeavours that we can rightly expect his blessing: and then let us believe, and we shall quickly find, that God is more ready to give than we are to receive. To our utmost let us endeavour to clear our debts, though what remains should prove a very scanty livelihood: for nothing is properly our own till this be done. Acquaintance and friendship with God's servants is a principal ornament of the great: and happy are those families where both heads agree in it. Happy and wise those rich persons who desire no advancement. And nothing is more comely than for those who receive favours to feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up her son, and went out.

38 ¶ And Elisha came again to Gilgal. And there was a dearth in the land; and the sons of the prophets were sitting before him: and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap full, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat. And it came to pass, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out and said, O thou man of God, there is death in the pot. And they could not eat thereof.

41 But he said, Then bring meal. And he cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot.

42 ¶ And there came a man from Baal-shalisha, and brought the man of God bread of the first fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn in the husk thereof. And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, What, should I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus saith the LORD, They shall eat, and shall leave thereof.

44 So he set it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

Records two more of Elisha's miracles. (1) He cures Naaman the Syrian's leprosy: concerning which observe, 1. Naaman's high honour and loathsome distemper, 1: 2. How the information of a captive maid, a letter from the king of Syria to the king of Israel, and an invitation from Elisha, brought him for his cure, 2—8: 3. Elisha declines speaking to him, but orders him to wash seven times in Jordan; to which, by the entreaty of his servants, he submits, and is healed, 9—14: 4. Naaman's grateful acknowledgments to Elisha, and resolutions to serve the true God, 15—19: (2) He inflicts the leprosy upon Gehazi his own servant. Here, 1. Gehazi belies his master to Naaman, and again lies to his master when calling him to account, 20—25: 2. To punish his dissimulation and falsehood, Naaman's leprosy is entailed on him and his seed; 26, 27.

NOW Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honourable, because by him the LORD had given deliverance unto Syria; he was also a mighty man in valour; but he was a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid, and she waited on Naaman's wife.

3 And she said unto her mistress, be earnest in expressing their gratitude: but effectual fervent prayers are the best returns that we can make. How welcome and dear are children to such as have long wanted them! and yet how quickly they may be lost! We need always to stand ready for a sudden stroke. Death often seizes at a short warning. But in every affliction the view of God's hand should silence us. If he who gives takes away, we are called to be thankful for the length of the loan; and not to murmur that God resumes his gift. And we have need to be careful attendants on the ordinances of God, and to secure abiding comforts there, since the joys of earth so ebb and flow, and are but born and die. What sympathy do tender mothers, bereaved of their children, need at our hand! But the effectual fervent prayers of faith are prevalent even over death: for in his sovereign authority God kills and makes alive. Such as God sends to awaken dead sinners had need to be men of prayer and patience. Prophets should be content with common fare;—examples of mortification while they preach it to others; and they should be ready to communicate to others who are in need. But alas! how sin has rendered our tables snares and traps, and our provision poisonous! It is of the Lord's mercies that our meat nourisheth us. And he can easily make a little coarse, or even bitter, food a plentiful and pleasant feast.

1 Cor. 1. 27, 28.

Would God my lord were [†]with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy.

4 And one went in, and told his lord, saying, Thus and thus said [†]the maid that is of the land of Israel.

5 And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now, when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him of his leprosy.

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me.

8 ¶ And it was so, when Elisha the man of God had heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha.

10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said, Behold, *†I thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and †strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.

12 Are not || Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not wash in them, and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage.

13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash and be clean?

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

15 ¶ And he returned to the man of God, he and all his company, and came, and stood before him: and he said, Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth but in Israel: now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing of thy servant.

16 But he said, As the LORD liveth, before whom I stand, I will receive none. And he urged him to take it, but he refused.

17 And Naaman said, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant two mules' burden of earth? for thy servant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering nor sacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

18 In this thing the LORD pardon thy servant, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon to worship there, and he leaneth on my hand, and ||I bow myself in the house of Rimmon; when I bow down myself in the house of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy servant in this thing.

19 And he said unto him, Go in peace. So he departed from him a little way.

20 ¶ But Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Naaman the Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought: but, as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take somewhat of him.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman. And, when Naaman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and said, Is all well?

22 And he said, All is well. My master hath sent me, saying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

23 And Naaman said, Be content, take two talents. And he urged him, and bound †two talents of silver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his servants; and they bare them before him.

24 And, when he came to the tower, he took them from their hand, and bestowed them in the house; and he let the men go, and they departed.

25 But he went in, and stood before his master. And Elisha said unto him, Whence comest thou, Gehazi? And he said, Thy servant went no whither.

26 And he said unto him, Went not mine heart with thee when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee? is it a time to receive money, and to receive garments, and olive yards, and vineyards, and sheep, and oxen, and men servants, and maid servants?

27 The leprosy therefore of Naaman shall cleave unto thee, and unto thy seed for ever. And he went out from his presence a leper as white as snow.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—Greatness and wealth avail so little to make men happy, that they cannot preserve them from the sorest and most loathsome calamities. God can make the captivity and distress of his people an useful mean for spreading the knowledge of himself; and even out of the mouths of babes and sucklings he can perfect praise. It is a great privilege to have servants who know God, and seek the welfare of the family. Men are generally willing to try every expedient, and bestow the utmost expense and trouble, to obtain a cure of their bodily distempers: but how few regard the worth or welfare of their souls! and how readily carnal men fancy that supernatural benefits must be purchased by carnal profits! Men who are conscious of their ill deserts often tremble at every shadow, and disquiet their minds, by misinterpreting the most innocent intentions of their neighbours. But God, in mercy, oftentimes helps the wicked far beyond what they have reason to expect. And ministers ought to seize upon every opportunity of manifesting the power and grace of God: but never ought they to sully their character by a complaisant crouching to the pride of great men. Proud spirits readily interpret the least suspected slight

CHAP. VI.

Still Elisha continues working miracles. (1) He makes an iron ax-head to swim in behalf of a young prophet; 1—7. (2) He discloses the secret counsels of Ben-hadad king of Syria to Jehoram king of Israel; 8—12. (3) Syrian troops being sent to apprehend him on this account, he smites them with blindness; and, having led them to Samaria, restores their sight by his prayer; 13—23. Yet, (4) When Samaria is besieged by the Syrians till the famine obliged women to eat their own children, Jehoram in vain attempts to murder him for not raising the siege or supplying the inhabitants with food; 24—38.

890.

AND the sons of the prophets said unto Elisha, Behold, now, the place where we dwell with thee is too strait for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan, and take thence every man a beam; and let us make a place there where we may dwell. And he answered, Go ye.

3 And one said, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he answered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan they cut down wood.

5 But, as one was felling a beam, the ax-head fell into the water: and he cried, and said, Alas, master, for it was borrowed!

6 And the man of God said, Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. And he cut down a stick, and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim.

7 Therefore said he, Take it up to thee. And he put out his hand and took it.

8 ¶ Then the king of Syria warred against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying, In such and such a place shall be my camp.

9 And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place, for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place which the man of God told him and warned him of, and saved himself there, not once nor twice.

11 ¶ Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing; and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not shew me which of us is for the king of Israel?

12 And one of his servants said, None, my lord, O king: but Elisha, the prophet that is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel the words that thou speakest in thy bed-chamber.

13 And he said, Go, and spy where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And it was told him, saying, Behold, he is in Dothan.

14 Therefore sent he thither horses, and chariots, and a great host: and they came by night, and compassed the city about.

15 ¶ And, when the servant of the man of God was risen early, and gone forth, behold, an host compassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master! how shall we do?

16 And he answered, Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them.

17 And Elisha prayed, and said, LORD, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw: and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha.

18 ¶ And, when they came down to him, Elisha prayed unto the LORD, and said, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindness. And he smote them with blindness, according to the word of Elisha.

19 And Elisha said unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye seek. But he led them to Samaria.

20 And it came to pass, when they were come into Samaria, that Elisha said, LORD, open the eyes of these men, that they may see. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they saw; and, behold, they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 And the king of Israel said unto Elisha, when he saw them, My father, shall I smite them? shall I smite them?

22 And he answered, Thou shalt not smite them: wouldest thou smite those whom thou hast taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow? set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go to their master.

23 And he prepared great provision for them: and, when they had eaten and drunk, he sent them away, and they went to their master. So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Israel.

24 ¶ And it came to pass, after this, that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered all his host, and went up, and besieged Samaria.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and, behold, they besieged it until an ass's head was sold for four-score pieces of silver, and the fourth part of a cab of doves' dung for five pieces of silver.

26 ¶ And, as the king of Israel was passing by upon the wall, there cried a woman unto him, saying, Help, my lord, O king!

27 And he said, If the LORD do not help thee, whence shall I help thee? out of the barn floor, or out of the wine press?

into an heinous affront: and the wise in their own conceit often ruin themselves by contempt of the simple dictates and ordinances of God. But O the riches of his grace, that stops our course when we forsake our own mercy! It is happy for proud and passionate masters to have servants faithful, calm, and prudent, to offer them an advice: and we see here the happy consequences of sometimes attending to it. Hopeful is our case if we once submit to God's method of relief: for by what simple means can he effect the most wonderful deliverance. Never then let me, through the pride of my heart, reject his means of salvation, or stumble at the simplicity of a crucified Redeemer: his blood and spirit can cleanse the foulest leprosy of sin, and restore the most diseased sinner; and I am bid only to wash and be clean. Never let me wish to prescribe to him, in the paths of his providence, who can thus, by the weakest means, produce the greatest ends, and manifest his power and glory. That knowledge of God which is obtained by such an experience of his goodness will always be most fruitful, while holy gratitude disposes us to a careful performance of duty both towards God and men; leads us to regard the prayers of God's people, to remember past transgressions with grief, and to resolve for the future to abstain from all appearance of evil. But alas! that those, who have most and best instructions and examples, should have all lost upon them! Parents and masters cannot convert their children or servants. Covetousness tempts to lying, and almost every other evil; and one sin always leads on to another. Hope of concealment and impunity is a great encouragement to do evil. But short-lived, transitory, and bitter in the end, is prosperous wickedness: and how often men, by their covetousness and falsehood, entail plagues on themselves and their posterity!

tude of the Israelites that are consumed,) and let us send and see.

14 They took therefore two *chariot horses; and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying, Go and see.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan; and, lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste. And the messengers returned, and told the king.

16 And the people went out, and spoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a measure of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, "according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whose hand he leaned to have the charge of the gate: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had said, who spake when the king came down to him.

18 And it came to pass as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying, Two measures of barley for a shekel, and a measure of fine flour for a shekel, shall be to-morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord answered the man of God, and said, Now, behold, if the LORD should make windows in heaven, might such a thing be? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof.

20 And so it fell out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAP. VIII.

Here, (1) Elisha's Shunammite friend, having, by his advice, retired from the famine into the land of the Philistines, returns after seven years; and, on his account, is by king Jehoram reinstated in her property; 1-6. (2) Elisha having gone to Damascus, Ben-hadad, by Hazael his general, consults him whether he should recover. Hazael, hearing that himself should be king, murders his master, and seizes the crown; 7-15. (3) Jehoram of Judah, after reigning about seven years with his father Jehoshaphat, reigns alone over Judah most wickedly; and the Edomites and Libnites revolt; 16-24. (4) Ahaziah begins his short and wicked reign; and attends Joram his uncle, king of Israel, to the war with the Syrians; and comes to visit him when he returned wounded; 25-29.

THEN spake Elisha unto the woman whose son he had restored to life, saying, Arise, and go, thou and thine household, and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn: for the LORD hath called for a famine; and it shall also come upon the land seven years.

2 And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God: and she went with her household, and sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years.

3 And it came to pass, at the seven years' end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines: and she went forth to cry unto the king for her house and for her land.

4 And the king talked with Gehazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done.

5 And it came to pass, as he was telling the king how he had restored a dead body to life, that, behold, the woman, whose son he had restored to life, cried to the king for her house and for her land. And Gehazi said, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha restored to life.

6 And, when the king asked the woman, she told him. So the king appointed unto her a certain officer, saying, Restore all that was her's, and all the fruits of the field since the day that she left the land, even until now.

7 ¶ And Elisha came to Damascus; and Ben-hadad the king of Syria was sick; and it was told him, saying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king said unto Hazael, Take a present in thine hand, and go meet the man of God, and inquire of the LORD by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a present with him, even of every good thing of Damascus, forty camels' burden, and came and stood before him, and said, Thy son Ben-hadad king of Syria hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

10 And Elisha said unto him, Go, say unto him, Thou mayest certainly recover: howbeit, the LORD hath shewed me that he shall surely die.

11 And he settled his countenance steadfastly until he was ashamed: and the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, Because I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Israel: their strong holds wilt thou set on fire, and their young men wilt thou slay with the sword, and wilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child.

13 And Hazael said, But what, is thy servant a dog, that he should do this great thing? And Elisha answered, The LORD hath shewed me that thou shalt be king over Syria.

14 So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master; who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, He told me that thou shouldest surely recover.

15 And it came to pass, on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipped it in water, and spread it on his face, so that he died: and Hazael reigned in his stead.

16 ¶ And in the fifth year of Joram, the son of Ahab king of Israel, Jehoshaphat being then king of Judah, Jehoram

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—Remarkable relief is often near when there is no appearance of it. But sinners, and especially idol courtiers, are bent to discredit and ridicule God's promises and purposes, to their own ruin. Nothing more provokes God against men than an unbelieving contempt of his gifts and promises. But the terrors of God can soon make the stoutest to tremble, and to flee when no man pursueth, in order to work deliverance for his people.—Hard necessity will compel men to the most dangerous adventures; and, if God grant us relief, we ought to publish our mercies, that others may share with us in our comforts. But how terrible is their destruction who have contemned the promises of God! The means of deliverance to others prove ruinous to them. No human greatness, or favour of kings, can protect them from the arm of God: nay, nor even from being victims of popular rage. Stand in awe, my soul; always believe that it shall be unto thee as God hath said; for is there any thing too hard for the Lord? In depths of distress cast thyself on his mercy. None perish that trust in him. Comfort others with the consolations wherewith thou art comforted of Christ. And God forbid that I should see the glories of redemption, and yet never share thereof.

Before Christ 891. the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah began to reign.

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wife: and he did evil in the sight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah for David his servant's sake, as he promised him to give him alway a light, and to his children.

20 In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over themselves.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him; and he rose by night, and smote the Edomites which compassed him about, and the captains of the chariots: and the people fled into their tents.

22 Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. Then Libnah revolted at the same time.

23 And the rest of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

24 And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

25 In the twelfth year of Joram the son of Ahab king of Israel did Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

26 Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri king of Israel.

27 And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did evil in the sight of the LORD, as did the house of Ahab: for he was the son-in-law of the house of Ahab.

28 And he went with Joram the son of Ahab to the war against Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-gilead; and the Syrians wounded Joram.

29 And king Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria. And Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.

CHAP. IX.

Hazael, the Syrian destroyer of Israel, being fixed on his throne, Jehu, the destroyer of Ahab's house, is now advanced. (1) By Elisha's order, a young prophet anoints Jehu to be king of Israel, and delivers him God's commission to destroy the family of Ahab; 1—10. (2) Jehu communicates his order to his fellow captains at Ramoth-gilead; 11—15. (3) To prevent resistance, he rides instantly to Jezreel, attended with some trusty friends, kills Joram king of Israel, Ahaziah king of Judah, and Jezebel widow of Ahab their mother; 16—37.

Before Christ 884.

AND Elisha the prophet called one of the children of the prophets, and said unto him, Gird up thy loins, and take this box of oil in thine hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead:

2 And, when thou comest thither, look out there Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi, and go in, and make him arise up from among his brethren, and carry him to an inner chamber;

3 Then take the box of oil, and pour it on his head, and say, Thus saith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Israel. Then open the door, and flee, and tarry not.

4 So the young man, even the young man the prophet, went to Ramoth-gilead.

5 And, when he came, behold, the captains of the host were sitting; and he said, I have an errand to thee, O captain. And Jehu said, Unto which of all us? And he said, To thee, O captain.

6 And he arose, and went into the house; and he poured the oil on his head, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I have anointed thee king over the people of the LORD, even over Israel.

7 And thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy master, that I may avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the LORD, at the hand of Jezebel.

8 For the whole house of Ahab shall perish; and I will cut off from Ahab him that pisseth against the wall, and him that is shut up and left in Israel:

9 And I will make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha the son of Ahijah.

10 And the dogs shall eat Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel, and there shall be none to bury her. And he opened the door, and fled.

11 Then Jehu came forth to the servants of his lord; and one said unto him, Is all well? wherefore came this mad fellow to thee? And he said unto them, Ye know the man, and his communication.

12 And they said, It is false; tell us now. And he said, Thus and thus spake he to me, saying, Thus saith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Israel.

13 Then they hasted and took every man his garment, and put it under him

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—How severely God corrects apostate professors! His providences make us sometimes glad to leave the most commodious settlement on earth. And how ready are most to take advantage against, and to seize on, the property of the absent or distressed. But it is a mercy if we have magistrates to whom we may safely appeal from the injustice of friends or neighbours. God in his providence remarkably connects things for the welfare of those who fear him and have shewn kindness to his servants. He can raise us up friends in our difficulties where we least expected them. And it is the glory of a government to administer justice impartially to the oppressed. Diseases and death, without ceremony, attack the most great and powerful: and affliction often changes men's minds, and makes them to regard ministers and prayers, which they had formerly contemned and hated. But ah! the bloody and barbarous rage of war! Enraged pride sticks at nothing. In high stations men will, without remorse, perpetrate what would have shocked them when in low conditions: and nothing is too horrid for the human heart left to itself, and violently tempted. Few courtiers report the naked truth to their sovereigns: and flatterers are most to be suspected for enemies. They who flatter us with hopes of life hinder our serious preparation for death. The inordinate desire of power will prompt men to villany and murder. And the sinful indulgence of children, or too early trusting them with power, and especially their unequal marriages with wicked women, entail upon families and nations the most certain misery. But death and hell infallibly meet with tyrants at last. And alas! in their way to it, how often are the wounds of their body taken care of, while those of their soul are neglected.

on the top of the stairs, and ^ablew with trumpets, saying, Jehu [†]is king.

14 So Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi ^aconspired against Joram. (Now Joram had ^akept Ramoth-gilead, he and all Israel, because of Hazael king of Syria:

15 But ^aking [†]Joram was returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.) And Jehu said, If it be your minds, ^athen ^alet none go forth ^anor escape out of the city to go to tell ^ait in Jezreel.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel; for Joram lay there. And ^aAhaziah king of Judah was come down to see Joram.

17 And there stood ^aa watchman on the tower in Jezreel, and he spied the company of Jehu as he came, and said, I see a company. And Joram said, Take an horseman, and send to meet them, and let him say, Is it peace?

18 So there went one on horseback to meet him, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

19 Then he sent out a second on horseback, who came to them, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu answered, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

20 And the watchman told, saying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the ^adriving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi; for he driveth ^a*furiously.

21 And Joram said, [†]Make ready. And his chariot was made ready. And Joram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah went out, each in his chariot, and they went out against Jehu, and [†]met him ^ain the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

22 And it came to pass, when Joram saw Jehu, that he said, Is it peace, Jehu? And he answered, What peace, so long as the ^awhoredoms of thy mother Jezebel and her witchcrafts ^aare so many?

23 And Joram ^aturned his hands, and fled, and said to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

24 And Jehu ^adrew a bow with his full strength, ^aand smote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart, and he ^a*sunk down in his chariot.

25 Then said Jehu to Bidcar his captain, Take up, and cast him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite: for remember how that, when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, ^athe LORD laid this burden upon him.

26 Surely I have seen yesterday the ^ablood of Naboth, and the blood of his ^asons, saith the LORD; and I will requite thee in this ^aplat, saith the LORD. Now, therefore, take and cast him into the plat of ground, according to the word of the LORD.

27 ¶ But, when ^aAhaziah the king of Judah saw ^athis, he fled by the way of the garden house. And Jehu followed after him, and said, Smite him also in the chariot. And they did so at the going up to Gur, which is by ^aIbleam. And he ^afled to Megiddo, and died there.

28 And his ^aservants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre with his fathers in the city of David.

29 And in the ^aeleventh year of Joram the son of Ahab began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.

30 ¶ And, when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of ^ait; and she ^apaintred her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window.

31 And as Jehu entered in at the gate she said, Had ^aZimri peace, who slew his master?

32 And he lifted up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side? who? And there looked out to him two or three ^a*eunuchs.

33 And he said, Throw her down. So they threw her down; and ^asome of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses: and he ^atrode her under foot.

34 And when he was come in he did eat and drink, and said, Go, see now this ^acursed woman, and ^abury her; for she is ^aa king's daughter.

35 And they went to bury her; but they found no more of her than the scull, and the feet, and the palms of ^aher hands.

36 Wherefore they came again, and told him. And he said, This is the word of the LORD, which he spake ^a†by his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, †In the portion of Jezreel shall dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel:

37 And the carcase of Jezebel shall be as ^a†dung upon the face of the field in the portion of Jezreel; so that they shall not say, This is Jezebel.

CHAP. X.

Here (1) Jehu proceeds in his work against the house of Ahab; causes the elders of Samaria to murder seventy of his children or grandchildren; 1—10: kills his kinsfolk and priests of the family; 11—14. 17. After meeting Jehonadab the Kenite, he invites the worshippers of Baal to a feast, and massacres them; 15—25; and extirpates the worship of Baal; 26—28. (2) While

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—God's ministers must communicate their labours and honours one with another; and must discharge their office in a faithful, prudent, active, and disinterested manner, let men account them mad, or any thing they please. To what terrible lengths professors of the true religion go before God entirely rejects them from being his people! But such as rule ought to consider God as the source of their power, and to use it humbly for his glory. To what fearful work God sometimes appoints magistrates! and there is need of great singleness and steadiness in executing it. To ask advice from our equals or inferiors is the most effectual method to procure their consent: and matters of importance ought to be transacted with proper secrecy and dispatch. Tottering is the throne of wicked kings; and terrible destruction hangs over the sinner's head! But persecutors of God's people are reckoned by him the most heinous offenders; and they who persist in their impenitence shall be rooted out at last; and companions of fools shall be destroyed along with them. Solid peace can never consist with wilful sinning, let sinners wish and expect it as they will; and whoredoms, which are now men's pleasure, will shortly issue in everlasting pain. Providence strangely connects the circumstances of men's punishment with those of their crimes and his own threatenings; and all things work for their overthrow whom he hath devoted to destruction. Themselves are made to rush on their ruin: and God's instruments of wrath may be insulted, but will not be intimidated. Wickedness and wretchedness are really inseparable, and at last meet in fearful forms. Painting and pampering do but ripen for tremendous woe. And, though for a time sinners may lift their heads high, they will shortly be brought low in death, and still lower in hell: and not only their corpse, but their memory, shall rot and perish. And, whether instruments intend it or not, the word of the Lord shall have its full accomplishment.

God assigns him the crown of Israel for five generations, as his reward, he continues adhering to the idolatry of the golden calves; 29—31. (3) To punish his and his subjects' sin, they are terribly distressed and murdered by Hazael, king of Syria, before Jehu's own death; 32—36.

And they took them alive, and slew them at the pit of the shearing house, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.

34 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

35 And Jehu slept with his fathers; and they buried him in Samaria. And Jehoahaz his son reigned in his stead.

36 And ^{*}the time that Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria was twenty and eight years.

CHAP. XI.

Having seen one terrible revolution in Israel, we have now a merciful one in Judah. (1) Athaliah, daughter of Ahab and mother of Ahaziah, enraged by the ruin of her son and friends, murders every descendant of king David she could find, her own grandchildren not excepted; and seizes on the crown for herself; 1, 2, 3. (2) Joash, an infant son of Ahaziah, is wonderfully preserved by his aunt; and after six years is publicly produced by Jehoiada his uncle; 2, 4—12. (3) Alarmed by the noise of the solemnity, Athaliah repairs to the court of the temple, and is slain by Jehoiada's order; 13—16. (4) By means of solemn covenanting with God, and with one another, idolatry is extirpated, and true religion and liberty restored; 17—21.

AND, when ^aAthaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose, and ^bdestroyed all the ^{*}seed royal.

2 But ^cJehosheba, the daughter of king Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons which were slain; and they hid him, even him and his nurse, in the ^dbed chamber from Athaliah, so that he was not slain.

3 And he was with her hid in the house of the LORD six years. And Athaliah did ^ereign over the land.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—Obstinate sinners lay up terrible judgments for themselves and their seed: and loads of guilt extirpate numerous and flourishing families. But none are more ready to imbrue their hands in the blood of a sovereign's children than those who have been his instruments in murdering the innocent. No regard to their prince will afterwards restrain those whose hands have by his order been drenched in blood. They who debase men's consciences will find the effects of it return on their own heads. Guilt makes men spiritless cowards when brought to a trial; they will be always ready to side with the strongest; and, when they want an excuse to cover their shame, any shadow of argument will stand. It is common for wicked men to lessen their guilt by comparing it with that of others. But friendship and intimacy with sinners involves us in their punishment: and such as have been instruments in wickedness share in the ruin of their wicked encouragers. How righteous are the judgments of God, even when the executors act wickedly! But it is ill-boding when pretended reformers are proud of their work, and indulge themselves in hypocrisy

4 ¶ And the seventh year Jehoiada sent and fetched the rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the guard, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD, and made a ^ecovenant with them, and took an oath of them in the house of the LORD, and shewed them the king's son.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part ^hof you that enter in on the sabbath shall even be keepers of the watch of the king's house;

6 And a third part shall be at the gate of Sur; and a third part at the gate behind the guard: so shall ye keep the watch of the house, that it be not broken down.

7 And two [†]parts of all you that ^kgo forth on the sabbath, even they shall keep the watch of the house of the LORD about the king.

8 And ye shall compass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand: and he that cometh within the ranges, let him be slain: and be ye with the king as he goeth out and as he cometh in.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath, with them that should go out on the sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest.

10 And to the captains over hundreds did the priest give king ^mDavid's spears and shields, that were in the temple of the LORD.

11 And the guard stood, every man with his weapons in his hand, round about the king, from the right ^{*}corner of the [†]temple to the left corner of the temple, along by the altar and the temple.

12 And he brought forth ^othe king's son, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the ^ptestimony; and they made him king, and ^aanointed him; and they clapped their hands, and said, ^sGod save the king.

13 ¶ And, when Athaliah heard the noise of the guard and of the people, she came to the people into the temple of the LORD.

14 And, when she looked, behold, the king stood by a ^upillar, as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the king, and ^xall the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets: and Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, ^yTreason, treason!

and falsehood to accomplish it. They who boast of their zeal give ground to suspect their sincerity. And though the godly, whom they caress for their selfish interests, cannot but approve what is apparently good, the Lord will at last discover their hypocrisy and evil. False religion ought to be extirpated, and obstinate idolaters slain: and, if men overlook them, Jesus will at last convene them to execute his vengeance upon them. It shews the great evil of the heart when the wisdom of the serpent meets with its poison in our work; and when with severity we extirpate one form of false worship, yet cleave at the same time to another. Real converts must put away all sin without reserve. For how awful will be our state, if, when we have done good to the souls of others, we should lose our own by our negligence in the service of God! If hypocrites receive their temporary reward of good deeds on earth, how much more glorious the reward of the diligent saint! And, while God rewards men for what they do well, it is just that he should severely punish them for what they do amiss.

15 But Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the host, and said unto them, Have her forth without the ranges; and him that followeth her kill with the sword. For the priest had said, Let her not be slain in the house of the LORD.

16 And they laid hands on her; and she went by the way by the which the horses came into the king's house, and there ^bwas she slain.

17 ¶ And Jehoiada made a covenant between the LORD and the king, and the people, that they should be the LORD's people; between ^athe king also and the people.

18 And all the people of the land went into the house of Baal, and brake it down; his altars and his images brake they in pieces thoroughly, and slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. And the priest appointed [†]officers over the house of the LORD.

19 And he took the rulers over hundreds, and the captains, and the guard, and all the people of the land; and they brought down the king from the house of the LORD, and came by the way of the gate of the guard to the king's house. And he sat on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was in quiet: and they slew Athaliah with the sword beside the king's house.

21 ^bSeven years old was Jehoash when he began to reign.

CHAP. XII.

Inform us (1) How well Jehoash reigned while Jehoiada lived to direct him, though the reformation he made was not complete; 1—3. (2) How active both were in repairing the temple of God, which, during the late idolatries, had been going to ruin; 4—16. (3) How, after a mean composition with Hazael king of Syria, Jehoash was murdered by his own servants; 17—21.

IN ^athe seventh year of Jehu Jehoash began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD all his days wherein Jehoiada the priest instructed him.

3 But ^dthe high places were not taken away: the people still sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places.

4 ¶ And Jehoash said to the priests, All the money of the dedicated ^{*}things that is brought into the house of the LORD, even the money of every one that [†]passeth the account, [†]the money that every man is ^eset at, and all the money that [†]cometh into any man's heart to bring into the house of the LORD.

5 Let the priests take it to them, every man of his acquaintance; and let them repair the breaches of the house wheresoever any breach shall be found.

6 But it was so, that, in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoash, the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house.

7 Then king Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and the other priests, and said unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the house? now therefore ^kreceive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it for the breaches of the house.

8 And the priests ^lconsented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the house.

9 But Jehoiada the priest ^mtook a chest, and bored a hole in the lid of it, and set it beside the altar, on the right side as one cometh into the house of the LORD: and the priests that kept the door put therein all the money that was brought into the house of the LORD.

10 And it was so, when they saw that there was much money in the chest, that the king's ^pscribe and the high priest came up, and they ^{||}put up in bags, and told the money that was found in the house of the LORD.

11 And they ^qgave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work, that had the oversight of the house of the LORD: and they ^{}laid it out to the carpenters and builders that wrought upon the house of the LORD, 12 And to masons and hewers of stone, and to buy timber and hewed stone to repair the breaches of the house of the LORD, and for all that ^{}was laid out for the house to repair it.

13 Howbeit, ^rthere were not made for the house of the LORD bowls of silver, snuffers, basons, trumpets, any vessels of gold, or vessels of silver, of the money that was brought into the house of the LORD.

14 But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the house of the LORD.

15 Moreover, ^sthey reckoned not with the men into whose hand they delivered the money to be bestowed on workmen; for they dealt faithfully.

16 The ^ttrespass money and sin money was not brought into the house of the LORD: it was the priests'.

17 ¶ Then ^uHazael king of Syria went up, and fought against ^{*}Gath, and took it: and Hazael ^vset his face to go up to Jerusalem.

18 And Jehoash king of Judah ^wtook all the hallowed things that Jehoshaphat, and Jehoram, and Ahaziah, his fathers, kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treasures of the

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—Mad ambition to reign steals the heart against the most natural affections: and men would be devils incarnate, were it not for the restraining grace of God. Even women would do every thing horrid to secure their unlawful power, or wreak their malice against God and his favourites. What terrible bloodshed and ruin to a family, does the introduction of one wicked woman produce! [Comp. 2 Chron. xxi. 4. and xxii. 1, 2 Kings x. 14. and xi. 1.] But, however sinners triumph in their wickedness, their judgment lingers not; and believers shall be plucked as brands out of the burning. The promise of God shall be fulfilled, let Satan and his agents do their worst; and all the activity of sinners shall but hasten their own ruin. God shall hunt out the remains of accursed families, till they be utterly destroyed: and neither wicked calumnies nor loud cries shall avail them. But what a blessing is one great man to a church or nation, when he is active, prudent, and pious! They, who first give themselves to the Lord, may comfortably hope for his blessing upon their undertakings: and civil establishments are best founded in a due care of true religion. That kingdom will be truly happy where God's word is made the rule of the monarch's government, and of the people's obedience: and, when religion comes in fashion, every man will appear zealous; and religion, liberty, and order, will support one another.

19 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Joash, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And his servants arose, and made a conspiracy, and slew Joash in the house of Millo, which goeth down to Silla.

21 For Jozachar the son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad the son of Shomer, his servants, smote him, and he died; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XIII.

Returns to the kings of Israel descended from Jehu. (1) Jehoahaz his son reigns as wickedly as himself; his kingdom is almost ruined by Hazael king of Syria; 1—3, 7, 22: but, humbling himself, and crying to God, he obtains some relief; 4, 5, 23; yet at last dies obstinate in his idolatries; 6, 8, 9. (2) Jehoash his son succeeds him, and reigns wickedly; but gains several advantages over the Syrians; 10, 13, 24, 25. (3) Elisha, now very aged, is, in his last sickness, visited by Jehoash, whom, by the symbolical shooting of an arrow, and smiting thrice with others on the ground, he assures of three victories over the Syrians; 14—19: he dies, and is buried; and a dead man is restored to life by touching his bones; 20, 21.

IN the three and twentieth year of Joash, the son of Ahaziah king of Judah, Jehoahaz the son of Judah began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned seventeen years.

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and followed the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat which made Israel to sin; he departed not therefrom.

3 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hand of Benhadad the son of Hazael, all their days.

4 And Jehoahaz besought the LORD, and the LORD hearkened unto him: for he saw the oppression of Israel, because the king of Syria oppressed them.

5 (And the LORD gave Israel a saviour, so that they went out from under the hand of the Syrians: and the children of Israel dwelt in their tents as beforetime.)

6 Nevertheless, they departed not from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, who made Israel sin, but walked therein: and there remained the grove also in Samaria.)

7 Neither did he leave of the people to Jehoahaz but fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen; for the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like the dust by threshing.

8 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

9 And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers; and they buried him in Samaria: and Joash his son reigned in his stead.

10 ¶ In the thirty and seventh year of Joash king of Judah began Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned sixteen years.

11 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel sin; but he walked therein.

12 And the rest of the acts of Joash, and all that he did, and his might where-with he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

13 And Joash slept with his fathers; and Jeroboam sat upon his throne: and Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

14 ¶ Now Elisha was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he died. And Joash the king of Israel came down unto him, and wept over his face, and said, O my father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof!

15 And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he said to the king of Israel, Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Elisha put his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he said, Open the window eastward. And he opened it. Then Elisha said, Shoot. And he shot. And he said, The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou shalt smite the Syrians in Aphek till thou have consumed them.

18 And he said, Take the arrows. And he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, Smite upon the ground. And he smote thrice, and stayed.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and said, Thou shouldest have smitten five or six times; then hadst thou smitten Syria till thou hadst consumed it: whereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice.

20 ¶ And Elisha died, and they buried him. And the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year.

21 And it came to pass, as they were burying a man, that, behold, they spied a band of men; and they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisha: and when the man was let down, and touched the bones of Elisha, he revived, and stood up on his feet.

22 ¶ But Hazael king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compassion on them, and

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—Old and evil customs are hard to root out; and rarely is the reformation of religion exactly answerable to the divine standard of God's word. Fear of men, or hopes that corruptions will die away of their own accord, often make good men to stop short. What a mercy it is for youth, particularly princes, to have pious, prudent, and faithful tutors! And often young hypocrites, under such care, manifest for a time more forwardness in the work of reformation than the aged servants of God. How hopeful it is when liberality, in contributing for sacred purposes, meets with prudence and fidelity in the disposal. But, when men are only restrained from evil by the influence of others, their wickedness readily breaks out at last, and they destroy what they have built. Hypocrites will not always call on God, but will become foolish in their imaginations, and hasten their own ruin by the means which they use to prevent it. And upon none does God more readily imprint distinguished marks of his vengeance than upon apostate hypocrites, who chiefly dishonour his cause.

had respect unto them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and would not destroy them; neither cast he them from his *presence as yet.

24 So Hazael king of Syria died; and Ben-hadad his son reigned in his stead.

25 And Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz took again out of the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Hazael the cities which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war. Three times did Joash beat him, and recovered the cities of Israel.

CHAP. XIV.

Here we have (1) Amaziah, king of Judah, reigning well in part, 1-4: punishing the murderers of his father Jehoash, 5, 6: routing the Edomites, 7: proudly pushing a ruinous war with Jehoash king of Israel, 8-14: murdered by his servants, and succeeded by his son; 17-22. (2) Jeroboam II. king of Israel, succeeding his father Jehoash, after being his partner about twelve years, recovering the territory, and restoring the national glory of Israel; but still adhering to the golden calves; 15, 16, 23-29.

IN the *second year of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, reigned Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah.

2 He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was bright in the sight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: he did according to all things as Joash his father did.

4 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away: as yet the people did sacrifice and burnt incense on the high places.

5 ¶ And it came to pass, as soon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, that he slew his servants which had slain the king his father.

6 But the children of the murderers he slew not. According unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moses, wherein the LORD commanded, saying, "The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man shall be put to death for his own sin."

7 ¶ He slew of Edom in the valley of salt ten thousand; and took †Selah by war, and called the name of it Joktheel unto this day.

8 ¶ Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, let us look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoash the king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thistle that was in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle.

10 Thou hast indeed smitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this, and tarry †at home: for why shouldest thou meddle to thy hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amaziah would not hear. Therefore Jehoash king of Israel went up; and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was put to the worse before Israel; and they fled every man to their tents.

13 And Jehoash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Jehoash the son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and came to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner gate, four hundred cubits.

14 And he took all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house, and hostages, and returned to Samaria.

15 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoash which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel: and Jeroboam his son reigned in his stead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah, the son of Joash king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years.

solemn was his call to his offices, which was confirmed by numerous and diversified miracles! Coming after the New-Testament Elijah, John Baptist, he was solemnly initiated to his work on Jordan's bank. By his complete robe of righteousness he divided the depths of wrath and Jordan's of trouble. By his right covenant of salt, and the grace thereof, he rectifies the bitter waters and barren soil of law precepts and curses, and of multiplied troubles. By him streams of gospel truths, ordinances, and influences, break forth in the wilderness for perishing sinners; and the barren Gentile world he makes a joyfulness for perishing sinners; and the barren Gentile world he makes a joyfulness for perishing sinners, and these fruitful in good works. To destitute souls and churches he multiplies their oil of grace, till there be no more room to receive it. By his word he often quickened the dead; and many such his death discharged from their graves. By his death and intercession he quickens millions dead in trespasses and sins. By his word he sweetens our bitter lots of temptations and troubles; he restores our sinking spirits, and supplies our famished souls. Multitudes of Gentile sinners he freely cures of their sinful leprosy, by complete purification in the river of his blood and spirit; and renders them hearty worshippers of the true God. He is the strength and protector of his church, who gives his people victories, ruins their enemies, and manages the nations around for their good. How terrible is the resentment of heaven against his injuries! They that mock him are rent in pieces, while there is none to deliver them. Those ministers, who preach for filthy lucre, or who by error and falsehood wound his honour, shall infamously perish in their sin. They who attend his ordinances with malignant intentions shall be smitten with spiritual blindness and delusion. They who discredit his word, or despise his promises, shall see it with their eyes, but never share of its benefits. Tremendous vengeance befell Judas who betrayed him: and awful is the curse that has fallen on the Jews who reviled, disbelieved, and persecuted him; and which shall at last fall on all his obstinate despisers.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—How obstinately do men cleave to that which is evil! When idolatry is once rooted in a nation, nothing but the power of God can extirpate it; and, when men make themselves wicked, God will make them base and miserable. But he is ready to hear the prayer of distress. His mercy abounds even to the chief of sinners. But they, who after both judgments and mercies continue in their sin, may expect to have at last judgment without mercy. How sovereignly God magnifies his servants, or renders them obscure, as he pleases! In what diversified forms they leave this world! Evident marks of God's favour and image are impressed upon some ministers and saints, that even wicked magistrates or others are in conscience constrained to honour them, and lament the loss of them: and what instruction, deliverance, and victory, might kings obtain by an intimacy with such! The death-beds of the noted ministers are useful schools of important wisdom: but the removal of the few faithful is a great weakening to the defence of a nation. Their loss is felt in death, who when alive were neglected. God himself, however, liveth as our protector and deliverer; and, when his everlasting arms are employed in our favour, nothing can detain or withstand us. But alas! our confined desires and expectations often cramp our distinguished mercies. We improve not the offers and advantages which God puts into our hands, and often we grieve him and his servants, by losing our mercies for want of desire to obtain them. The death of God's eminent servants is frequently marked with tokens of wrath against their nation or church. And even a prospect of victory over one enemy is attended with trouble from another. But what blessings are good men, by their former examples, instructions, and prayers, even after they are dead! And quickly is the fate of the most powerful and conquering nations reversed when God pleases.

But does not this Elisha present before us a figure of the great God our Saviour! How abundant his fitness for his work! He was endowed with the Spirit above measure. Ardent was his zeal for God, and tender his compassion towards destitute, grieved, fainting, and endangered men. How express and against him in Jerusalem: and he fled to Lachish; but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there.

20 And they brought him on horses; and he was buried at Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 ¶ And all the people of Judah took Azariah, which was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath, and restored it to Judah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

23 ¶ In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the son of Joash king of Judah, Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD: he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

25 He restored the coast of Israel from the entering of Hamath unto the sea of the plain, according to the word of the LORD God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah the son of Amittai, the prophet, who was of Gathhepher.

26 For the LORD saw the affliction of Israel, that it was very bitter: for there was not any shut up, nor any left, nor any helper for Israel.

27 And the LORD said, not that he would blot out the name of Israel from under heaven: but he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joash.

28 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might, how he warred, and how he recovered
Damascus, and Hamath which belonged to Judah, for Israel, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

29 And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, even with the kings of Israel; and Zachariah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XV.

Concerning Judah, we have here (1) The partially good reign and leprosy of Azariah son of Amaziah: 1—7. (2) The good reign of Jotham, (but under both the high places still remain); 32—38.
Concerning Israel, we have five kings, all but the worst murdered, and succeeded by their murderers. (1) Zachariah, the fourth descendant of Jehu, after an interregnum of eleven years, reigns six months, and is slain; 8—12. and succeeded by (2) Shallum, who reigns one month, and is slain; 13—15. and succeeded by (3) Menahem, who, after ten years of barbarous cruelty and oppressive exaction dies; 16—22. and is succeeded by his son (4) Pekahiah, who after two years is slain; 23—26; and succeeded by (5) Pekah, who reigns twenty years, and is slain; and succeeded by Hoshea; 27—31.

IN the twenty and seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel began Aza-riah son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jecholiah of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done;

4 Save that the high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still on the high places.

5 ¶ And the LORD smote the king, so that he was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a several house. And Jotham the king's son was over the house, judging the people of the land.

6 And the rest of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

7 So Azariah slept with his fathers; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David: and Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

8 ¶ In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah did Zachariah the son of Jeroboam reign over Israel in Samaria six months.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

10 And Shallum the son of Jabesh conspired against him, and smote him before the people, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

11 And the rest of the acts of Zacha-riah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

12 This was the word of the LORD which he spake unto Jehu, saying, Thy sons shall sit on the throne of Israel unto the fourth generation. And so it came to pass.

13 ¶ Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah; and he reigned a full month in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the son of Gadi went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and smote Shallum the son of Jabesh in Samaria, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

15 And the rest of the acts of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

16 ¶ Then Menahem smote Tiphseh, and all that were therein, and the coasts thereof from Tirzah: because they opened not to him, therefore he smote it: and all the women therein that were with child he ripped up.

17 ¶ In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah began Menahem the son of Gadi to reign over Israel, and reigned ten years in Samaria.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—It is an easy thing to be a formalist in religion—but God tries the heart. How short-lived is the prosperity of traitors and murderers! Vain minds are proud of little, and are obstinate against good advice. But others will be found proud enough to mortify them, and strong enough to render them miserable. It is madness for the people of God to weaken themselves before their common enemy by their mutual contentions.
They who are least fond of war have ordinarily the best success in it: and they who govern ill raise discontents among their subjects, that issue in their ruin.

But, whatever refuge sinners flee to, it will be found incapable to protect them.
God will take care that his providence shall exactly correspond with his purpose and word. Often indeed wicked persons, families, or nations, are allowed a transient blaze of prosperity just before their final fall into lasting misery and ruin:
but death and hell shall quickly overtake the most prosperous transgressors.

CHAP. XVI.

Relates the shameful history of Ahaz king of Judah. (1) He abandons himself to the most horrid and base idolatry; 1—4. (2) Distressed by an invasion of the Syrians and Israelites, he with his own and the treasures of God's temple, hires the Assyrians to invade their country; 5—9. (3) He causes Urijah the high priest to form a new altar for the temple, after the pattern of the idolatrous one at Damascus; 10—16. (4) He abuses and misplaces the furniture of the temple; 17, 18. (5) He dies to make way for good Hezekiah; 20, 21.

IN the seventeenth year of Pekah the son of Remaliah Ahaz the son of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

2 *Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

5 ¶ Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, came up to Jerusalem to war: and they besieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—Formality in religion, and imperfections in reformation, continue often from generation to generation: and even the best of periods are marked with some token of the Lord's displeasure. He abases them that walk in pride; and by one stroke of disease can make the mightiest monarchs loathsome to others, and a burden to themselves; and, after all their glory, bring them with shame to the grave. For the transgression of a land, how many are the princes thereof! But few traitors and murderers die in their beds. Wicked men are generally fond of power; and in the worst of times will push themselves into it by perjury and murder, and to the perpetual hazard of their own life. And often the most cruel are the most cowardly. But what a mercy is it to enjoy religion, liberty, peace, and safety, under a mild government! By civil wars, murders of princes, and by occasional ravages, God hurries wicked nations into lasting ruin. And often they, who were most forward in securing their settlements, share with the first in desolating judgments. And no less frequently godly magistrates and ministers are taken away from the evil to come, just when the storm is gathering against hypocritical professors.

8 And ^eAhaz took the silver and gold that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house, and sent it for a present to the king of Assyria.

9 And the king of Assyria hearkened unto him: for the king of Assyria ^fwent up against Damascus, and took it, and carried the people of it captive to ^gKir, and slew Rezin.

10 ¶ And king Ahaz went to Damascus ^hto meet Tiglath Pileser king of Assyria, and ⁱsaw an altar that was at Damascus: and king Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest the fashion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanship thereof.

11 And ^kUrijah the priest built an altar according to all that king Ahaz had sent from Damascus: so Urijah the priest made it against king Ahaz came from Damascus.

12 And, when the king was come from Damascus, ^lthe king saw the altar; and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon.

13 And ^mhe burned his burnt-offering and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and sprinkled the blood of ⁿhis peace-offerings, upon the altar.

14 And he brought also ^othe brazen altar, which was before the LORD, from the fore front of the house, from between the altar and the house of the LORD, and put it on the north side of the ^paltar.

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying, Upon the ^qgreat altar burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the king's burnt-sacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings; and sprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifice: and the brazen altar shall be for me to ^rinquire by.

16 Thus did Urijah the priest ^saccording to all that king Ahaz commanded.

17 ¶ And king Ahaz ^tcut off the borders of the bases, and removed the laver from off them; and took down the sea from off the brazen oxen that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of stones.

18 And the ^ucovert for the sabbath that they had built in the house, and the king's entry without turned he from the house of the LORD for the king of Assyria.

19 ¶ ^vNow the rest of the acts of Ahaz which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XVII.

Finishes the history of the Israelites in their Assyrian captivity, from which few have ever been brought back. Here is (1) A short narrative of repeated invasions of their country by the Assyrians; and of their final ruin and dispersion, occasioned by the treacherous revolt of Hoshea, their last and best king; 1—6. (2) A general view of the causes of it; particularly their and Judah's ingratitude, wilful disobedience, and obstinacy in idolatry; 7—23. This is inserted for the justification of God in their ruin, and for the warning of others. (3) An account of the nations which the king of Assyria placed in their land; and of the mongrel religion occasioned by the Lord's killing them by lions, for continuing in their former idolatries; 24—41.

IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah began ^aHoshea the son of Elah to reign in Samaria over Israel nine years.

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, ^bbut not as the kings of Israel that were before him.

3 ¶ Against him came up Shalmaneser ^cking of Assyria; and Hoshea became his servant, and ^dgave him ^epresents.

4 And the king of Assyria found ^fconspiracy in Hoshea: for he had sent messengers to So king of Egypt, and brought no present to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year: therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and ^gbound him in prison.

5 ¶ Then ^hthe king of Assyria came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria, and besieged it three years.

6 ⁱIn the ninth year of Hoshea the king of Assyria took Samaria, and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the ^jMedes.

7 For so it was, ^kthat the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, who ^lhad brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods,

8 And ^mwalked in the statutes of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out from before the children of Israel, and of the kings of Israel, which they had made.

9 And the children of Israel did ⁿsecretly those things that were not right against the LORD their God, and they built them high places in all their cities ^ofrom the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

10 And they ^pset them up images and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree:

11 And there they burnt incense in all the high places, as did the heathen whom the LORD carried away before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger:

12 For they served idols, ^qwhereof the LORD had said unto them, Ye shall not do this thing.

13 Yet the LORD testified against Israel, and against Judah, ^rby all the prophets, and by all the seers, saying, Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—What monsters of children have some of the best of saints! Grace must be infused by God, not conveyed by parents. Who can know the desperate wickedness of the human heart, if left to itself! It can extinguish natural affections, and turn men into monsters: it can make them rush headlong into the very sins which ruined their neighbours before their eyes. In the day of distress, sinners are bent upon turning themselves every way for relief, but from God alone can they have it. They will stick at nothing slavish, dishonest, or shameful, to obtain that from men which they might have from him in the most honourable manner. Yea, they will choose those very idols for saviours, whose insufficiency to save has been manifested as with a sun-beam. What a plague to princes are those ministers who flatter them in their impiety, and readily comply therewith! And the most abandoned profligates are often very fond of that devotion which themselves have devised.

commandments and my statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets.

14 Notwithstanding, they would not hear, but 'hardened their necks, like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the LORD their God.

15 And they rejected his statutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies which he testified against them; and 'they followed vanity, and became vain, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they should not do like them.

16 And they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, and 'made them molten images, even two calves, and made a grove, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served Baal.

17 And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and used 'divination and enchantments, and 'sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight: there was none left but 'the tribe of Judah only.

19 Also 'Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made.

20 And the Lord rejected all the seed of Israel, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of 'spoilers, until he had cast them out of his sight.

21 For he 'rent Israel from the house of David; and they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king; and Jeroboam drave Israel from following the LORD, and made them sin a great sin.

22 For the children of 'Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them;

23 Until the LORD removed Israel out of his sight, as he had said by 'all his servants the prophets. So was Israel carried away out of their own land to Assyria unto this day.

24 ¶ And the king of Assyria brought men 'from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead 'of the children of Israel; and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 And so it was, at the beginning of their dwelling there, that 'they feared not the LORD; therefore the LORD sent 'lions among them, which slew some of them.

26 Wherefore they spake to the king of Assyria, saying, The nations which thou hast removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and, behold, they slay them, because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, Carry thither one of the 'priests whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 Then one of the priests, whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in 'Bethel, and taught them how they should fear the LORD.

29 Howbeit, every nation 'made gods of their own, and put them in the houses of the high places which the 'Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 'And the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima, 31 And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they 'feared the LORD, and made unto themselves of the 'lowest of them priests of the high places, who sacrificed for them in the houses of the high places.

33 They feared the LORD, and served their own gods, after the manner of the nations 'whom they carried away from thence.

34 Unto this day they do after 'the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their statutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, 'whom he named Israel;

35 With whom the LORD had 'made a covenant, and charged them, saying, Ye shall not fear other gods, nor bow yourselves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

36 But the LORD, 'who brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power, and a stretched-out arm, him shall ye 'fear, and him shall ye worship, and to him shall ye do sacrifice.

37 'And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote for you, ye shall observe to do for evermore; and 'ye shall not fear other gods.

38 And the covenant that I have made with you ye shall not forget; neither shall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God ye shall fear; and he shall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit, 'they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So these nations 'feared the LORD, and served their graven images, both their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day.

CHAP. XVIII.

Though Israel be scattered among the nations, God has not cast off the seed of Abraham; Judah yet ruleth with God. Here we have (1) Pious Hezekiah reforming his kingdom; 1—6. (2) Prospering in his attempts against its enemies at the very time when the Israelites were led captive for their sins; 7—12. (3) Soon after invaded by Sennacherib, king of Assyria, whose yoke he had cast off; his country reduced and laid under contribution, to pay off which the temple is impoverished; 13—16. (4) Contrary to treaty, the Assyrians continue ravaging the nation, and prepare to besiege Jerusalem; and Rab-shakeh, in a most virulent speech, reviles Hezekiah, blasphemes God, and solicits the inhabitants to revolt, to the great grief of Hezekiah's messengers, who had been sent to treat with him; 17—37.

NOW it came to pass, in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that ^aHezekiah the son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Abi, the daughter of Zechariah.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that David his father did.

4 ¶ He removed the high places, and brake the ^{*}images, and cut down the groves, and brake in pieces the ^abrazen serpent that Moses had made: for unto those days the children of Israel did burn incense to it: and he called it [†]Nehushtan.

5 He trusted in the LORD God of Israel; so that after him was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor any that were before him.

6 For he clave to the LORD, and departed not from following him, but kept his commandments, which the LORD commanded Moses.

7 And the LORD was with him; and he prospered whithersoever he went forth: and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not.

8 He smote the Philistines, even unto Gaza, and the borders thereof, from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

9 ¶ And it came to pass, in the fourth year of king Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and besieged it.

10 And at the end of three years they took it: even in the sixth year of Hezekiah, that is the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel, Samaria was taken.

11 And the king of Assyria did carry away Israel unto Assyria, and put them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:

12 Because they obeyed not the voice of the LORD their God, but transgressed his covenant, and all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded, and would not hear them, nor do them.

13 ¶ Now in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah did Sennacherib king of Assyria come up against all the fenced cities of Judah, and took them.

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying, I have offended; return from me: that which thou putteth on me I will bear. And the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold.

15 And Hezekiah gave him all the silver that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house.

16 At that time did Hezekiah cut off the gold from the doors of the temple of the LORD, and from the pillars which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid, and gave it to the king of Assyria.

17 ¶ And the king of Assyria sent Tartan, and Rabsaris, and Rab-shakeh, from Lachish to king Hezekiah with a great host against Jerusalem. And they went up and came to Jerusalem. And, when they were come up, they came and stood by the conduit of the upper pool, which is in the highway of the fuller's field.

18 And, when they had called to the king, there came out to them Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder.

19 And Rab-shakeh said unto them, Speak ye now to Hezekiah, Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyria, What confidence is this wherein thou trustest?

20 Thou sayest, (but they are but vain words,) I have counsel and strength for the war. Now on whom dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

21 Now, behold, thou trustest upon the staff of this bruised reed, even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean it will go into his hand and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that trust on him.

22 But if ye say unto me, We trust in the LORD our God: is not that he whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath said to Judah and Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?

23 Now therefore, I pray thee, give pledges to my lord the king of Assyria, and I will deliver thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the least of my master's servants, and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

25 Am I now come up without the LORD against this place to destroy it? The LORD said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it?

26 Then said Eliakim the son of Hil- kiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rab-

He marks against what mercies, warnings, and judgments, it has been committed; and in what different forms: and what influence it has had in the seduction of others. And certain, however slow, is the destruction of apostates from God; and even at distant periods God is preparing for it.—Great is the instability of earthly settlements: and who knows whither the Lord may toss us in life? Yet men carry their sins closely with them, go where they will. And easily can God punish those who pollute what belongs to him with their wickedness. Lions, and all other creatures, are at his call. Satan and men's lusts often quit a part, that they may not be obliged to give up their whole power and honour. But no external instructions, warnings, mercies, or judgments, will reform sinners from the false or medley religions which themselves have invented. While the religion of Jesus scarcely continues pure for an age, the religion of the devil can flourish with most for many ages together.

shakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Syrian language, for we understand it; and talk not with us in the Jews' language in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rab-shakeh said unto them, Hath my master sent me to thy master, and to thee, to speak these words? hath he not sent me to the men which sit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own piss with you?

28 Then Rab-shakeh stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews' language, and spake, saying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria:

29 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you; for ^h he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

31 Harken not to Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Assyria, ⁱ Make an agreement with me by a present, and come out to me, and then eat ye ^k every man of his own vine, and every one of his fig tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his [†] cistern:

32 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, ^a a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive and of honey, that ye may live and not die: and hearken not unto Hezekiah when he ^{||} persuadeth you, saying, The LORD will deliver us.

33 Hath any of the ^m gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

34 Where are the gods of Hamath and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah? have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries ⁿ that have delivered their country out of mine hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, ^o Answer him not.

37 Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their ^p clothes rent, and told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

CHAP. XIX.

Here (1) Hezekiah, in great distress, begs the assistance of Isaiah's prayers for his people; 1—5: and receives an assurance of protection and deliverance; 6, 7. (2) Sennacherib, informed of Tirhakah's march against him, sends a threatening letter to Hezekiah, to terrify him into a surrender of Jerusalem; 8—13. (3) In a very solemn manner Hezekiah recommends the safety of his kingdom to God, and supplicates his help; 14—19. (4) God, by Isaiah, returns him a comfortable answer; representing the vanity of the Assyrian boasts, and assuring him of protection, deliverance, and plenty of provision, for himself and his subjects; 20—34. (5) That same night an angel cuts off most of the Assyrian forces; and soon after Sennacherib is slain by his sons in his idolatrous temple; 35—37.

AND it came to pass, when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD.

2 And he sent ^b Eliakim, who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to ^c Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz.

3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is ^d a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and ^e blasphemy: for the ^e children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to reproach the living God; and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore ^f lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are ^h left.

5 So the servants of king Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 ¶ And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus saith the LORD, ⁱ Be not afraid of the words which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send a ^k blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and shall return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against ^l Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

9 And, when ^m he heard say of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee; he sent messengers again unto Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, ⁿ Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 ^o Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands by destroying them utterly; and shalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have destroyed; as ^p Gozan, and ^q Haran, and Rezech, and the children of ^r Eden which were in Thelasar?

we seek to avoid. The most solemn treaties, or largest ransoms, make little impression on conquering tyrants. Never then let any rob God to procure temporal advantages. What an unruly evil is an insolent tongue! It casts forth firebrands, arrows, and death, against God and men; and readily it upbraids the people of God with their greatest honours. Little reason has one power to vaunt against another; for soon may they be equally weak as well as equally treacherous. Great boasters are seldom even ordinary actors: and flattering tongues and pompous promises ought never to be trusted. How affecting is to hear, though often improper to answer, virulent reproaches of God and his people! Silence is the best answer to insolent abuse. It but exasperates a foe to answer him according to his folly.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—God never makes a full end of his people, however sinful; but provides them relief in one part of the world when he almost extirpates them in another. Nay, in the darkest times he can raise up the most burning and shining lights. His grace can enable them to overcome the strongest obstacles, and to persevere to the end. Never therefore need they fear who boldly trust on God in the path of duty. No length of custom can ever consecrate an evil practice. If our parents have dishonoured God, it is our honour to be unlike them. And fidelity in God's service will be ever accompanied with his blessing. And yet to prove their faith and constancy, and to punish an hypocritical generation, they who are most zealous for God may be reduced to such difficulties as will make them stagger, and sinfully yield. But flying to human confidences instead of God will but bring on us the ruin which 13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah?

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and said, O LORD God of Israel, who dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made heaven and earth.

16 LORD, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, LORD, thine eyes, and see; and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent him to reproach the living God.

17 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Assyria have destroyed the nations and their lands, 18 And have cast their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone: therefore they have destroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beseech thee, save thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou only.

20 ¶ Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, That which thou hast prayed to me against Sennacherib king of Assyria I have heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning him; The virgin, the daughter of Zion, hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at thee.

22 Whom hast thou reproached and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even against the Holy One of Israel.

23 By thy messengers thou hast reproached the LORD, and hast said, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut down the tall cedar trees thereof, and the choice fir trees thereof: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders, and into the forest of his Carmel.

24 I have digged and drunk strange waters, and with the sole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of besieged places.

25 † Hast thou not heard long ago how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? now have I brought it to pass that thou shouldest be to lay waste fenced cities into ruinous heaps.

26 Therefore their inhabitants were of small power; they were dismayed and confounded; they were as the grass of the field, and as the green herb, as the grass on the house tops, and as corn blasted before it be grown up.

27 But I know thy abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy rage against me.

28 Because thy rage against me and thy tumult is come up into mine ears, therefore I will put my hook in thy nose, and my bridle in thy lips, and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest.

29 And this shall be a sign unto thee, Ye shall eat this year such things as grow of themselves, and in the second year that which springeth of the same; and in the third year sow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

30 And the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah shall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and they that escape out of mount Zion: the zeal of the LORD of hosts shall do this.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a bank against it.

33 By the way that he came, by the same shall he return, and shall not come into this city, saith the LORD.

34 For I will defend this city to save it, for mine own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

35 ¶ And it came to pass that night that the angel of the LORD went out, and smote in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand: and, when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at Nineveh.

37 And it came to pass, as he was worshipping in the house of Nisroch his god, that Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons smote him with the sword: and, they escaped into the land of Armenia. And Esarhaddon his son reigned in his stead.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—Sore troubles should deeply affect us, and render us earnest in calling upon God for relief. But, while our helper is mighty, we ought never to despair. Let us, however, always interest in our behalf the prayers of Jesus Christ and his ministers and people. Thus trusting in God, we shall never be confounded; while those, who lift up their tongues against him, shall bring down swift vengeance on their own heads. Wicked men are to defy God, and are fond of trumpeting forth their own praise. Just before their ruin their blasphemy and pride ordinarily swell to the highest. But, while we have a prayer-hearing God to address in our trouble, let us always be confident. If the great object of our requests be the manifestation of his glory, we shall certainly be heard: and often God's returns to the prayers of faith are speedy as well as comfortable. How honourable, in God's view, are his people in their greatest distress! and contemptible in his sight are the greatest of his opposers—an empty noise, a proud puff, and no more! Nor hell nor earth can rage any further than his limits permit them. He protects, delivers, and provides for, his people above what they think or ask, and all for Jesus' sake. But what a speedy regard to his promise! What terrible majesty is with him! How fearful to fall into his hands! How great the power of his angels! and how safe those who have millions of such guardians and protectors! But miserable is the end of blasphemers! Often their very gods or children, from whom they expected support, become the instruments of their ruin.

IN those days was Hezekiah sick unto death. And the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, 'Set thine house in order ; for 'thou shalt die, and not live.

2 Then he 'turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,

3 I beseech thee, O LORD, 'remember now how I have walked before thee in 'truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight. And Hezekiah 'wept *sore.

4 And it came to pass, 'before Isaiah was gone out into the middle †court, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father, 'I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears : behold, I will heal thee ; on the third day 'thou shalt go up unto the house of the LORD.

6 And I will 'add unto thy days fifteen years ; 'and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria ; and I will defend this city for mine own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

7 And Isaiah said, Take a 'lump of figs. And they took and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah, What shall be the 'sign that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day ?

9 And Isaiah said, 'This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken : shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten †degrees ?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees : nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the prophet 'cried unto the LORD : and 'he brought the shadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the †dial of Ahaz.

12 ¶ 'At that time Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan king of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah : for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and 'shewed them all the house of his *precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his †armour, and all that was found in his treasures : there was *nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

14 ¶ Then 'came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, 'What said these men ? And from whence came they unto thee ? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country, even from Babylon.

15 And he said, What have they seen in thine house ? And Hezekiah answered, 'All the things that are in mine house have they seen : there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store unto this day, 'shall be carried into Babylon : nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

18 And of 'thy sons that shall issue from thee, which thou shalt beget, shall they take away ; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, 'Good is the word of the LORD, which thou hast spoken. And he said, 'Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days ?

20 ¶ 'And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how 'he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah ?

21 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers : and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXI.

Lately we saw Israel ruined. Here treacherous Judah ripens for destruction under two wicked kings. (1) Manasseh early and obstinately abandons himself to idolatry, witchcraft, murder, and every thing horrid : 1—9, 11, 16. On account of which, God, by his prophets, devotes him and his kingdom to misery and ruin : 10—16. (2) He dies ; 17, 18. (3) Amon his son succeeds him in government, and imitates him in wickedness : and is murdered by his servants who are punished by the people ; 19—26.

MANASSEH 'was twelve years old when he began to reign, and reigned fifty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Hephzibah.

2 And 'he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, after the abomination of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he built up again the high places 'which Hezekiah his father had destroyed ; and he reared up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab king of Israel ; and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served them.

4 And 'he built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD said, 'In Jerusalem will I put my name.

5 And he built 'altars for all the host to be well improved. In sickness we ought to use proper remedies, otherwise we but tempt God in desiring or expecting recovery : and the prayers and advice of God's prophets do us more good than the prescriptions of our physicians. How God condescends to the weakness of his saints ! He will work wonders to strengthen their faith. Prosperous favourites of heaven are ordinarily courted into friendship by the wicked : and the best of men are apt to be thus ensnared especially by their own pride. But, if we walk in pride, God will certainly abase us or our seed. And what has ministered to our vanity and self-confidence will ere long cover us with confusion. May God then make us to accept of the punishment of our iniquity ! We have cause of thankfulness if we are but out of hell. But outward quietness and gospel preaching are singular mercies which we can never sufficiently acknowledge.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—Neither greatness nor goodness can exempt from sickness or death. Not a moment of life but the present is certain. And often God lays men aside from their work when we think there is most need of them. But oh ! the vast preparation of state, frame, and exercise, that is necessary for a comfortable entrance into eternity ! There is need for ministers to inculcate this in the most earnest and solemn manner. In dying moments it is the greatest mercy, and should be our greatest desire, to have all our hopes founded on Jesus' blood, and attended with the testimony of a good conscience : and to have the consolations of God enabling us to triumph over the natural fears and pains of death. How useful is prayer : it can prepare us for death, and recover us from distempers which are in themselves deadly. And God grants with pleasure his people's requests, and bestows on them exceedingly above what they ask or think. At best, our life is limited : it is short and had need of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD.

6 And he made his son pass through the fire, and observed times, and used enchantments, and dealt with familiar spirits and wizards: he wrought much wickedness in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he set a graven image of the grove that he had made in the house of which the LORD said to David and to Solomon his son, "In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever;

8 Neither will I make the feet of Israel move any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 But they hearkened not. And Manasseh seduced them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake by his servants the prophets, saying,

11 "Because Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and hath made Judah also to sin with his idols:

12 Therefore thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing such evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, both his ears shall tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies;

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

16 Moreover, Manasseh shed innocent blood very much, till he had filled Jerusalem from one end to another; beside his sin wherewith he made Judah to sin, in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

17 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he sinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

19 ¶ Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his father Manasseh did.

21 And he walked in all the way that his father walked in, and served the idols that his father served, and worshipped them:

22 And he forsook the LORD God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

23 ¶ And the servants of Amon conspired against him, and slew the king in his own house.

24 And the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon: and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

25 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

26 And he was buried in his sepulchre in the garden of Uzza: and Josiah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXII.

In this chapter and the following we have Judah's blaze of reformation and prosperity after a most shocking apostacy, and just before their tremendous ruin. (1) Josiah comes early to the crown, and reigns well; 1, 2. (2) He manifests his regard to God's temple in repairing it; 3—7. (3) He marks his esteem of God's law, by hearing it read to him with great concern and lively fear of its denunciations; 8—11. (4) He marks his regard to God's prophets, in consulting Huldah on what he had heard; 12—14. (5) God by her returns him an answer, denouncing inevitable destruction to his kingdom; but promising protection and peace while he lived, on account of his piety; 15—20.

JOSIAH was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah of Boscath.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left.

3 ¶ And it came to pass, in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, that the king sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, the son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of the LORD, saying,

4 Go up to Hilkiah the high priest, that he may sum the silver which is brought into the house of the LORD, which the keepers of the door have gathered of the people:

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work, that have the oversight of the house of the LORD: and let them give it to the doers of the work which is in the house of the LORD, to repair the breaches of the house,

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—It is extremely dangerous to arrive too early at dignity and power; so many are lying in wait to flatter such to their ruin. And novices, being lifted up with pride, fall into the condemnation of the devil. None are apt to be more abandoned profligates than those who trample on a religious education. Irreligion, and a violent attachment to devilish devices and false worship, are often closely connected. The bad example of great men, particularly kings, is often extremely infectious; and those who set it will, in the last judgment, have to answer for thousands or millions of souls which they have seduced or destroyed: for the greatest kings must shortly stand on a level with the meanest criminals at God's bar. When men abandon themselves to sins, the former public sins of their nation are all brought into their account, as approved and reacted by them. And nothing sooner fills up the measure of a nation's sins than the persecution of God's people. Terrible are the miseries which wicked magistrates and ministers bring on those under their charge. And they who imitate them in their wickedness must share in their punishment. They who forsake God must expect to be forsaken by him. But great must be the strength of that inward corruption which renders men daring in wickedness, notwithstanding the most awful warnings and judgments. Of a man's forwardness in sinning hurries them into hell. And it is a great mercy for a nation when the career of a wicked king is short.

CHAP. XXIII.

Here is (1) Josiah's progress in his reformation; acquainting himself and subjects with God's law; 1, 2. (2) Renewing the covenant between God and them; 3. (3) Cleansing the temple; 4. (4) Extirpating idols and reliques of idolatry in the land of Canaan; 5—20: and witches; 24. (5) Observation of a solemn passover; 21—23: and all with great spirit and vigour; 25. (6) His untimely death in a battle with Pharaoh-necho, as a token of the Lord's wrath still hanging over the kingdom; 26—30. (7) His sons Jehoahaz and Jehoiakim succeed him; and by their wicked reigns overturn his reformation, and ripen the kingdom for misery; 31—37.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—God can easily raise up eminent patterns of piety in the most profane family. And sovereign is the display, and abundant the riches, of his grace. It bodes well when princes begin their cares with the reformation of religion. And it is extremely honourable when the most untainted honesty prevails in the management of public funds and general affairs. But how dreadful is it when the oracles of God are thrust into corners! and much more so when they are little known or regarded by those who have them daily in their hands! It is very unbecoming for great men to live ignorant of, and unconcerned about, their Bibles. For the time is at hand when their contents shall make the most careless and hardened despisers and neglecters tremble: and God's word, when blessed by his Spirit, is quick and powerful to the piercing and conviction of men's consciences. And, when we see the wrath of God hanging over our heads, it is full time to think how to prevent it. Such as are under deep convictions, or oppressive fears, ought to consult the Lord's prophets. Holy men or women are the fittest to be our friends and advisers. And it is a great benefit to courts when they have heaven's favourites at hand. How dreadful is it for a nation to be loaded with crimes which the Lord will not pardon! Obstinate and wilful sinning must end in remediless and eternal misery. But it is a great mercy to have our hearts early and deeply affected with the things of God. Such as tremble under apprehensions of God's wrath are in a fair way to escape it. And happy are those who, being at peace with God and their own conscience, are taken away before the infliction of public and awful judgments.

33 And Pharaoh-necho put him in bands at Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem; and put the land to a tribute of $\text{$}$ an hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold.

34 And Pharaoh-necho made Eliakim the son of Josiah king in the room of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim, and took Jehoahaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.

35 ¶ And Jehoiakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh; but he taxed the land to give the money according to the commandment of Pharaoh: he exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it unto Pharaoh-necho.

36 ¶ Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

37 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

CHAP. XXIV.

Still matters rush headlong unto the destruction of the kingdom of Judah. (1) Jehoiakim, whom Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt, had placed on the throne, is subjected by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and severely corrected for attempting to revolt; and his ally the king of Egypt is much weakened; 1-7. (2) Jehoiachin, his son and successor, is, after three months, obliged to surrender; and he and his great men are carried captives to Babylon; 8-16. (3) Zedekiah, brother of Jehoiakim, is made king by Nebuchadnezzar; and, by his wickedness and treachery, ripens the nation for immediate ruin; 17-20.

IN his days Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up; and Jehoiakim became his servant three years: then he turned and rebelled against him.

2 And the LORD sent against him bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD which he spake by his servants the prophets.

3 Surely at the commandment of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his sight, for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did;

4 And also for the innocent blood that he shed; (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood;) which the LORD would not pardon.

5 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoi-akim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

7 ¶ And the king of Egypt came not again any more out of his land: for the king of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt unto the river Euphrates all that pertained to the king of Egypt.

8 ¶ Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months. And his mother's name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

10 ¶ At that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up against Jerusalem, and the city was besieged.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants did besiege it.

12 And Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his officers: and the king of Babylon took him in the eighth year of his reign.

13 And he carried out thence all the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and cut in pieces all the vessels of gold which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had said.

14 And he carried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths: none remained, save the poorest sort of the people of the land.

15 And he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his officers, and the mighty of the land, those carried he into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon.

16 And all the men of might, even seven thousand, and craftsmen and smiths a thousand, all that were strong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

17 ¶ And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his father's brother king in his stead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

18 Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—When God's wrath hangs over our head it is high time to attend to and learn his law; and to concur in hearty and cheerful covenanting with God in Christ. But it is principally God's love and covenant of grace that binds men fast to him, not their most solemn vows and promises. Nothing tends more to the welfare of princes than their zealous promoting of the true knowledge and worship of God. But alas! what fearful abomination may be found among people who have not entirely abandoned the worship of the true God! And shameful discoveries of these are made whenever reformation is thoroughly attempted. There is therefore need of much knowledge, prudence, courage, and zeal, to carry reformation to a proper pitch. God's promises and threatenings are all fulfilled at last, notwithstanding the longest delays. Such a truly covenant with God must not only remove corruptions, but restore the purity and strict observation of the ordinances of God and particular regard must be had to the exact observation of the instituted seal of his covenant. God takes a peculiar pleasure to perpetuate their honour who have been sincere and active for him in their generation. But irreversible is the doom of nations when once ripened by wickedness. Often the best of princes must taste a little of their cup, especially if they attempt to help their ungodly neighbours. When those who stood in the gap to retard deserved judgments are removed by death, with what tremendous speed do those judgments hasten to ruin the guilty! And when neither warnings restrain, nor good example influence, destruction is evidently near.

the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.
20 For through the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah, until he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

CHAP. XXV.
For about four hundred and sixty years Jerusalem had been the residence of God, the palace of the king, and joy of the whole land. Here is (1) The destruction of it by the Chaldeans; the city is besieged, famished, and taken; 1-4; the houses burnt; 8, 9; the wall broken down; 10; the inhabitants carried into captivity; 11, 12; the king made a miserable prisoner and his children murdered before his eyes, and his eyes then put out; 5-7; the principal officers slain in cold blood; 18-21; the temple burnt; 9; and the sacred vessels which remained carried to Babylon; 13-17. (2) The destruction and dispersion of those Jews which were left in the country under the government of Gedaliah, he being treacherously murdered by Ishmael, a prince of the blood; 22-26. (3) The enlargement and favour which Evil-merodach shewed to king Jehoiachin after he had lain in prison thirty-seven years; 27-30.

AND it came to pass, in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he and all his host, against Jerusalem, and pitched against it; and they built forts against it round about.

2 And the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

3 And on the ninth day of the fourth month the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land.

4 ¶ And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night by the way of the gate between two walls, which is by the king's garden: (now the Chaldees were against the city round about): and the king went the way toward the plain.

5 And the army of the Chaldees pursued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army were scattered from him.

6 So they took the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon to Riblah; and they gave judgment upon him.

7 And they slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of brass, and carried him to Babylon.

8 ¶ And in the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month, which is the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, came Nebuzar-adan, captain of the guard, a servant of the king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem:

9 And he burned the house of the LORD, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great man's house burned he with fire.

10 And all the army of the Chaldees, that were with the captain of the guard, brake down the walls of Jerusalem round about.

11 Now the rest of the people that were left in the city, and the fugitives that fell away to the king of Babylon with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carry away.

12 But the captain of the guard left of the poor of the land to be vine dressers and husbandmen.

13 ¶ And the pillars of brass that were in the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the brazen sea that was in the house of the LORD, did the Chaldees break in pieces, and carried the brass of them to Babylon.

14 And the pots, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the spoons, and all the vessels of brass wherewith they ministered, took they away.

15 And the fire pans, and the bowls, and such things as were of gold, in gold, and of silver, in silver, the captain of the guard took away.

16 The two pillars, one sea, and the bases, which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD; the brass of all these vessels was without weight.

17 The height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, and the chapter upon it was brass: and the height of the chapter three cubits; and the wreathen work, and pomegranates upon the chapter round about, all of brass: and like unto these had the second pillar with wreathen work.

18 ¶ And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the door:

19 And out of the city he took an officer that was set over the men of war, and five men of them that were in the king's presence, who were found in the city, and the principal scribe of the host, who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land that were found in the city:

20 And Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard took these, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah:

21 And the king of Babylon smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was carried away out of their land.

22 ¶ And as for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, even over them he made Gedaliah, the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, ruler.

23 And, when all the captains of the armies, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah governor, there came to Gedaliah Mizpah, even Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the son of a Maachathite, they and their men.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—By their own means God infatuates those whom in his purpose or threatening he has marked out for ruin. Multitudes of wicked men, for their own selfish purposes, are always ready to execute the threatened vengeance of God: and all resistance is vain when God will destroy. If men mourn not for their fathers' iniquities, they shall smart for them; and not one jot or tittle of God's threatenings shall fail. In a day of wrath, the vain confidence of sinners shall utterly fail them; and the mightiest arm of flesh will be a weak support against an angry God. In his sovereign power he nips wicked princes in the bud, and lifts them up, that their fall may be the more ruinous and miserable. How craftily conquerors weaken the nations which they purpose to keep enslaved! But there is no evil in the city which the Lord hath not done. Hardened indeed must men be in wickedness when the repeated miseries of their fellow transgressors deter them not at all from treading in their steps. And a nation is on the verge of ruin when God gives up her rulers to infatuation; and when for the sin of a land many and wicked are the princes thereof.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—How dreadful are the fruits of sin, in persons, cities, and nations! And fearful is the case of those in cities which are long besieged, or taken by force. But no contrivance for safety will at last avail them who have contemned the counsels of God. The final doom of impenitent sinners is to be bound with chains of darkness unto the judgment of the great day! How terribly the ordinances of God suffer for the sin of their attendants! And woe to that city or kingdom from which they are removed! Dreadful is 27 ¶ And it came to pass, in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of prison:

28 And he spake ^{kindly} to him, and set his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon;

29 And changed his prison garments: and he did eat bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his allowance was a continual allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life.

the universal overthrow that surely follows: and men of rank, in the time such public calamities, are exposed to the most distinguished miseries, answerable to their distinguished influence in the sinful causes thereof. But observe here how exactly the threatenings of God by Moses and the prophets are fulfilled. Notwithstanding Nebuchadnezzar's intentions, not a remnant of Judah is left in the land of Canaan: and yet, in the very midnight of their captivity, he grants them a token of their future deliverance.

THE FIRST BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

This and the following book were probably written by Ezra, the noted reformer, after the captivity. They comprehend a history about 3500 years from the creation till after the Jews returned from Babylon. Their manifest scope is to fix the genealogies of the Jewish nation, and to narrate the noted transactions of David and his royal descendants. As the ancient names of persons and places are sometimes altered in whole or in part, and a number of circumstances, not formerly mentioned, inserted, there is sometimes a seeming, but not a real, contradiction between them and the preceding book; particularly, II. Samuel, and the two books of Kings. If we are at any loss to reconcile some of these passages, let us blame our own weakness, but never the oracles of God. Things relative to these mere circumstances might be obvious to the ancient Jews, which are now to us obscure or unknown. The first book contains (1) A collection of sacred genealogy for about 3600 years from Adam till long after the captivity mingled with some shreds of history not formerly inserted; i.—ix. This genealogy was of great use to the Jews, who returned from Babylon, to fix them in their respective tribes and families; and is of use to us, to manifest our Redeemer to be the promised seed of David, Judah, Abraham, and Eve, according to the flesh. And now that he is come, for whose sake the register was chiefly preserved, no genealogy of the Jews, for more than 1700 years backwards, is in the least to be depended on. (2) A repeated view of the translation of the kingdom of Israel from Saul to David, and of the triumphs of the latter, with several additions; x. xi. xii. xviii. xix. xx. (3) An account of David's settling the ark at Jerusalem; fixing the orders of the priests, Levites, singers, porters, and other ecclesiastical officers; appointing the officers of his property and trained bands; of the preparations he made for building the temple; and the directions he gave to Solomon and others concerning it; most of which were not before narrated; xiv.—xvii. xxi.—xxix.

CHAP. II.

Being come to the register of the people destined to dwell alone, and not to be numbered among the nations, we have here, after the names of the twelve sons of Jacob, or Israel, 1, 2, a large register of the tribe of Judah; not so much for the honour of David the king, as for that of Jesus the Saviour. Here are (1) The descendants of Judah by Ram the son of Hezron down to Jesse the father of David; 3-12. (2) The posterity of Jesse; 13-17. (3) The posterity of Hezron, Judah's grandson, by his other sons, viz. by Caleb, 18-20, 42-49; by Segub, 21-24; by Jerahmeel, 25-41; and by Caleb, son of Hur, and grandson of the former Caleb, 50-54. REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—What ground have all men to be humble, when they are sprung of Adam, the covenant breaker! and it is necessary to love all as our neighbours and brethren, since God has made of one blood all nations of the earth. How contemptible and short the years of all generations appear before the everlasting God! Quickly men pass into death and eternity: and scarcely are they born into God's reckoning when they die. How marvellous is the providence of God in keeping up the degenerate race of mankind in the world, and in such equality between the sexes, amidst such a multitude of changes! Remarkably trodden are the paths of death, though still unknown. What multitudes have gone before us, as there are innumerable that follow: and how great and awful will be that assembly in which all the dead, small and great, shall stand before God! Not one existing, from the foundation of the world till Christ's second coming, shall then be missing! But of little account with God are all nations in respect of his chosen people and church. Their genealogy comes in merely as incidental to that of his favourite family.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Even good men may have large families with little appearance of piety or wisdom among most of them, while there is plenty of crosses: and often children die and leave their names to others. But it is highly becoming when we so love our reprovers, and especially our God, as to commemorate them * in the names of our children. What distinguished respect God pays to his promise, and to the noted piety of his servants! Never perhaps, but in David's family, did a crown go directly from father to son for seventeen generations! But great indeed is our mercy that we now have Jesus, the King eternal, immortal, and invisible, to complete and crown the list.

* David called one of his sons Nathan; and many of them had Eli (My God) in their names.

(2) Of the Gadites and their residence; 11—17. (3) Of the eastern half tribe of Manasseh; 18—23, 24. (4) How these three tribes conquered the Hagarites; 18—22. (5) How they were all first conquered and captivated by the Assyrians, because of their apostasy from God; 23—26.

NOW the sons of Reuben the first born of Israel, (for he was the first-born; but, forasmuch as he defiled his father's bed, his birthright was given unto the sons of Joseph the son of Israel: and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birthright.

2 For Judah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the chief ruler, but the birthright was Joseph's.)

3 The sons, I say, of Reuben the firstborn of Israel, were, Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel; Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, the meanest employments, as seemeth good in his sight. This world is a changing scene; nothing substantial or enduring is to be expected in it. Let it quicken our diligence to secure a better, where our dignity will be secure, without tribulation or shadow of turning. Behold how God rewards the Simeonites, who cleaved to the family of David! They are provided with new habitations; while their brethren, who joined the kingdom of Israel, are carried into captivity. I firmly adhere to God and my duty, he will always provide for me what I need, and that which appears an afflictive separation shall at last prove a comfortable deliverance. But the curse of God shall hunt out the sinners as it did the Amalekites, till they are utterly destroyed.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—How often have parents most comfort in those children from whom they at first expected least of it! What honour doth learning, and especially piety put upon men! But it is a singular mercy to have a new covenant God to address in our prayers. To set out in the world with much earnest supplication to God is a hopeful beginning; and the most extensive and substantial blessings may boldly be asked at his throne of grace, who takes pleasure in hearing and answering the fervent prayers of faith. They that wait upon him shall renew their strength, and be protected from all their enemies. How differently God disposes of men in respect of their callings and stations on earth! He advances them to honour and power, or degrades them to

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—Behold how sin degrades men, and thrusts them down from their excellency! And one false step often leaves an indelible stain upon their memory. But God does not utterly cast off those who fall guiltily at first, and are severely punished in the flesh. Behold how he divides the honours which had been sinfully forfeited, that no flesh may glory in his presence!—how he casts out the enemy from before his people by little and little, and gives them residence and substance as they have need of it! Behold these Gadites in their pride; and see how God, in his wisdom, to mark them not utterly cast off, takes up their names just before their removal into a long captivity! But what mighty things the people of God can do when they take him

5 Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son,

6 Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria carried away captive: he was prince of the Reubenites.

7 And his brethren by their families, when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned, were the chief, Jeiel and Zechariah.

8 And Bela, the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel, who dwelt in Aroer, even unto Nebo and Baal-meon:

9 And eastward he inhabited unto the entering in of the wilderness from the river Euphrates: because their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead.

10 And in the days of Saul they made war with the Hagarites, who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents throughout all the east land of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over against them, in the land of Bashan unto Salcah:

12 Joel the chief, and Shaphan the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers were Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber; seven.

14 These are the children of Abihail the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz;

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chief of the house of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in her towns, and in all the suburbs of Sharon, upon their borders.

17 And all these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

18 ¶ The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow, and skilful in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarites, with Jetur, and Nephish, and Nodab.

20 And they were helped against them; and the Hagarites were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them; for they cried to God in the battle, and he was entreated of them, because they put their trust in him.

21 And they took away their cattle: of their camels fifty thousand, and of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand, and of men an hundred thousand.

22 For there fell down many slain, because the war was of God. And they dwelt in their steads until the captivity.

23 ¶ And the children of the half tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land: they increased from Bashan unto Baalhermon and Sehir, and unto mount Hermon.

24 And these were the heads of the house of their fathers; even Ephraim, and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel; mighty men of valour, famous men, and heads of the house of their fathers.

25 ¶ And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them.

26 And the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, and he carried them away, even the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, and brought them unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river Gozan, unto this day.

CHAP. VI.

Contains a register of the Levites, whom God, perhaps for Moses' sake, had set apart for himself. We have (1) Their pedigree, including an account of their principal ancestors; 1—3; and of the succession of the priesthood from Aaron to the Chaldean captivity; 4—15, 50—53; and of some other families; particularly of Heman a descendant of Samuel, Asaph, and Ethan, or Jeduthan, chief musicians; 16—30, 33—47. (2) Their work;—of the singers, 31—32; of the Levites, 48; and priests, 49. (3) Their habitations;—of the priests, 54—56, 65; of the other Kohathites, 61, 66—70; of the Gershonites, 62, 71—76; and of the Merarites, 63, 77—81.

THE sons of Levi; ^a Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

2 And the sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel.

3 And the children of Amram; Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam. The sons also of Aaron; Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

31 ¶ And these are they whom David set over the service of song in the house of the LORD, after that the "ark had rest.

48 Their brethren also the Levites were appointed unto all manner of service of the tabernacle of the house of God.

49 ¶ But "Aaron and his sons offered upon the altar of the burnt-offering, and on the altar of incense, and were appointed for all the work of the place most holy, and to make an atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded.

CHAP. VII.

Contains some account of the genealogy of (1) Issachar; 1—5. (2) Benjamin; 6—11. (3) Perhaps of Dan; 12. (4) Of Naphtali; 13. (5) Manasseh; 14—19. (6) Ephraim to Joshua; and their disasters and dwellings; 20—29. (7) Of Asher; 30—40. Perhaps the Danites are admitted, at least as to express mention, to disgrace them for their early introduction of idolatry: but why Zebulun is omitted, whether because none of them returned to Canaan after the Chaldean captivity, I know not.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—If God so care for the remembrance of Levites, singers, and ceremonial priests, how fixed in his book of life must be the names of those who are loved, and washed in Jesus' blood, and made kings and priests to him and his Father! With exact care ought every one in the church, particularly ministers, to see to the regular observation of the ordinances

NOW the sons of Issachar were, Tola, and ^a^bPuah, Jashub, and Shimron; four.

2 And the sons of Tola; Uzzi, and Rephaiah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jibsam, and Shemuel, heads of their father's house, to wit, of Tola: they were valiant men of might in their generations; ^cwhose number was, in the days of David, two and twenty thousand and six hundred.

3 And the sons of Uzzi; Izrahiah: and the sons of Izrahiah; Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Ishaiah; five: all of them chief men.

4 And with them, by their generations after the house of their fathers, were bands of soldiers for war, six and thirty thousand men; for they had many wives and sons.

5 And their brethren among all the families of Issachar were valiant men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies ^dfourscore and seven thousand.

6 ¶ The sons of ^eBenjamin; Bela, and Becher, and Jediael; three.

7 And the sons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri; five; heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour; and were reckoned by their genealogies twenty and two thousand and thirty and four.

8 And the sons of Becher; Zemira, and Joash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All these are the sons of Becher.

9 And the number of them, after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thousand and two hundred.

10 The sons also of Jediael; Bilhan: and the sons of Bilhan; Jeush, and Benjamin, and Ehud, Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these the sons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, ^fwere seventeen thousand and two hundred soldiers, fit to go out for war and battle.

12 ^gShuphim also, and Huphim, the children of ^hIr, and Hushim, the sons of ⁱAher.

13 ¶ The ^ksons of Naphtali; Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shallum, the sons of Bilhah.

14 ¶ The sons of Manasseh; Ashriel, whom she bare; (but his concubine the Aramitess bare Machir the father of Gilead;

15 And ^mMachir took to wife the sister of Huphim and Shuphim, whose sister's name was Maachah;) and the name of the second was Zelophehad: and ⁿZelophehad had daughters.

16 And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a son, and she called his name Peresh;

CHAP. VIII.

For the honour of Saul the first king of Israel, and of the Benjamites, who clave so close to the tribe of Judah, and went to and returned from Babylon along with them, we have here eminent persons who had appeared among them; 1—32. (2) A

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VII.—How God multiplies a people amidst hard country labour, as he did that of Issachar! he can multiply families after they have been almost utterly extirpated, as were the Benjamites; Judg. xx. How early the Hebrews, even in Egypt, began to contract marriages with the heathen! We go astray from the womb, speaking lies. The families and nations for which God intends peculiar honour often meet with singular breaches and discouragements in their way to it. Providence often seems to contradict promises: but the counsel of the Lord, that shall stand. We are no where safe from danger: nor are good causes always successful. Children are certain and griefs to parents, but uncertain pleasures. They who live long only live and their sorrows multiplied, and to bury the choicest of their worldly comfowhat a mercy is it when God compensates the breaches which he hath made families! And virtuous women are an honour and blessing to families, as as mighty and illustrious men.

27 And Jaresiah, and Eliah, and Zichri, the sons of Jeroham.

28 These were heads of the fathers, by their generations, chief men. These dwelt in Jerusalem.

29 And 'at Gibeon dwelt the "father of Gibeon; whose wife's name was Maachah:

30 And his first-born son Abdon, and Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Nadab, 31 And Gedor, and Ahio, and "Zacher.

32 And Mikloth begat °Shimeah. And these also dwelt with their brethren in Jerusalem over against them.

33 ¶ And 'Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-shua, and Abinadab, and 'Eshbaal.

34 And the son of Jonathan was 'Merib-baal; and Merib-baal begat Micah.

35 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and 'Tarea, and Abaz.

36 And Ahaz begat 'Jehoadah; and Jehoadah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Mozah;

37 And Moza begat Binea; "Rapha was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son;

38 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan. All these were the sons of Azel.

39 And the sons of Eshek his brother were, Ulam his first-born, Jehush the second, and Eliphelet the third.

40 And the sons of Ulam were mighty men of valour, *archers, and had 'many sons, and sons' sons, an hundred and fifty. All these are of the sons of Benjamin.

CHAP. IX.

Now it appears that one end of recording these genealogies was to direct the Jews in their settlements after their return from Babylon. Here is an account (1) Of the first settlers at, and rebuilders of Jerusalem after the captivity; viz. Israelites, 2-9; priests, 10-13; and Levites, 14-21. (2) Of the work and station of these priests and Levites; 18-34. (3) A repeated account of the family of Saul; (which ought to stand in the beginning of the next chapter, as an introduction to what follows;) 35-44.

SO all Israel were reckoned by genealogies; and, behold, they were written in the 'book of the kings of Israel and Judah, who were "carried away to Babylon for their transgression.

2 ¶ Now the 'first inhabitants that dwelt in their possessions in their cities were, the Israelites, the priests, Levites, and the 'Nethinims.

3 ¶ And in "Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manasseh;

4 Uthai the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, °of the children of Pharez the son of Judah.

5 And of the Shilonites; Asaiah the first-born, and his sons.

6 And of the sons of Zerah; Jeuel, and their 'brethren, six hundred and ninety.

7 And °of the sons of Benjamin; Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah,

8 And Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephathiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibnijah;

9 And their brethren, according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty and six. All these men were chief of the fathers in the house of their fathers.

10 ¶ And °of the priests; Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin,

11 And 'Azariah the son of Hilkiyah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God;

12 And Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur, the son of Malchijah, and Maasiai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer;

13 And their brethren, heads of the house of their fathers, a thousand and seven hundred and threescore; *very able men for the work of the service of the house of God.

14 °And of the Levites; Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari;

15 And Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the son of Micah, the son of Zichri, the son of Asaph;

16 And Obadiah the son of Shemaiah, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah the son of Asa, the son of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the 'Netophathites.

17 And the "porters were, Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief:

18 Who hitherto waited in "the king's gate eastward: they were porters in the companies of the children of Levi.

19 And Shallum the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, and his brethren of the house of his father, the °Korahites were over the work of the service, keepers of the †gates of the tabernacle: and their fathers, being over the host of the LORD, were keepers of the entry.

21 And Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah was porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 All these who were chosen to be porters in the gates were two hundred and twelve. These were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages, whom David and Samuel the seer did ordain in their set office.

23 So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the LORD, namely, the house of the tabernacle, by wards.

24 In four quarters were the porters, toward the east, west, north, and south.

25 And their brethren, which were in their villages, were to come after seven days from time to time with them.

26 For these Levites, the four chief porters, were in their set office, and were over the chambers and treasures of the house of God.

27 And they lodged round about the house of God, because the charge was upon them, and the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the ministering vessels, that they should bring them in and out by tale.

29 Some of them also were appointed to oversee the vessels, and all the instruments of the sanctuary and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices.

30 And some of the sons of the priests made the ointment of the spices.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Levites, who was the first-born of Shallum the Korahite, had the set office over the things that were made in the pans.

32 And other of their brethren, of the sons of the Kohathites, were over the shewbread, to prepare it every sabbath.

33 And these are the singers, chief of the fathers of the Levites, who, remaining in the chambers, were free; for they were employed in that work day and night.

34 These chief fathers of the Levites were chief throughout their generations; these dwelt at Jerusalem.

35 ¶ And in Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jehiel, whose wife's name was Maachah:

36 And his first-born son Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam. And they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalem, over against their brethren.

39 And Ner begat Kish; and Kish begat Saul; and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-shua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal.

40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal; and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea, and Ahaz.

42 And Ahaz begat Jarah; and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza;

43 And Moza begat Binea; and Rephaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these: Az-rikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan. These are the sons of Azel.

CHAP. X.

Except the two last verses, is a repetition of 1 Sam. xxxi.; and the design of it is to introduce the accession of David to the throne of Israel. Here is (1) The fatal rout which the Philistines gave to Saul's army, and the fatal stab which he gave to himself; 1—7. (2) The Philistines triumph in publishing their victory, and consecrating Saul's head and armour as trophies of it; 8—10. (3) The honourable interment which the grateful inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead gave to the bodies of Saul and his sons; 11, 12. (4) The reasons of Saul's rejection and ruin.

NOW the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down slain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul.

3 And the battle went sore against Saul; and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and abuse me. But his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it.

5 And, when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house died together.

7 And, when all the men of Israel that were in the valley saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And, when they had stripped him, they took his head and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols and to the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of their gods, and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.

11 ¶ And, when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, 12 They arose, all the valiant men,

God: and, if they begin with God, they may hope to prosper in their undertakings. Happy is it for the church when every one knows and waits on his proper work, and when the meanest offices and services are reckoned truly honourable. Better be doorkeepers in the house of God than dwell in palaces of wickedness. It is pleasant to be always rejoicing in and praising God, who is continually doing us good, and loading us with his benefits; for it is a blessed token that we shall praise him without ceasing in the temple above.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—God never distresses or unsettles men but for their sin. And it is comely and joyful when the once discordant tribes of God harmoniously unite in asking and travelling the way to Zion; and when the Priests and Levites, the ministers of Christ, are remarkable in their attachment to, and zeal for, re-establishing the worship of God, and order of his church! God graciously proportions men's strength for the work to which he calls them. But residence, labour, and zeal, are indispensably required from every minister of and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

13 ¶ So Saul died for his transgression which he committed against the LORD, even against the word of the LORD, which he kept not, and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit, to inquire of it;

14 And inquired not of the LORD: therefore he slew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the son of Jesse.

CHAP. XI.

Mostly coincides with 2 Sam. v. and xxiii. Here we have, (1) David advanced to the throne of Israel, by the common consent of the people, some years after Saul's death; 1—3. (2) His forcing the castle of Zion, and city of Jerusalem, by the bravery of Joab, from the Jebusites, and waxing greater and greater; 4—9. (3) An account of his principal warriors, and their most remarkable exploits; 10—47.

THEN ^aall Israel gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are ^bthy bone and thy flesh.

2 And moreover in time past, ^ceven when Saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD thy God said unto thee, Thou shalt ^dfeed my people Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron; and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD; and they anointed David king over Israel, ^eaccording to the word of the LORD ^fby Samuel.

4 And David and all Israel went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus; where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, ^gThou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless, David took the castle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites first shall be ^hchief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was chief.

7 And David dwelt in the castle; therefore they called ⁱit the city of David.

8 And he built the city round about, even from ^jMillo round about; and Joab repaired the rest of the city.

9 So David ^kwaxed greater and greater; ^lfor the LORD of hosts was with him.

10 ¶ These also are the chief of the mighty men whom David had, who strengthened themselves with him in his kingdom, and with all Israel, to make him king, ^maccording to the word of the LORD concerning Israel.

11 And this is the number of the mighty men whom David had; ⁿJashobeam an Hachmonite, the chief of the captains: he lifted up his spear ^oagainst three hundred slain by him at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the ^pAhohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at ^qPasdam-mim, and there the Philistines were gathered together to battle, where was a parcel of ground full of barley; and the people fled from before the Philistines.

14 And they set themselves in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistines; and the LORD saved them by a great deliverance.

15 ¶ Now ^rthree of the thirty captains went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam; and the host of the Philistines encamped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philistines' garrison was then at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, ^sbut poured it out to the LORD.

19 And said, My God forbid it me that I should do this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it. Therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest.

20 And ^tAbishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for, lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them, and had a name among the three.

21 Of the three he was more honourable than the two; for he was their captain: howbeit, he attained not to the first three.

22 ^uBenaiah the son of Jehoiada the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, ^vwho had done many acts, he slew two lion-like men of Moab; also he went down and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day.

23 And he slew an Egyptian, ^wa man of great stature, five cubits high; and in the Egyptian's hand was a spear like a weaver's beam; and he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him ^xwith his own spear.

24 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had a name among the three mighties.

25 Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the first three: and David set him over his guard.

26 ^yAlso the valiant men of the armies were, Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo in Beth-lehem,

27 Shamoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite,

28 Ira the son of Ikkish the Tekoite, Abi-ezer the Antothite, 29 ^zSibbecai the Hushathite, ^{aa}Ilai the Ahohite,

30 Maharai the Netophathite, ^{ab}Heled the son of Baanah the Netophathite.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—Here let me observe that God's counsels will be fulfilled, whatever difficulties lie in the way; that pride goeth before destruction; and that men, after long wearying themselves in vain, are sometimes made to understand the things which belong to their peace, and return to their own mercy. There is a real contract between kings and their subjects, which both parties ought religiously to observe. Hopes of preferment strongly induce carnal men to their duty; and the strength and prosperity of kings depend, under God, chiefly upon their servants. But the providential or spiritual presence of God with men is the true cause of their strength and fortitude; and the way to be great and famous is to do remarkable services to our God, our king, and our country. Great men ought never to be prodigal of the lives of their subjects; but, if their rashness hath brought others into danger, they ought bitterly to repent of it, and to study more self-denial: and if we have any thing super-excellent, the Lord ought to be honoured with it. But were not these chiefs typical of Jesus Christ's apostles, faithful ministers and followers, who by faith do marvellous exploits, wrestle with principalities and powers, and are more than conquerors through him that loved them?

came to David to help him, until it was a great host, like the host of God.

23 ¶ And these are the numbers of the *bands that were ready armed to the war, and came to David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of the LORD.

24 The children of Judah, that bare shield and spear, were six thousand and eight hundred, ready armed to the war.

25 Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valour for the war, seven thousand and one hundred.

26 Of the children of Levi four thousand and six hundred.

27 And Jehoiada was the leader of the Aaronites, and with him were three thousand and seven hundred.

28 And Zadok, a young man mighty of valour, and of his father's house twenty and two captains.

29 And of the children of Benjamin, the kindred of Saul, three thousand: for hitherto the greatest part of them had kept the ward of the house of Saul.

30 And of the children of Ephraim twenty thousand and eight hundred, mighty men of valour, famous throughout the house of their fathers.

31 And of the half tribe of Manasseh eighteen thousand, who were expressed by name, to come and make David king.

32 And of the children of Issachar, who were men that had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do; the heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.

33 Of Zebulun, such as went forth to battle, expert in war, with all instruments of war, fifty thousand, who could keep rank: they were not of double heart.

34 And of Naphtali a thousand captains, and with them, with shield and spear, thirty and seven thousand.

35 And of the Danites, expert in war, twenty and eight thousand and six hundred.

36 And of Asher, such as went forth to battle, expert in war, forty thousand.

37 And on the other side of Jordan, of the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and of the half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of instruments of war for the battle, an hundred and twenty thousand.

38 All these men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: and all the rest also of Israel were of one heart to make David king.

39 And there they were with David three days eating and drinking; for their brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were nigh them, even unto Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali, brought bread on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, and meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep abundantly; for there was joy in Israel.

CHAP. XIII.

Coincides with 2 Sam. vi. The civil government being happily settled, David here takes care for religion. (1) He, and the representatives of his people, consult and resolve on bringing the ark of God out of the obscurity in which it had long continued, at Kirjath-jearim, to a more public place at Jerusalem; 1-4. (2) The Israelites being assembled, they bring it away; but on a cart, instead of the Levites's shoulders; 5-8. (3) For touching it, Uzza, who drove the cart, is struck dead; which, for the present, spoils the solemnity, and stops their proceedings; 9-14.

AND David consulted with the captains of thousands and hundreds, and with every leader.

2 And David said unto all the congregation of Israel, If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God, let us send abroad unto our brethren every where, that are left in all the land of Israel, and with them also to the priests and Levites which are in their cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us:

3 And let us bring again the ark of our God to us: for we inquired not at it in the days of Saul.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David gathered all Israel together, from Shihor of Egypt even unto the entering of Hemath, to bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.

6 And David went up, and all Israel, to Baalah, that is to Kirjath-jearim, which belonged to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whose name is called on it.

7 And they carried the ark of God in a new cart out of the house of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drove the cart.

8 And David and all Israel played before God with all their might, and with singing, and with harps, and with psalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 ¶ And, when they came unto the threshing-floor of Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark; for the oxen stumbled.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzza, and he smote him, because he put his hand to the ark: and there he died before God.

11 And David was displeased, because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza: wherefore that place is called Perez-uzza to this day.

12 And David was afraid of God that

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—The Lord can easily bow the hearts of men, and turn them whithersoever he pleases, to accomplish his promises. And, when we are in the way to Jesus and our duty, no high-swelled Jordans of difficulty ought to hinder or discourage us. Swiftly ought we to flee from evil, and boldly to maintain the cause of truth. Such as have once been endangered by false friends had need to be cautious. And with great prudence, and the kindest affection, should great men receive and entertain those who come to their help in a time of distress. With prudent earnestness ought we to join those whom the Lord plainly favours, helps, and protects; and much more to join with Jesus Christ in whom his soul delights, and who exalts all his servants to high and eternal honours. How often God raises up help for his people in the very moments in which they most need it! And hopeful is the state of a kingdom when kings ascend their throne, to the universal satisfaction of their subjects, especially the most pious and prudent. Thus may the nations quickly flock to Jesus, when he takes to himself his great power and reigns! May all the ends of the earth remember, and turn to the Lord;—and the kingdoms of this world become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ!

day, saying, 'How shall I bring the ark of God home to me ?

13 So David brought not the ark home to himself to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the LORD blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIV.

Coincides with 2 Sam. v.; 11—25. Here we have (1) David's kingdom established and palace built; 1, 2. (2) His family increased; 3—7. (3) His enemies the Philistines routed in two campaigns, managed by God's direction; 8—17.

NOW Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and timber of cedars, with masons and carpenters, to build him an house.

2 ¶ And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Israel, for his kingdom was lifted up on high, because of his people Israel.

3 ¶ And David took more wives at Jerusalem; and David begat more sons and daughters.

4 Now these are the names of his children which he had in Jerusalem; Shammua, and Shobab, *Nathan, and Solomon,

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elpalet,

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Elishama, and Beliada, and Eliphalet.

8 ¶ And, when the Philistines heard that David was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to seek David. And David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistines came and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 And David inquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto them, Go up; for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim; and David smote them there. Then David said, 'God hath broken in upon mine enemies by mine hand like the breaking forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place Baal-perazim.

12 And, when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burned with fire.

13 And the Philistines yet again spread themselves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David inquired again of God; and God said unto him, Go not up after them; turn away from them, and come upon them over against the mulberry trees.

15 And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt go out to battle; for God is gone forth before thee to smite the host of the Philistines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him. And they smote the host of the Philistines from Gibeon even to Gazer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands; and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.

CHAP. XV.

Partly coincides with 2 Sam. vi.; 12—25, and informs us how the ark was brought up to Jerusalem. (1) It was done more regularly than before; for a place was prepared for it; and the priests, the chief of whom are mentioned, were ordered to carry it; 1—15: and the singers, and other Levites, had their office assigned them in attending it; 16—24. (2) It was done more successfully than before; for the Levites made no mistake in their work, being helped of God, 26; and David and his subjects met with no damp of their joy; 25, 27, 28. Yet (3) It was not done without some contempt from Michal, David's wife; 29.

AND David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.

2 Then David said, *None ought to carry the ark of God but the Levites; for them hath the LORD chosen to carry the ark of God, and to minister unto him for ever.

3 And David gathered all Israel together to Jerusalem to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place which he had prepared for it.

4 And David assembled the children of Aaron and the Levites:

5 Of the sons of Kohath; Uriel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twenty:

6 Of the sons of Merari; Asaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty:

7 Of the sons of Gershon; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty:

8 Of the sons of Elizaphan; Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred:

9 Of the sons of Hebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourscore:

10 Of the sons of Uzziel; Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the priests, and for the Levites; for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab;

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—To have God with us, as the foundation of all true felicity, should be our first and principal desire. But respect paid to those whom we command engages their consent, and is the way to be obeyed with cheerfulness. In the multitude of counsellors there is much, but not all, safety. In the settlement of true religion magistrates ought to manage so as to recommend it to the approbation of all their subjects, and to act as nursing parents, not as ravening wolves. All who fear God ought to rejoice when religion is countenanced and promoted; and, when princes are active, ministers should heartily correspond with their godly designs. Great care ought to be taken in correcting the mistakes of former times, which have passed unpunished. But not the least commandment of God ought ever to be overlooked; for the ignorance of those, who minister before God's ark is especially criminal and dangerous. With all our joys we had need to join trembling. For a seemingly small miscarriage God may quickly turn our temple songs into howlings; and discouragements are apt to cool our zeal in the way of duty. But how profitable may the ark, the Christ, the gospel, of God, be to some, while it is the savour of death unto others!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—No man hath such sufficiency of his own as not to need the help of his neighbours. Let me therefore be thankful for the assistance: but let my sufficiency be of God. It is pleasant for the godly to discern God's hand, even in their earthly settlements. And all advancement ought to be considered as intended for usefulness,—for the glory of God, and good of mankind. Rarely do even good men prosper in worldly things, without waxing secure and too indulgent to the flesh. Little ease indeed must be expected in this world to the church of Christ, or to the souls of his people. But if we acknowledge the Lord in all our ways, he will direct our paths, and make us more than conquerors. Carefully must we attend to the directions of his word, or even motions of his Spirit and providence: and, depending on his conduct and strength, we may gird up our loins, gird on our armour, resist the devil, and make him to flee from us. If God deliver my corruptions into my hand, let me be all inflamed with holy zeal, burn them up, and mark the strongest detestation of idolatry, and every monument of it. And let Jesus have all the glory:—his name only be exalted, and his glory fill the whole earth.

chief of the fathers of the Levites: ¹sanctify yourselves, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For, ¹because ye did it not at the first, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we sought him not after the due order.

14 So the priests and the Levites sanctified ^mthemselves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

15 And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders with the staves thereon, as ^mMoses commanded, according to the word of the LORD.

16 And David ^ospake to the ^pchief of the Levites to appoint their brethren to be the singers with instruments of music, psalteries, and harps, and cymbals, sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed ^aHeman the son of Joel; and of his brethren, Asaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the son of Kushaiah;

18 And with them their brethren of the second degree, Zechariah, Ben, and ^rJaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters.

19 So the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound ^awith cymbals of brass;

20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with psalteries on ^aAlamoth;

21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azariah, with harps on the ^aSheminith to excel.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the [†]Levites was for ^{||}song: he instructed about the song because he was skilful.

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were door keepers for the ark.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, did blow with the ^atrumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom and Jehiah were door keepers for the ark.

25 ¶ So ^rDavid, and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the house of Obed-edom ^awith joy.

26 And it came to pass, when God helped ^athe Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered ^bseven bullocks and seven rams.

27 And David was clothed with ^aa robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the ^asong with the singers: David also had upon him an ephod of linen.

28 Thus all Israel ^dbrought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.

29 ¶ And it came to pass, as ^cthe ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul, looking out at a window, ^csaw king David dancing and playing; and she despised him in her heart.

CHAP. XVI.

In its three first and last verses, coincides with 2 Sam. vi.; 17—20.
We have, (1) With what solemnity of sacrificing, blessing, feasting, and high praising, the ark was fixed in Jerusalem; 1—6.
(2) The psalm which David penned to be sung on the occasion;
7—36. It is taken out of Psal. ev. xvi. cxxxvi. and cvi.; chiefly the two former. (3) David's settling the order of God's daily worship before the ark, with respect to priests, porters, and singers; 37—43.

SO ^athey brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God.

2 And, when David had made an end of offering the burnt offerings and the peace-offerings, ^bhe blessed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he ^cdealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

4 ¶ And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister ^dbefore the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank, and praise the ^cLORD God of Israel:

5 ^aAsaph the chief, and next to him
Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel with psalteries ^eand with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals:

6 Benaiah also and Jehaziel the priests
^bwith trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 ¶ Then on that day David ⁱdeliver-ed first this psalm, to thank the LORD, into the hand of Asaph and his brethren.

8 ^kGive thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people.

9 ^lSing unto him, sing psalms unto him, ^mtalk ye of all his wondrous works.

10 ⁿGlory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the LORD.

11 ^oSeek the LORD and his strength;
seek his face continually.

12 Remember ^phis marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;

13 O ^qye seed of Israel, his servant, ye children of Jacob, his chosen ones.

14 He is ^rthe LORD our God; his judgments are in all the earth.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—Good works must also be well done, and all our sufferings for our mistakes should teach and stir us up to be more regular. The greatest reformers, being men, have some faults. But it is a mercy when we see our errors and amend them. Even such as know the word of God better than others may, on particular occasions, forget the directions which they are peculiarly bled to remember. But readiness to correct former mistakes is an evidence of true wisdom and goodness. Such as are above others in dignity ought to go before them in duty. Many, who are very remiss in their duty, if they were but faithfully told of it, would reform and do better. Whatever gifts God bestows upon us should be employed in his service: and in all religious work we should derive our help from heaven, and thank God for it. If we escape his judgments while we are serving him, we owe it to his favour, not to our own exactness: and to him we owe the praise of all that is good in our work. God delights in the prosperity of his servants; and we ought to serve him with cheerfulness and joy. But in the very best of times there will be some evil murmurers, who think God's service too mean for them.

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant: the word which he commanded to a thousand generations:

16 Even of the "covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Isaac:

17 And hath confirmed the same to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant;

18 Saying, *Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, *the lot of your inheritance:

19 When ye were but †few, ^yeven a few, and strangers in it;

20 And when they ^zwent from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people;

21 He ^asuffered no man to do them wrong: yea, he reprov'd kings for their sakes;

22 Saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

23 ^bSing unto the LORD, all the earth: shew forth from day to day his salvation.

24 ^cDeclare his glory among the heathen; his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For ^dgreat is the LORD, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be feared above all gods.

26 For ^eall the gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

27 ^fGlory and honour are in his presence; strength and gladness are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ^gye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD ^hglory and strength.

29 Give unto the LORD ⁱthe glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him; worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness.

30 Fear before him, ^kall the earth: the world also shall be ^lstable, that it be not moved.

31 Let ^mthe heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men say among the nations, The LORD reigneth.

32 ⁿLet the sea roar, and the fulness thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all that is therein.

33 Then shall the trees of the wood sing out at the presence of the LORD, because he cometh to judge the earth.

34 ^oO give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever.

35 And ^psay ye, Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praise.

36 ^qBlessed be the LORD God of Israel for ever and ever. And all ^rthe people said, Amen, and praised the LORD.

37 ¶ So he left there, before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ^sAsaph and his brethren, to minister before the ark continually, as every day's work required:

38 And ^tObed-edom with their brethren, threescore and eight; Obed-edom also the son of Jeduthun and Hosah to be porters:

39 And ^uZadok the priest, and his brethren the priests, before the tabernacle of the LORD in the high place ^xthat was at Gibeon,

40 To offer ^yburnt-offerings unto the LORD upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually, morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Israel;

41 And with them ^zHeman and Jeduthun, and the rest that were chosen, who were expressed by name, to give thanks to the LORD, ^abecause his mercy endureth for ever:

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun, with trumpets and cymbals, for those that should make a sound, and with ^bmusical instruments of God. And the sons of Jeduthun were †porters.

43 And all the people departed every man to his house: and David returned to ^cbless his house.

CHAP. XVII.

Is the same as 2 Sam. vii.; and contains (1) God's gracious acceptance of David's purpose to build him a temple, and the promise he made to him and his family thereupon; 1—15. (2) David's hearty acceptance of God's promise to build him an house, and the prayer he made thereupon; 16—27.

NOW ^ait came to pass, as David sat in his house, that David said to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell ^bin an house of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

2 Then Nathan said unto David, ^cDo all that is in thine heart; for God is with thee.

3 ¶ And ^dit came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go and tell David my servant, Thus saith the LORD, ^eThou shalt not build me an house to dwell in:

5 For I have not dwelt in an house since the day that I brought up Israel unto this day; but ^fhave gone from tent ^gto tent, and from one tabernacle to another:

6 Wheresoever I have walked with all Israel, spake I a word to any of the judges ^hof Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people, saying, Why have ye not built me an house of cedars?

7 Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, ⁱI took thee from the sheep cote, even †from following the sheep, that thou shouldest be ruler over my people Israel:

acquaintance with him. The sovereign choice which God has made of his people; the covenant he has established with them; the wonderful works he done for them; and the statutes he has given them; as well as his almighty power, goodness, and glory; and his being the Creator and Governor of things; should be matter of our praise. And while we enjoy his favours, ought to intercede for salvation, and every other promised blessing, to them that want them. But, however solemn our occasional worship of God may be, must never supersede our daily and ordinary service of him.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVI.—God's ordinances and truths may remain long in obscurity; but their glory will shine forth at last. And the hungry, who wait on him, will at length be filled with good things. Grateful praise is a most acceptable sacrifice to God. All our rejoicings ought to express thankfulness to him, from whom we receive all our comforts; and all our praises to center in ascribing glory to him. We ought to shew ourselves generous to others as God is gracious to us. And such as know God should endeavour by their triumph in him, and all other fruits of grace, to bring their neighbours into

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—Every true fearer of God is solicitous to have his glory set forth. And God's ministers especially ought to encourage every good word and work. Gracious desires, even where ineffectual, are highly regarded of God. But outward pomp in his worship and service is little esteemed in his sight. Earnest desires and endeavours to build an house to the Lord, are the best methods to raise up our own. Blessings on our children are mercies to ourselves. But in Christ himself, as our ALL and IN ALL, the promises have 8 And I have been with thee whithersoever thou hast walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, and have made thee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 Also I will ordain a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall dwell in their place, and shall be moved no more; neither shall the children of wickedness waste them any more, as at the beginning,

10 And since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel. Moreover, I will subdue all thine enemies. Furthermore, I tell thee that the LORD will build thee an house.

11 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when thy days be expired that thou must go to be with thy fathers, that I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons; and I will establish his kingdom.

12 He shall build me an house, and I will stablish his throne for ever.

13 I will be his father, and he shall be my son; and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee:

14 But I will settle him in mine house and in my kingdom for ever; and his throne shall be established for evermore.

15 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

16 ¶ And David the king came and sat before the LORD, and said, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

17 And yet this was a small thing in thine eyes, O God; for thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, O LORD God.

18 What can David speak more to thee for the honour of thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant.

19 O LORD, for thy servant's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this greatness, in making known all these great things.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of greatness and terribleness, by driving out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast redeemed out of Egypt?

22 For thy people Israel didst thou make thine own people for ever; and thou, LORD, becamest their God.

23 Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be established for ever, and do as thou hast said.

24 Let it even be established, that thy name may be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Israel: and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, hast told thy servant that thou wilt build him an house; therefore thy servant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And now, LORD, thou art God, and hast promised this goodness unto thy servant;

27 Now therefore let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou blessest, O LORD, and it shall be blessed for ever.

CHAP. XVIII.

In this and the two next chapters David's great piety is rewarded with great prosperity. Here, as in 2 Sam. viii. we have (1) His prosperity abroad. He conquers the Philistines; 1: the Moabites; 2: the king of Zobah; 3, 4; and other Syrians; 5—8: and the Edomites; 12, 13: the king of Hamath becomes his tributary ally; 9, 10: and he dedicates the spoil, and presents of gold, silver, and brass, to the service of the temple; 11. (2) His prosperity at home, in the equity of his government and flourishing order of his court; 14—17.

NOW after this it came to pass that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them, and took Gath and her towns out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 And he smote Moab: and the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David smote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to establish his dominion by the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen: David also houghed all the chariot horses, but reserved of them an hundred chariots.

5 And, when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

6 Then David put garrisons in Syria-damascus; and the Syrians became David's servants, and brought gifts. Thus the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

7 And David took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 Likewise from Tibhath, and from Chun, cities of Hadarezer, brought David very much brass, wherewith Solomon made the brazen sea, and the pillars, and the vessels of brass.

9 ¶ Now, when Tou king of Hamath heard how David had smitten all the host of Hadarezer king of Zobah,

10 He sent Hadoram his son to king David, to inquire of his welfare, and to congratulate him, because he had fought their complete fulfilment. With what deep humility we ought to approach unto God! Those are the truly honourable of the earth, whom he regards: and it is the glory of the highest monarch to be his servants. As there is none like him, so there is no happiness like to a sense of his favour. With ravishing wonder, and believing confidence, we may plead his promises. And if we share in his covenant of grace we shall partake of his everlasting glory.

CHAP. XIX.

Coincides with 2 Sam. x. Here is (1) David's civility (perhaps too great) to Hanun king of the Ammonites, in sending him an embassy of condolence after his father's death; 1, 2. (2) Hanun's incivility to David, in abusing his ambassadors as spies, to his great grief; 3-5. (3) The war which this incivility occasioned; in which the Ammonites took the lead, and called the Syrians to their help; 6-7. But by the bravery of Joab and Abishai; 8-13: the Ammonites are once, and the Syrians twice, routed; 14-19.

NOW †it came to pass after this, that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died; and his son reigned in his stead.

2 And David said, I †will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father shewed kindness to me. And David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, †Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? Are not his servants come unto thee for to search, and to overthrow, and to †spy out the land?

4 Wherefore †Hanun took David's servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments in the midst hard by their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were served. And he sent to meet them; for the men were greatly ashamed; and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And, when the children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves odious †to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon sent †a thousand talents of silver to hire them chariots, and horsemen out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria-maacha, and out of Zobah.

7 So they †hired thirty and two thousand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people; who came and pitched before †Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to battle.

8 And, when David heard of it, he sent †Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array before the gate of the †city: and †the kings that were come were by themselves in the field.

10 Now, when Joab saw that †the battle was set against him before and behind, he chose out of all the †choice of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of †Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, †If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but, if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 †Be of good courage, and let us behave ourselves valiantly for our people and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in his sight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him.

15 And, when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they likewise †fled before Abishai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 ¶ And, when the Syrians saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers, †and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the †river: and Shophach †the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And it was told David; and he gathered all Israel, and passed over Jordan, and came upon them, and †set the battle in array against them. So, when David had put the battle in array against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians †fled before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand men which fought in chariots, and forty thousand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

19 And, when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with David, frequently hurt themselves, by attempting to help their neighbours. And sinners, contrary to their own inclinations, lay up wealth for the just, and make preparations for building the temple of God. But it is prudent to make God our favourites our friends; and proper to honour God with that which he remarkably blesses us. They cannot but succeed in their enterprises, who take God along with them. And where he gives great power men should be careful to look great, but to do good with it.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—Intimate fellowship with God makes men bold and active; and, however numerous and mighty the enemies of God's people are, they shall be brought down at last. The associated forces of hell and earth in vain oppose his church; she shall stand triumphant over them all in the end. It is not shields of gold, but the shield of faith, that will prove an un-failing defence. Nay, so uncertain are worldly things, that men often lose their power and wealth, by seeking to establish them. The enemies of God's people

CHAP. XXI.

David's adultery and murder, and the fatal consequences of it, are concealed in the preceding chapter; nor is his numbering of the people here inserted, but as it occasioned the marking out of the proper spot for the temple to be built on. Here, as in 2 Sam. xxiv. we have (1) David's sin in forcing Joab to number the people; 1—4: the account of whom is given; 5, 6. (2) His grief for his conduct when he perceived the sinfulness of it; 7, 8. (3) His strait, what he should choose for the punishment of it; 9—13. (4) The havoc made in Israel; and the narrow escape of Jerusalem, by means of his intercession; 14—17. (5) The plague stayed, and reconciliation made, by David's erecting an altar, and offering sacrifice thereon, in Ornan's threshing floor; 18—30.

those who meddle with strife, not belonging to them, know not what to do in the end of it: and it is wise if at last they learn to forbear.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—We should conceal the faults of the godly with candour, if we can do it with faithfulness. Nay, if we cannot say good of persons, we had generally best say nothing of them. But, however long the powerful enemies of God and his church stand their ground, they shall be brought down at last, whether outward or inward. Nor need the saints be ever disheartened by their enemies' insolence and pride, while they have the Almighty God on their side. Yea, ordinarily those are marked for visible ruin who reproach and defy God and his people.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—Saints ought to be neighbourly and grateful, as far as religion admits. But the kindest actions may be misinterpreted, the most friendly concern be repaid with ingratitude, and the most innocent character may suffer reproach. Wickedness naturally proceeds from the wicked; and they who do ill dread ill; and where whisperers are heard firm friends are separated. They who receive shame and damage in our service ought to be tenderly taken care of and provided for: and the courage of brave men is increased and invigorated by difficulties. But sinners, whom God hath marked for ruin, harden themselves to their own destruction. Vain are the utmost efforts of art and strength against justice and equity: and to little purpose do those rally and reinforce themselves who have God for their enemy. How often now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD stood by the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

16 ¶ And David lifted up his eyes, and saw the angel of the LORD stand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders of Israel, who were clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces.

17 And David said unto God, ^aIs it not I that commanded the people to be numbered? even I it is that have sinned and done evil indeed; but, as for these sheep, what have they done; let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me and on my father's house, but not on thy people, that they should be plagued.

18 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up, and set up an altar unto the LORD in the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And David went up at the saying of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD.

20 ¶ And Ornan turned back, and saw the angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves. Now Ornan was threshing wheat.

21 And, as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David said to Ornan, ^bGrant me the place of this threshing floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD: thou shalt grant it me for the full price: that the plague may be stayed from the people.

23 And Ornan said unto David, ^aTake it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt-offerings, and the threshing instruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering; I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, ^cNay; but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

25 So David gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, and called upon the LORD; and he answered him from heaven by fire upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And the LORD commanded the angel; and he put up his sword again into the sheath thereof.

28 ¶ At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there.

29 For the tabernacle of the LORD, which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt-offering, were at that season in the high place at Gibeon.

30 But David could not go before it to inquire of God; for he was afraid, because of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

CHAP. XXII.

Awakened by the late pestilence, and directed of God where the temple should be built, David here (1) Makes great preparations for the building of it; 1-5, 14-16. (2) He gives Solomon his son encouraging instructions, and a solemn charge, relative to the building of it; 6-16. (3) He charges the princes of Israel to assist him in it; 17-19.

THEN David said, ^aThis is the house of the LORD God, and this is the altar of the burnt-offering for Israel.

2 And David commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the land of Israel; and he set masons to hew wrought stones to build the house of God.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and brass in abundance without weight;

4 Also cedar trees in abundance: for the Zidonians and they of Tyre brought much cedar wood to David.

5 And David said, ^aSolomon my son is young and tender, and the house that is to be builded for the LORD must be exceeding magnificent, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

6 ¶ Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

7 And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, it was in my mind to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ^bThou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.

9 Behold, a son shall be born to thee who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be Solomon; and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

10 He shall build an house for my name; and he shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever.

11 Now, my son, the LORD be with thee, and prosper thou, and build the REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—While the saints remain on earth Satan never lets them alone, nor despairs of success in his temptations. And to nothing does he more tempt men than to pride; though there is nothing that God more hates, or more severely punishes. Yea, he will use the strangest methods to do the people of God an injury. Sometimes the wicked are wiser in some things of God than the saints. And always, when the heart is averse, the work goes on heavily, and is left imperfect. It is a great mercy to be quickly brought to a sense of our sins. But, even when the Lord enables to repent, he does not always turn away the external punishment which his saints must suffer in their flesh, even when their spirit is saved. Our folly and rashness often reduce us to the most fearful straits and perplexities, when we have none but ourselves to blame. It is an evil and bitter thing to depart from the living God.

Spreading is the influence of sin: and, if God's mercy were not infinite, it should be utterly consumed. Under the judgments which we have deserved, it is therefore our only resource to flee to that God whom we have offended. He can not only stop short the execution of his judgment, but bring good out of evil, and make even sin itself an occasion of planting his church, and of a more vigorous preparation for his service. How pleasant is it all along to observe the providence of God marking his intended favours to the accursed sinners of the Gentiles! When his temple is to be built, the gold, silver, and brass, must be procured from Gentiles: the place of it must be purchased from a Gentile: and almost all the workmen must be Gentiles, Tyrians, Canaanites, &c. And now to us Gentiles are preached, are given, the unsearchable riches of Christ!

house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

12 Only the LORD °give thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee charge concerning Israel, that thou mayest keep the law of the LORD thy God.

13 ¶Then shalt thou prosper, if thou takest heed to fulfil the statutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moses with concerning Israel: °be strong, and of good courage; dread not, nor be dismayed.

14 Now, behold, in my*trouble I have prepared for the house of the LORD †an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand talents of silver; and of brass and iron without weight; for it is in abundance: timber also and stone have I prepared; and thou mayest add thereto.

15 Moreover, there are workmen with thee in abundance, hewers and workers of stone and timber, and all manner of cunning men for every manner of work.

16 Of the gold, the silver, and the brass, and the iron, there is no number.

Arise therefore, and be doing, and the LORD be with thee.

17 ¶David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying,

18 °Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you rest on every side? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand; and the land is subdued before the LORD, and before his people.

19 Now °set your heart and your soul to seek the LORD your God; arise therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy vessels of God, into the house that is to be built y to the name of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIII.

The Levitical ordinances had not been exactly observed in the preceding periods. Here therefore David, who was a prophet as well as a king, by the direction of God, sets in order the things which were wanting; and, having given orders for building the temple, regulates the offices and orders of the temple service. (1) Having fixed Solomon on his throne, he numbers the Levites from thirty years old and upward, and appoints them their respective stations and work; 1—5. (2) He takes an account of their respective families and chiefs; 6—23. (3) Having again numbered them, from twenty years old and upward, he assigns them their particular work at the tabernacle and temple; 24—32.

SO, when David was old and full of days, he °made Solomon his son king over Israel.

2 ¶And °he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the priests and the Levites.

3 Now the Levites were numbered from the age of °thirty years and upward: and their number by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thousand.

4 Of whom twenty and four thousand

• Or to oversee. were °to set forward the work of the house of the LORD; and six thousand were officers^d and judges:

5 Moreover, °four thousand were porters, and four thousand praised the LORD with the instruments which °I made, said David, to praise therewith.

6 And David divided them into †courses among the sons of Levi; namely, °Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 ¶Of the °Gershonites were °Laadan and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel; three.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran; three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

10 And the sons of Shimei were, Jahath, °Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah: these four were the sons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second; but Jeush and Beriah had not †many sons; therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their father's house.

12 ¶The sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel; four.

13 The sons of °Amram; Aaron and Moses; and °Aaron was separated, that he should sanctify the most holy things, he and his sons for ever, to burn incense before the LORD, to minister unto him, and to bless in his name for ever.

14 Now, concerning Moses °the man of God, °his sons were named of the tribe of Levi.

15 The sons °of Moses were Gershom and Eliezer.

16 °Of the sons of Gershom, Shebuel was the chief.

17 And the sons of Eliezer were Rehabiah || the chief. And Eliezer had none other sons; but the sons of Rehabiah °were very many.

18 Of the sons of °Izhar; Shelomith the chief.

19 Of the sons of °Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the sons of °Uzziel; Micah the first, and Jesiah the second.

21 ¶The sons of °Merari; Mahli, and Mushi. The sons of Mahli; Eleazar, and Kish.

22 And Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters: and their °brethren the sons of Kish took them.

23 °The sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth; three.

24 ¶These were the sons of Levi after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of °twenty years and upward.

25 For David said, the LORD God of Israel °hath given rest unto his people, REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXII.—Very different is the appearance of men when ruled by their pride, and when governed by the humbling grace of God. Such as have been highly favoured by God, ought to be singularly careful and active in promoting his glory, and the welfare of his church. And, the nearer our death approaches, we ought to be the more earnest in his work. Let us do all that we can in his service, when we are not allowed to do all that we would: and let us kindly assist others in the work which God hath denied us the honour of accomplishing. And as the church of Christ is not built up by the sword of war, but by the gospel of peace, let us, as we have leisure from other avocations, employ it in the immediate service of God. Whatever difficulties lie in the way, God's clear call to a work, his affording us an opportunity, and his promise to invigorate and quicken our spirits, are sufficient encouragements.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII. It is an honour to God, and an advantage to his church, to have a proper number of faithful ministers; and pleasing is the prospect when their number remarkably increases. It is necessary and honourable to enter on God's service as early as possible. Church affairs are likely to prosper when every one knows and attends to his particular work. And in whatever station a person is fixed, it is always his duty to be zealous and diligent in God's service. But what sovereignty God manifests in men's stations! While the offspring of Aaron are dignified priests, those of Moses are but ordinary Levites; yet he always proportions men's burdens to their strength. And it is comely when every one in the church cheerfully applies himself to the meanest service to which he is called; and when the officers thereof heartily harmonize in working to one another's hands.

the principal fathers over against their younger brethren.

CHAP. XXV.

The order of the priests and their attendant Levites being fixed, David here constitutes the order of the temple musicians. Here are (1) The persons to be employed in temple music, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, or Ethan, with their sons and others; 1—7. (2) The order in which they were to attend determined by lot; 8—31.

MOREOVER, David and the captains^a of the host separated to the service of the sons of ^bAsaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun, ^cwho should prophesy with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals: and the number of the workmen, according to their service, was:

2 Of the sons of Asaph; Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and ^dAzarelah, the sons of Asaph under the hands of Asaph, who prophesied ^eaccording to the order of the king.

3 Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun; Gedaliah, and ^fZeri, and Jeshaiiah, Hashabiah, ^gand Mattithiah; six; under the hands of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with a harp, to give thanks and to praise the LORD.

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, ^bUzziel, ⁱShebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romanti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth:

5 All these were the sons of Heman the ^kking's seer in the ^lwords of God, to lift up the horn. And ^mGod gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

6 All these were under the hands of their father for ⁿsong in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, psalteries, and harps, for the service of the house of God, ^oaccording to the king's order to Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

7 So the number of them, with their brethren that were instructed in the songs of the LORD, even all that were cunning, was two hundred fourscore and eight.

CHAP. XXVI.

From the days of Moses the Levites had made no remarkable figure in Israel. None of the judges, but Eli and Samuel, pertained to their tribe. Now they make a most splendid appearance. Here we have (1) Four thousand of them distributed into twenty-four classes of sacred porters for the temple; 1—19. (2) Others appointed treasurers of the wealth belonging to the temple; 20—28. (3) Four thousand and four hundred appointed officers and judges in Israel, especially in religious matters, along with the princes and elders of the several tribes; 29—32.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIV.—Nothing ought to be done in the ordering of ecclesiastical offices but according to God's direction. What solemnity ought to take place in the settlement of ministers; and what order should be observed in the discharge of their work! But great will be the solemnity of the admission, and comely the orders, of the ransomed priests in their new covenant state, particularly in the temple above! How happy their blessed equality! No difference is made between bond or free, old or young; but Christ is all and in all!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—Great cheerfulness ought to be exercised in the worship and service of God; and great attention should be paid to the praising of God, as a leading business of his saints. And it is comely when those in power concur in promoting religion; the latter in perfecting what others before had begun. Of how little account are human distinctions before God! Before him master and scholar, elder and younger, stand on an equal level. And, when we find the lot so much used in deciding in the great things of God, as an immediate appeal to himself, how sinful and profane it must be to use it in trifles, or in what merely relates to diversion! As I regard JEHOVAH'S honour, let me never dare to recreate myself with cards or dice, or cast lots in matters of small value.

9 And Meshelemiah had sons and brethren, strong men, eighteen.

13 ¶ And they cast lots, as well the small as the great, according to the house of their fathers, for every gate.

14 And the lot eastward fell to Shelemiah. Then for Zechariah his son, a wise counsellor, they cast lots, and his lot came out northward.

15 To Obed-edom southward, and to his sons the house of Asuppim.

16 To Shuppim and Hosah the lot came forth westward, with the gate Shallecheth, by the causeway of the going up, ward against ward.

17 Eastward were six Levites ; northward four a day, southward four a day, and toward Asuppim two and two.

18 At Parbar westward, four at the causeway, and two at Parbar.

19 These are the divisions of the porters among the sons of Kore, and among the sons of Merari.

20 ¶ And, of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the dedicated things.

21 As concerning the sons of Laadan ; the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, chief fathers, even of Laadan the Gershonite, were Jehieli.

22 The sons of Jehieli ; Zetham, and Joel his brother, which were over the treasures of the house of the LORD.

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treasures of the dedicated things ; which David the king, and the chief fathers, the captains over thousands and hundreds, and the captains of the host, had dedicated.

27 Out of the spoils won in battles did they dedicate to maintain the house of the LORD.

28 And all that Samuel the seer, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Joab the son of Zeruiah, had dedicated ; and whosoever had dedicated any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith, and of his brethren.

29 ¶ Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons were for the outward business over Israel, for officers and judges.

30 And of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brethren, men of valour, a thousand and seven hundred, were officers among them of Israel on this side Jordan westward, in all the business of the LORD, and in the service of the king.

31 Among the Hebronites was Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the generations of his fathers. In the fortieth year of the reign of David they were sought for, and there were found among them mighty men of valour at Jazer of Gilead.

32 And his brethren, men of valour, were two thousand and seven hundred chief fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, for every matter pertaining to God and affairs of the king.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVI.—Great order ought to take place in Christ's church ; and great care with respect to the admission or dismissal of members, or approaches to and returns from solemn work. What distinguished blessings attend those, who, like Obed-edom, are careful of God's ark and interests in a day of distress ! It is proper to bestow on works of piety and charity what God bestows upon us in extraordinary favours ; and to preserve care fully whatever is dedicated to the Lord. While our life continues there is always something to be done for God. And, the nearer our end approaches, the greater ought to be our industry in doing good. They bid fair to be a happy nation who are taught to fear God and honour the king. And those parts of nations and churches which are weakest and most exposed ought to be taken particular care of.

CHAP. XXVIII.

In this and the following chapter we have David's farewell to Solomon his son and his subjects. Here, in a general convention of the states, summoned for that purpose, (1) David declares God's appointment of Solomon to inherit the crown, and build his temple for him ; 2-7. (2) He solemnly charges the people and Solomon to make religion their principal business, if they wished to prosper ; 8-10. (3) He delivers up the divine model of the temple, and the materials for building it, to Solomon ; 11-19. (4) He strongly encourages him to the work, since God, the priests, people, and princes, would assist him in it ; 20, 21.

AND David assembled all the princes of Israel, the princes of the tribes, and the captains of the companies that ministered to the king by course, and the captains over the thousands, and captains over the hundreds, and the stewards over all the substance and possession of the king and of his sons, with the officers, and with the mighty men, and with all the valiant men, unto Jerusalem.

2 Then David the king stood up upon his feet, and said, Hear me, my brethren, and my people : As for me, I had in mine heart to build an house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footstool of our God, and had made ready for the building.

3 But God said unto me, Thou shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast been a man of war, and hast shed blood.

4 Howbeit, the LORD God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father to be king over Israel for ever ; have been guilty, let me shew a lasting detestation of my sin. It will never turn to any good account, or to any future comfort. Let me guide my civil affairs with discretion ; for more religion lies in the right management of temporal concerns than is generally imagined.

5 And of all ^lmy sons, (for the LORD hath given me many sons,) he hath chosen ^mSolomon my son to sit upon the throne ⁿof the kingdom of the LORD over Israel.

6 And he said unto me, ^oSolomon thy son, he shall build my house and my courts; for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father.

7 Moreover, ^pI will establish his kingdom for ever, if he be ^qconstant to do my commandments and my judgments, as ^rat this day.

8 Now therefore, ^rin the sight of all Israel the congregation of the LORD, and in the audience of our God, ^skeep and seek for all the commandments of the LORD your God: that ye may possess this good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you for ever.

9 ¶ And thou, Solomon my son, ^tknow thou the God of thy father, and serve him ^uwith a perfect heart and with a willing mind: for ^vthe LORD searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts: ^wif thou seek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off for ever.

10 ^xTake heed now; for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it.

11 ¶ Then David gave to Solomon his son ^ythe pattern of the ^zporch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat.

12 And the pattern ^aof all that he had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of ^bthe treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things:

13 Also for ^cthe courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

14 † He gave of gold by weight for things of gold, for all instruments of all manner of service; silver also for all instruments of silver by weight, for all instruments of every kind of service:

15 Even the weight for the ^dcandlesticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candlestick, and for the lamps thereof: and for the candlesticks of silver by weight, both for the candlestick, and also for the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the ^etables of shew-bread, for every table; and likewise silver for the tables of silver:

17 Also ^fpure gold for the flesh-hooks, and the bowls, and the cups: and for the golden basons he gave gold by weight for every bason; and likewise silver by weight for every bason of silver:

18 And for the ^galtar of incense refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the ^hchariot of the cherubims, that spread out their wings, and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

19 All this, said David, ⁱthe LORD made me understand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern.

20 ¶ And David said to Solomon his son, ^jBe strong, and of good courage, and do it: fear not, nor be dismayed: for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the LORD.

21 And, behold, ^kthe courses of the priests and the Levites, even they shall be with thee for all the service of the house of God: and there shall be with thee, for all manner of workmanship, ^levery willing skilful man, for any manner of service: also ^mthe princes and all the people will be wholly at thy commandment.

CHAP. XXIX

Here (1) David continues his directions to his subjects, pressing them, from his own example, to contribute towards the building and furnishing of the temple; 1—5. (2) They accordingly make very generous presents; 6—9. (3) Animated with the sight, David offers up solemn prayers for them, admiring God's excellency and kindness, and begging his continued favour; 10—19. (4) He and the people join in solemn praise to God, sacrifices, and sacred feasting; 20—22. (5) Solomon is here-upon again enthroned with great joy and magnificence, and universal submission; 22—24. (6) David dies, after having reigned forty years, and done much; 26—30.

FURTHERMORE, David the king said unto ⁿall the congregation, Solomon my son, whom God alone hath chosen, is yet ^oyoung and tender, and the work is great: for the ^ppalace is not for man, but for the LORD God.

2 Now I ^qhave prepared with all my might for the house of my God the gold for things to be made of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and the brass for things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; ^ronyx-stones, and stones to be set, glistening stones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble stones in abundance.

3 Moreover, ^sbecause I have set my affection to the house of my God, I have of ^tmine own proper good, of gold and hearts, rewarder of piety, and punisher of apostasy, and a knowledge of our divine call, are necessary to excite us to his service. Every thing in God's church and worship ought to be framed exactly according to his inspired model, without the smallest intermixture of the inventions of men: and in executing designs for his honour we should be benevolent and cheerful. God's owning our fathers in his work, and especially the promises of his presence with us, should make us to renounce every unbelieving fear and every degree of insolence. And, when princes, priests, and people, heartily concur in God's work, the spiritual building rises gloriously.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVIII.—It is honourable to be removed and exalted to the church eternal, while we are earnestly exerting ourselves to leave all things well in the church below. Public settlements of religion and kingdoms ought to be conducted with the utmost prudence, that (if possible) all concerned may be satisfied. Rulers in church and state should deal with those under them in the most affectionate and engaging manner. Respectful kindness has a powerful tendency to secure their cheerful service. And, even when the settlement is divine and cannot be altered, care ought to be taken to convince every one of its divinity. God puts his honourable work into what hands he pleases. But a solid knowledge of God, holy awe of him as the searcher of indebted to him for employing and enabling us, and ought to walk the more humbly with him. And, though our good works ought never to encourage our pride, yet should they be the matter of our praise. If we would retain good impressions on our spirit, we must commit the keeping of them to God. A heart sincerely fixed upon him is the greatest blessing we can here enjoy: and a holy rejoicing should enliven every act of our fellowship with him; particularly our feasting by faith on the sacrifice of his Son. For great is the honour God gives to those whom he calls to his work, while they serve him faithfully therein. But how short a step there is between a throne and a grave! The brightest stars that appear in the church must quickly set in death, and leave their room to others.—Let therefore the divinely anointed, the no more dying Jesus, be all my joy and consolation!

THE SECOND BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

This book greatly coincides with the first and second book of Kings, and contains a history of about 480 years, till the return from Babylon: only there we had the history of Israel and Judah mixed together; in this we have scarcely any thing but the history of David's descendants, much of which we had not before. In general, the good kings were successful, and the wicked severely punished, as Moses had predicted, Lev. xxvi. Deut. xxviii—xxxii. and iv. 25—30. Here we have the peaceable reign of Solomon, ch. i—ix.; the blemished reign of Rehoboam, x—xii.; the short but busy reign of Abijah, xiii.; the long and happy reign of Asa, xiv—xvi.; the pious and prosperous reign of Jehoshaphat, xvii—xx.; the infamous reigns of Jehoram and Ahaziah, xxi. xxii.; the unsteady reigns of Joash and Amaziah, xxiii—xxv.; the long, prosperous, but ill-concluded reign of Uzziah, xxvi.; the regular reign of Jotham, xxvii.; the idolatrous, profane, and miserable, reign of Ahaz, xxviii.; the reforming and glorious reign of Hezekiah, xxix—xxxii.; the deforming and wicked reigns of Manasseh and Amon, xxxiii.; the pious and reforming reign of Josiah, xxxiv. xxxv.; and the reigns of Jehoahaz, Jehoikim, Jehoiahin, and Zedekiah, destructive to the nation, xxxvi.

CHAP. I.

Coincides with 1 Kings iii.; 5—13; and x. 26—29. God and Israel had begun to magnify Solomon exceedingly. Here (1) Solomon honours God by solemn sacrifices to him, and by supplications for necessary wisdom from him; 1—10. (2) God honours Solomon, by granting him his request in extraordinary wisdom and knowledge, attended with unparalleled riches and honour; 11, 12. (3) Solomon honours Israel, by their astonishing increase of their warlike force, grandeur, wealth, and trade; 13—17.

AND Solomon the son of David was ^astrengthened in his kingdom, and the LORD his God ^{was} with ^bhim, and ^cmagnified him exceedingly.

2 Then Solomon ^dspake unto all Israel, to the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every governor in all Israel, the chief of the fathers.

3 So Solomon, and all the congregation with him, went to the high place that ^{was} at ^eGibeon; for there was the tabernacle ^fof the congregation of God, which Moses the servant of the LORD ^ghad made in the wilderness.

4 ^hBut the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jerusalem.

5 Moreover, ⁱthe brazen altar, that Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made, ^jhe put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation sought unto it.

6 And Solomon went up thither to the brazen altar before the LORD, which ^{was} at the tabernacle of the congregation and offered ^ka thousand burnt-offerings upon it.

7 ¶ In that night did God appear unto Solomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Solomon said unto God, ^mThou hast shewed great mercy unto David my father, and hast made me ⁿto reign in his stead.

9 Now, O LORD God, ^olet thy promise unto David my father be established; for thou ^phast made me king over a people like the dust of the earth in multitude.

10 ^qGive me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people, ^rthat is so great?

11 And God said to Solomon, Because this ^swas in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life; but hast asked wisdom and knowledge for thyself, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

12 Wisdom and knowledge is ^tgranted unto thee; and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, such as ^unone of the kings have had that ^{have been be-}fore thee, neither shall there any after thee have the like.

13 ¶ Then Solomon came from ^vhis journey to the high place that ^{was} at Gibeon to Jerusalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned ^wover Israel.

14 ^xAnd Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, which he placed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

15 ^yAnd the king ^zmade silver and gold at Jerusalem as ^{plenteous} as stones, and cedar trees made he as the ^{aa}sycamore trees that ^{are} in the vale for abundance.

16 ^bAnd ¶ Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

17 And they fetched up, and brought forth out of Egypt, a chariot for six hundred ^{shekels} of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so brought they out ^{cc}horses for all the kings of the Hittites,

CHAP. II.

Coincides with 1 Kings v. Here is (1) Solomon's determination to build a temple for God, and a palace for himself, and his appointment of workmen for it: 1, 2, 17, 18. (2) His request to Hiram king of Tyre to furnish him with artists and materials; 3—10. (3) Hiram's obliging answer and ready compliance; 11—16.

AND Solomon determined to build an house ^afor the name of the LORD, and an house ^bfor his kingdom.

2 And Solomon ^ctold out threescore and ten thousand men to bear burdens, and fourscore thousand to hew in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them.

3 ¶ And Solomon sent to ^dHiram the king of Tyre, saying, As thou didst deal with David my father, and ^edidst send him cedars to build him an house to dwell therein, even so deal with me.

4 Behold, ^fI build an house to the name of the LORD my God, to ^gdedicate it to him, and to burn before him ^hsweet incense, and for the continual shew-bread, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the solemn feasts, of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Israel.

5 And the house which I build is greatⁱ: for ^jgreat is our God above all gods.

6 ^kBut who ^lis able to build him an house, seeing the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain him? ^mwho am I then, that I should build him an house, save only to burn sacrifice before him?

7 Send me now therefore a man cunningⁿ to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in iron, and in purple, and in crimson, and blue, and that can skill to grave^o with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom ^pDavid my father did provide.

8 ^qSend me also cedar trees, fir trees, and ^ralgum trees, out of Lebanon: (for I know that thy servants can skill to cut timber in Lebanon:) and, behold, my servants shall be with thy servants, 9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance: for the house which I am about to build shall be ^swonderful great.

10 And, behold, I ^twill give to thy servants, the hewers that cut timber, twenty thousand measures of beaten wheat, and twenty thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil.

11 ¶ Then Hiram the king of Tyre answered in writing, which he sent to Solomon, ^uBecause the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Hiram said moreover, ^vBlessed be the LORD God of Israel, that made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wise son, ^wendued with prudence and understanding, that might build an house for the LORD, and an house for his kingdom.

13 And now I have sent a cunning man, endued with understanding, of Hiram my ^xfather's, 14 The son of a woman of the daughters of ^yDan, and his father was a man of Tyre, skilful to work in gold, and in silver, in brass, in iron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimson; also to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device which shall be put to him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine, ^zwhich my lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants:

16 And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, ^{aa}as much as thou shalt need; and we will bring it to thee in flotes by sea to ^{ab}Joppa; and thou shalt carry it up to Jerusalem.

17 ¶ ^{ac}And Solomon numbered all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbering wherewith David his father had numbered them: and they were found an hundred and fifty thousand and three thousand and six hundred.

18 And he set ^{ad}threescore and ten thousand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourscore thousand to be hewers in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred overseers to set the people a work.

CHAP. III.

Coincides with 1 Kings vi. and vii. 15—22. Here are (1) The time and place of the temple's erection; 1, 2. (2) The dimensions and ornaments of it; 3—9. (3) The additional pair of cherubims for the most holy place; 10—13. (4) The veil before the most holy place; 14. (5) The two pillars in the porch of the sanctuary; 15—17.

THEN ^{ae}Solomon began to build the house of the LORD at Jerusalem ^{af}in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had prepared in the threshing floor of ^{ag}Ornan ^{ah}the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build ^{ai}in the second day of the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 ¶ Now these are the things wherein ^{aj}Solomon was ^{ak}instructed for the building of the house of God. The length by cubits after the first measure was ^{al}threescore cubits, and the breadth ^{am}twenty cubits.

4 And the ^{an}porch that was in the front of the house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was ^{ao}an turned into a curse. And he that increaseth horses, chariots, or trade, often spreads snares and temptations for souls.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—We should always prefer the honour of God, and the welfare of his church, to our own accommodations. It is very desirable to make our father's creditable friends our own: and, if we have the knowledge of the true God, we should labour to make others acquainted with it. Revelation will recommend itself, on trial, to every wise man. But whatever we do for God is in itself unworthy of his regard. And we ought to avoid giving others any ground to misapprehend his greatness and glory: yea, should bring all that we can to admire and adore him, and use their help in promoting his honour. And let us now rejoice that the Gentiles are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—The more God does for us, the more we ought to do for him, in order to testify our affection and gratitude. A reign, or an undertaking, begun with the solemn service of God, and with earnest prayer for his direction and assistance, is likely to turn out happily. And great is the influence of a good magistrate's example. It is not outward appearances, but inward desires, that most certainly characterize persons. And, if we have faith, we shall count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ, and for skill to serve him in our station. And, as the eminency of our predecessors or stations render remarkable qualifications necessary, so the infinite mercy of our God, and his promise, encourage us to seek such things. God readily gives his people exceedingly above what they ask or think: and the most disinterested prayers turn out most to our advantage: while those, who eagerly pursue the things of this world, are apt to lose them, or to have them 11 And the ^mwings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wing was likewise five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

12 And one wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wing was five cubits also, joining to the wing of the other cherub.

13 The wings of these cherubims spread themselves forth twenty cubits: and they stood on their feet, and their faces were ⁿinward.

CHAP. IV.

Much coincides with 1 Kings vii. Here we have (1) The brazen furniture for the temple; viz. the altar for burnt-offering; 1: the sea, and lavers to hold water for washing: 2—6, 10, 14, 15: the plates with which the doors of the court were overlaid; 9: the utensils for the brazen altar; 11, 16: the two pillars of brass, with their ornaments; 12, 13: and the place where they were cast; 17. (2) The golden furniture; viz. the ten new candlesticks; ten new tables of shew-bread; 7, 8: the altar of incense; 19: the appurtenances; 20—22: and the covering of the doors of the sanctuary and oracle; 22.

MOREOVER, he made an ^aaltar of brass; twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof.

2 ¶ ^bAlso he made a molten sea of ten cubits from brim to brim round in compass, and five cubits the height thereof, and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

3 ^aAnd under it was the similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit compassing the sea round about. Two rows of oxen were cast when it was cast.

4 It stood ^uupon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickness of it was an handbreadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, ^{*}with flowers of lilies; and it received and held three thousand baths.

6 ¶ He made also ^eten lavers, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them: [†]such things as they offered for the burnt-offering they washed in them; but the sea was for the priests to wash in.

7 And he made ^eten candlesticks of gold according to their form, and set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 He made also ^tten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left. And he made an hundred [†]basons of gold.

9 ¶ Furthermore, he made ^tthe court of the priests, and the great ^kcourt, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with brass.

10 And he ^set the sea on the right side of the east end, over against the south.

11 ¶ And Hiram made ^mthe pots, and the shovels, and the ^{||}basons. And Hiram ^{*}finished the work that he was to make for king Solomon for the house of God;

12 To wit, ⁿthe two pillars, and the pommels, and the chapters which were on the top of the two pillars, and the two wreaths to cover the two pommels of the chapters, which were on the top of the pillars;

13 ^aAnd four hundred pomegranates on the two wreaths; two rows of pomegranates on each wreath, to cover the two pommels of the chapters which were upon the pillars.

14 He ^pmade also bases; and [†]lavers made he upon the bases:

15 ^aOne sea, and twelve oxen under it.

16 The ^pots also, and the shovels, and the flesh-hooks, and all their instruments, did Hiram his father make to

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Every circumstance in the worship of God must be ordered according to his appointment: and, if God meet with us in a place or ordinance, let us hope that he will do it again, if it be for his glory and our good. Meanwhile, let me consider Jesus, who came in the promised time and spot, as the great temple of our fellowship with God. The dignity, glory, fulness, and usefulness, of his person, particularly in his exalted state, infi-nately transcends this astonishing structure of Solomon: and angels, ministers, and saints shall always admire his glory. With respect to the temple of his church, of his saints, and of heaven, he is the foundation, the wall, the door, the pillars, the ark, the table, the altars, the light, the sea, the laver, yea, the ALL in ALL!

king Solomon for the house of the LORD of bright brass.

17 In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 Thus Solomon made all these vessels in great abundance: for the weight of the brass could not be found out.

19 ¶ And Solomon made all the vessels that were for the house of God, the golden altar also, and the tables whereon the shew-bread was set;

20 Moreover, the candlesticks with their lamps, that they should burn after the manner before the oracle, of pure gold;

21 And the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs, made he of gold, and that perfect gold;

22 And the snuffers, and the basins, and the spoons, and the censers, of pure gold: and the entry of the house, the inner doors thereof for the most holy place, and the doors of the house of the temple were of gold.

CHAP. V.

Coincides with 1 Kings vii.; 51: and viii.; 1—11. The temple being finished and furnished, (1) Possession of it is given to God, by carrying in the dedicated things; and especially the ark, the chief symbol of his presence; 1—10. (2) He takes possession of it, entering into it in the symbol of a glorious cloud, which settled over the ark, between the cherubims, in the ORACLE OF MOST HOLY PLACE; 11—14.

THUS all the work that Solomon made for the house of the LORD was finished: and Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the silver, and the gold, and all the instruments, put he among the treasures of the house of God.

2 ¶ Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

3 Wherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king in the feast which was in the seventh month.

4 And all the elders of Israel came; and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, these did the priests and the Levites bring up.

6 Also king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, to the oracle of the house, into the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims:

8 For the cherubims spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

9 And they drew out the staves of the ark, that the ends of the staves were seen from the ark before the oracle; but they were not seen without. And there it is unto this day,

10 There was nothing in the ark save the two tables which Moses put therein at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place: (for all the priests that were present were sanctified, and did not then wait by course:

12 Also the Levites who were the singers, all of them of Asaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their sons and their brethren, being arrayed in white linen, having cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, stood at the east end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty priests sounding with trumpets:)

13 It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD; and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals, and instruments of music, and praised the LORD, saying, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the LORD;

14 So that the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of God.

CHAP. VI.

Coincides with 1 Kings viii.; 12—53. The glory of the Lord having entered the temple, (1) Solomon blesses and encourages the people: and solemnly blesses God for the exact fulfilment of his promise to David; 1—11. (2) Solemnly supplicates that God would hear, and graciously answer, all the prayers which should be regularly made in or towards this temple, whether in case of OATHS, DEFEATS, FAMINES, PESTILENCES, OR CAPTIVITY; 12—42.

THEN said Solomon, the LORD hath said that he would dwell in the thick darkness.

2 But I have built an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and blessed the whole congregation of Israel; (and all the congregation of Israel stood;)

4 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—What a mercy is it that Jesus, his church, and heavenly state, are suited to his people's condition! As the great atonement, and as the fountain which cleaves from all sin, he is openly exhibited before us, and accessible to us, in the ordinances of the gospel. By him, as such, we have access to dwell in God's house, enjoy his light, feed on his fulness, and live by his intercession, through which our services are accepted. Yea, under the gospel we have more than a tenfold exhibition of Christ, in his cleansing virtue, his illuminating and soul-nourishing influence. He can make all tempers, gifts, and graces, useful in his church, brass as well as gold. And great is their honour who lay out their eminent gifts in the service of Christ.

• There were ten times as many lavers, candlesticks, and tables of shew-bread, in the temple as in the tabernacle.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—If we would inherit our godly parents' blessings, we must religiously pursue their intentions. Dedicated things must never be alienated from the Lord's service. The most regularly framed and furnished churches are but desolate if they want the presence of Jesus Christ, the ark of God's strength, and the glory of his Father in him. But his faithful people, according to his promise shall have him with them always unto the end of the world. And, if God favour us with his Christ, and himself in him, we ought exceedingly to rejoice in and thank him; as then we shall taste joys unspeakable and full of glory. When every thing else is put out of God's room, and we become hearty and unanimous in our prayers and praises, we may expect astonishing discoveries of his glory in our second, our great temple, Christ in whom dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily!

fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there; neither chose I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel:

6 But I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there; and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

7 Now it was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

8 But the LORD said to David my father, Forasmuch as it was in thine heart to build an house for my name, thou didst well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithstanding, thou shalt not build the house; but thy son, which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath spoken: for I am risen up in the room of David my father, and am set on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built the house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

11 And in it have I put the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD that he made with the children of Israel.

12 And he stood before the altar of the LORD, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands;

13 (For Solomon had made a brazen scaffold, of five cubits long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had set it in the midst of the court; and upon it he stood, and kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands towards heaven;)

14 And said, O LORD God of Israel, there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth, who keepest covenant, and shewest mercy unto thy servants, that walk before thee with all their hearts;

15 Thou who hast kept with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him; and spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him, saying, There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel; yet so that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Israel, let thy word be verified which thou hast spoken unto thy servant David.

18 But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? behold, heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built!

19 Have respect therefore to the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which thy servant prayeth before thee:

20 That thine eyes may be open upon this house day and night, upon the place whereof thou hast said that thou wouldest put thy name there; to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant prayeth toward this place.

21 Hearken therefore unto the supplications of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which they shall make toward this place: hear thou from thy dwelling place, even from heaven; and, when thou hearest, forgive.

22 If a man sin against his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to make him swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house;

23 Then hear thou from heaven, and do, and judge thy servants, by requiting the wicked, by recompensing his way upon his own head; and by justifying the righteous, by giving him according to his righteousness.

24 And if thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee; and shall return and confess thy name, and pray and make supplication before thee in this house;

25 Then hear thou from the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest to them and to their fathers.

26 When the heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; yet if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin when thou dost afflict them;

27 Then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, when thou hast taught them the good way wherein they should walk; and send rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people for an inheritance.

28 If there be dearth in the land, if there be pestilence, if there be blasting, or mildew, locusts, or caterpillars; if their enemies besiege them in the cities of their land; whatsoever sore or whatsoever sickness there be;

29 Then what prayer, or what supplication soever shall be made of any man, or of all thy people Israel, when every one shall know his own sore and his own grief, and shall spread forth his hands in this house:

30 Then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive, and render unto every man according unto all his ways, whose heart thou knowest: (for thou only knowest the hearts of the children of men:)

31 That they may fear thee, to walk in thy ways, so long as they live in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for; that all ^m people of the earth may know thy name, and fear thee, as doth thy people Israel, and may know that ⁿ this house which I have built is called by thy name.

34 ¶ "If thy people go out to war against their enemies by the way that thou shalt send them, and they ^o pray unto thee toward this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name;

35 Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and ^p maintain their ^q cause.

36 ¶ "If they sin against thee, (for ^r there is ^s no man which sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before ^t their enemies, and ^u they carry them away captives unto a land far off or near;

37 Yet, if ^v they ^w bethink themselves in the land whither they are carried captive, and turn and pray unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done amiss, and have dealt wickedly;

38 If they return to thee ^x with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land which thou gavest unto their fathers, and ^y toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house which I have built for thy name;

39 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling place, their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their ^z cause, and forgive thy people which have sinned against thee.

40 ¶ Now, ^a my God, let, I beseech thee, thine eyes be open, and ^b let thine ears be attent ^c unto the prayer that is made in this place.

41 Now ^d therefore arise, O Lord God, into thy resting place, thou, and the ^e ark of thy strength: let thy priests, O LORD God, be clothed with ^f salvation, and let thy saints ^g rejoice in goodness.

52 O LORD God, turn not away the face of ^h thine anointed: ⁱ remember the mercies of David thy servant.

CHAP. VII.

Coincides with 1 Kings viii. ; 62—66. and ix. ; 1—9. It contains God's answer to Solomon's prayer. (1) His public answer in the descent of fire from heaven to burn the sacrifices; and in the filling of the house with his glory, which affected both priests and people with solemn awe and gratitude; 1—3: and made them observe a sacred festival of fourteen days; 4—11.

(2) His private answer to Solomon; in which he testified his acceptance of his prayer, and stated the blessings which would attend his and his subjects obedience, and the curses which would attend their rebellion and apostasy; 12—22.

NOW, ^j when Solomon had made an end of praying, the ^k fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt-offering and the sacrifices; and the ^l glory of the LORD filled the house.

2 And the priests ^m could not enter into the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD had filled the LORD's house.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw how the fire came down, and the glory of the LORD upon the house, they ⁿ bowed themselves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worshipped, and praised the LORD, saying, ^o For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 ¶ Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the LORD.

5 And king Solomon ^p offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

^q And the priests waited on their offices: the Levites also with instruments of music of the LORD, which David the king had made to praise the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever, when David praised ^r by their ministry: and the priests ^s sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

7 Moreover, ^t Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because the brazen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat.

8 ¶ Also at the same time Solomon kept ^u the feast seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, ^v from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt.

9 And on the ^w eighth day they made ^x a solemn assembly: for they kept the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast seven days.

10 And on the ^y three and twentieth day of the seventh month he sent the people away into their tents, ^z glad and merry in heart for the goodness that the LORD had shewed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Israel his people.

11 Thus ^a Solomon finished the house of the LORD, and the king's house: and all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of the LORD, and in his own house, he prosperously effected.

12 ¶ And the ^b LORD appeared to Solomon by night, and said unto him, I have ^c heard thy prayer, and ^d have chosen

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—How honourable is it when we perform great enterprises, not from pride, but in prosecution of our parents' gracious purposes, and to fulfil the promise, obey the command, and honour the name, of the Lord! And while we view this temple as a figure of Christ, let us, whether Jews or Gentiles, deal with God only through him. Let us have fixed views of God's infinite perfection, power, faithfulness, omnipresence, omniscience, and of our own meanness and vileness before him! Let us trust in, love, fear, and honour, this God of infinite excellencies. In a regard to his holiness, and heart-searching eye, let us indulge no secret pollution. And, conscious of our sinfulness, let us make solemn prayer our first and our last resource in all our straits. Even when distress has driven us to him, he will in no wise cast us out. His unbounded forgiveness will make way for all necessary mercies to us. For, though we may not expect to be heard for the sake of our prayers, yet must we not expect to be heard without them. And thanks be to God that Gentile strangers have an open and free access to him, even to his seat. Happy is that church where all ranks, princes, ministers, and people, are under the special influence of God, as their own and their father's God in Christ. Great is their salvation, and sweet their joy.

this place to myself for an house of sacrifice.

13 If "I shut up heaven that there be no rain, or if I command the locust to devour the land, or if I send pestilence among my people;

14 If my people, who are called by my name, shall ^{*}humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

15 Now ^ymine eyes shall be open, and mine ears attent [‡]unto the prayer that is made in this place.

16 For now have ^{*}I chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for ever: and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually.

17 And as for thee, ^{*}if thou wilt walk before me as David thy father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and shalt observe my statutes and my judgments;

18 Then will I stablish the throne of thy kingdom, ^baccording as I have covenanted with David thy father, saying, There shall not fail thee a man to be ruler in Israel.

19 ^cBut, if ye turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and worship them;

20 Then will I ^dpluck them up by the roots out of my land which I have given them; and this house, which I have sanctified for my name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it ^eto be a proverb and a by-word among all nations.

21 And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to ^fevery one that passeth by it; so that he shall say, ^gWhy hath the LORD done thus unto this land and unto this house?

22 And it shall be answered, Because they ^bforsook the LORD God of their fathers, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods, and worshipped them, and served them; ⁱtherefore hath he brought all this evil upon them.

CHAP. VIII.

Mostly coincides with 1 Kings ix.; 10-28. We are informed (1) What cities Solomon built; 1-6. (2) What workmen he employed; 7-10. (3) What care he took to settle his Egyptian queen; 11. (4) By what religious example and injunctions he established the temple worship; 12-16. (5) What profitable trade he carried on with foreign countries; 17, 18.

AND ^{*}it came to pass, at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the house of the LORD, and his own house,

2 That the cities which Hiram ^bhad restored to Solomon, Solomon built them, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there.

3 And Solomon went to ^cHamath-zobah, and prevailed against it.

4 And he built ^dTadmor in the wilderness, and all the store cities which he built in Hamath.

5 Also he built ^eBeth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced cities, with walls, gates, and bars;

6 And ^fBaalath, and all the store cities that Solomon had, and all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and ^gall that Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

7 ¶ ^hAs for all the people that were left of the ^bHittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which were not of Israel;

8 ⁱBut of their children who were left after them in the land, ^jwhom the children of Israel consumed not; them did Solomon make ^kto pay tribute until this day.

9 But ^lof the children of Israel did Solomon make no servants for his work; but they were men of war, and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horsemen.

10 And these were the chief of king Solomon's officers, even ^mtwo hundred and fifty, that bare rule over the people.

11 ¶ And Solomon ⁿbrought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David unto the house that he had built for her: for he said, My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, because the places are ^{*}holy whereunto the ark of the LORD hath come.

12 ¶ Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on ^othe altar of the LORD, which he had built before the porch;

13 Even after a certain rate every ^pday, offering according to the commandment of Moses, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the solemn feasts, ^qthree times in the year, even in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles.

14 ¶ And he appointed, according to the order of David his father, the ^rcourses of the priests to their service, and the Levites to their charges, to praise and minister before the priests, as the duty of every day required: the porters also by their courses at every gate: for ^sso had David the man of God commanded.

15 And they departed not from the commandment of the king unto the priests and Levites concerning any matter, or concerning ^tthe treasures.

16 ¶ Now all the work of Solomon was ^uprepared unto the day of the foundation of the house of the LORD, and until it was finished: so the house of the LORD was perfected.

17 ¶ Then went Solomon to ^vEzion-geber, and to ^wEloth, at the sea side in the land of Edom.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VIII.—In the most profound peace we had need to prepare for war, spiritual or temporal. It is an honour for kings to manifest the utmost regard for their subjects. How certainly, however slowly, Noah's curse of servitude fixes at last upon the descendants of Canaan! They become slaves to the offspring of Shem, through the influence of the Lord his God.

It is necessary to set bounds to our desires after created things, as they are apt to become inordinate and insatiable. It is no less necessary to keep up proper hands of his servants; ships, and servants that had knowledge of the sea; and they went with the servants of Solomon to ^aOphir, and took thence four ^bhundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon.

CHAP. IX.

Coincides with 1 Kings x. and iv.; 25. and xi.; 41—43. Here is (1) The honour which the queen of Sheba did to Solomon, in visiting him to hear his wisdom; and her satisfaction therein; 1—12. (2) Many instances of his riches, splendour, and fame; his sacred terraces, and instruments of music; his golden targets and shields; his ivory throne, and golden footstool; his drinking vessels of gold; his rich and curious traffic; his fine horses and horsemen; the rich presents brought him; his wide-spread fame for wisdom; 10, 11, 13—28. (3) Death puts an end to this glory of him and his kingdom; 29—31.

AND, ^awhen the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to ^bprove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bare spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones: and, when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

2 And Solomon told her all her ^{*}questions: and there was nothing ^chid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And, when the queen of Sheba had seen the ^dwisdom of Solomon, and the ^ehouse that he had built,

4 And ^fthe meat of his table, and the ^gfitting of his servants, and the ^hattendance of his ministers, and their apparel; his ⁱcup-bearers also, and their apparel; and his ^jascent by which he went up into the house of the LORD; there was no more spirit in her.

5 And she said to the king, It was a true ^kreport which I heard in mine own land of thine ^{*}acts, and of thy wisdom:

6 Howbeit, I ^lbelieved not their words until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the one half of the greatness of thy wisdom was not told me; for thou [†]exceedest the fame that I heard.

7 [†]Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom.

8 ^mBlessed be the LORD thy God, who delighted in thee to set thee on ⁿhis throne, to be king for the LORD thy God: because thy God loved Israel, to establish them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and justice.

9 And ^oshe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance, and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

10 And the servants also of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon, which brought gold from Ophir, brought ^palgum trees and precious stones.

11 And the king made ^qof the algum trees ^rterraces to the house of the LORD, and to the king's palace, and harps and psalteries for singers: and there were none such seen before in the land of Judah.

12 ^rAnd king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, beside that which she had brought unto the king. So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants.

13 ¶ Now the ^sweight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and threescore and six talents of gold;

14 Beside that which chapmen and merchants brought. And all the ^tkings of Arabia, and ^ugovernors of the country, brought gold and silver to Solomon.

15 ¶ And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: ^{*}six hundred shekels of beaten gold went to one target.

16 And three hundred shields made ^vof beaten gold: [†]three hundred shekels of gold went to one shield. And the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

17 ¶ Moreover, ^{*}the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with pure gold.

18 And there were six steps to the throne, with a footstool of gold, which were fastened to the throne, and [‡]stays on each side of the sitting place, and two lions standing by the stays:

19 And ^ytwelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other, upon the six steps. There was not the like made in any kingdom.

20 ¶ And ^zall the drinking vessels of king Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of ^{||}pure gold: ^{*}none were of silver; it was not any thing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

21 For the king's ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram: every three years ^aonce came the ships of Tarshish, bringing gold, and silver, [†]ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

22 And king Solomon ^bpassed all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom.

23 ¶ And all the kings of the earth ^csought the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his ^dpresent, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and raiment, harness, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

25 ¶ And Solomon ^ehad four thousand stalls for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen; whom he bestowed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

26 ¶ And he ^freigned over all the kings, from the [‡]river even unto the

CHAP. X.

Coincides with 1 Kings xii.; 1-19: where we find (1) How wickedly the Israelites complained of Solomon's oppression; 1-4. (2) How foolishly Rehoboam, misled by his young counsellors, treated their complaint, and threatened to oppress them more; 5-15. (3) How basely the Israelites forsook Rehoboam; 16-19. (4) How God, by Rehoboam's folly, and the Israelites' rebellion, fulfilled his purpose and promise; 15.

8 But ^ahe forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye that we may return answer to this people which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us; thus shalt thou say unto them, ^aMy little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 For, whereas my father ^aput a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them ^aroughly; and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men;

14 And answered them ^aafter the advice of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people; for the ^acause was of God, that the LORD might perform his word, which he spake by the ^ahand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

16 ¶ And, when all Israel saw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people answered the king, saying, ^aWhat portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to your tents, O Israel: and now, David, see to thine own house. So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But, as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent ^aHadoram, that was over the tribute; and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. But king Rehoboam ^amade speed to get him up to his ^achariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 And Israel rebelled against the house of David ^aunto this day.

CHAP. XI.

Partly coincides with 1 Kings xii.; 21-24. Here is (1) Rehoboam's rash attempt to reduce the ten revolted tribes, and his Israel—chosen through the love of the eternal Father—and placed to do justice and judgment, and to establish his people in eternal glory.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. X.—The best of rulers cannot give every one content. Men are readier to complain of the expense of government than to acknowledge the benefit which they receive from it: and turbulent and ungateful spirits will find fault where they can scarcely find the shadow of a reason. Young heads are ordinarily too hot to be wise counsellors: and many ruin their own interests by trampling on and provoking their inferiors. Moderate counsels are generally the most safe and prudent. Soft answers disarm men's passions, when harsh ones render them furious: and, when the affairs of church or state are in a ferment, rough proceedings do but make them worse and worse. Most men need no more to ruin them than to be given up to their own pride and passion. But O the wisdom and power of God, who can fulfil his counsels by men's folly and fury! Very uncertain are all earthly enjoyments, nor can the wisest secure them to his next heir. God often visits the iniquity of the fathers upon the children: but, amidst all the heat of his anger, he never breaks his promise.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IX.—God honours such as honour him. They, who know the value of divine wisdom and truth, will grudge no pains to search for it. They only are truly great, whose piety and zeal for God distinguish them. And whatever gifts we enjoy, they are but lent us for the edifying of the body of Christ, and ought to be employed with diligence and care. How comely is good, and especially religious, order in families, particularly those of princes! Happy are they who have constant access to, and intimacy with, the intelligent and zealous fearers of God! And we ought to be thankful for the gifts and graces of God to others; especially if made instrumental for our good. Great souls are ever generous; and ought to be so, according to their stations and ability. But not the most engaging things on earth ought long to detain us from that home, in which God calls us to act for his glory. What a transient blaze is all the glory and wealth of earth! Ere it be long, Solomon's family shall be poor and condemned. Yet God seems, as it were, unwilling to remember those sins against Solomon, or any of his people, of which they have sincerely repented. What a sudden gloom death spreads over the brightest honours on earth! But rejoice, my soul, that Jesus has wisdom, has wealth, has glory, and fame, which neither death nor eternity can ever sully or consume! Of him it may truly be said, the half has not been told us. Happy are they that wait around this exalted King of REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XI.—How often is war too rashly undertaken! But it is in vain to withstand the purposes of God. And it is honourable to drop our darling attempts when he requires it. It is more prudent to make the best we can of what we have, and to take all lawful pains to secure it, than to fight for more. When nations are forsaking God, his faithful ministers are often singularly distressed; and yet none are more useful for strengthening a kingdom that deals kindly with them. It is proper that those who fear God should leave their country when his ministers and worship are expelled from it. No secular advantage ought to carry or keep us where we must make shipwreck of faith and a good conscience. That is really best for us which is best for our souls. And, in all our choices, religion should take the lead of outward advantages. If for God's sake we forsake our worldly all, we shall one day find ourselves great gainers. Such as suffer for righteousness' sake ought to be received by us with open arms. And never should we cleave more closely to Christ's faithful ministers than when they are persecuted. Seasons of persecution especially distinguish the precious from the vile. Nothing so strengthens a nation as when all ranks concur to walk in the way of the Lord. But alas! how often do princes weaken their kingdoms, by their indulgence of sinful lust and following of long-rooted customs! And happy is it if those, who begin foolishly, would but end wisely in the right disposal of their children or their property!

8 Nevertheless, they shall be his servants; that they may know ^{my} service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.

9 So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took away the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king's house; he took all; he carried away also the shields of gold which Solomon had made.

10 Instead of which ^{king} Rehoboam made shields of brass, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that kept the entrance of the king's house.

11 And, when the king entered into the house of the Lord, the guard came and fetched them, and brought them again into the guard chamber.

12 And ^{when} he humbled himself the wrath of the Lord turned from him, that he would not destroy him altogether: ^{and} also in Judah things went well.

13 ¶ So king Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the Lord had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

14 And he did evil, because he ^{pre-}pared not his heart to ^{seek} the Lord.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the book of Shemaiah the prophet, and of Iddo the seer, concerning genealogies? ^{And} there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

16 And Rehoboam ^{slept} with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David: and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XIII.

Here Abijah, who was no better than his father, succeeds to the crown, and is more successful in his war with Jeroboam.

(1) Huge armies are brought into the field on both sides, in order to decide the quarrel; 1—3. (2) Before the battle Abijah remonstrates to the Israelites as to the injustice and danger of their cause, and the equity and hopefulness of his own; 4—12. (3) Meanwhile, Jeroboam, having a double number of troops, surrounds Abijah's army, and puts them into great terror and distress; 13, 14. (4) In their distress they cry unto the Lord for help, and obtain a most remarkable victory, with part of the Israelites' territory; 14—19. (5) In consequence of this, Jeroboam's spirits continued under a depression till he died; Abijah waxed mighty, and his family increased; 20—22.

¹ Kin. 15. 1, 2. NOW ^ain the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was ^bMichaiah the daughter of Uriel of ^cGibeah. And REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XII.—They, who in adversity appear faithful for God, often forsake him in their prosperity. Nay earthly prosperity is a common occasion of ruin to the soul.—Human supports and fenced cities prove but refuges of lies when God withdraws or becomes our destroyer. And, to punish men's sins, he often turns their old friends, or even relations, into inveterate enemies. God's word comes to men with peculiar advantage when awakening providences concur with it: and stupid and self-conceited sinners must have the plainest providences explained to them before they understand them. They, whom the Lord hath left, ought to blame themselves as the guilty cause, and to humble themselves under his mighty hand: for it is vain to project means of defence if we continue unhumiliated for our sins. The greatest kings and princes must either be humbled or ruined: and we are never humbled aright till we justify God in our sufferings. But how God's bowels yearn towards repenting prodigals! How forward he is to meet them with merciful deliverances who humble themselves before him! Whenever we have hearts humbled under troubles, they have done their work, and shall either be removed, or have their na-there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

3 And Abijah ^{*set} the battle in array with an army of valiant men of war, ^{even} four hundred thousand chosen men: Jeroboam also set the battle in array against him with eight hundred thousand chosen men, ^{being} mighty men of valour.

4 ¶ And Abijah stood up upon mount Zemaraim, which is in mount Ephraim, and said, [¶]Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Israel;

5 Ought ye not to know that the Lord God of Israel ^{gave} the kingdom over Israel to David for ever, ^{even} to him and to his sons by ^acovenant of salt?

6 Yet Jeroboam the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon the son of David, is risen up, and hath ^{rebelled} against his lord.

7 And there are gathered unto him vain men, the children of Belial, and have strengthened themselves against Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was ^{young} and tender hearted, and ^{could} not withstand them.

8 And now ye think to withstand ^{the} kingdom of the Lord in the hand of the sons of David; and ye ^{be} ^agreat multitude, and ^{there} are with you golden calves, which Jeroboam made you for gods.

9 [¶]Have ye not cast out the priests of the Lord, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have ^{made} your priests after the manner of the nations of ^{other} lands? so that, whosoever cometh ^{to} consecrate himself with a young bullock and seven rams, ^{the same} may be a priest of ^{them} that are no gods.

10 But as for us, ^{the} Lord is our God, and we have not forsaken him; and the priests which minister unto the Lord are ^{the} sons of Aaron, and the Levites ^{wait} upon ^{their} business:

11 [¶]And they burn unto the Lord every morning and every evening burnt-sacrifices and sweet incense: the ^{shew-}bread also ^{set} ^{they} in order upon the pure table; and ^{the} candlestick of gold with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening: for we keep the charge of the Lord our God; but ye have forsaken him.

12 And, behold, God himself is with us ^{for} ^{our} captain, and his priests with ^{sounding} trumpets to cry alarm against you. O children of Israel, ^{fight} ye not against the Lord God of your fathers; for ye shall not prosper.

13 ¶ But Jeroboam caused ^{an} ambushment to come about behind them:

ture altered into tokens of kindness. And it is a great mercy to a sinful people if God but grant a partial deliverance. It is well if the guilt be removed though we should smart in the flesh for it. They, who reckon God as a master, and his service burdensome, will find the slavery and wages of lusts but a miserable exchange. It is far more honourable and safe to end the utmost hardships in obeying God than to risk the punishments of disobedience. But how easily God can restrain the fury of the most outrageous conquerors by his invisible arm, and set limits to their ravages! And happy is when, in evil times, he preserves a remnant for himself. Judgments, which make us to learn righteousness, are mercies in disguise. But if our heart is not engaged in the service of God, all is naught. They, who never had their heart fixed to him, and never made real religion their principal business, are easily drawn to any thing evil. Though God's judgments may force men to their prayers, nothing but almighty grace can convert them to himself. Alas! how many in his church do but cumber the ground while they live, in a moment go down to their grave!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIII.—What multitudes do wicked princes render subservient to their lusts! Before men proceed to the extremities of war, every peaceable method of accommodation ought to be tried; as, at least, all the death on the one side is murder, and often so on both. Many can talk finely of God and his service, who have no heart love to them, or any correspondent practice. What an advantage in war is it to have a righteous cause and a powerful and gracious God on our side; and when we evidence it by not forsaking him, but by cleaving to his ministers and ordinances! But dangerous is their case who have ambition that cannot be satisfied, and who are emboldened by mere success! Prosperous iniquity is but a short-lived joy. They, who have God their enemy, will find all human efforts in vain. And the fair warnings, that render them inexcusable in their obstinacy, will occasion their more distinguished ruin. How often princes are occupied in laying ambushments of war and death, when they should be treating of solid and lasting peace! But earnest supplications to God are more powerful than carnal stratagems: and he often lets his people fall into the most imminent danger, to awaken their cries, exercise their faith, and make their deliverance the more glorious. But, if we are enabled to trust in him, we shall not be moved. The prayer of faith and shouts of victory are inseparable. Civil wars and disputes among brethren are generally the most bitter and bloody: and what multitudes of souls doth a furious war hurry headlong and thoughtless into an eternal state, and most of them into the depths of hell! Nor can the mightiest escape the strokes of God's wrath and darts of death.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIV.—What a mercy to a church and nation are pious and reforming princes! And it is comely and pleasing when those, who attempt to reform others, shew themselves proper patterns of virtue and devotion: when they act with due patience and prudence, as well as holy zeal; seeking to draw men from their abominations, without offering violence to their persons. However difficult or dangerous it may appear to repress the torrent of iniquity, zeal for God, and dependance on his assistance, will work wonders. Nay, when princes act with due steadiness and zeal in the suppression of profaneness and idolatry, they often find less difficulty than they at first imagined. Men's consciences side with the reforming laws, even while their inclinations are against them. Outward peace and prosperity must be considered as a great mercy. And this reward of fidelity to, and trust in, God, should be improved to promote true religion: yet in the most profound peace it is proper to prepare for war: the clouds will return after the rain. God often tries his people with great danger and distress while they are proceeding in their duty in the work of reformation; but there is no craft or might that can prevail against the Lord and his God. And in such cases he is ready to answer their prayer of faith, and grant them an easy victory over their enemies, spiritual or temporal. But how dreadful is the guilt of princes who rashly hurry multitudes of their subjects into ruin, death, and hell! Often they, who assist the Lord's enemies against his people, share in their just punishments: and the wealth of the sinner is laid up for the just.

land; 8: and, having sacrificed part of their spoil; 9—11: dedicate themselves to God by solemn covenant; and agree that, according to God's law, obstinate idolaters shall be put to death; 12—15. The court is purged, and Maachah, the queen mother, deposed for her idolatry; 16. The dedicated things are laid up in the temple; 18. But still the high places, erected in Solomon's old age, remain; 17. (3) Great peace attends this reformation; 19.

AND the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded:

2 And he went out *to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin; The LORD is with you while ye be with him; and, if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but, if ye forsake him, he will forsake you.

3 Now for a long season Israel hath been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law.

4 But, when they in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them.

5 And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries.

6 And nation was destroyed of nation, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adversity.

7 Be ye strong therefore, and let not your hands be weak; for your work shall be rewarded.

8 ¶ And, when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the LORD that was before the porch of the LORD.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that the LORD his God was with him.

10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa.

11 And they offered unto the LORD at the same time, of the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep.

12 And they entered into a covenant to seek the LORD God of their fathers with all their heart and with all their soul;

13 That whosoever would not seek the LORD God of Israel should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman.

14 And they swore unto the LORD with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath: for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought him with their whole desire; and he was found of them: and the LORD gave them rest round about.

16 ¶ And also concerning Maachah the mother of Asa the king, he removed her from being queen, because she had made an idol in a grove: and Asa cut down her idol, and stamped it, and burned it at the brook Kidron.

17 But the high places were not taken away out of Israel: nevertheless, the heart of Asa was perfect all his days.

18 ¶ And he brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicated, and that he himself had dedicated; silver, and gold, and vessels.

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa.

CHAP. XVI.

Represents the latter end of Asa's reign as worse than the beginning. Here is (1) His foolish and sinful league with Ben-hadad king of Syria against Baasha and the Israelites; 1—6. (2) God's rebuke of him for this by Hanani, and his persecution of the prophet for his faithfulness; 7—10. (3) His sickness; bad behaviour in it; death, and honourable burial; 11—14.

IN the six and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come into Asa king of Judah.

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the LORD and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

3 There is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent thee silver and gold; go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of his armies against the cities of Israel; and they smote Tjon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store cities of Naphtali.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah; and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was building; and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, Because thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand.

8 Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubims a huge host, with very many chariots and horsemen? yet, because thou entered themselves and us. Public covenanting with God is of great use in times of reformation; and ought always to be grounded on the covenant of grace and the great sacrifice of Jesus Christ; performed with much knowledge, faith, integrity, delight, and cheerfulness: and nothing engaged to in it but what is plainly warranted by God. It is both an honour and happiness for nations to be under such vows. And great care, faithfulness, and impartiality, ought to be exercised in extirpating idolatry, and in punishing obstinate idolaters for their treasonable rebellion against God, the King of kings. National piety procures national happiness; yet none experience the real pleasures of religion but such as are sincere and upright in it: to such, though they be not sinless, God's service brings its own comfort and reward along with it.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XV.—Let me observe that God grants peace and victory to his people to animate them to their duty; that none ever seek him in vain; but that the case of churches and nations is extremely bad when God forsakes them; and that the hurt which we or others have sustained by sin ought to deter us from it. God's work must be done with unanimity, cheerfulness, and resolution; and we must draw as many as we can into it. He must be served with the first and best of what providence brings to our hand. And all our religious performances are to no purpose except they be hearty and sincere. Notwithstanding the high obligations of God's law on our consciences to the whole of our duty, it is often necessary that we bind our souls to it by bonds, oaths, and covenants, with God, in order to fortify us against temptation, and engage us to holiness: or to renew those public covenants into which our fathers didst rely on the LORD, he delivered them into thine hand.

9 For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to shew himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him. Herein thou hast done foolishly: therefore from henceforth thou shalt have wars.

10 Then Asa was wroth with the seer, and put him in a prison house; for he was in a rage with him because of this thing. And Asa oppressed some of the people the same time.

11 And, behold, the acts of Asa, first and last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa, in the thirty and ninth year of his reign, was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians.

13 And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign.

14 And they buried him in his own sepulchres, which he had made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odours and divers kinds of spices prepared by the apothecaries' art: and they made a very great burning for him.

CHAP. XVII.

Here Asa is succeeded by Jehoshaphat, his pious son. Here is

(1) His accession to, and establishment on, the throne; 1, 2, 5. (2) His personal piety; 3, 4, 6. (3) His labour, by the princes and Levites, to promote piety in his kingdom; 7-9. (4) The mighty way he had among his neighbouring princes; 10, 11. (5) The prodigious strength of his kingdom in garrisons and other forces; 12-19.

AND Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and strengthened himself against Israel.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah and the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken.

3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim;

4 But sought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandment, and not after the doings of Israel:

5 Therefore the LORD established the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah brought to Jehoshaphat presents; and he had riches and honour in abundance.

6 And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD: moreover, he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.

7 Also, in the third year of his reign, he sent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Mithai, to teach in the cities of Judah.

8 And with them he sent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Elishama and Jehoram, priests.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And the fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat.

11 Also some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute silver; and the Arabians brought him flocks, seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred he goats.

12 And Jehoshaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah castles and cities of store.

13 And he had much business in the cities of Judah: and the men of war, mighty men of valour, were in Jerusalem.

14 And these are the numbers of them according to the house of their fathers: Of Judah, the captains of thousands: Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour three hundred thousand.

15 And next to him was Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and fourscore thousand.

16 And next him was Amaziah the son of Zichri, who willingly offered himself unto the LORD, and with him two hundred thousand mighty men of valour.

17 And of Benjamin; Eliada a mighty man of valour, and with him armed men with bow and shield two hundred thousand.

18 And next him was Jehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourscore thousand ready prepared for the war.

19 These waited on the king, beside those whom the king put in the fenced cities throughout all Judah.

CHAP. XVIII.

Coincides with 1 Kings xxii.; 1-37: and represents (1) Jehoshaphat's sinful affinity with Ahab, feasting with him, and conwithstanding all their sad blemishes, the godly die in Christ, and must be had in honour by their survivors.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVII.—How glorious it is when remarkable piety and prosperity are so connected that they promote one another, and outward wealth and greatness lift up the heart to God!—when kings at the same time promote religion and advance the civil power of the nation!—when the personal piety of princes, and their zeal for reforming others, are equally conspicuous!—and when ministers and magistrates heartily concur in promoting the knowledge and fear of God! Religion is a reasonable service; and, in promoting reformation, we must begin with instruction in the truths of God as laid down in his word. No dictates of men, but the lively oracles of God must be produced as the ground of what we inculcate. What a powerful protection to nations is the terror of God impressed on their neighbours and enemies! No armed hosts are comparable to it. To what prodigious numbers had the Hebrews increased, had not their sin prevented it! and marvellous was the providence of God in maintaining such multitudes in so small a country as the lots of Judah and Benjamin!

NOW Jehoshaphat had riches and honour in abundance, and joined affinity with Ahab.

2 And after certain years he went down to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab killed sheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and persuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he answered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people; and we will be with thee in the war.

4 ¶ And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Inquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

5 Therefore the king of Israel gathered together of prophets four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up; for God will deliver it into the king's hand.

6 ¶ But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD besides, that we might inquire of him?

7 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man by whom we may inquire of the LORD; but I hate him, for he never prophesieth good unto me, but always evil: the same is Micaiah the son of Imla. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

8 And the king of Israel called for one of his officers, and said, Fetch quickly Micaiah the son of Imla.

9 And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah sat either of them on his throne, clothed in their robes, and they sat in a void place at the entering in of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied before them.

10 And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah had made him horns of iron, and said, Thus saith the LORD, With these thou shalt push Syria until they be consumed.

11 And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

12 And the messenger that went to call Micaiah spake to him, saying, Behold, the words of the prophets declare good to the king with one assent: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of their's, and speak thou good.

13 And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, even what my God saith, that will I speak.

14 And, when he was come to the king, the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And he said, Go ye up, and prosper, and they shall be delivered into your hand.

15 ¶ And the king said unto him, How many times shall I adjure thee that thou say nothing but the truth to me in the name of the LORD?

16 Then he said, I did see all Israel scattered upon the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd: and the LORD said, These have no master; let them return therefore every man to his house in peace.

17 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would not prophesy good unto me, but evil?

18 Again he said, Therefore hear the word of the LORD; I saw the LORD sitting upon his throne, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand and on his left.

19 And the LORD said, Who shall entice Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one spake, saying, after this manner, and another saying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will entice him. And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?

21 And he said, I will go out, and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD said, Thou shalt entice him, and thou shalt also prevail: go out, and do even so.

22 Now therefore, behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil against thee.

23 ¶ Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek, and said, Which way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

24 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see on that day when thou shalt go into an inner chamber to hide thyself.

25 Then the king of Israel said, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

26 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micaiah said, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD spoken by me. And he said, Harken, all ye people.

28 ¶ So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I will disguise myself, and will go to the battle; but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself; and they went to the battle.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, saying, Fight ye not with small or great, save only with the king of Israel.

31 And it came to pass, when the REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XVIII.—Marriages, founded on pride and worldly mindedness, bring dreadful miseries along with them: and the strongest expressions of friendship from wicked men are to be suspected as methods of serving themselves. Their feasts, as well as their kisses, are deceitful: and even the best men are apt to be ensnared by their caresses and flattery. Often, while such men ought, and profess, to consult the Lord, they do but really consult the devil and his agents. And they who are once become familiar with the wicked must involve themselves in great guilt and pollution; must often join in a patient hearing of the devil's preachers, and witness the injuries done to those who are faithful to Christ. But unhappy are those princes who are surrounded with flatterers and profane clergy! no plague is more ruinous. Let us therefore always encourage friends and ministers to deal faithfully with us. What astonishing power hath Satan, when God once gives up men to his awful delusions! Great multitudes, particularly of the clergy, he carries before him with great unanimity. But hard is the fate of God's faithful servants under rulers who are apostates from God, to be hated, reviled, buffeted, imprisoned, starved, or the like. Suffering for the truth is the hereditary portion of the honest servants of Christ. Yea, those godly persons who cultivate friendship with the wicked must not wonder if their lives are sought or endangered by their means, and their flatterers lay snares for their life. But righteous are the judgments of 8 ¶ Moreover, in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat set of the Levites, and of the priests, and of the chief of the fathers of Israel, for the judgment of the LORD, and for controversies, when they returned to Jerusalem.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye do in the fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a perfect heart.

10 And what cause soever shall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment, statutes and judgments, ye shall even warn them that they trespass not against the LORD, and so wrath come upon you, and upon your brethren: this do, and ye shall not trespass.

11 And, behold, Amariah the chief priest is over you in all matters of the LORD; and Zebadiah the son of Ishmael, the ruler of the house of Judah, for all the king's matters: also the Levites shall be officers before you. Deal courageously, and the LORD shall be with the good.

CHAP. XX.

While Jehoshaphat labours in promoting religion and liberty, he meets with an alarming trial, attended with a glorious issue.

(1) He and his kingdom are in the most imminent danger from a foreign invasion; 1, 2. (2) Their first attempt to avert it is by solemn fasting and supplication to God; 3—13. (3) God, by the prophet Jahaziel, assures them of a glorious victory and deliverance; 14—17. (4) They accept the declaration with faith and thankfulness; 18—21. (5) Influenced by God, their enemies kill one another, and leave them great spoil; 22—25. (6) The deliverance is acknowledged by solemn thanksgiving to God, and followed by great peace to the country; 26—30. (7) Jehoshaphat concludes his reign without removing the high places; and, after another sinful alliance with Ahaziah, Ahab's son, he dies; 31—37.

IT came to pass after this also, that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them other beside the Ammonites, came against Jehoshaphat to battle.

2 Then there came some that told Jehoshaphat, saying, There cometh a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea on this side Syria; and, behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is En-gedi.

3 And Jehoshaphat feared, and set himself to seek the LORD, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah.

4 And Judah gathered themselves together to ask help of the LORD: even out of all the cities of Judah they came to seek the LORD.

5 ¶ And Jehoshaphat stood in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD before the new court,

God, and exact his fulfilment of his predictions and threatenings. Men in vain contrive to escape when he has determined their fall.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XIX.—God often deals better with his people than they deserve; and brings them home in safety, when their apparently less endangered companions are sent into death and damnation! But they must expect if entering into friendship with the haters of God that it will expose them to manifold sufferings on earth, though not to hell. It is an honour when sufferings cannot discourage ministers or their children from faithfully reproving the greatest. And it is a great mercy for an offender to meet soon with a faithful reprover: and no less wise, to receive sharp reproofs as a singular kindness; and to improve them, and the just commendation mingled with them, in a speedy returning to the Lord, and an activity in his service. What a blessing to a nation is it to have proper courts of judicature every where established, and causes decided with the strictest impartiality! And great ability and integrity are necessary to qualify judges in either church or state, as they have to answer to God for all the crimes they connive at or overlook. Yea, it is needful to keep the affairs of church and state duly disengaged the one from the other. And to render judges upright in their administration, they ought to consider God as their pattern, witness, and rewarder; and his glory as the end of their work.

6 And said, 'O LORD God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? And rulest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is there not power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee?

7 Art not thou 'our God, †who didst drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and †gavest it to the seed of Abraham thy "friend "for ever?

8 And they dwelt therein, and have †built thee a sanctuary therein for thy name, saying,

9 'If, when evil cometh upon us, as the sword, judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we stand before this house, and in thy presence, (for thy name is in this house,) and cry unto thee in our affliction, then thou wilt hear and help.

10 And now, behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom thou †wouldest not let Israel invade when they came out of the land of Egypt, but they turned from them, and destroyed them not;

11 Behold, I say, how †they reward us, to come to cast us out of thy possession, which thou hast given us to inherit!

12 O our God, wilt thou not †judge them? for "we have no might against this great company that cometh against us; †neither know we what to do; but our eyes are upon thee.

13 And †all Judah stood before the LORD, with their little ones, their wives, and their children.

14 ¶ Then upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jehiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, †came the Spirit of the LORD in the midst of the congregation;

15 And he said, Harken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou king Jehoshaphat, Thus saith the LORD unto you, †Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not your's, but †God's.

16 To morrow go ye down against them: behold, they come up by the †cliff of Ziz; and ye shall find them at the end of the †brook, before the wilderness of Jeruel.

17 Ye †shall not need to fight in this battle: set yourselves, stand ye still, and see the salvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jerusalem: fear not, nor be dismayed; to morrow go out against them, for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoshaphat †bowed his head with his face to the ground: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the LORD, worshipping the LORD.

19 And †the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, stood up to praise the LORD God of Israel with a loud voice on high.

20 ¶ And they †rose early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderness of †Tekoa: and, as they went forth, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem; †Believe in the LORD your God, so shall ye be established; believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper.

21 And, when he †had consulted with the people, he appointed singers unto the LORD, and †that should praise the †beauty of holiness as they went out before the army, and to say, †Praise the LORD, for his mercy endureth for ever.

22 ¶ And, when they began to sing and to praise, the LORD †set ambushments against the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, who were come against Judah; and †they were smitten.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab †stood up against the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to slay and destroy them: and, when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped †to destroy another.

24 And, when Judah came toward the watch tower in the wilderness, they looked unto the multitude; and, behold, they were †dead bodies fallen to the earth, and †none escaped.

25 And, when Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away the spoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies, and †precious jewels, which they stripped off for themselves, more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the spoil, it was so much.

26 ¶ And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the valley of †Berachah; for there they blessed the LORD: therefore †the name of the same place was called, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

27 Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat in the †forefront of them, to go again to Jerusalem with joy; for the LORD †had made them to rejoice over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jerusalem, with psalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the house of the LORD.

29 And the †fear of God was on all the kingdoms of those countries when they had heard that the LORD fought against the enemies of Israel.

30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet; for his God †gave him rest round about.

31 ¶ And Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he †walked in the way of Asa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit, the †high places were not taken away; for as yet the people †had

CHAP. XXI.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings viii. ; 17—24. Here Jehoshaphat's family is terribly plagued for their alliance with Ahab's, and his kingdom for their misimprovement of his reformation.

(1) Jehoram his son, whom he had married to Ahab's daughter, establishes himself on the throne by murdering all his brethren, and some other princes ; 1—4. (2) Taking Ahab's family for his pattern, he abandons himself to idolatry, and every thing horrid ; 5, 6, 11. (3) A letter left by Elijah, the prophet, rebukes his wickedness, and denounces his unhappy end ; 12—15. (4) The Edomites and Libnites revolt ; 8—10 : and the Philistines and Arabians ravage his kingdom, and murder or enslave his whole family, except his worst wife and her son ; 16, 17. (5) He dies of an horrible disease, and is disgracefully buried ; 18—20. (6) Yet the Lord, for his promise sake, preserves the house of David from utter destruction ; 7.

NOW †Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David : and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren, the sons of Jehoshaphat ; Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah : all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.

3 And their father †gave them great gifts of silver, and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah : but the kingdom gave he to †Jehoram, because he was the †first-born.

4 Now, when Jehoram was risen up to the kingdom of his father, he †strengthened himself, and slew all his brethren with the sword, and divers also of the princes of Israel.

5 ¶ Jehoram was thirty and two years old † when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

6 And he walked in †the way of the kings of Israel, like as did the house of Ahab ; for he had the daughter of †Ahab to wife : and he wrought that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD.

7 Howbeit, the LORD would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David, and as he †promised to give a *light to him and to his sons for ever.

8 ¶ In his days the †Edomites revolted from under the †dominion of Judah, and made themselves a king.

9 Then Jehoram went †forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him : and he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites who compassed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day : The same time also did †Libnah revolt from under his hand ; because †he had forsaken the LORD God of his fathers.

11 Moreover, †he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and †caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, and compelled Judah thereto.

12 ¶ And there came a †writing to him from Elijah the prophet, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the †ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa king of Judah,

13 But hast †walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to go a whoring, like to the whoredoms of the house of Ahab, and also hast †slain thy brethren of thy father's house, which were better than thyself ;

14 Behold, with †a great plague will the LORD smite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy goods :

15 And thou shalt have great sickness by disease of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out by reason of the sickness day by day.

16 ¶ Moreover, †the LORD stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and of the Arabians, that were near the †Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and †carried away all the substance that was found in the king's house, and his sons also, and his wives ; so that there was never a son left him, save Jehoahaz †the youngest of his sons.

18 ¶ And after all this the LORD smote him in his bowels with †an incurable disease.

19 And it came to pass that, in process of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reason of his sickness : so he died of sore diseases. And his people made no †burning for him, like the burning of his fathers.

20 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years, and †departed without †being desired : howbeit, they buried him in the city of David, but †not in the sepulchres of the kings.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XX.—Numerous, active, and subtle, are the enemies of Christ's church : and danger is often at hand when we least expect it ; yea, even when we are most faithful, we are apt to be involved in great difficulties, for the trial and honour of our faith. In danger and distress, it is best to begin with solemn fasting and supplication to God for deliverance. The dangers which drive us to him will never ruin us. While we have a merciful God to flee to, we never need despair. The cries of the oppressed will enter into the ears of the righteous judge. And, the more entirely we are taken off from every self dependence in the view of our wants and wretchedness, we are the more sure to find help in the time of need. If faith and hope look upward, the everlasting arms will be underneath us. In our cries to God for deliverance, let us therefore plead his covenant relation to us, the grants he has made us, his ability to protect and deliver us ; and the ingratitude, injustice, and violence, of our enemies : for readily does God bestow his answers of peace to his people : and happy are they who, renouncing their unbelieving fears, go forth, assured by faith that it shall be to them as he hath spoken. Unshaken faith is a certain cause of victory ; and even songs of praise are excellent weapons in our spiritual warfare. God can easily deliver his people, and employ their strongly confederated enemies to destroy one another : yea, he can turn his people's distress into means of their enrichment, honour, safety, and peace. And it becomes us in such noted deliverances, to join in solemn thanksgiving, and to set up some lasting memorials of his kindness.—But O, how hard is it to render reformation thoroughly complete ; and to wean the best of men from sins which easily beset them, even when they have before smarted for them ! But it is kind in God to continue a reproof to us ; and it is great gain if our providential losses turn us from the path of evil.

CHAP. XXII.

Still the curse of God continues working in the family of Jehoram. (1) Ahaziah, his only son that remained, was a shame to it, being a partaker in the sin of Ahab's family, and in their destruction; 1-9. (2) Athaliah, his only wife that remained, was a plague to it; for she murdered all the seed royal she could find, her own grandchildren not excepted, and usurped the throne; 10-12. (3) God, for his promise sake to David, preserves Joash, an infant, by the care of his aunt; 11, 12.

AND the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah his youngest son king in his stead: for the band of men that came with the Arabians to the camp had slain all the eldest. So Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Athaliah the daughter of Omri.

3 He also walked in the ways of the house of Ahab: for his mother was his counsellor to do wickedly.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the sight of the LORD, like the house of Ahab: for they were his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction.

5 ¶ He walked also after their counsel, and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel to war against Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead: and the Syrians smote Joram.

6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds which were given him at Ramah when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. And Azariah, the son of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to see Jehoram the son of Ahab at Jezreel, because he was sick.

7 And the destruction of Ahaziah was of God by coming to Joram: for when he was come he went out with Jehoram against Jehu the son of Nimshi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab.

8 And it came to pass that, when Jehu was executing judgment upon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Judah, and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that ministered to Ahaziah, he slew them.

9 And he sought Ahaziah: and they caught him, (for he was hid in Samaria,) and brought him to Jehu: and, when they had slain him, they buried him; because, said they, he is the son of Jehoshaphat, who sought the LORD with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah had no power to keep still the kingdom.

10 ¶ But, when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the seed royal of the house of Judah.

11 But Jehoshabeath, the daughter of the king, took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons that were slain, and put him and his nurse in a bed chamber. So Jehoshabeath the daughter of king Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiada the priest, (for she was the sister of Ahaziah,) hid him from Athaliah, so that she slew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the house of God six years: and Athaliah reigned over the land.

CHAP. XXIII.

Coincides with 2 Kings xi. Here (1) Jehoiada the high priest prepares the people for their king; acquaints their chiefs with his intentions; arms the Levites, and appoints them to their respective posts; 1-10. (2) He produces young Joash, and crowns and anoints him king; 11. (3) He gives orders for slaying Athaliah, the wicked usurper; 12-15. (4) Making a solemn covenant with God, he reforms the kingdom, and restores religion and liberty; 16-21.

AND in the seventh year Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the captains of hundreds, Azariah the son of Jeroham, and Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, and Azariah the son of Obed, and Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri, into covenant with him.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chief of the fathers of Israel; and they came to Jerusalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And he said unto them, Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the LORD hath said of the sons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part of you, entering on the sabbath, of the priests and of the Levites, shall be porters of the doors;

5 And a third part shall be at the king's house; and a third part at the gate of the foundation: and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the LORD.

6 But let none come into the house of the LORD, save the priests, and they that minister of the Levites, they shall go in, for they are holy: but all the people shall keep the watch of the LORD.

7 And the Levites shall compass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand; and whosoever else cometh into the house, he shall be put to death: but be ye with the king when he cometh in and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath, with them that were to go out on the sabbath: for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses.

ungodly. Behold how the woman, for whose sake Jehoshaphat had cultivated friendship with Ahab, reduces his glorious kingdom and numerous family, nay, his blessed reformation, to the brink of ruin! She had doubtless advised her husband to murder his brethren and princes, and to hurry himself, through scenes of misery, into endless fire. Now she counsels her son to do wickedly. Advised by her, he cultivates intimacy with Jehoram her brother, and involves himself and relations in his ruin. Behold the infuriated monster murdering princes, and embroiling her hands in the blood of her innocent, her orphan babes! And, to the reproach of Judah, the savage murderer, the vile idolater, is permitted to fill the sacred throne without so much as a shadow of title! But, meanwhile, behold how God, for his promise sake, preserves in his house a young and helpless descendant of David to wear the crown, and even usher in the Messiah in his time! Vain is every attempt of earth and hell to defeat the word of truth; not one jot or tittle of it shall ever fail.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXI.—What monsters are bred in the best of families; or, at least, are made so by unhallowed marriages! And none are such plagues to families and kingdoms as ungrateful heirs. Ambition is deaf to the cries of nature or humanity: and those, whom duty and interest require to protect us, become our destroyers. But how tormented are the minds of tyrants, and how tottering those thrones which are established in blood! God can take the most unthought of methods to threaten or to punish his inveterate enemies. And torment, misery, and disgrace, most surely await them. Dreadful is the situation, when tormenting agonies, an awakened conscience, and an opening hell, meet the sinner on his death-bed! But miserable are the happiest tyrants.—When alive they are hated; and when dead they are branded with infamy, and tormented in hell!

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIII.—God will not suffer the fulfilment of his promise to be too long interrupted. And it is a great mercy in critical times to have one of great prudence, piety, fidelity, courage, and influence, to be principal director. How astonishing is it to see religion and liberty all at once recovered from the wrecks of ruin! But is there any thing too hard for the Lord? How mad for their opposers to rush headlong into immediate destruction! But hopeful is the view when idols are destroyed, idolaters ashamed, the true worship of God regularly established, and his worshippers first giving themselves to the Lord, and afterwards to magistrates and ministers, and to one another, by the will of God!

of the LORD, and also such as wrought iron and brass to mend the house of the LORD.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work was perfected by them, and they set the house of God in his state, and strengthened it.

14 And when they had finished it they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, whereof were made vessels for the house of the LORD, even vessels to minister, and *to offer withal, and spoons, and vessels of gold and silver. And they offered burnt-offerings in the house of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoiada.

15 ¶ But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days when he died; an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and toward his house.

17 ¶ Now after the death of Jehoiada came the princes of Judah, and made obeisance to the king. Then the king hearkened unto them.

18 And they left the house of the LORD God of their fathers, and served groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their trespass.

19 Yet he sent prophets to them, to bring them again unto the LORD; and they testified against them: but they would not give ear.

20 And the Spirit of God †came upon Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, who stood above the people, and said unto them, *b*Thus saith God, Why transgress ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot prosper? because ye have forsaken the LORD, he hath also forsaken you.

21 And they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones at the commandment of the king, in the court of the house of the LORD.

22 Thus Joash the king remembered not the kindness which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but slew his son. And when he died he said, *b*The LORD look upon it, and requite it.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, at the end of the year, that the host of Syria came up against him: and they came to Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all the spoil of them unto the king of †Damascus.

24 For the army of the Syrians came with a small company of men, and the LORD delivered a very great host into their hand, because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers. So they executed judgment against Joash.

25 And, when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great diseases,) his own servants conspired against him for the blood of the sons of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.

26 And these are they that conspired against him; Zabad the son of Shimeath an Ammonitess, and Jehozabad the son of Shimrith a Moabitess.

27 ¶ Now, concerning his sons, and the greatness of the burdens laid upon him, and the repairing of the house of God, behold, they are written in the story of the book of the kings. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXV.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings xiv.; 1-4. Here we have Amaziah (1) Justly revenging his father's death on the murderers; 1-4. (2) Wisely obeying the command of God in dismissing the hundred thousand Israelites whom he had hired into his army; 5-10. (3) Cruelly conquering the Edomites while the dismissed Israelites wasted his own country; 11-13. (4) Wickedly worshipping the idols of the conquered Edomites, and impatient of reproof for it; 14-16. (5) Proudly challenging Jehoash king of Israel to a war, which almost ruined himself and his kingdom; 17-24. (6) Shamefully pursued and murdered by his subjects; 24-28.

AMAZIAH was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, but not with a perfect heart.

3 ¶ Now it came to pass, when the kingdom was established to him, that he slew his servants that had killed the king his father.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the law in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, saying, The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

5 ¶ Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thousands and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand mighty men of valour out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

7 But there came a man of God to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee; for the LORD is not to a church or nation is the death of a pious or faithful counsellor! and what plague are complaisant and wicked flatterers! But in times of great degeneracy God never wants some faithful witnesses, that they who hate to be reformed may be left without excuse: and great zeal for God is then needful, to oppose the torrent of ungodliness, and to render ministers duly faithful to souls: for ingratitude, injustice, and barbarity, generally attend hatred of reproof and worshipping of idols. And God's prophets, if faithful, are sure to be marked with suffering or death: but quickly shall God resent the injuries done to the quickly, and in manifold forms, his vengeance shall overtake the obstinate transgressors: and, when he forsakes men, they become an easy prey to every invader. Often he gives men blood to drink, who have embroiled their hands in the blood of his saints; while his vengeance pursues them into everlasting fire. And scarcely does any thing more fearfully spread destruction than marriage with wicked women.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIV.—It is a great advantage for young persons to be directed by those who are pious, prudent, and faithful. And the influence of education, the awe or example of friends, may often push those far into external appearances of religion who have no cordial regard to it: nay, in shews of devotion, empty hypocrites may outstrip real and noted saints. How many useful works in church and state would be utterly stopped, if God did not raise up a few active men to carry them forward! But it is an honour to do good in our time by promoting religion: and faithfulness is the great honour, and will be the lasting comfort, of such as are intrusted with public money, or employed in public business. The godly are often honourably interred with an appearance of distinguished respect and grief, and yet their example quickly disregarded. Pretended conversions, and hypocritical strictness, soon issue in fearful apostasy. Many conform to religion when it is fashionable, who are glad of an opportunity to throw off the restraint. What an unspeakable loss 23 And Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, four hundred cubits.

24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the king's house, the hostages also, and returned to Samaria.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash the son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 ¶ Now, after the time that Amaziah did turn away from following the LORD, they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish: but they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

28 And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXV.—What multitudes are mere dissemblers in their religious appearances! For some carnal end they apply their tongue and hand to religion while their heart hates it. But short-lived are the triumphs of murderers, particularly those of sovereigns. And strict equity ought to take place in the punishment of criminals, that the innocent may not be involved with the guilty. How fearfully sin diminishes and weakens nations! And rash undertakings, or alliances in war, make room for bitter repentance. Multitudes profit nothing when God is our enemy; and connection with his enemies but hastens the curse on our enterprises. But the loss of money goes very near the heart of worldlings, while they who trust in God find themselves gainers. How outrageous is the fury, and cruel the tender mercies, of the wicked! Such as are really unconcerned about piety, feel their pride hurt when treated as profane and wicked: and the proud, when baulked of their expected honours and booty, are greatly enraged. The conquests made by nations are often really to their own hurt: and those whom we imitated in wickedness become the instruments

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVI.—A godly, faithful, and prudent, instructor is a great advantage to a youthful king: and a noted regard to the laws and worship of God lays an excellent foundation for prosperity; for God honours those that honour him: and, as long as we cleave to him, he will be our assistant. And what extensive capacities God gives some men, that they can take care of a multitude of things at once! But how bewitching is pride! it can decoy men to their ruin in a thousand forms. And it is difficult to be prosperous and yet be humble! But seldom do men gratify their pride without bringing themselves to deserved shame. The offices and ordinances of God's church are sacred and appropriate: it is at our highest peril if we interfere with them without his call. And when God's ministers magnify their office, and boldly withstand the sinful attempts of the greatest monarchs, it is honourable and becoming. But how impatient are the proud of faithful reproof or zealous opposition! The most wise and just rebuke exasperates the wilful. And the who will not submit to admonition rush on their own ruin. God marks them with disgraceful punishments, answerable to their crimes. And, when we feel his displeasure, it is madness to persist. Humiliation is our only door of escape. And sometimes, when sins are pardoned of God, they leave an indelible stain among men.

8 He was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem.

9 ¶ And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. And Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings xvi. Here we have (1) Ahaz's monstrous and cruel idolatry, and other wickedness; 1—4. (2) The punishment of it in the Syrians' and Israelites' ravaging his kingdom, and murdering his subjects; 5—8. (3) God, in pity, by the prophet Oded, rebukes the Israelites for their cruelty, and makes them kindly to dismiss two hundred thousand prisoners; 9—15. But (4) The Edomites, Philistines, and even the Assyrians, whose friendship he had hired, distress the country more and more; 16—21. (5) In his distress, Ahaz grows still worse; introduces the Syrian idolatry; stops the true worship of God at the temple; fills his kingdom with idolatrous altars and high places; and at last dies in his sins; 22—27.

AHAZ ^awas twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: but he did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD, like David his father:

2 For he ^bwalked in the ways of the kings of Israel, and made also molten images for Baalim.

3 Moreover, he ^cburnt incense in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and burnt his children in the fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD had cast out before the children of Israel.

4 He ^dsacrificed also and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Wherefore the LORD ^ehis God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria; and they smote him, and carried away a great multitude of them captives, and brought them to ^fDamascus. And he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who smote him with a great slaughter.

6 For ^gPekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah an hundred and twenty thousand in one day, who were all ^hvaliant men, ⁱbecause they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers.

7 And Zichri, a mighty man of Ephraim, slew Maaseiah the king's son, and Azrikam the governor of the house, and Elkanah that was ^jnext to the king.

8 ¶ And the children of Israel ^kcarried away captive of their brethren two hundred thousand, women, sons, and daughters; and took also away much spoil from them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

9 But a prophet of the LORD was there, whose name was Oded: and he ^lwent out before the host that came to Samaria, and said unto them, Behold, ^mbecause the LORD God of your fathers was wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have slain them in a rage that reacheth ⁿup unto heaven.

10 And now ye purpose to keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem for ^obond-men and bond-women unto you: but are there not ^pwith you, even with you, sins against the LORD your God?

11 Now hear me therefore, and ^qdeliver the captives again, whom ye have taken captive of your brethren; ^rfor the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you.

12 Then certain of the ^sheads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against them that came from the war, 13 And said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither: for, whereas we have offended against the LORD already, ye intend ^tto add more to our sins and to our trespass: for our trespass is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel.

14 So the armed men left the captives and the spoil before the princes and all the congregation.

15 And the men who ^uwere expressed by name rose up, and took the captives, and with the spoil ^vclothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and shod them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and carried all the feeble of them upon asses, and brought them to ^wJericho, the city of palm trees, to their brethren: then they returned to Samaria.

16 ¶ At that time did king Ahaz ^xsend unto the kings of Assyria to help him.

17 For ^yagain the Edomites had come and smitten Judah, and carried away ^zcaptives.

18 The ^{aa}Philistines also had invaded the cities of the low country and of the south of Judah, and had taken ^{ab}Bethshemesh, and Aijalon, and Gederoth, and Shchocho with the villages thereof, and Timnah with the villages thereof, Gimzo also and the villages thereof: and they dwelt there.

19 For the LORD ^{ac}brought Judah low because of Ahaz king of Israel; for he made Judah naked, and transgressed sore against the LORD.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVII.—It is happy when children imitate their parents' goodness, and carefully avoid their faults. But hard is the task to bring an obdurate people off from their corrupt customs. And often magistrates and ministers, who are tender and circumspect in their own lives, have not courage and zeal enough for doing what they might in the reformation of others.

A fixed steadfastness in the truth is the most necessary, and at the same time the most excellent, mean for the resistance of evil and performance of good. What reward hath godliness?—it hath the promises of this life, and that which is to come! But alas! the best magistrates and ministers are often quickly removed, and that in order to make way for monsters to fill their place.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXVIII.—How amazing is the strength of men's inward corruption, that can so trample upon a pious education and pattern ! But fearful are the punishments which God has in store for such enormous transgressors : and miserable are the nations who have such monsters of impiety for their sovereigns. God makes the nations around concur to punish the apostasy of his professing people. Often the very persons or nations, whom we have made our pattern in wickedness, are made the instruments of our punishment. And dreadfully are the mightiest numbered to the slaughter when the Lord fighteth against them. But how tender his compassion towards his offending people, even while he smites them ! He observes and is provoked with those who inhumanly murder or abuse them, especially if they be brethren, or act from principles of hatred or revenge. And when he pleases he can, by his word and Spirit, render their most outrageous enemies kind and generous to them. They who are made sensible of their own sins will sympathize with their brethren's sufferings. It is better to take warning late than never : and the victory of self-denial is more glorious than the necks of vanquished enemies. It is the greatest honour to the mighty to be merciful. But, when God lays aside one instrument of correction, he often takes another in his hand ; and turns the help which we sinfully secure into ruinous plagues. When we forsake God we must needs be disappointed in every other confidence. And desperately hardened must men be when both mercies and judgments render them worse and worse. Happy is that nation where their tyrannical monsters of wickedness are quickly cut off by death, to make way for better princes.

house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering, with all the vessels thereof, and the shew-bread table, with all the vessels thereof.

19 Moreover, all the vessels, which king Ahaz in his reign did cast away in his transgression, have we prepared and sanctified, and, behold, they are before the altar of the LORD.

20 ¶ Then Hezekiah the king rose early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he goats, for a sin-offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests, the sons of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and sprinkled it on the altar: likewise, when they had killed the rams, they sprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed also the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 And they brought forth the he goats for the sin-offering before the king and the congregation; and they laid their hands upon them:

24 And the priests killed them; and they made reconciliation with their blood upon the altar, to make an atonement for all Israel: for the king commanded that the burnt-offering and the sin-offering should be made for all Israel.

25 And he set the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, according to the commandment of David, and of Gad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet: for so was the commandment of the LORD by his prophets.

26 And the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt-offering upon the altar. And, when the burnt-offering began, the song of the LORD began also with the trumpets, and with the instruments ordained by David king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded: and all this continued until the burnt-offering was finished.

29 And, when they had made an end of offering, the king, and all that were present with him, bowed themselves and worshipped.

30 Moreover, Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praise unto the LORD, with the words of David, and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXIX.—What strange alterations the change of a sovereign may produce in a nation! And great is the mercy when God gives good men power after they have long been unwilling spectators of wickedness. It is highly honourable when those in high stations give to the Lord the first beginnings of their power and influence. And, when God gives opportunity, with earnestness, humble grief, and holy zeal, should men reform their neglects, and turn to the Lord. Corrupters of religion often leave the church and ordinances of God in the greatest confusion. And it is necessary to ponder the punishments of former sins, in order to render us hearty and active in our reformation. And much may be done in a short time if all concerned be diligent. Honourable are those ministers whom God stirs up to be leaders in 31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, Now ye have consecrated yourselves unto the LORD, come near, and bring sacrifices and thank-offerings into the house of the LORD. And the congregation brought in sacrifices and thank-offerings, and as many as were of a free heart burnt-offerings.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings, which the congregation brought, was threescore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt-offering to the LORD.

33 And the consecrated things were six hundred oxen and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were too few, so that they could not flay all the burnt-offerings: wherefore their brethren the Levites did help them till the work was ended, and until the other priests had sanctified themselves: for the Levites were more upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests.

35 And also the burnt-offerings were in abundance, with the fat of the peace-offerings, and the drink-offerings for every burnt-offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly.

CHAP. XXX.

Inform us of the solemn passover which Hezekiah and his subjects observed in the first year of his reign. (1) He, his princes and people, upon deliberate consultation, resolve to keep it in the second month, as they could not be ready to observe it in the first; 2—5. (2) He invites not only his own subjects, but also the Israelites, to keep it at Jerusalem; 1, 6—10. (3) The people of Judah, and even some Israelites, observe it with great gladness, and double their feast of unleavened bread; 11—16, 21—27. (4) Many of the observers had not duly prepared or managed themselves; but the Lord at Hezekiah's request, pardoned their mistakes; 17—20.

AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel.

2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the passover in the second month.

3 For they could not keep it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing pleased the king and all the congregation.

5 So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written.

the work of reformation, to provoke their brethren to jealousy: and glorious is the sight when they cheerfully work to one another's hands in reforming the church;—when kings, princes, priests, and people, vie with one another in improving Jesus Christ as the great propitiation for sins, and in serious repentance of former sins, and returning to the observance of all God's ordinances, grudging neither cost nor care! They will then find their work much more easy than they expected. But alas! that priests, who ought to be leaders, are often the most unqualified and careless; and need so repeatedly to be stirred up to that which is peculiarly their work! But they who love God's altar will delight to support the service; and past neglects will quicken them to more abundant diligence.

6 So the posts went with the letters †from the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, 'turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.

7 And be not ye 'like your fathers, and like your brethren, who trespassed against the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore gave them up to desolation, as ye see.

8 Now ‡ be ye not "stiff-necked as your fathers were, but "yield yourselves unto the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the LORD your God, that "the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

9 For, if ye "turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the LORD your God is 'gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you if ye return unto him.

10 So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: but they laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheless, "divers of Asher, and Manasseh, and of Zebulun, humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem.

12 Also in Judah the 'hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, by the word of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast of unleavened bread "in the second month, a very great congregation.

14 And they arose and took away the *altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

15 Then they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the 'priests and the Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt-offerings into the house of the LORD.

16 And they stood in ||their place after their manner, "according to the law of Moses the man of God: the priests sprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

17 For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified: therefore "the Levites had the charge of the killing of the passovers for every one that was not clean, to sanctify them unto the LORD.

18 For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, "had not cleansed themselves, yet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written. But Hezekiah 'prayed for them, saying, The good LORD pardon every one 19 That "prepareth his heart to seek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the 'purification of the sanctuary.

20 And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and 'healed the people.

21 And the children of Israel that were *present at Jerusalem kept ^s the feast of unleavened bread seven days "with great gladness: and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with †loud instruments unto the LORD.

22 And Hezekiah spake 'comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the "good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace-offerings, and 'making confession to the LORD God of their fathers.

23 And the whole assembly took counsel "to keep other seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah "did give to the congregation a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests sanctified themselves.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the "strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the "time of Solomon, the son of David king of Israel, there was not the like in Jerusalem.

27 ¶ Then the 'priests the Levites arose and blessed the people: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to 'his holy dwelling place, even unto heaven.

CHAP. XXXI.

Here (1) The observers of the late passover destroy the remainders of idolatry in their respective corners; 1. (2) Hezekiah settles the priests and Levites in their proper employments; and by his own bounty, and by levying the first-fruits and tithes from the people, makes sufficient provision for them; 2—10. (3) Proper storerooms and commissioners are appointed for the distribution of it; 11—19. (4) In all his undertakings, Hezekiah acts with great integrity; 20, 21.

NOW, "when all this was finished, all Israel that were *present went out to the cities of Judah, and ^b brake through their inactivity, hinder the people in the service of God! But pleasant is the work when the worshippers of God have such delight in his service, that they grudge neither cost nor time for it, and can hardly bear its conclusion. And God in mercy will provide his people with useful ministers, when many, who ought to be such, are scandalously negligent. He is a God of infinite grace; ready to accept our sincere confessions of our sins, hear our prayers, and forgive our transgressions. If we are but sincerely desirous to honour him, he will, through the blood of his Son, readily pardon our manifold infirmities. Yea, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; who presents our persons and our services, and renders all acceptable in his sight.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXX.—God's ordinances ought not to be neglected on account of a mere circumstance. It is best to engage people to duty when they are in a proper temper. And we ought to stir up all whom we can to the worship and service of God, and that by the most engaging motives; representing to them the mercies and judgments of God, and his promises and threatenings. It is never too late for sinners to return while the calls of mercy are continued: and it is only impenitence persisted in that becomes fatal. If we do all that we can to encourage them, their blood must be on their own heads if they obstinately refuse. Better that our invitations should be derided than that God should be dishonoured, and one soul murdered by our sloth. And, though few are saved, a remnant shall hear, fear, and humble themselves, and return to the Lord. What a shame it is when, on the contrary, ministers,

Before Christ 726.
 the images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also, and Manasseh, until they had utterly destroyed them all. Then all the children of Israel returned every man to his possession into their own cities.

2 ¶ And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests, and the Levites after their courses, every man according to his service, the priests and Levites for burnt-offerings and for peace-offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the tents of the LORD.

3 He appointed also the king's portion of his substance for the burnt-offerings, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, and the burnt-offerings for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the set feasts, as it is written in the law of the LORD.

4 Moreover, he commanded the people that dwelt in Jerusalem to give the portion of the priests and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in the law of the LORD.

5 ¶ And, as soon as the commandment came abroad, the children of Israel brought in abundance the first fruits of corn, wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increase of the field; and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

6 And concerning the children of Israel and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought in the tithe of oxen and sheep, and the tithe of holy things which were consecrated unto the LORD their God, and laid them by heaps.

7 In the third month they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month.

8 And, when Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel.

9 Then Hezekiah questioned with the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps.

10 And Azariah the chief priest of the house of Zadok answered him, and said, "Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of the LORD, we have had enough to eat, and have left plenty: for the LORD hath blessed his people; and that which is left is this great store."

11 ¶ Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of the LORD: and they prepared them.

12 And brought in the offerings, and the tithes, and the dedicated things, faithfully: over which Cononiah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was the next.

13 And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Asahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were overseers under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, at the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the ruler of the house of God.

14 And Kore the son of Imnah the Levite, the porter toward the east, was over the free-will offerings of God, to distribute the oblations of the LORD and the most holy things.

15 And next him were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in their set office, to give to their brethren by courses, as well to the great as to the small:

16 Beside their genealogy of males, from three years old and upward, even unto every one that entereth into the house of the LORD, his daily portion for their service in their charges according to their courses;

17 Both to the genealogy of the priests by the house of their fathers, and the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, in their charges by their courses;

18 And to the genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, through all the congregation: for in their set office they sanctified themselves in holiness:

19 Also the sons of Aaron the priests, which were in the fields of the suburbs of their cities, in every several city, the men that were expressed by name, to give portions to all the males among the priests, and to all that were reckoned by genealogies among the Levites.

20 ¶ And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and wrought that which was good, and right, and truth, before the LORD his God.

21 And in every work that he began in the service of the house of God, and in the law, and in the commandments, to seek his God, he did it with all his heart, and prospered.

CHAP. XXXII.

Coincides with 2 Kings xviii—xx. and Is. xxxvi—xxxix.; and concludes the history of Hezekiah. Here are (1) The invasion which Sennacherib king of Assyria made upon him; and the care which he took to fortify himself and his capital, and the minds of the inhabitants; 1—8. (2) The insolent and blasphemous messages which Sennacherib sent to him; 9—10. (3) God's effectual answer to Sennacherib's railing and Hezekiah's prayers, in the destruction and total rout of the Assyrians, to Hezekiah's great honour; 20—23. (4) His mortal sickness and recovery; his sinful pride and ingratitude, and humiliation for it; 24—26, 31. (5) His wealth, activity, and success, when living; and his honours when dead; 27—33.

AFTER these things, and the establishment thereof, Sennacherib king of Assyria came and entered into Judah, and encamped against the fenced cities, and thought to win them for himself.

2 And, when Hezekiah saw that Sen-minister according to his ability. And with great care ought sacred revenues to be preserved and managed, that none of Jesus' servants or their families may lack what is necessary: for it is scandalous that some should riot in luxury, while their brethren, more laborious and faithful, should be almost starved for want. But with great confidence may we expect, that God will honour and succeed our religious endeavours when we engage in them with our whole heart.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXI.—It is comfortable to go home from solemn work with the blessing of God upon us, and our hearts inflamed with holy zeal against every thing sinful. And well bestowed is that labour or expense which we lay out in abolishing idolatry, or restoring the true worship of God. How comely is it when great men, by their generous presents, encourage others to bestow their respective dues upon the service and servants of God! The gospel ministry might be easily and comfortably maintained, did every one concerned nacherib was come, and that ^d he was purposed to fight against Jerusalem,

3 He took counsel with his princes and his mighty men, to ^e stop the waters of the fountains which were without the city; and they did help him.

4 So there was gathered much people together, who stopped all the fountains, and the ^f brook that ^{*} ran through the midst of the land, saying, Why should the kings of Assyria come and find much water?

5 Also he strengthened himself, and built up all the wall ^g that was broken, and raised it up to the towers, and ^h another wall without, and repaired ⁱ Millo in the city of David, and made ^k darts and shields in abundance.

6 And he set captains of war over the people, and gathered them together to him in the street of the gate of the city, and [†] spake comfortably to them, saying,

7 Be ^j strong and courageous; be not afraid nor dismayed for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with us than with him:

8 With him is an ^m arm of flesh; but with us is the LORD our God to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people ⁿ rested themselves upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 ¶ After this did Sennacherib king of Assyria send his servants to Jerusalem, (but he himself laid siege against Lachish, and all [†] his power with him,) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying,

10 Thus saith Sennacherib king of Assyria, ^p Whereon ^q do ye trust, that ye abide ^r in the siege in Jerusalem?

11 Doth not Hezekiah persuade you to give over yourselves to die by famine and by thirst, saying, ^s The LORD our God shall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

12 Hath not the same Hezekiah ^t taken away his high places and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one altar, and burn incense upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other lands? ^u Were the gods of the nations of those lands any ways able to deliver their lands out of mine hand?

14 Who was there among all the gods of those nations, that my fathers utterly destroyed, that could deliver his people out of mine hand, that your God should be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

15 Now therefore ^v let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor persuade you on this manner, neither yet believe him: for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: ^w how much less shall your God deliver you out of mine hand?

16 And his servants spake ^x yet more against the LORD God, and against his servant Hezekiah.

17 He ^y wrote also letters to rail on the LORD God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying, As the gods of the nations of other lands have not delivered their people out of mine hand, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they ^z cried with a loud voice in the Jews' speech unto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to affright them, and to trouble them; that they might take the city.

19 And they spake ^{aa} against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth which were the work of the hands of man.

20 ¶ And ^{ab} for this cause Hezekiah the king and the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz prayed and cried to heaven.

21 And the LORD sent an angel, which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned with shame of face to his own land. And, when he was come into the house of his god, they that came forth of his own bowels ^{ac} slew him there with the sword.

22 Thus the LORD ^{ad} saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Assyria, and from the hand of all other, and ^{ae} guided them on every side.

23 And many ^{af} brought gifts unto the LORD to Jerusalem, and ^{ag} presents to Hezekiah king of Judah: so that he was magnified in the sight of all nations from thenceforth.

24 ¶ In those days Hezekiah was sick to the death, and prayed unto the LORD: and he spake unto him, and he ^{ah} gave him a sign.

25 But Hezekiah ^{ai} rendered not again according to the benefit done unto him; for ^{aj} his heart was lifted up: therefore there was ^{ak} wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem.

26 Notwithstanding, Hezekiah ^{al} humbled himself for [†] the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 ¶ And Hezekiah had ^{am} exceeding much riches and honour: and he made himself treasures for silver, and for gold, and for precious stones, and for spices, and for shields, and for all manner of ^{an} pleasant jewels;

28 Storehouses also for the increase of corn, and wine, and oil; and stalls for all manner of beasts, and cotes for flocks.

29 Moreover, he provided him cities, and possessions of flocks and herds in abundance: for ^{ao} God had given him substance very much.

—30 This same Hezekiah also ^{ap} stopped the upper water course of Gihon, and brought it straight down to the west side of the city of David. And Hezekiah prospered in all his works 31 ¶ Howbeit, in the business of the ambassadors of the princes of Babylon, who sent unto him to inquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him, to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart.

32 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodness, behold, they are written in the vision of Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz, and in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

33 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the chiefest of the sepulchres of the sons of David: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour at his death. And Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings xxi. Here is (1) Manasseh's long reign, and terrible wickedness, idolatry, witchcraft, murder, &c. 1-9. (2) The Lord's rebuke of it by his prophets; 10: and punishment of it by captivity; 11. (3) Manasseh's return to God by repentance; his return to his kingdom, and prosperity in it; and his partial reformation of it; 12-17. (4) A summary account of his life and death; 18-20. (5) The great wickedness and speedy destruction of Amon his successor; 21-25.

MANASSEH was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and five years in Jerusalem:

2 But did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, like unto the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD had cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down, and he reared up altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served them.

4 Also he built altars in the house of the LORD, whereof the LORD had said, In Jerusalem shall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD.

6 And he caused his children to pass through the fire in the valley of the son of Hinnom: also he observed times, and used enchantments, and used witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar spirit, and with wizards: he wrought much evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he set a carved image (the idol which he had made) in the house of God, of which God had said to David and to Solomon his son, In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever:

8 Neither will I any more remove the foot of Israel from out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers; so that they will take heed to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole law, and the statutes, and the ordinances, by the hand of Moses.

9 So Manasseh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to err, and to REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXII.—Never are Satan and his agents more ready to harass the people of God than when they are employed in the work of reformation: and thus God justly punishes his people for their hypocrisy and indifference in his service. Proud men hope to carry all to their mind, if their first attempts are successful. But, when war or danger is threatened, we must prepare for it by every proper mean, remembering after all to rest chiefly on the powerful protection and assistance of God. Strong faith in him will help us above the fear of man. If our adversaries discover their enmity to God and our souls, by boasting and blasphemy, let us give ourselves to mourning and prayer:

do worse than the heathen, whom the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 And the LORD spake to Manasseh, and to the people; but they would not hearken.

11 Wherefore the LORD brought upon them the captains of the host of the king of Assyria, who took Manasseh among the thorns, and bound him with fetters, and carried him to Babylon.

12 And when he was in affliction he besought the LORD his God, and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers, 13 And prayed unto him; and he was entreated of him, and heard his supplication, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that the LORD he was God.

14 ¶ Now after this he built a wall without the city of David, on the west side of Gihon, in the valley, even to the entering in at the fish gate, and compassed about Ophel, and raised it up a very great height, and put captains of war in all the fenced cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the strange gods, and the idol out of the house of the LORD, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the LORD, and in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the city.

16 And he repaired the altar of the LORD, and sacrificed thereon peace-offerings and thank-offerings, and commanded Judah to serve the LORD God of Israel.

17 Nevertheless, the people did sacrifice still in the high places, yet unto the LORD their God only.

18 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the words of the seers that spake to him in the name of the LORD God of Israel, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel.

19 His prayer also, and how God was entreated of him, and all his sins, and his trespass, and the places wherein he built high places, and set up groves and graven images before he was humbled; behold, they are written among the sayings of the seers.

20 ¶ So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

21 ¶ Amon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jerusalem.

22 But he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as did Manasseh his father: for Amon sacrificed unto all the carved images which Manasseh his father had made, and served them;

23 And humbled not himself before so shall the issue be terrible to them, and happy and honourable to us. But how criminal is ingratitude to God for his singular, his miraculous, favours! The pride of his own children is especially odious and provoking to him; and it becomes us carefully to guard against, and heartily to hate it. Astonishing is the wisdom of God, that can make sins, as well as sufferings, the means of his people's trial and humiliation. He delights to honour those whom his grace hath enabled remarkably to honour him. And noted piety and activity for God are the true way to be happy and prosperous in life, and to die revered and justly lamented.

the LORD, as Manasseh his father had humbled himself; but Amon trespassed more and more.

24 And his servants conspired against him, and slew him in his own house.

25 ¶ But the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon; and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Coincides much with 2 Kings xxii. xxiii. Judah and Jerusalem have been condemned to irrevocable destruction for their late wickedness; but, under Josiah, the mercy of God allows them a glorious reprieve. Here (1) That pious young sovereign, with great zeal, extirpates idolatry; 1—7, 33. (2) He repairs the temple of God; 8—13. (3) Alarmed by the reading of a book of the law found in the temple, he consults Huldah the prophetess; and receives an answer, denouncing destruction to the nation, but comfort to himself. (4) The law being read in a general meeting of his subjects, he and they renew their father's solemn covenant with God; 29—33.

JOSIAH was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem one and thirty years.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father, and declined neither to the right hand nor to the left.

3 ¶ For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to seek after the God of David his father: and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images.

4 And they brake down the altars of Baalim in his presence; and the images that were on high above them he cut down, and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images, he brake in pieces, and made dust of them, and strewed it upon the graves of them that had sacrificed unto them.

5 And he burned the bones of the priests upon their altars, and cleansed Judah and Jerusalem.

6 And so did he in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their mattocks round about.

7 And, when he had broken down the altars and the groves, and had beaten the graven images into powder, and cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Israel, he returned to Jerusalem.

8 ¶ Now, in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land, and the house, he sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, and Maaseiah the governor of the city, and Joah the son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of the LORD his God.

9 And, when they came to Hilkiah the high priest, they delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites that kept the doors had gathered of the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin; and they returned to Jerusalem.

10 And they put it in the hand of the workmen that had the oversight of the house of the LORD, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the house of the LORD, to repair and amend the house;

11 Even to the artificers and builders gave they it, to buy hewn stone, and timber for couplings, and to floor the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed.

12 And the men did the work faithfully: and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to set it forward; and other of the Levites, all that could skill of instruments of music.

13 Also they were over the bearers of burdens, and were overseers of all that wrought the work in any manner of service: and of the Levites there were scribes, and officers, and porters.

14 ¶ And, when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest found a book of the law of the LORD, given by Moses.

15 And Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of the LORD. And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and brought the king word back again, saying, All that was committed to thy servants, they do it.

17 And they have gathered together the money that was found in the house of the LORD, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and to the hand of the workmen.

18 Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, Hilkiah the priest hath given me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

19 And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes.

20 And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Abdon the son of Micah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah a servant of the king's, saying, 21 Go, inquire of the LORD for me, and for them that are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is poured out upon us, because our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD, to do after all that is written in this book.

But bitter are the griefs, and visible the fruits, of real repentance, particularly when the subjects were once remarkably wicked. What care to restore the worship of God which they have defaced, and to reform the persons whom they have seduced! Though God cast their sin behind his back, they never forget it themselves; nor think themselves worthy of ordinary honours, whether in life or in death. And it may be useful for us to remember that our sins, with their aggravating circumstances, as well as our returns to our duty, are exactly marked in the registers of heaven. But with what a dreadful career, and unrelenting obstinacy, do some men post to eternal ruin! They greedily copy their parents' wickedness, but never their repentance.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXIII.—What a grief it would be to many godly parents to return from death, and behold the abominations of their children! Nations and churches readily relapse into their wonted abominations, from which they had been reformed with infinite pains. They become inhuman, unnatural, and infatuated, when God gives them over to their own hearts' lusts. They turn from and provoke God, their best friend, and depend on Satan their worst enemy. How quickly Hezekiah's boasted treasures are carried to Babylon, and his son to attend them! But O the mercy of God in giving repeated warnings to the most vile and obstinate sinners; or in afflicting them, in order to awaken them! He can convert and forgive the greatest monsters of wickedness.

22 And Hilkiah, and they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tikvath, the son of ^aHasrah, keeper of the [†]wardrobe; (now she dwelt in Jerusalem [†]in the college;) and they spake to her to that effect.

23 ¶ And she answered them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Tell ye the man that sent you to me,

24 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, ^aI will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah:

25 Because [§]they have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands; therefore my wrath shall be poured out upon this place, and shall not be quenched.

26 And as for the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the LORD, so shall ye say unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel concerning the words which thou hast heard;

27 Because thine heart was ^htender, and thou didst humble thyself before God when thou heardest his words against this place, and against the inhabitants thereof, and humbledst thyself before me, and didst rend thy clothes, and weep before me; I have even heard thee also, saith the LORD.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered to thy grave in peace; neither shall thine eyes see all the evil that I will bring upon this place, and upon the inhabitants of the same. So they brought the king word again.

29 ¶ ^kThen the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 And the king went up into the house of the LORD; and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests, and the Levites, and all the people, ^{||}great and small: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of the LORD.

31 And the king stood in ^hhis place, and ^mmade a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant which are written in this book.

32 And he ^acaused all that were ^{*}present in Jerusalem and Benjamin to stand to it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

33 And Josiah ^{*}took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and made all that were present in Israel to serve, even to serve the LORD their God. And ^aall his days they departed not [†]from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

CHAP. XXXV.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings xxiii. 21—30. Here we have Josiah (1) Zealously exerting himself to have the passover exactly and solemnly observed; 1—19. (2) Rashly engaging in a battle with Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt to the loss of his life; 20—23. (3) Honourably interred, and bitterly lamented; 24—27.

MOREOVER, ^aJosiah kept a passover unto the LORD in Jerusalem: and they killed the passover on the ^bfourteenth day of the first month.

2 And he ^cset the priests in their charges, and ^dencouraged them to the service of the house of the LORD;

3 And ^esaid unto the Levites that taught all Israel, who were holy unto the LORD, ^fPut the holy ark in the house which Solomon the son of David king of Israel did build; it shall not be a burden upon your shoulders: ^gserve now the LORD your God and his people Israel,

4 And prepare yourselves by the ^hhouses of your fathers after your courses, according to the writing of David king of Israel, and according to the writing of Solomon his son.

5 And stand in the holy place according to the divisions of the ^{*}families of [†]the fathers of your brethren [†]the people, and after the division of the families of the Levites.

6 So kill the passover, and ⁱsanctify yourselves, and prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

7 And Josiah ^kgave to the people, of the flock, lambs and kids, all for the passover-offerings, for all that were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bullocks: these were of the king's substance.

8 And ^lhis princes [†]gave willingly unto the people, to the priests, and to the Levites; ^mHilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gave unto the priests for the passover-offerings two thousand and six hundred small cattle and three hundred oxen.

9 Conaniah also, and Shemaiah, and Nethaneel, his brethren, and Hashabiah, and Jeiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, ⁿgave unto the Levites for passover-offerings five thousand small cattle and five hundred oxen.

10 So the service was prepared, and the priests ^ostood in their place, and the Levites in their courses, according to the king's commandment.

11 And they killed the passover, and the priests ^psprinkled the blood from their hands, and the Levites ^qflayed them.

12 And they ^rremoved the burnt-offerings, that they might give according to the divisions of the ^{*}families of the people, to offer unto the LORD, as it is

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXIV.—Happy are they whom God by his grace effectually calls in the days of their youth! and indeed there are but few aged conversions. Happy is the nation whose sovereign sets before them the best example; zealously purges his dominion from temptations to destructive impieties; reforms the church in his station; trembles at the words of the God of Israel; and, under the apprehensions of his denounced wrath, humbles himself; and labours to have all his subjects taught divine truths, fixed in them, and preserved from wickedness. And it is pleasant, after great prevailing impiety, to behold kings, ministers, and people, harmoniously and heartily zealous for the instituted purity of God's worship, and solemnly devoting themselves, upon a New-covenant footing, to his service.

written in the book of Moses. And so did they with the oxen.

13 And they roasted the passover with fire according to the ordinance: but the other holy offerings sod they in pots, and in caldrons, and in pans, and divided them speedily among all the people.

14 And afterward they made ready for themselves and for the priests: because the priests the sons of Aaron were busied in offering of burnt-offerings and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themselves and for the priests the sons of Aaron.

15 And the singers the sons of Asaph were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer: and the porters waited at every gate; they might not depart from their service; for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the service of the LORD was prepared the same day, to keep the passover, and to offer burnt-offerings upon the altar of the LORD, according to the commandment of king Josiah.

17 And the children of Israel that were present kept the passover at that time, and the feast of unleavened bread seven days.

18 And there was no passover like to that kept in Israel from the days of Samuel the prophet; neither did all the kings of Israel keep such a passover as Josiah kept, and the priests, and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah was this passover kept.

20 ¶ After all this, when Josiah had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came up to fight against Charchemish by Euphrates: and Josiah went out against him.

21 But he sent ambassadors to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah? I come not against thee this day, but against the house wherewith I have war; for God commanded me to make haste: forbear thee from meddling with God, who is with me, that he destroy thee not.

22 Nevertheless, Josiah would not turn his face from him, but disguised himself, that he might fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho from the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

23 And the archers shot at king Josiah; and the king said to his servants, Have me away, for I am sore wounded.

24 His servants therefore took him out of that chariot, and put him in the second chariot that he had; and they brought him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in one of the sepulchres of his fathers. And all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.

25 ¶ And Jeremiah lamented for Josiah: and all the singing men and the singing women spake of Josiah in their lamentations to this day, and made them an ordinance in Israel: and, behold, they are written in the lamentations.

26 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and his goodness, according to that which was written in the law of the LORD, 27 And his deeds, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Partly coincides with 2 Kings xxiv. xxv. Here we have (1) God punishing the Jews for their misimprovement of Josiah's good reign with the four bad ones of Jehoahaz, Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin, and Zedekiah; under whom they ripened themselves for ruin by further wickedness, and gradually received the reward of it; 1—13. (2) Their iniquity completed in Zedekiah's obstinacy and treachery, and in their general obstinacy in idolatry and persecution of the prophets, who reprov'd them in God's name; 12—16. (3) Their ruinous punishment in the slaughter of the people; the pillage, and burning of their temple and city; their captivity, and the desolation of their country; 17—21. (4) The dawning of their deliverance, after seventy years captivity, in the proclamation of liberty by Cyrus, the Persian conqueror; 21, 22.

THEN the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem.

2 Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem.

3 And the king of Egypt put him down at Jerusalem, and condemned the land in an hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold.

4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and turned his name to Jehoiakim. And Necho took Jehoahaz his brother, and carried him to Egypt.

5 ¶ Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD his God.

6 Against him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and bound him in fetters to carry him to Babylon.

7 Nebuchadnezzar also carried off the vessels of the house of the LORD to Babylon, and put them in his temple at Babylon.

8 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. And Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

9 ¶ Jehoiachin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem;

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXV.—Alas! how often neither ministers nor people shew due forwardness in observing the solemn ordinances of God! Yet much might be done for the excitement of others by one in high station, who so loves him that he grudges no expense or labour in his service. And magistrates, by their example and zealous exertions, might effectually instigate and encourage even ministers to their duty; yea, where many difficulties are in the way. No one ought to become an hypocrite for the sake of carnal advantage: but certainly such as appear sincere ought to meet with peculiar encouragement. Care should be taken, by all concerned, that none be deprived of God's ordinances on account of their poverty; and that none by public service injure his own soul's edification. But great labour and pains are necessary in reducing all ranks and things to due order, in the observation of God's ordinances, after they have been long neglected. The very best of men rarely leave the world without some visible blemish. How affecting it is to see this great man die in an unjust war, after he had received from God fair warning of his danger! But God, in his sovereign wisdom, often makes his people's sinful rashness the mean of their own happiness, and of their survivors' misery. Many lament the loss of their mercies, who never rightly improved them in the enjoyment; and grieve for the misery which they see coming on their nation, who will not take the proper methods of repentance to prevent it.

and he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

10 And, when the year was expired, king Nebuchadnezzar sent, and brought him to Babylon, with the goodly vessels* of the house of the LORD, and made Zedekiah his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem.

11 ¶ Zedekiah was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years in Jerusalem.

12 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD his God, and humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, speaking from the mouth of the LORD.

13 And he also rebelled against king Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear by God: but he stiffened his neck, and hardened his heart from turning unto the LORD God of Israel.

14 ¶ Moreover, all the chief of the priests and the people transgressed very much after all the abominations of the heathen; and polluted the house of the LORD, which he had hallowed in Jerusalem.

15 And the LORD God of their fathers sent to them †by his messengers, rising up †betimes, and sending; because he had compassion on his people, and on his dwelling place:

16 But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets, until the wrath of the LORD arose against his people, till there was no remedy.

17 Therefore he brought upon them the king of the Chaldees, who slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or maiden, old man, or him that stooped for age: he gave them all into his hand.

18 And all the vessels of the house of God, great and small, and the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king, and of his princes; all these he brought to Babylon.

19 And they burned the house of God, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, and burned all the palaces thereof with fire, and destroyed all the goodly vessels thereof.

20 And them* that had escaped from the sword carried he away to Babylon, where they were servants to* him and his sons until the reign of the kingdom of Persia:

21 To fulfil the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed her sabbaths: for as long as she lay desolate she kept sabbath, to fulfil threescore and ten years.

22 ¶ Now, in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, (that the word of the LORD spoken by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished,) the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying,

23 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth hath the LORD God of heaven given me; and he hath charged me to build him an house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Who is there among you of all his people? the LORD his God be with him, and let him go up.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. XXXVI.—For the transgressions of a land, many and unprofitable are the princes of it. Quickly do things ripen for the ruin of nations when their day of punishment is at hand. But to what obstinate and aggravated wickedness are they permitted to arrive before the Lord pours out his destructive vengeance upon them! None are usually more deeply involved in it than the rulers in church and state: and none share more of their contempt, hatred, and persecution, than faithful ministers. But the righteous Lord at last marks their sins in their punishments; and makes up the loss of his honour, which he ought to have had from them, in the form or duration of his executed judgments. And yet in wrath he remembers mercy. Strangely he preserves his people's property for them against their return, even when they have provoked him to cast them out of it. In his providence he exactly adheres to his word. Nor will he, in his pardoning goodness, contend for ever, even where his honour requires him to contend long.

THE BOOK OF E Z R A

Was probably written by himself. It contains an history of eighty years; and exhibits the divine fulfilment of all those predictions of Moses, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Micah, or others, which respected the deliverance from Babylon. It particularly informs us (1) Upon what encouragement, and what numbers returned; i. ii. (2) How the temple was rebuilt and dedicated, notwithstanding repeated stops from their heathen neighbours; iii—vi. (3) How Ezra, as Artaxerxes' deputy, came to Jerusalem, mourned over, and dissolved, the marriages with heathen women; vii—x.

CHAP. I.

Here (1) Cyrus king of Persia, who had just before conquered the Chaldean empire, issues a proclamation for the Jews' release from captivity, and for their encouragement to return to their country and rebuild the temple of their God; 1—4. (2) Many of them, assisted by their neighbours, in virtue of this proclamation, prepare to return; 5, 6. (3) Cyrus, by his treasurer, delivers the sacred vessels belonging to the temple, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought to Babylon, and placed in his temple of Belus, to Sheshbazzar their prince; 7—11.

NOW, in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, (that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled,) the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying,

2 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, The LORD God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth; and he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. I.—Behold how God rules over the kingdoms of the earth, and turns the hearts of princes and others whithersoever he pleases, for the good of his church! God is here exactly fulfilling the predictions of his word concerning the name of the deliverer; and the occasion, time, and manner, of the deliverance. It is honourable for princes, and men in authority, to begin the exercise of their power in the service of God, as an acknowledgment of his bounty to them; and to overlook secular interests and customs of countries, in order to put honour on Christ and his people. But in every good word and work the Lord must work in us to will and to do of his good pleasure. And he can procure from such as know him not the greatest kindness to his interests and people. What care he took to preserve the furniture of his temple, and maintain the princely dignity of Judah, even in Babylon! But much greater is his care of whatever pertains to Jesus and his people. And it is honourable when princes and ministers are peculiarly forward to rebuild God's temple and reform his church.

one hundred priests' garments.

the seventh sacred month, they assemble at Jerusalem, and, instigated by Jeshua their high priest, and Zerubbabel their chief prince, rebuild God's altar of burnt-offering; observe the festivals of trumpets, expiation, and tabernacles; re-establish the daily sacrifice; and dispose of the money collected for the temple to proper artificers, to provide materials for building it; 1—7.
(2) Seven months after they lay the foundation of the temple, amidst a mixture of solemn joy and grief; 8—13.

come, and the children of Israel were in the cities, the people gathered themselves together as one man to Je-

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. II.—Great is the honour God puts upon those who prefer his glory, and the interests of his church, to their own ease! And great are the privileges which those obtain who are enrolled in the Lamb's book of life, and go up with Christ from their captivity to sin, Satan, and the world. What care God took to keep clear the genealogies of his ancient people till his Son was thereby manifested to spring of Judah and David! It is reasonable that those be excluded from office in the church who undervalue that honour, and want proper tokens of their spiritual birth. And there is need always to consult God himself in every thing relating to his worship and service. To what a small and poor company had sin reduced the once numerous and wealthy tribes of Judah and Benjamin, at least such of them as were willing to appear for their God! And yet it is pleasing to see them in their poverty so willingly contributing to build a temple for God. And what is spent in God's work shall be returned with interest.
But was not this release and return of the Jews typical of the gathering of the nations to Christ, and of the church's deliverance from Antichrist, and the saints' release from death at the last day?—Awakened and encouraged by the joyful sound of the gospel trumpet, what multitudes, in the apostolic and after ages, did, with mourning for sin, with hallelujahs of praise, and with the most cordial affection, join themselves to Christ and his church, to be built up a spiritual temple and meet habitation for God! With almighty power Jesus did, and still does, go forth conquering and to conquer, and to overthrow our spiritual enemies, who hold us in slavery; making us free indeed, and willing to do whatever tends to his honour.—In due time the instruments of God's wrath shall destroy the mystical Babylon, and restore the souls of men to the ancient gospel liberty and rest.—In the resurrection, awakened by the tramp of God, all the ransomed millions, who are written among the living in Jerusalem, shall arise, and be gathered to the Lord, and quickly after follow him into the celestial Canaan, to be built up as the everlasting habitation of God—Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

Jozadak, and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, as it is written in the law of Moses the man of God.

3 And they set the altar upon his bases; for fear was upon them, because of the people of those countries: and they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD, even burnt-offerings morning and evening.

4 ¶ They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is written, and offered the daily burnt-offerings by number, according to the custom, as the duty of every day required;

5 And afterward offered the continual burnt-offering, both of the new moons, and of all the set feasts of the LORD that were consecrated, and of every one that willingly offered a free-will-offering unto the LORD.

6 From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD. But the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid.

7 ¶ They gave money also unto the masons, and to the carpenters; and meat, and drink, and oil, unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre, to bring cedar trees from Lebanon to the sea of Joppa; according to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Persia.

8 ¶ Now, in the second year of their coming unto the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, began Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua the son of Jozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the priests and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the captivity unto Jerusalem; and appointed the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, to set forward the work of the house of the LORD.

9 Then stood Jeshua with his sons, and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah together, to set forward the workmen in the house of God: the sons of Henadad, with their sons and their brethren the Levites.

10 And, when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, they set the priests in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the LORD, after the ordinance of David king of Israel.

11 And they sang together by course in praising and giving thanks unto the LORD; because he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever toward Israel. And all the people shouted with a great shout when they praised the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid.

12 But many of the priests and Levites, and chief of the fathers, who were ancient men, that had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice; and many shouted aloud for joy:

13 So that the people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy from the noise of the weeping of the people: for the people shouted with a loud shout, and the noise was heard afar off.

CHAP. IV.

No sooner was the foundation of the temple laid, than the mongrel Samaritans, whom the Assyrians had placed in the land of Israel, set themselves to oppose it. (1) In order to have it in their power to retard the building, they offer to be sharers in it, but are refused; 1—3. (2) They next discourage the Jews, and dissuade them from it; 4, 5. (3) By their friends at court, and by memorials to the kings of Persia, they misrepresent the undertaking and its promoters, as treasonable and hurtful to the empire; 5—16. (4) Having obtained an order from Artaxerxes Magus, they stop the work by force; 17—24.

NOW, when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the LORD God of Israel,

2 Then they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief of the fathers, and said unto them, Let us build with you; for we seek your God, as ye do; and we do sacrifice unto him since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assur, who brought us up hither.

3 But Zerubbabel, and Jeshua, and the rest of the chief of the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build an house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the LORD God of Israel, as king Cyrus the king of Persia hath commanded us.

4 Then the people of the land weakened the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building.

5 And hired counsellors against them, to frustrate their purpose, all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius king of Persia.

6 And in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign, wrote they unto him an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 ¶ And in the days of Artaxerxes wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of their companions, unto Artaxerxes king of Persia; and the writing of the letter was written in the Syrian tongue, and interpreted in the Syrian tongue.

8 Rehum the chancellor and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king in this sort:

9 Then wrote Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their companions; the Dinaites, the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, and Apharsites, the Archevites, the Baby-

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. III.—Let us learn to prefer the business of religion to our most pressing temporal affairs; and, in the worship of God, do what we can when we cannot do what we would. And let leaders in church and state be peculiarly active and zealous. Never should the fear of men hinder us from, but hasten us to, fellowship with God. The more enemies we have, the more need have we that God should befriend us. If we have been long secluded from the public or solemn ordinances of God, more readily should we improve opportunities when put into our hands; and by no means neglect the daily sacrifices of the closet and family. If God bring us out of the furnace of affliction, our hearts should burn with love to him: and never should we grudge to spare from ourselves, that we may have wherewith to honour him, or to relieve his poor saints; always taking care to dispose of it to the best advantage. If a good work is to be done, let us set about it with all our might, and without delay, be the difficulties ever so great. Never should we despise the day of small things, but encourage ourselves in the everlasting power and mercy of God; praising him for the beginnings of his returning mercy; assured that they will issue in perfection at last. And, while we are in this world, where shouts of joy can scarcely be discerned from the groans of weeping, let us rejoice with them that rejoice, and weep with them that weep.

24 Then ceased the work of the house of God which is at Jerusalem. So it ceased ^cunto the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

CHAP. V.

After a stop of about eight years, the building of the temple is again revived; not by might, nor by power, but by the Spirit of God. (1) The faint-hearted builders are encouraged, by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, to return to their work; 1, 2. (2) The courage and malice of their new enemies are blunted; 3-5. (3) Overruled by the influence of God, these present a fairer remonstrance to Darius against it than had been done formerly; 5-17.

THEN the prophets, ^dHaggai the prophet, and Zechariah the ^eson of Iddo, prophesied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jerusalem ^fin the name of the God of Israel, even unto them.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. IV.—God's temple can never be built but Satan and his agents will rage, and do all that they can to oppose it: and none are ordinarily more bitter opposers than pretended and mongrel professors. They will turn themselves into every shape to vent their malice; and will not spare money, labour, or villany to accomplish their purpose. Pretences of friendship, bribing of counsellors, flattery of princes, and boastful threatenings and reproaches, are their common methods of working. Saints had therefore need to avoid intimacy with them, and to encourage themselves in the Lord their God, and be strong in him and in the power of his might. It is common for the faithful followers of Christ to be reproached as dangerous enemies to the state: and, if once professors have done an ill thing, their successors in the church are sure to be upbraided with it, although they themselves should heartily condemn it. When princes desire occasions of stumbling, the agents for hell will soon supply them therewith. And things, the most false or improbable, are often readily believed by most against Christ and his church. Most kings neither can, nor care to, know the truth with respect to their religious subjects. To their great joy, the attempts of persecutors are often successful for a time; and the friends of Christ and his truths are too easily checked in their reforming attempts.

that was builded these many years ago, which a great king of Israel builded and set up.

12 But, after that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon the Chaldean, who destroyed this house, and carried the people away into Babylon.

13 But in the first year of Cyrus the king of Babylon, the same king Cyrus made a decree to build this house of God.

14 And the vessels also of gold and silver of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought them into the temple of Babylon, those did Cyrus the king take out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered unto one whose name was Sheshbazzar, whom he had made governor;

15 And said unto him, Take these vessels, go, carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be builded in his place.

16 Then came the same Sheshbazzar, and laid the foundation of the house of God which is in Jerusalem. And since that time even until now hath it been in building, and yet it is not finished.

17 Now therefore, if it seem good to the king, let there be search made in the king's treasure house, which is there at Babylon, whether it be so that a decree was made of Cyrus the king to build this house of God at Jerusalem, and let the king send his pleasure to us concerning this matter.

CHAP. VI.

Here, (1) Pursuant to the request of the Samaritan memorialists, the decree of Cyrus for rebuilding the temple is sought for, found, and reviewed; 1—5. (2) By a new decree, Darius enforces it; and, under a severe denunciation, requires the Samaritans not to hinder the work, but to give the builders, out of his revenues, whatever they needed to defray the expences, or to purchase oblations to be there offered; 6—12. (3) In consequence of this edict, the temple is finished in four years, and about twenty years and six months after it was founded; 13—15. (4) It is dedicated with solemn sacrifices and a re-establishment of the Levitical order; and the service is begun with a regular and unanimous celebration of the passover and feast of unleavened bread; 16—22.

THEN Darius the king made a decree, and search was made in the house of the rolls, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon.

2 And there was found at Achmetha, in the palace that is in the province of the Medes, a roll, and therein was a record thus written:

3 In the first year of Cyrus the king, the same Cyrus the king made a decree concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, Let the house be builded, the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be strongly laid; the height thereof threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits;

4 With three rows of great stones, and a row of new timber: and let the expenses be given out of the king's house.

5 And also let the golden and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the temple which is at Jerusalem and brought unto Babylon, be restored, and brought again unto the temple which is at Jerusalem, every one to his place, and place them in the house of God.

6 Now therefore Tatnai, governor beyond the river, Shethar-boznai, and your companions the Apharsachites, which are beyond the river, be ye far from thence:

7 Let the work of this house of God alone; let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews build this house of God in his place.

8 Moreover, I make a decree what ye shall do to the elders of these Jews for the building of this house of God: that of the king's goods, even of the tribute beyond the river, forthwith expences be given unto these men, that they be not hindered.

9 And that which they have need of, both young bullocks, and rams, and lambs, for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the appointment of the priests which are at Jerusalem, let it be given them day by day without fail;

10 That they may offer sacrifices of sweet savours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king and of his sons.

11 Also I have made a decree, that whosoever shall alter this word, let timber be pulled down from his house, and, being set up, let him be hanged thereon; and let his house be made a dunghill for this.

12 And the God that hath caused his name to dwell there destroy all kings and people that shall put to their hand to alter and to destroy this house of God, which is at Jerusalem. I Darius have made a decree; let it be done with speed.

13 Then Tatnai, governor on this side the river, Shethar-boznai, and their companions, according to that which Darius the king had sent, so they did speedily.

14 And the elders of the Jews builded, and they prospered through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah the son of Iddo: and they builded and finished it according to the commandment of the God of Israel, and according to the commandment of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished on the third day of the month Adar, which was in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. V.—It is highly desirable to have church and state concurring in the work of reformation: but the declaration of divine truths is always the principal mean. Faithful reprovers are profitable to obedient ears. When God raises up faithful ministers to animate sluggish or disheartened professors, there is hope that the church will be built up: and, if his eye be on us for good, we need not fear what man can do to us. His comfortable presence should animate us to the utmost diligence in his work: nor ought we to conceal the just manifestations of his displeasure against us or our fathers. It is a great mercy when the people of God have to do with enemies that make some conscience of telling the truth. Christ's followers are never persecuted but when they are belied. Let their cause be but fairly stated and fairly heard, and it will stand its ground against every opposition. And it is often false information, and not malice, that makes magistrates to issue forth persecuting edicts and sentences.

18 And they set the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, for the service of God, which is at Jerusalem: as it is written in the book of Moses.

19 And the children of the captivity kept the passover upon the fourteenth day of the first month.

20 For the priests and the Levites were purified together, all of them were pure, and killed the passover for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves.

21 And the children of Israel, which were come again out of captivity, and all such as had separated themselves unto them from the filthiness of the heathen of the land, to seek the LORD God of Israel, did eat, 22 And kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with joy; for the LORD had made them joyful, and turned the heart of the king of Assyria unto them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

CHAP. VII.

When Jeshua the high priest and Zerubbabel had finished their course, and Haggai and Zechariah the prophets their testimony, God, who can never want instruments, raises up Ezra and Nehemiah in their room. Here is (1) A general account of Ezra himself, and of his expedition to Jerusalem for the good of his nation; 1—10. (2) A copy of his commission from Artaxerxes Longhand; empowering him to take along with him as many Jews as he pleased;—to carry the money, contributed by the king and his court, for the temple service;—to demand whatever more he needed from the king's treasurers on the west of the Euphrates;—to free all that served at the temple from public taxes;—and to appoint proper magistrates in Judea; 11—26. (3) Ezra's thanksgiving to God for inclining Artaxerxes' heart to order such things; 27, 28.

NOW after these things, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra the son of Seraiah, the son of Azariah, the son of Hilkiah,

2 The son of Shallum, the son of Zadok, the son of Ahitub,

3 The son of Amariah, the son of Azariah, the son of Meraioth,

4 The son of Zerabiah, the son of Uzzi, the son of Bukki,

5 The son of Abishua, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest:

6 This Ezra went up from Babylon; and he was a ready scribe in the law of Moses, which the LORD God of Israel had given: and the king granted him all his request, according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him.

REFLECTIONS UPON CHAP. VI.—Impartial search never hurts, but helps, the cause of truth: and God makes the attempts against his church the means of her advantage and honour. He raises up unexpected instruments to accomplish his gracious purposes. And often his spiritual work is carried on by their means, who have neither part nor lot in the matter. The prayers of the godly are, or ought to be, the great support of nations and their magistrates: and, if magistrates understood their own interests, they would carefully secure them in their favour. But dreadful is the curse which shall at last light upon all the enemies of Christ and his church. And it is high time to be active and bold in his work, when we are bound to it by his express command, shamed into it by repeated edicts of heathen magistrates, and encouraged in it by his faithful ministers. God will have his work finished at last, notwithstanding ten thousand

7 And there went up some of the children of Israel, and of the priests, and the Levites, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethinims, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king.

8 And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king.

9 For upon the first day of the first month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month came he to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to seek the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach in Israel statutes and judgments.

11 ¶ Now this is the copy of the letter that the king Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the priest, the scribe, even a scribe of the words of the commandments of the LORD, and of his statutes to Israel.

12 Artaxerxes king of kings, unto Ezra the priest, a scribe of the law of the God of heaven, perfect peace, and at such a time.

13 I make a decree, that all they of the people of Israel, and of his priests and Levites, in my realm, who are minded of their own free will to go up to Jerusalem, go with thee.

14 Forasmuch as thou art sent of the king, and of his seven counsellors, to inquire concerning Judah and Jerusalem, according to the law of thy God which is in thine hand;

15 And to carry the silver and gold, which the king and his counsellors have freely offered unto the God of Israel, whose habitation is in Jerusalem,

16 And all the silver and gold that thou canst find in all the province of Babylon, with the free-will-offering of the people, and of the priests, offering willingly for the house of their God which is in Jerusalem:

17 That thou mayest buy speedily with this money bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meat-offerings and their drink-offerings, and offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem.

18 And whatsoever shall seem good to thee and to thy brethren, to do with the rest of the silver and gold, that do after the will of your God.

19 The vessels also that are given thee for the service of the house of thy God, those deliver thou before the God of Jerusalem.

20 And whatsoever more shall be needful for the house of thy God, which thou shalt have occasion to bestow, bestow it out of the king's treasure house.

obstructions. What a mercy is it when Christ's church is prepared for the exact observance of all his ordinances, the most solemn not excepted! And it is a matter of great joy to all his true friends, and an honour to a church, when ministers are remarkably holy and faithful. Yea, it is highly necessary that all of us solemnly dedicate ourselves for temples to God; and offer up the solemn prayers of faith for God's blessing on the ordinances of his grace, which we have, or expect to enjoy. Yet not upon our services in his church must our hopes and joys depend, but on Jesus, as our God-honouring and sin-expiating oblation, and our passover sacrificed for us. If we live on him as our all in all, and occupy ourselves diligently in his service, the Lord will provide friends for us, even where we least expected.
